14 The commandment of Jonadab the son of Rechab that hee commanded his sonnes, that they should drinke no wine, is surely kept: for unto this day they drink none, but obey their fathers commandment: notwithstanding I have spoken unto you, rising early, and speaking, but ye would not obey me.

15 I have sent also unto you all my servants the Prophets, rising up early, and sending them, saying, * Return now every man from his evill way, and amend your workes, and goe not after other Gods to serve them, and ye shall dwell in the land which I have given unto you, and to your fathers, but you would not incline your eare, nor obey me.

16 Surely the sons of Ionadab the son of Rechab have kept the commandment of their father, which he gave them, but this people hath not obeyed me.

17 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, Behold, I will bring upon Iudah and upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, all the evill that I have pronounced against them, because I have spoken unto them, but they would not heare, and I have called unto them, but they would not answer.

18 And Jeremiah said to the house of the Rechabites, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, Because ye have obeyed the commandment of Jonadab your father, and kept all his precepts, and done according unto all that he hath commanded you:

19 Therefore, thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, Jonadab the sonne of Rechab shall^m not want a man, to stand before me for ever.

CHAP. XXXVI.

¹ Baruch writeth, as Jeremiah inditeth, the Bookes of the curses against Iudah and Israel. ⁹ He is sent with the booke unto the people, and readeth it before them all. ¹⁴ He is called before the Rulers, and readeth it before them also. ²⁰ The King casteth it in the fire. ²⁸ There is another written at the commandment of the Lord.

And in the fourth^a yeare of Jehoakim the sonne of Josiah King of Iudah, came this word unto Jeremiah from the Lord, saying,

2 Take thee a roule or booke, and write therein all the words that I have spoken to thee against Israel, and against Judah, and against all the nations, from the day that I spake unto thee: ^b even from the dayes of Josiah unto this day.

3 It may be that the house of Judah will heare of all the evill, which I determined to doe unto them, that they may returne everie man from his evill way, that I may forgive their iniquitie and their finnes.

4 Then Jeremiah called Baruch the sonne of Neriah, and Baruch wrote^c at the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the Lord, which he had spoken unto him, upon a roule or booke.

5 And Jeremiah commanded Baruch, saying, I am^d shut up, and cannot goe

^a Chap. 18. 11. and 25. 7.

^l That is, by his Prophets and ministers: which sheweth that it is as much as though he should speake to us himselfe, when hee sendeth his ministers to speake in his Name.

^a Reade Chap. 23. 1.

^b Which were twentie and three yeares, as Chap. 25. 3. counting from the thirteenth yeare of Josiah's reigne.

^c As he did indite.

^d Meaning, in prison, through the malice of the Priests.

^c That is, a Prophet.

^d Or, dore.

^d The Prophet saith not. The Lord saith thus: for them, they ought to have obeyed: but he rendereth to another end, that is, to declare their obedience to man, seeing the Jewes would not obey God himselfe.

^e Whom John the king of Israel smothered for his tale, 2 King. 10. 15.

^f Teaching them hereby to flee all occasion of intemperance, ambition, and avarice, and that they might know that they were strangers in the earth, and bee ready to depart at all occasions.

^h Which declareth, that they were not so bound to their vow, that it could not be broken for any necessity: for where they were commanded to dwell in tents, they dwell now at Jerusalem for fear of the warres.

ⁱ Whom I have chosen to bee my children, seeing them which were the children of an heathen man, obeyed the commandment of their father.

^k I have most diligently exhorted and warned you, both by my selfe and my Prophets.

goe into the House of the Lord.

6 Therefore goe thou, and reade the roule, wherein thou hast written at my mouth the words of the Lord, in the audience of the people in the Lords House upon the ^e fasting day: also thou shalt reade them in the hearing of all Judah, that come out of their cities.

^e Which was proclaimed for feare of the Babylonians, as their custome was, when they feared warre, or any great plague of God. f He sheweth, that fasting without praier and repentance availeth nothing, but is meere hypocrisie.

7 It may be that they will ^f pray before the Lord, and everie one return from his evill way, for great is the anger and the wrath that the Lord hath declared against this people.

8 So Baruch the sonne of Neriah did according unto all that Jeremiah the Prophet commanded him, reading in the book the words of the Lord in the Lords House.

^g The fast was then proclaimed, and Baruch read this roule, which was a litle before that Jerusalem was first taken, and then Jehoia-kim and Daniel, and his companions were led away captives.

9 ¶ And in the fifth ^h yeare of Jehojakim the sonne of Josiah king of Judah, in the ninth moneth, they proclaimed a fast before the Lord to all the people in Jerusalem, and to all the people that came from the cities of Judah unto Jerusalem.

^h Which is the East gate of the Temple.

10 Then read Baruch in the book the words of Jeremiah in the House of the Lord, in the chamber of Gemariah the sonne of Shaphan the Secretarie, in the higher court at the entrie of the ⁱ new gate of the Lords house, in the hearing of all the people.

11 When Michajah the sonne of Gemariah, the sonne of Shaphan had heard out of the booke all the words of the Lord, 12 Then he went downe to the Kings house into the Chancellours chamber, and loe, all the princes sate there, even Elisama the Chancellour, and Delajah, the sonne of Shemajah, and Elnathan the son of Achbor, and Gemariah the sonne of Shaphan, and Zedekiah the sonne of Hananiah, and all the princes.

13 Then Michajah declared unto them all the words that he had heard when Baruch read in the booke in the audience of the people.

14 Therefore all the Princes sent Jehudi the sonne of Nethaniah, the sonne of Shelemiah, the sonne of Chushi, unto Baruch, saying: Take in thine hand the roule, wherein thou hast read in the audience of the people, and come. So Baruch the sonne of Neriah tooke the roule in his hand, and came unto them.

15 And they said unto him, Sit down now, and reade it, that we may heare. So Baruch read it in their audience.

ⁱ The godly were afraid, seeing God to be offended, and the wicked were astonished for the horrour of the punishment.

16 Now when they had heard all the words, they were ^j afraid both one and other, and said unto Baruch, We will certifye the King of all these words.

17 And they examined Baruch, saying,

Tell us now, how diddest thou write all these words, at his mouth?

18 Then Baruch answered them, He pronounced all these words unto me with his mouth, and I wrote them with inke in the booke.

19 Then said the Princes unto Baruch, Goe, ^k hide thee, thou and Jeremiah, and let no man know where ye be.

^k They that were godly among the princes, gave this counsell, by whose meanes it is like that Jeremiah was delivered: for they know the rage of the king, and of the wicked to be such, that they could not escape without danger of their lives.

20 ¶ And they went in to the King to the court, but they laid up the roule in the chamber of Elisama the Chancellour, and told the King all the words, that hee might heare.

21 So the King sent Jehudi to fetch the roule, and he tooke it out of Elisama the Chancellours chamber, and Jehudi read it in the audience of the King, and in the audience of all the princes, which stood beside the King.

22 Now the king sate in the winter house, in the ^l ninth moneth, and there was a fire burning before him.

23 And when Jehudi had read three, or foure sides, he cut it with the penknife, and cast it into the fire that was on the hearth, untill all the roule was consumed in the fire that was on the hearth.

24 Yet they were not afraid, nor rent ^m their garments, neither the King, nor any of his servants, that heard all these words.

^m Shewing, that the wicked in stead of repenting when they heare Gods judgments, grow into further malice against him & his word.

25 Neverthelesse, Elnathan, and Delajah, and Gemariah had besought the King, that he would not burne the roule: but he would not heare them.

26 But the King commanded Jerahmeel the sonne of Hammelech, and Serajah the sonne of Azriel, and Shelemiah the sonne of Abdiel, to take Baruch the Scribe, and Jeremiah the Prophet, but the Lord ⁿ hid them.

ⁿ Thus wee see the continuall care, that God hath ever over this, to preserve them from the rage of the wicked.

27 ¶ Then the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah (after that the king had burnt the roule, and the words which Baruch wrote at the mouth of Jeremiah) saying,

28 Take thee againe ^o another roule and write in it all the former words that were in the first roule which Jehojakim the king of Iudah hath burnt.

^o Though the wicked thinkers have abolished the word of God, when they have burnt the booke thereof: yet this declareth that God will not onely raise it up againe, but also increase it in greater abundance: so their condemnation, as verse 31. These are Jehojakims words.

29 And thou shalt say to Jehojakim king of Iudah, Thus saith the Lord, Thou hast burnt this roule, saying, ^p Why hast thou written therein, saying, That the king of Babel shall certainly come and destroy this land, and shall take thence both man and beast?

30 Therefore thus saith the Lord of Jehojakim king of Iudah, He shall ^q have none to sit upon the throne of David, and his ^r dead bodie shall be cast out in the day to the heare, and in the night to the frost.

^q Though Jehojachin his sonne succeeded him, yet because he reigned but three moneths, it was esteemed as no reigne. ^r Reade Chap. 22. 19.

31 And I will visite him and his seed, and his servants for their iniquitie, and I will bring upon them, and upon the inhabitants of Ierusalem, and upon the men of Iudah all the evill that I have pronounced against them: but they would not heare.

32 Then took Jeremiah another roule, and gave it Baruch the Scribe the sonne of Neriah, which wrote therein at the mouth of Ieremiah all the words of the booke which Iehojakim king of Iudah had burnt in the fire, and there were added besides them many like words.

C H A P. XXXVII.

Zedekiah succeeded Iecmiah. 3 He sendeth unto Ieremiah to pray for him. 12 Ieremiah, going into the land of Benjamin, is taken. 15 He is beaten and put in prison.

And * King Zedekiah the sonne of Alosiah reigned for * Coniah the sonne of Jehojakim, whom Nebuchadrezzar king of Babel^b made King in the land of Iudah.

2 But neither he, nor his servants, nor the people of the land would obey the words of the Lord, which he spake by the ‡ ministerie of the Prophet Ieremiah.

3 And Zedekiah the King^c sent Iehucal the sonne of Shelemiah, and Zephaniah the sonne of Maasejah the Priest to the Prophet Ieremiah, saying, Pray now unto the Lord our God for us.

4 (Now Ieremiah^d went in and out among the people: for they had not put him into the prison.

5 Then Pharaohs hoste was * come out of Egypt: and when the Caldeans that besieged Ierusalem, heard tidings of them, they ‡ departed from Ierusalem)

6 Then came the word of the Lord unto the Prophet Ieremiah, saying,

7 Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Thus shall yee say to the king of Iudah that sent you unto mee to inquire of me, Behold, Pharaohs hoste, which is come forth to helpe you, shall returne to Egypt into their owne land.

8 And the Caldeans shall come again, and fight against this citie, and take it and burne it with fire.

9 Thus saith the Lord, ‡ Deceive not your selves, saying, The Caldeans shall surely depart from us: for they shall not depart.

10 For though yee had smitten the whole hoste of the Caldeans: that fight against you, and there remained ~~but~~ wounded men among them, yet should everie man rise up in his tent, and burn this citie with fire.

11 ¶ When the hoste of the Caldeans was broken up from Ierusalem, because of Pharaohs armie,

12 Then Ieremiah went out of Ierusalem to go into the^f land of Benjamin, separating himselfe thence from among the people.

13 And when he was in the^g gate of Benjamin, there was a chiefe officer whose name was Irijah, the sonne of Shelemiah, the sonne of Hananiah, and he tooke Ieremiah the Prophet, saying, Thou ‡ fleest to the Caldeans.

14 Then said Ieremiah, That is false, I flie not to the Caldeans: but he would not heare him: so Irijah tooke Ieremiah, and brought him to the Princes.

15 Wherefore the Princes were angrie with Ieremiah, and smote him, and laid him in prison in the house of Iehonathan the scribe: for they had made that the^h prison.

16 When Ieremiah was entred into the dungeon, and into the prisons, and had remained there a long time, 17 Then Zedekiah the king sent, and took him out, and the king asked him secretly in his house, and said, Is there any word from the Lord? And Ieremiah said, Yea: for, said he, thou shalt be delivered into the hand of the king of Babel.

18 Moreover, Ieremiah said unto king Zedekiah, What have I offended against thee, or against thy servants, or against this people, that ye have put me in prison?

19 * Where are now your prophets, which prophesied unto you, saying, The king of Babel shall not come against you, nor against this land?

20 Therefore heare now, I pray thee, O my lord the King: let my prayer ‡ be accepted before thee, that thou cause me not to returne to the house of Iehonathan the Scribe, lest I die there.

21 Then Zedekiah the king, commanded, that they should put Ieremiah in the court of the prison, and that they should give him daily a piece of bread out of the bakers street, untill all theⁱ bread in the citie were eaten up. Thus Ieremiah remained in the court of the prison.

C H A P. XXXVIII.

1 By the request of the rulers Ieremiah is put into a dungeon. 12 At the request of Ebed-melech the King commandeth Ieremiah to be brought forth of the dungeon. 24 Ieremiah sheweth the King how he might escape death.

Then Shephatiah the son of Mattan, and Gedaliah the sonne of Passur, and Iucal the sonne of Shelemiah, and Passur the sonne of * Malchiah, heard the words that Ieremiah had spoken unto all the people, saying,

2 Thus saith the Lord, He that remaineth in this citie shall die by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence: but he that goeth forth to the Caldeans, shall live: for he shall have his life for a^j prey, and shall live:

ⁱ That is, so long as there was any bread in the city, thus God provideth for his, that he will crosse their enemies to preserve them to that end whereunto he hath appointed them.

^a For Zedekiah had sent these to Ieremiah, to enquire at the Lord for the state of the countrey now when Nebuchadnezzar came: as Chap. 21. 1.

^b Read Chap. 21. 9. and 47. 5.

3 Thus saith the Lord, This citie shall surely be given into the hand of the king of Babels army, which shall take it.

Or, discourage.

c Thus wee see how the wicked when they cannot abide to heare the truth of Gods word, seeke to put the ministers to death, as transgressors of policies.

4 Therefore the Princes said unto the king, We beseech you, let this man bee put to death: for thus hee [†] weakneth the hands of the men of warre that remaine in this citie, and the hands of all the people, in speaking such words unto them: for this man seeketh not the wealth of this people, but the hurt.

5 Then Zedekiah the King said, Behold, he is in your hands, for the king can ^{denie} you nothing.

d Wherein hee grievously offended in that, that not onely hee would not heare the truth spoken by the Prophet, but also gave him to the lusts of the wicked to be cruelly intreated.

6 Then tooke they Jeremiah, and cast him into the dungeon of Malchiah the sonne of Hammelech, that was in the court of the prison: and they let downe Jeremiah with cords: and in the dungeon there was no water, but mire: so Jeremiah stucke fast in the mire.

Ebr. Cushite, or Ethiopian.

7 Now when Ebed-melech the [†] black Moore, one of the Eunuches which was in the kings house, heard that they had put Jeremiah in the dungeon, (then the King sate in the ^g gate of Benjamin)

e To heare matters, and give sentence.

8 And Ebed-melech went out of the Kings house, and spake to the King, saying, f Hereby is declared that the Prophet found more favour at this strangers hands, then he did by all them of his country, which was to their great condemnation.

9 My lord the king, [†] these men have done evill in all that they have done to Jeremiah the Prophet, whom they have cast into the dungeon, and he dieth for hunger in the place where he is: for there is no more bread in the citie.

Ebr. under thine hand,

10 Then the king commanded Ebed-melech the black Moore, saying, Take from hence thirty men [†] with thee, and take Jeremiah the Prophet out of the dungeon before he die.

11 So Ebed-melech tooke the men with him, and went to the house of the King under the treasure, and tooke there old rotten ragges, and olde worne clothes, and let them downe by cords into the dungeon to Jeremiah.

12 And Ebed-melech the black Moore said unto Jeremiah, put now these olde rotten ragges and worne ^g under thine arme holes, betweene the cordes. And Jeremiah did so.

13 So they drew up Jeremiah with cords, and tooke him up out of the dungeon, and Jeremiah remained in [†] the court of the prison.

g Where the king had let him be, founte to be at more libertie, as Chap. 37. 21.

14 ¶ Then Zedekiah the king sent, and tooke Jeremiah the Prophet unto him, into the third entrie that is in the House of the Lord, and the king said unto Jeremiah, I will aske thee a thing: hide nothing from me.

15 Then Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, If I declare it unto thee wilt not thou slay me? and if I give thee counsell, thou wilt not heare me.

16 So the king sware secretly unto Jeremiah, saying, As the Lord liveth, that made us these soules, I will not slay thee, nor give thee into the hands of those men that seeke thy life.

17 Then said Jeremiah unto Zedekiah, Thus saith the Lord God of hostes, the God of Israel, If thou wilt goe forth unto the king of Babels ^h princes, then thy soule shall live, and this citie shall not be burnt up with fire, and thou shalt live, and thine house.

h And yeeld thy selfe unto them.

18 But if thou wilt not goe forth to the king of Babels princes, then shall this citie be given into the hand of the Caldeans, and they shall burne it with fire, and thou shalt not escape out of their hands.

19 And Zedekiah the King said unto Jeremiah, I am carefull for the Jewes that are fledde unto the Caldeans, lest they deliver mee into their hands, and ⁱ they mocke me.

i Which declareth that he more feared the reproch of men, then the threatenings of God.

20 But Jeremiah said, They shall not deliver thee: hearken unto the voice of the Lord, I beseech thee, which I speake unto thee: so shall it be well unto thee, and thy soule shall live.

21 But if thou wilt refuse to goe forth, this is the word that the Lord hath shewed me.

22 And behold, all the women that are ^k left in the King of Judahs house, shall be brought forth to the king of Babels Princes: and those women shall say, Thy friends have perswaded thee, and have prevailed against thee: thy feet are fastened in the mire, and they are turned backe.

k When Jeroniah and his mother, with others, were carried away, these women of the kings house were left: which shall bee taken, saith the Prophet, and tell the king of Babel how Zedekiah hath bene seduced by his familiar friends, and false prophets, which have left him in the mire.

23 So they shall bring out all thy wives, and thy children to the Caldeans, and thou shalt not escape out of their hands, but shalt be taken by the hand of the king of Babel: and this citie shalt thou cause to be burnt with fire.

24 Then said Zedekiah unto Jeremiah, Let no man know of these words, and thou shalt not die.

25 But if the princes understand that I have talked with thee, and they come unto thee, and say unto thee, Declare unto us now, what thou hast said unto the king, hide it not from us, and wee will not slay thee: also what the king said unto thee.

26 Then shalt thou say unto them, I humbly ^l besought the king that he would not cause mee to returne to Jonathans house, to die there.

l Herein appeareth the infirmities of the Prophet, who did dissemble, to save his life, albeit it was not to the denall of his doctrine, or to the hurt of any.

27 Then came all the princes unto Jeremiah, and asked him. And he told them according to all these words that the king king had commanded: so they left off speaking with him, for the matter was not perceived.

28 So Jeremiah abode still in the court of the prison, untill the day that Jerusalem was taken: and he was there, when Jerusalem was taken.

CHAP. XXXIX.

1 Nebuchad-nezzar besiegeth Jerusalem. 4 Zedekiah fleeing is taken of the Caldeans. 6 His sonnes are slaine. 7 His eyes are thrust out. 11 Jeremiah is provided for. 15 Ebed-melech is delivered from captivity.

IN * the ninth yeare of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the tenth month, came Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel and all his hoste against Jerusalem, and they besieged it.

2 And in the eleventh year of Zedekiah, in the fourth month, the ninth day of the month, the city was ^a broken up.

3 And all the princes of the king of Babel came in, and sate in the middle gate, even Neregal, Sharezer, Shamgarnebo, Sarfchim, Rab-saris, Neregal, Sharezer, Rab-mag, with all the residue of the Princes of the King of Babel.

4 And when Zedekiah the King of Judah saw them, and all the men of warre, then they fledde, and went out of the City by night, through the kings garden, and by the ^b gate betweene the two walles, and he went toward the wilderness.

5 But the Caldeans host pursued after them, and overtooke Zedekiah in the desert of Jericho: and when they had taken him, they brought him to Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel unto ^c Riblah in the land of Hamath, where he gave judgement upon him.

6 Then the king of Babel slew the sonnes of Zedekiah in Riblah before his eyes: also the king of Babel slew all the nobles of Judah.

7 Moreover he put out Zedekiahs eyes, and bound him in chaines to carry him to Babel.

8 And the Caldeans burnt the kings house, and the houses of the people with fire, and brake downe the walls of Jerusalem.

9 Then Nebuzar-adan the ^d chiefe steward carried away captive into Babel the remnant of the people that remained in the City, and those that were fled and fallen unto him, with the rest of the people that remained.

10 But Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward left the ^e poor that had nothing in the land of Judah, and gave them vineyards and fields at the same time.

11 Now Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel gave charge concerning Jeremiah, unto Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward, ^f saying,

12 Take him, and ^g look well to him, and doe him no harme, but doe unto him even as he shall say unto thee.

13 So Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward sent, and Nebulhazban, Rab-saris, and Neregal, Sharezer, Rab-mag, and all the king of Babels princes.

14 Even they sent and rooke Jeremiah out of the court of the prison, and committed him unto ^h Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, the sonne of Shaphan, that he should carry him home: so he dwelt among the people.

15 Now the word of the Lord came unto Jeremiah, while he was shut up in the court of the prison, saying,

16 Goe, and speake to Ebed-melech the blacke Moore, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, Behold, I will bring my words upon this City for evill, and not for good, and they shall be accomplished in that day before thee.

17 But I will deliver thee in that day, saith the Lord, and thou shalt not be given into the hand of the men whom thou fearest.

18 For I will surely deliver thee, and thou shalt not fall by the sword, but thy life shall be for a prey unto thee, because thou ⁱ hast put thy trust in me, saith the Lord.

CHAP. XL.

1 Jeremiah hath licence to goe whither he will. 2 He departeth with the people that remaine with Gedaliah.

THE word which came to Jeremiah from the Lord, after that Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward had let him goe from Ramath, when he had taken him being bound in chaines among all that were carryed away captive of Jerusalem and Judah, which were carryed away captive unto Babel.

2 And the chiefe steward rooke Jeremiah, and said unto him, The Lord thy God hath pronounced this plague upon this place.

3 Now the Lord hath brought it, and done according as he hath said: because ye have ^j sinned against the Lord, and have not obeyed his voice, therefore this thing is come upon you.

4 And now behold, I looke thee this day from the chaines which were on thine hands, if it please thee to come with mee into Babel, come, and I will looke well unto thee: but if it please thee not to come with mee into Babel, ^k tarry still: behold, all the land ^l is before thee: whether it seemeth good,

5 For yet he was not returned: therefore he said, Returne to Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, the sonne of Shaphan, whom the King of Babel hath made Governour over all the Cities of Judah, and dwell with him among the people, or goe whithersoever it pleaseth thee to go. So the chiefe steward gave him victuals, and a reward, and let him go.

c Which was a city of Judah.

6 Then went Jeremiah unto Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, to ^c Mizpah, and dwelt there with him among the people that were left in the land.

d Which were scattered abroad for feare of the Caldeans.

7 Now when all the Captaines of the hoste, ^d which were in the fields, even they and their men heard, that the King of Babel had made Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam Governour in the land, and that he had committed unto him, men, and women, and children, and of the poor of the land, that were not carried away captive to Babel.

e Who was of the kings' blood, and after slew him, Chap. 41. 2.

8 Then they came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, even ^e Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah, and Johanan, and Jonathan the sonnes of Kareah, and Serajah the sonne of Tanhumeth, and the sonnes of Ephai the Netophathite, and Jezaniah the sonne of Maachathi, they and their men.

9 And Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, the sonne of Shaphan ^{*} sware unto them, and to their men, saying, Feare not to serve the Caldeans: dwell in the land, and serve the King of Babel, and it shall be well with you.

† Or, to receive them, or to intreat them for you.

10 As for me, Behold, I will dwell at Mizpah, to [†] serve the Caldeans, which will come unto us: but you, gather you wine, and summer fruits, and oyle, and put them in your vessels, and dwell in your Cities, that ye have [†] taken.

‡ Or, chosen to dwell in.

11 Likewise when all the Jewes that were in [‡] Moab, and among the Ammonites, and in Edom, and that were in all the Countries, heard that the King of Babel had left a remnant of Judah, and that hee had set over them Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, the sonne of Shaphan, f which were fled also for feare of the Caldeans.

12 Even all the Jewes returned out of all places where they were driven, and came to the land of Judah to Gedaliah unto Mizpah, and gathered wine and summer fruits, very much.

13 Moreover Johanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the Captaines of the host that were in the fields, came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, g For under the colour of entertaining of Ishmael, he sought onely to make them to destroy one another.

14 And said unto him, Knowest thou not that ^g Baalis the King of the Ammo-nites hath sent Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah to slay thee: but Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam beleeveth them not.

15 Then Johanan the sonne of Kareah spake to Gedaliah in Mizpah secretly, saying, Let mee goe, I pray thee, and I will slay Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah, and no man shall know it. Wherefore should hee kill thee, that all the Jewes, which are gathered unto thee, should be scattered, and the remnant in Judah perish?

16 But Gedaliah the son of Ahikam said unto Johanan the son of Kareah, Thou shalt ^h not doe this thing: for thou speakest falsely of Ishmael.

h Thus the godly, which thinke no harme to others, are soonest deceived, and never lacke such as conspire their destruction.

CHAP. XLI.

1 ⁱ Ishmael killeth Gedaliah guilefully, and many other with him.
11 ⁱ Johanan followeth after Ishmael.

BUT in the ^a seventh moneth came Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah, the son of Elishama of the seed Royall, and the Princes of the ^b King, and ten men with him, unto Gedaliah the son of Ahikam to Mizpah, and there they did ^c eat bread together in Mizpah.

a The City was destroyed in the fourth month: and in the seventh month, which contained part of September, and part of October, was the governour Gedaliah slain.
b Meaning, Zedekiah.

2 Then arose Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah with these ten men that were with him, and smote Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, the sonne of Shaphan with the sword, and slew him whom the King of Babel had made Governour over the land.

c They are together as familiar friends.

3 Ishmael also slew all the Jewes that were with Gedaliah at Mizpah, and all the Caldeans that were found there, and the men of war.

4 Now the second day that hee had slain Gedaliah, and no man knew it,

5 There came men from Shechem, from Shiloh and from Samaria, even fourscore men, having their beards shaven, and their clothes rent and cut, with ^d offerings, and incense in their hands to offer in the house of the Lord.

d For they thought that the Temple had not bene destroyed, and therefore came up to the feast of Tabernacles: but hearing of the burning thereof in the way, they showed these signs of sorrow.

6 And Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah went forth from Mizpah to meet them, weeping as he went, and when he met them, he said unto them, Come to ^e Gedaliah the son of Ahikam.

e For his death was kept secret: & he feared that he lamented for the destruction of Jerusalem, and the Temple: but after they slew them when they seemed to favour Gedaliah.

7 And when they came into the mids of the City, Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah slew them, and ^f cast them into the mids of the pit, he, and the men that were with him.

8 But tenne men were found among them, that said unto Ishmael, slay us not: for wee have treasures in the field, of wheat, and of barley, and of oyle, and of honey: so he stayed, and slew them not among their brethren.

9 Now

9 Now the pit wherein Ishmael had cast the dead bodies of the men (whom he had slaine because of Gedaliah) is it, which Afa the King had made because of Baasha King of Israel, and Ishmael the son of Nethaniah filled it with them that were slaine.

10 Then Ishmael carried away captive all the residue of the people that were in Mizpah, even the Kings daughters, and all the people that remained in Mizpah, whom Nebuzar-adan the chiefe Steward had committed to Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, and Ishmael the son of Nethaniah carried them away captive, and departed to goe over to the Ammonites.

11 But when Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captaines of the host that were with him, heard of all the evill that Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah had done, 12 Then they all took their men, and went to fight with Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and found him by the great waters that are in Gibeon.

13 Now when all the people whom Ishmael carried away captive, saw Iohanan the son of Kareah, and all the captaines of the hoste that were with him, they were glad.

14 So all the people, that Ishmael had carried away captive from Mizpah, returned and came againe, and went unto Iohanan the son of Kareah.

15 But Ishmael the son of Nethaniah escaped from Iohanan with eight men, and went to the Ammonites.

16 Then took Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the captaines of the hoste that were with him all the remnant of the people, whom Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah had caried away captive from Mizpah, (after that he had slaine Gedaliah the son of Ahikam) even the strong men of war, and the women, and the children, and the eunuches, whom hee had brought againe from Gibeon.

17 And they departed and dwelt in Geruth Chimham, which is by Bethlehem, to goe and to enter into Egypt.

18 Because of the Caldeans: for they feared them, because Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had slaine Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, whom the king of Babel made governour in the land.

CHAP. XLII.

The captains aske counsell of Ieremiah what they ought to doe. He admonisheth the remnant of the people not to goe into Egypt.

Then all the captaines of the hoste, and Iohanan the son of Kareah, and Iezaniah the sonne of Hoshaiah, and all the people from the least unto the most, came,

2 And said unto Jeremiah the Prophet, Hear our praier, wee beseech thee, and pray for us unto the Lord thy God, even for all this remnant (for we are left, but a few of many, as thine eyes doe behold)

3 That the Lord thy God may shew us the way wherein we may walke, and the thing that we may doe.

4 Then Jeremiah the Prophet said unto them, I have heard you: behold, I will pray unto the Lord your God according to your words, and whatsoever thing the Lord shall answer you, I will declare it unto you: I will keepe nothing back from you.

5 Then they said to Jeremiah, The Lord be a witnesse of truth, and faith between us, if we doe not, even according to all things for the which the Lord thy God shall send thee to us.

6 Whether it be good or evill, wee will obey the voice of the Lord God, to whom we send thee, that it may bee well with us, when we obey the voice of the Lord our God.

7 And so after ten daies came the Word of the Lord unto Jeremiah.

8 Then called he Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captaines of the host, which were with him, and all the people from the least to the most,

9 And said unto them, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, unto whom ye sent mee to present your praier before him,

10 If ye will dwell in this land, then I will build you, and not destroy you, and I will plant you, and not root you out: for I repent me of the evill that I have done unto you.

11 Feare not for the king of Babel, of whom ye are afraid, be not afraid of him, saith the Lord: for I am with you, to save you, and to deliver you from his hand.

12 And I will grant you mercies, that he may have compassion upon you, and he shall cause you to dwell in your own land.

13 But if ye say, We will not dwell in this land, neither heare the voice of the Lord your God,

14 Saying, Nay, but we will goe into the land of Egypt, where we shall see no warre, nor have the sound of the trumpet, nor have hunger of bread, and there will we dwell.

15 (And now therefore heare the word of the Lord, ye remnant of Judah: thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel; a This declareth the nature of hypocrites, which would know of Gods Word what they should doe but will not follow it, but in as much as it agreeth with that thing which they have purposed to doe.

* Ebr. Let me pray or fall before thee, as Chap. 36. 7.

b There are none more ready to abuse the Name of God, and take it in vaine, then the hypocrites, which to colour their falsehood, use it without all reverence, and make it a meanes for them to deceive the simple and the godly.

c Here is declared the vision and the occasion thereof, whereof mention was made, Chap. 40. 1.

e Because all kings hearts and armies are in his hands, he can turne them and dispose them, as it pleaseth him, and therefore they need not to feare man, but only rely on God, from whom all strength cometh.

* Or, I will be merciful to you, and I will be gracious to you, and I will be kind to you, and I will be loving to you, and I will be merciful to you, and I will be gracious to you, and I will be kind to you, and I will be loving to you.

2 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, Yee have seene all the evill that I have brought upon Jerusalem, and upon all the cities of Iudah: and behold, this day they are desolate, and no man dwelleth therein,

3 Because of their wickednesse which they have committed, to provoke me to anger in that they went to burne incense, and to serve other gods whom they knew not, neither they, nor you, nor your fathers.

4 Howbeit I sent unto you all my servants the Prophets, ^b rising early and sending them, saying, Oh doe not this abominable thing that I hate.

5 But they would not heare, nor incline their eare to turne from their wickednesse, and to burne no more incense unto other gods.

6 Wherefore ^c my wrath, and mine anger was powred forth, and was kindled in the cities of Iudah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, and they are desolate and wasted, as appeareth this day.

7 Therefore now thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel; Wherefore commit yee this great evill against your selves, to cut off from you man and woman, childe and suckling out of Iudah, and leave you none to remaine?

8 In that yee provokeme unto wrath with the workes of your hands, burning incense unto other gods in the land of Egypt whither ye be gone to dwell: that ye might bring destruction unto your selves, and that ye might be a curse and a reproch among all nations of the earth.

9 Have yee forgotten the wickednes of your fathers, and the wickednes of the kings of Iudah, and the wickednesse of their wives, and your owne wickednesse, and the wickednesse of your wives, which they have committed in the land of Iudah, and in the streets of Jerusalem?

10 They are not [†] humbled unto this day, neither have they feared nor walked in my law, nor in my statutes, that I set before you and before your fathers.

11 Therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, Behold, I will set my face against you ^{*} to evill, and to destroy all Iudah.

12 And I will take the remnant of Iudah, that ^e have set their faces to goe into the land of Egypt there to dwell, and they shall all be consumed and fall in the land of Egypt: they shall even be consumed by the sword, and by the famine: they shall die from the least unto the most, by the sword, and by the famine, and they shall bee a detestation and an astonishment, and a ^f curse, and a reproach.

13 For I will visit them that dwell in the land of Egypt, as I have visited Jerusalem, by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence.

14 So that none of the remnant of Iudah, which are gone into the land of Egypt to dwell there, shall escape or remaine, that they should returne into the land of Iudah, to the which they [†] have a desire to returne to dwell there: for none shall returne, but ^a such as shall escape.

15 Then all the men which knew that their wives had burnt incense unto other gods, and all the women that stood by, a great multitude, even all the people that dwelt in the land of Egypt in Pathros, answered Jeremiah, saying,

16 The word that thou hast spoken unto us, in the Name of the Lord, we will ^h not heare it of thee.

17 But we will doe whatsoever thing goeth out of our owne mouth, ^a to burne incense ⁱ unto the Queene of heaven, and to powre out drinke-offerings unto her, as we have done, both we and our fathers, our kings and our princes, in the cities of Iudah, and in the streets of Jerusalem: for then [†] had we ^k plenty of victuals, and were well and [†] felt none evill.

18 But since wee left off to burne incense to the Queene of heaven, and to powre out drinke-offerings unto her, we have had [†] scarcenesse of all things, and have bene consumed by the sword, and by the famine.

19 And when wee burnt incense to the Queene of heaven, and powred out drinke-offerings unto her, did wee make her cakes [†] to make her glad, and powre out drinke-offerings unto her without ⁱ our husbands?

20 Then said Jeremiah unto all the people, to the men, and to the women, and to all the people which had given him that answer, saying,

21 Did not the Lord remember the incense, that ye burnt in the cities of Iudah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, both you, and your fathers, your kings, and your princes, and the people of the land, and [†] hath he not considered it?

22 So that the Lord could no longer forbear, because of the wickednesse of your inventions, and because of the abominations which yee have committed: therefore is your land desolate, and an astonishment, and a curse, and without inhabitant, as appeareth this day.

23 Because you have burnt incense, and because ye have sinned against the Lord, and have not obeyed the voice of the Lord, nor walked in his Law, nor in his statutes, nor in his testimonies, therefore

^b Reel. Chap. 7. 27. and 25. 3. and 26. 5. and 29. 19. and 32. 33.

^c He setteth before their eyes Gods judgements against Iudah and Jerusalem, that they might beweepe by their example, and not with the like wickednesse provoke the Lord for them they should bee double punished.

^e Which we ought to keep in memory Gods plagues from the beginning, the considering them, wee might live in his feare, and know, if wee have not sinned our fathers, yea, kings, princes, and rulers, and all whole countries and nations, for their sines, that wee vile wormes cannot looke to escape punishment for ours.

[†] Ebr. lift up their sinnes.

^g Meaning, but a few.

^h This declareth how dangerous a thing it is to decline once from God, and to follow our own fantasies: for Satan ever soliciteth such, and doth not leave them till hee have brought this to extreame impiety & madness, even to justify their wickednesse against God and his Prophets.

ⁱ Reel. Chap. 7. 28. It seemeth that the papists gathered of this place their false Religion, & Regina sancte laurae, calling the virgin Mary Queene of heaven, and so of a blessed virgin the mother of our Saviour Christ made an idol: for heere the prophet condemneth their idolatry.

^k This is still the argument of idolaters, which esteeme religion by the belly, and in stead of acknowledging Gods works, who sendeth both plenty and dearth, health & sickness, they attribute it to their idoles, & to dishonour God.

^l This teacheth us, how great danger it is for the husbands to permit their wives any thing whereof they bee not assured by Gods word: for thereby they take an occasion to justify their doings and their husbands shall give an account thereof before God, read 1st. 3. 23.

this plague is come upon you, as appeareth this day,

24 Moreover, Jeremiah said unto all the people, and to all the women, Heare the word of the Lord, all Judah that are in the land of Egypt,

25 ¶ Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, saying, Yee and your wives have both spoken with your mouthes, and fulfilled with your^m hand, saying, we will performe our vowes that wee have vowed to burne incense to the Queen of heaven, and to powre out drink-offrings to her: yee will performe your vowes and doe the things that yee have vowed.

26 Therefore heare the word of the Lord, all Judah that dwell in the land of Egypt, Behold, I have sworne by my great Name, saith the Lord, that my Name^a shall no more be called upon by the mouth of any man of Judah, in all the land of Egypt, saying, The Lord God liveth.

27 Behold, I will watch over them for evill and not for good, and all men of Judah that are in the land of Egypt, shall be consumed by the sword, and by the famine, untill they be utterly destroyed.

28 Yet a small number that escape the sword, shall returne out of the land of Egypt into the land of Judah: and all the remnant of Judah that are gone into the land of Egypt to dwell there shall know whose words shall stand, mine or theirs.

29 And this shall be a signe unto you, saith the Lord, when I visite you in this place, that ye may know that my words shall surely stand against you for evill.

30 Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will give Pharaoh Hophra King of Egypt into the hand of his enemies, and into the hand of them that seeke his life: as I gave Zedekiah king of Judah into the hand of Nebuchad-rezzar king of Babel his enemy, who also fought his life.

CHAP. XLV.

3 Jeremiah comforteth Baruch, assuring him that he should not perish in the destruction of Ierusalem.

THe word that Jeremiah the Prophet spake unto^a Baruch the sonne of Ne-^briah, when hee had written these words in a booke at the mouth of Jeremiah, in the fourth yeare of Jehojakim the sonne of Josiah king of Judah, saying,

2 Thus saith the Lord God of Israel unto thee, O Baruch,

3 Thou diddest say, Wo is me now: for the Lord hath laid sorrow unto my sorrow: I^c fainted in my mourning, and I can finde no rest.

4 Thus shalt thou say unto him, The Lord saith thus, Behold, that which I have built, will I^d destroy, and that which I have planted, will I plucke up, even this whole land.

5 And seekest^e thou great things for thy selfe? seeke them not: for behold, I will bring a plague upon all flesh, saith the Lord: but thy life will I give thee for^f a prey in all places, whither thou goest.

CHAP. XLVI.

1 He prophesieth the destruction of Egypt. 27 Deliverance is promised to Israel.

THe words of the Lord, which came to Jeremiah the Prophet, against the^a Gentiles,

2 As against Egypt, against the army of^b Pharaoh Necho king of Egypt, which was by the river Perath in Carchemish, which Nebuchad-rezzar king of Babel smore in the fourth yeare of Jehojakim the sonne of Josiah king of Judah,

3^c Make ready buckler and shield, and goe forth to battell.

4 Make ready the horses, and let the horsemen get up, and stand up with your fallers, furbish the speares, and put on the brigandines.

5^d Wherefore have I seene them afraid, and driven backe? for their mightie men are smitten, and are fled away, and looke not backe: for feare was round about, saith the Lord.

6 The swift shall not flee away, nor the strong man escape: they shall stumble, and fall toward the^e North by the river Perath.

7 Who is this, that commeth up as^f a flood, whose waters are moved like the rivers?

8 Egypt riseth up like the flood, and his waters are moved like the rivers, and he saith, I will goe up, and will cover the earth: I will destroy the citie with them that dwell therein.

9 Come up yee horses, and rage yee charets, and let the valiant men come forth, the blacke Moores, and the Libyans that beare the shield, and the Lydians that handle and bend the bowe.

10 For this is the day of the Lord God of hostes, and a day of vengeance, that he may avenge him of his enemies: for the sword shall devoure, and it shall be satiate, and made drunke with their blood: for the Lord God of hostes hath^h a sacrifice in the North countryⁱ by the river Perath.

11 Goe up unto Giliad, and take balme, O^j virgine, the daughter of Egypt: in vaine shalt thou use many^k medicines: for thou shalt have no health.

12 The nations have heard of thy shame, and thy cry hath filled the land: for

^m You have committed double evill in making wicked vowes, &c in performing the same.

ⁿ This declareth an horrible plague toward Idolaters, seeing that God will not vouchsafe to have his Name mentioned by such as have polluted it.

^o Wee see therefore, that God hath a perpetuall care over his, wherefoever they are scattered: for though they bee but two or three, yet he will deliver them when he destroyeth his enemies.

^p He sheweth the meanes whereby they should be destroyed, to assure them of the certainty of the plague, and yet they remaine still in their obstinacy till they perish: for Josephus lib. 10. de Antiq. cap. 11. writeth, that five yeares after the taking of Ierusalem, Nebuchad-rezzar the younger, having overcome the Moabites and the Ammonites, went against Egypt, and slew the King, and so brought these Jewes and other, into Babylon.

^b Whereof read Chap. 36. 10.

^c Baruch moved with an inconsiderate zeale of Jeremiahs imprisonment, but chiefly for the destruction of the people and the Temple, maketh this lamentation, as Psal. 6. 6.

^d Meaning, that God might destroy this people, because hee had planted them.
^e Thinkest thou to have honour & credite? Wherein hee sheweth his infirmitie.

^f Reade Chap. 21. 9.

^a That is, nine nations, which are round about the land of Egypt, b Reade 2 King. 13. 29. and 24. 7. and 2 Chron. 35. 20.

^c He warneth the Egyptians to prepare themselves to warre.

^d The Prophet had this vision of the Egyptians which should bee put to flight by the Babylonians at Carchemish.

^e The Babylonians shall discomfit them at the river Euphrates. f He derideth the boastings of the Egyptians, who thought by their riches and power to have overcome all the world, including to the river Nile, which at certaine times overfloweth the country of Egypt.

^g For these nations tooke part with the Egyptians.

^h Hee calleth the slaughter of Gods enemies a sacrifice, because it is a thing that doth please him, Isa. 34. 6.

ⁱ That is, at Carchemish.

^j For at Giliad did grow most sovereign balme for wounds.

^k So called, because Egypt had not yet bin overcome by the enemy.

^l Hee sheweth, that no salve or medicine can prevail, whereas God giveth the wound.

for the strong hath stumbled against the strong, and they are fallen both together.

13 ¶ The word that the Lord spake to Jeremiah the Prophet, how Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel should come and smite the land of Egypt.

14 Publish in Egypt, and declare in Migdol, and proclaim in Noph, and in Tahpanhes, and say, Stand still, and prepare thee: for the sword shall devour round about thee.

15 Why are thy valiant men put back? they could not stand, because the Lord did drive them.

16 He made many to fall, and one fell upon another: and they said, Arise, let us goe againe to our owne people, and to the land of our nativitie from the sword of the violent.

17 They did crie there, Pharaoh king of Egypt, and of a great multitude, hath passed the time appointed.

18 As I live, saith the king, whose Name is the Lord of hosts, surely as Tabor is in the mountaines, and as Carmel is in the Sea: so shall it come.

19 O thou daughter dwelling in Egypt, make thee geare to goe into captivitie: for Noph shall be waste and desolate, without an inhabitant.

20 Egypt is like a faire calfe, but destruction commeth: out of the North it commeth.

21 Also her hired men are in the midst of her like fat calves: they are also turned back and fled away together: they could not stand, because the day of their destruction was come upon them, and the time of their visitation.

22 The voice thereof shall goe forth like a serpent: for they shall march with an armie, and come against her with axes, as hewers of wood.

23 They shall cut downe her Forrest, saith the Lord: for they cannot be counted, because they are more then the grasshoppers, and are innumerable.

24 The daughter of Egypt shall be confounded: she shall be delivered into the hands of the people of the North.

25 ¶ Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Behold, I will visite the common people of No, and Pharaoh, and Egypt, with their gods and their Kings, even Pharaoh, and all them that trust in him, 26 And I will deliver them into the hands of those that seeke their lives, and into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, and into the hands of his servants, and afterward she shall dwell as in old time, saith the Lord.

27 ¶ But feare not thou, O my servant Jaakob, and be not thou afraid, O Israel: for behold, I will deliver thee from a far countrey, and thy seed from the land of their captivitie; and Jaakob shall returne and be in rest; and prosperity; and none shall make him afraid.

28 Feare thou not, O Jaakob my servant, saith the Lord, for I am with thee, and I will utterly destroy all the nations, whither I have driven thee: but I will not utterly destroy thee; but correct thee by judgement, and not utterly cut thee off.

CHAP. XLVII.

The word of the Lord against the Philistims.

THE words of the Lord that came to Jeremiah the Prophet against the Philistims, before that Pharaoh smote Azzah.

2 Thus saith the Lord, Behold, waters rise up out of the North, and shall be as a swelling flood, and shall overflow the land, and all that is therein, and the cities with them that dwell therein: then the men shall crie, and all the inhabitants of the land shall howle.

3 At the noise and stamping of the hooves of his strong horses, at the noise of his charrets, and at the rumbling of his wheelles: the fathers shall not look back to their children, for feebleness of hands,

4 Because of the day that commeth to destroy all the Philistims, and to destroy Tyrus, and Zidon, and all the rest that take their part: for the Lord will destroy the Philistims, the remnant of the Isle of Caphtor.

5 Baldness is come upon Azzah: Ashkelon is cut up with the rest of their valleys. How long wilt thou cut thy selfe?

6 O thou sword of the Lord, how long will it be or thou cease? turne againe into thy scabbard, rest and be still.

7 How can it cease, seeing the Lord hath given it a charge against Ashkelon, and against the Sea banke? even there hath he appointed it.

CHAP. XLVIII.

The Word of the Lord against the Moabites, because of their pride and cruelty.

CONCERNING Moab, thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, Woe unto Nebo: for it is wasted: Kiriathaim is confounded and taken: Misgab is confounded and afraid.

2 Moab shall boast no more of Heshbon: for they have devised evill against it. Come, and let us destroy it, that it be no more a nation: also thou shalt be destroyed, O Madmen, and the sword shall pursue thee.

B b 2 3 A voice

As they that should repent that they helped the Egyptians.

Hee derideth them which shall inquire their overthrow to lack of counsel and policy, or to fortune, and not observing of time: not considering that it is Gods just judgement.

To wit, that the Egyptians shall be destroyed.

They have abundance of all things, and therefore are disobedient and proud.

As verse 9.

They shall be forced to seeke for feare of the Caldeans.

Meaning, Egypt.

That is, they shall see the great and mighty men of power.

To wit, Nebuchadnezzars army.

Some take the Hebrew word Amon for the Kings name of No, that is, of Alexandria.

Meaning, that after the space of forty years, Egypt should be restored, Isa. 19. 23. Each. 29. 13. God comforteth all his that were in captivitie, but specially the small Church of the Jews, whereof were Jeremiah & Baruch, which remained among the Egyptians: for the Lord never forsaketh his. Isa. 44. 2. Chap. 30. 10.

Read Chap. 10. 24.

Which was also called Gaza, cities of the Philistims.

He meaneth the armie of the Caldeans, Isa. 3. 73.

The great fears shall take away their naturall affection.

Their heart shall so faile them: For the Chaphetors, which are also called Cappadocians, had destroyed in old time the Philistims and dwelt in their land, even to Gaza.

Deut. 2. 23.

They have pulled off their haire for sorrow and heaviness.

As the heathen used in their mourning, which the Lord forbade his people to doe, Deut. 1. 4. 1.

Meaning, that it is not possible that the wicked should by any means escape or fly the Lord, which hee will take vengeance.

These were cities of the Moabites, which Nebuchadnezzar took before hee went to fight against Necho king of Egypt.

Thus shall the Babylonians encourage one another.

Read Isa. 25. 10.

3 A voice of crying shall be from Horonaim with defolation and great destruction.

4 Moab is destroyed: her little ones have caused their crie to be heard.

^d Horonaim and Luich were two places whereby the Moabites should flee, Isa. 15. 5.

5 For at the going up of ^d Luhith, the mourner shall go up with weeping: for in the going downe of Horonaim, the enemies have heard a crie of destruction.

6 Flee, and save your lives, and bee like unto the ^e heath in the wilderness.

^e Hide your selves in barren places where the enemy will not pursue after you, Cha. 17. 6. ^f That is, the idols which are the workes of thine hands. Some read, in thy possessions, for so the word may signifie, as 1. Sam. 25. 28.

^g Both thy great idoll and his main-tainers shall be led away captives, so that they shall then know that it is in vaine to looke for help at idolls, Isa. 15. 2.

7 For because thou hast trusted in thy ^f workes and in thy treasures, thou shalt also be taken, and ^h Chemosh shall goe forth into captivity with his Priests and his Princes together.

8 And the destroyer shall come upon all cities, and no citie shall escape: the valley also shall perish, and the plaine shall bee destroyed, as the Lord hath spoken.

9 Give wings unto Moab, that it may flee and get away: for the cities thereof shall be desolate without any to dwell therein.

^h He sheweth that God would punish the Chaldeans, if they did not destroy the Egyptians, and that with a courage, and cal-leth this execution of his vengeance against his enemies his workes, though the Chaldeans sought another end, Isa. 10. 12. ⁱ Or, decisively. ^j Have not been removed as the Jews have, but have lived at ease, and as wine that feedeth is selfe on his lees.

10 ^h Cursed be he that doth the worke of the Lord ⁱ negligently, and cursed be he that keepeth backe his sword from blood.

11 Moab hath been at rest from his youth: and hee hath settled on his lees, and hath not been ⁱ powred from vessell to vessell, neither hath he gone into captivity: therefore his taste remained in him, and his scent is not changed.

12 ¶ Therefore behold, the daies come, saith the Lord, that I will send unto him such as shall carie him away, and shall emptie his vessels, and breake their bottels.

13 And Moab shall bee ashamed of Chemosh, as the house of Israel was ashamed of ^k Beth-el their confidence.

^k As the calfe of Beth-el was not able to delivert the Israelites: no more shall Chemosh deliver the Moabites. ^l Ebr, come up, or destroyed.

14 How thinke you ^l thou, Wee are mightie, and strong men of warre?

15 Moab is destroyed, and his cities ^l burnt up, and his chosen young men are gone downe to slaughter, saith the King, whose Name is the Lord of hosts.

16 The destruction of Moab is ready to come, and his plague hasteth fast.

17 All ye that are about him, mourne for him, and all ye that know his name, say, ^l How is the strong staffe broken, and the beautifull rod!

18 Thou daughter that dost inhabite Dibon, come downe from ^l thy glorie, and sit in thirst: for the destroyer of Moab shall come up upon thee, and hee shall destroy thy strong holds.

19 Thou that dwellest in Aroer, stand by the way, and behold: aske him that fleeth, and that escapeth, and say, What is done?

20 ^m Moab is confounded: for it is destroyed: howle, and crie, tell ye it in Arnon, that Moab is made waste.

^m Thus they that see, shall answer.

21 And judgement is come upon the plaine countrie, upon Holon, and upon Jahazah, and upon Mephaath, 22 And upon Dibon, and upon Nebo, and upon the house of Diblathaim.

23 And upon Kiriathaim, and upon Bethgamul, and upon Beth-meon.

24 And upon Kiriath, and upon Bozrah, and upon all the cities of the land of Moab farre or neare.

25 The ⁿ horne of Moab is cut off, and his arme is broken, saith the Lord.

ⁿ That is, his power and strength.

26 Make yee him ^o drunken: for hee magnified himselfe against the Lord: Moab shall ^o wallow in his vomite, and he also shall be in derision.

^o Hee willed the Chaldeans to lay afflictions enow upon them, till they bee like drunken men that fall down to their shame and are derided of all. ^p Or, shall be full, or clay his hand.

27 For didst not thou deride Israel, as though hee had beene found among thieves? for when thou speakest of him, thou art ^p moved.

^p Thou rejoicest to heare of his misery.

28 O ye that dwell in Moab, leave the cities, and dwell in the rocks, and be like the dove, that maketh her nest in the sides of the holes mouth.

29 ^q We have heard the pride of Moab (^q he is exceeding proud) his stoutnesse, and his arrogancie, and his pride, and the haughtinesse of his heart.

30 I know his wrath, saith the Lord, ^q but it shall not be so: and his dissimulations, for they do not right.

31 ^r Therefore will I howle for Moab, and I will crie out for all Moab: ^r mine heart shall mourne for the men of Kirheres.

32 O vine of Sibmah, I will weep for thee, as I wept for Jazer: thy plants are gone over the sea, they are come to the sea ^s of Jazer: the destroyer isalne upon thy summer fruits, and upon thy vintage.

^s Which city was in the utmost border of Moab: and hereby he signifieth that the whole land should be destroyed, and the people carried away.

33 And joy, and gladnesse is taken from the plentiful field, and from the land of Moab: and I have caused wine to faile from the winepresse: none shall tread with shouting: ^t their shouting shall be no shouting.

34 From the crie of Heshbon unto Elaleh, and unto Jahaz have they made their noises: from Zoar unto Horonaim, the ^t heifer of three years old shall go lowing: for the waters also of Nimrim shall be wasted.

^t Read Isa. 15. 7.

37 * For every head shall be [†] bald, and every beard plucked: upon all the hands shall bee cuttings; and upon the loines sackcloth.

38 And mourning shall be upon all the house tops of Moab, and in all the streets thereof: for I have broken Moab like a vessell wherein is no pleasure, saith the Lord.

39 They shall howle, saying, How is he destroyed? how hath Moab turned the back with shame? so shall Moab be a derision, and a feare to all them about him.

40 For thus saith the Lord, Behold, ^a he shall flee as an Eagle, and shall spread his wings over Moab.

41 The cities are taken, and the strong holds are won, and the mighty mens hearts in Moab at that day, shall be as the heart of a woman in travaile.

42 And Moab shall be destroyed from being a people, because hee hath set up himselfe against the Lord.

43 ^a Feare, and pit, and snare shall bee upon thee, O inhabitant of Moab, saith the Lord.

44 Hee that escapeth from the feare, shall fall into the pit, and he that getteth up out of the pit, shall bee taken in the snare: for I will bring upon it, even upon Moab, the yeare of their visitation, saith the Lord.

45 They that fled, stood under the shadow ^a of Heshbon, because of the force: for ^a the fire came out of Heshbon, and a flame from Sihon, and devoured the corner of Moab, and the top of the seditious children.

46 Woe be unto thee, O Moab: the people of ^b Chemosh perisheth: for thy sons are taken captives, and thy daughters led into captivity.

47 Yet will I bring againe the captivity of Moab in the ^c latter daies, saith the Lord. Thus farre of the judgement of Moab.

CHAP. XLIX.

¹ The word of the Lord against the Ammonites. ⁷ Idumea, ²³ Damascus, ²⁸ Kedar, ³⁴ and Elam.

Unto the children of ^a Ammon, thus saith the Lord, Hath Israel no sons? or hath hee none heire? Why then hath their ^b king possessed Gad? and his people dwelt in ^c his cities?

^a Therefore behold, the daies come, saith the Lord, that I will cause a noise of warre to be heard in ^d Rabbah of the Am-monites, and it shall be a desolate heape, and her daughters shall be burnt with fire: then shall Israel possesse those that possessed him; saith the Lord:

3 Howle, O Heshbon, for Ai is wasted: cry ye daughters of Rabbah: gird you with sackcloth: mourne and run too and fro by the hedges: for their king shall goe into captivity, and his Priests and his his Princes likewise.

4 Wherefore gloriest thou in the ^e valleys? thy valley floweth away, O rebellious daughter: she trusted in her treasures, saying, Who shall come unto me?

5 Behold, I will bring ^f a feare upon thee, saith the Lord God of hosts, of all those that be about thee, and ye shall be scattered every man ^g right forth, and none shall gather him that fleeth.

6 And ^h afterward I will bring a-gaine the captivity of the children of Ammon.

7 ¶ To Edom thus saith the Lord of hosts, is wisdom no more in ⁱ Teman? is counsell perished from ^j their children? is their wisdom vanished?

8 Flee, yee inhabitants of Dedan (^k they are turned back, and have consulted to dwell) for I have brought the destruction of Esau upon him, and the time of his visitation.

9 If the ^l grape-gatherers come to thee, would they not leave ^m some grapes? if thieves come by night, they will destroy till they have enough.

10 For I have discovered Esau: I have uncovered his secrets, and he shall not be able to hide himselfe: his seed is wasted, and his brethren and his neighbours, and there shall be none to say,

11 Leave thy ⁿ fatherlesse children, and I will preserve them alive, and let thy widows trust in me.

12 For thus saith the Lord, ^o Behold, they whose judgement was not to drink of the cup, have assuredly drunken, and art thou hee that shall escape free? thou shalt not goe free, but thou shalt surely drink of it.

13 For I have sworne by my selfe, saith the Lord, that ^p Bozrah shall bee waste, and for a reproach, and a desolation, and a curse, and all the cities thereof shall be perpetuall desolations.

14 I have heard a rumour from the Lord, and an ambassadour is sent unto the heathen, saying, Gather you together, and come against ^q her, and rise up to the battell.

15 For loe, I will make thee but small among the heathen; and despised among men.

16 They ^r feare, and the pride of thine heart

^f Signifying, that power and riches cannot prevaile when as God will execute his judgements.

^g That is, without looking back, and as every one can finde a way to escape.

^h In the time of Christ, when the Gentiles shall bee called.

ⁱ Which was a citie of Edom, called by the name of Teman, Eliphaz son, who came of Esau.

^k The enemies that shall dissemble as though they fled away, shall turne back and invade your land and possesse it.

^l Meaning, that God would utterly destroy them, and not spare one, though the grape-gatherers leave some grapes, and thieves seeke but till they have enough, Obad. 1. 5.

^m The destruction shall be so great, that there shall be none left to take care over the widows and fatherlesse.

ⁿ I have not spared mine owne people, and how should I pittie thee?

^o Which was a chiefe citie of Edom.

^b He that escapeth onceinger, shall be taken of another, Isa. 24. 17.

^c They fled thither, thinking to have succour of the Ammonites. ^d The Ammonites had destroyed the Moabites in times past, and now because of their power, the Moabites shall seeke to them for helpe. ^e Which vaunted themselves of their idols, as though he could have defended them.

^f That is, they shall bee restored by the Messiah.

^a They were separated from the Moabites by the river Arnon, and after that the tribes were carried away into captivity, they invaded the country of Gad.

^d Which was one of the chiefe cities of the Ammonites, as were Heshbon and Ai: there was also a city called Heshbon among the Moabites.

heart hath deceived thee, thou that dwellest in the clefts of the rocke, and keepest the height of the hill: though thou shouldest make thy nest as high as the eagle, I will bring thee downe from thence, saith the Lord.

17 ¶ Also Edom shall bee desolate: everie one that goeth by it, shall be astonished, and shall hiss at all the plagues thereof,

18 As in the overthrow of Sodom, and of Gomorah, and of the places thereof neere about, saith the Lord: no man shall dwell there, neither shall the sonnes of men remaine in it.

g To wit, Nebuchad-nezzar after he hath overcome Judah, which is meant by the swelling of Jordan, shall come against mount Seir and Edom. r That is, the Israelites, whom the Edomites kept as prisoners, to haste away from thence. f The captaine and governour of the armie, meaning Nebuchad-nezzar.

19 Behold, he shall come up like a Lion from the swelling of Jordan unto the strong dwelling place: for I will make Israel to rest, even I will make him to haste away from her, and who is a chosen man that I may appoint against her? for who is like me? and who will appoint me the time? and who is the shepherd that will stand before me?

20 Therefore heare the counsell of the Lord that he hath devised against Edom, and his purpose that he hath conceived against the inhabitants of Teman: surely the least of the flocke shall draw them out: surely he shall make their habitations desolate with them.

t They shall not bee able to resist his petie captaine. u To wit, the enemye.

21 The earth is moved at the noise of their fall: the crye of their voice is heard in the red Sea.

22 Behold, he shall come up, and flye as the Eagle, and spread his wings over Bozrah, and at that day shall the heart of the strong men of Edom be as the heart of a woman in travaile.

x As Chapt. 48. 40. was said of Moab.

23 ¶ Unto Damascus he saith, Hamath is confounded and Arpad, for they have heard evill tidings, and they are faint hearted as one on the fearfull Sea that cannot rest.

y Which was the chiefe cite of Syria, whereby hee meaneth the whole country.

24 Damascus is discouraged, and turneth her selfe to flight, and feare hath seised her: anguish and sorrowes have taken her as a woman in travaile.

z When he heard the sudden coming of the enemye.

25 How is the glorious cite not reserved, the cite of my joy?

a Hee speaketh this in the person of the king, and of them of the country, who shall wonder to see Damascus the chiefe cite, destroyed.

26 Therefore her yong men shall fall in her streets, and all her men of warre shall be cut off in that day, saith the Lord of hostes.

27 And I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus, which shall consume the palaces of Benhadad.

b Who was king of Syria, 1 King 20. 26. and had built these palaces, which were still called the palaces of Benhadad.

28 ¶ Unto Kedar, and to the kingdomes of Habor, which Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel shall smite, thus saith the Lord, Arise, and goe up unto Kedar, and destroy the men of the East.

c Meaning, the Arabians, & their borderers.

29 Their tents and their flocks shall they take away: yea they shall take to themselves their curtaines and all their vessels, and their camels, and they shall crye unto them, Feare is on everie side.

d Because they used to dwell in tents, he nameth the things that pertaine therunto. e The enemies will dwell in your places.

30 Flee, get you farre off (* they have consulted to dwell) O ye inhabitants of Habor, saith the Lord: for Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel hath taken counsell against you, and hath devised a purpose against you.

31 ¶ Arise, and get you up unto the wealthie nation that dwelleth without care, saith the Lord, which have neither gates nor barres, but dwell alone.

f He sheweth that they of Habor will flee to the Arabians for succour, but that shall not avale them.

32 And their camels shall be a bootie, and the multitude of their cattell a spoile, and I will scatter them into all windes, and to the utmost corners, and I will bring their destruction from all the sides thereof, saith the Lord.

33 And Habor shall be a dwelling for dragons, and desolation for ever: there shall no man dwell there, nor the sonnes of men remaine in it.

34 ¶ The words of the Lord that came to Jeremiah the Prophet, concerning Elam, in the beginning of the reigne of Zedekiah king of Judah, saying, g That is, Persia, so called of Elam the son of Shem.

35 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Behold, I will breake the bow of Elam, even the chiefe of their strength.

h Because the Persians were good archers, he sheweth that the thing wherein they put their trust, should not profit them.

36 And upon Elam I will bring the foure windes from the foure quarters of heaven, and will scatter them towards all these windes, and there shall bee no nation, whither the fugitives of Elam shall not come.

37 For I will cause Elam to be afraid before their enemies, and before them that seeke their lives, and will bring upon them a plague, even the indignation of my wrath, saith the Lord, and I will send the sword after them till I have consumed them.

i I will place Nebuchad-nezzar there: and in these prophetes Jeremiah speaketh of those countries, which should be subdued under the first of those four monarchies, whereof Daniel maketh mention.

38 And I will set my throne in Elam, and I will destroy both the King and the Princes from thence, saith the Lord: but in the latter daies I will bring againe the captivitee of Elam, saith the Lord.

k This may be referred to the empire of the Persians and Medes after the Caldeans, or up to the time of Christ, as Chapt. 48. 47.

CHAP. L.

He prophesieth of the destruction of Babylon, and the deliverance of Israel, which was in captivitee.

THE word that the Lord spake, concerning Babel, and concerning the land of the Caldeans by the ministerie of Jeremiah the Prophet.

2 Declare among the nations, and publish it, and set up a standard, proclaime it and conceale it not: say, Babel is taken, Bel is confounded, Merodach is broken down: her idols are confounded, and their images are burst in pieces.

a After that God hath used the Babylonians service to punish other nations, he sheweth that their turne shall come to be punished. b There were two of their chiefe idoles.

^c To wit, the Medes, and the Persians.

therein: they shall flee, and depart, both together, going, and ^e weeping shall they goe, and seeke the Lord their God.

5 They shall aske the way to Zion, with their faces thitherward, saying,
Come, and let us cleave to the Lord in a depart out of the land of the Caldeans, and be yee as the hee goates ^k before the 9 For loe, I will raise, and cause to come up against ^l Babel a multitude of mightie nations from the North country, and they shall set themselves in aray against her, whereby she shall be taken: their ar-rowes shall be as of a strong man, which is expert, for none shall returne in vaine.

rich thereby.

10 And Caldea shall be a spoile: all that spoile her, ^l shall be satisfied, saith
the Lord.

11 Because ye were glad and rejoiced in destroying mine heritage, and because ye are growne fat, as the calves in the grasse, ^m and neyed like strong horses,

12 Therefore your mother shall be fore confounded, and she that bare you, shall be ashamed: behold, the uttermost of the nations shall be a desert, a drie land, and a wildernesse.

13 Because of the wrath of the Lord
it shall not be inhabited, but shall be wholly desolate: every one that goeth by Babel, shall be astonished, ⁿ and hisse at all her plagues.

14 ^o Put your selves in aray against Babel round about: all yee that bend the bow, shoot at her, spare no arrowes:
for shee hath ^p sinned against the Lord.

hath ^q given her hand: her foundations, for it is the vengeance of the Lord: take vengeance upon her: as shee hath done, doe unto her.

16 Destroy the ^r sower from Babel, and him that handleth the sithe in the time of harvest: because of the sword of the oppressour, and they shall turne everie one to his people, and they shall flee everie one to his owne land.

17 Israel is like scattered sheepe: the lions have disperfed them: first the King of ^s Asshur hath devoured him: and last this Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel hath broken ^t his bones.

have visited the King of Asshur.

19 And I will bring Israel againe to his habitation: he shall feed on Carmel and Bathan, and his soule shall be satisfied upon the mount Ephraim and Gilead.

20 In those daies, and at that time, saith the Lord, the iniquitie of Israel shall bee fought for, and there shall be none: and whom I reserve.

21 Goe up against the land of the ^u re-thou hast striven against the Lord.

and hath brought forth the weapons of his wrath: for this is the worke of the Lord God of hostes in the land of the Cal-deans.

on her as on sheaves, and destroy her ur-them, for their day is come, and the time

30 Therefore shall her young men fall in the streets, and all her men of war shall be destroyed in that day, saith the Lord.

31 Behold, I come unto thee, O proud man, saith the Lord God of hostes: for thy day is come, even the time that I will visit thee.

32 And the proud shall stumble and fall, and none shall raise him up: and I will kindle a fire in his cities, and it shall devoure all round about him.

33 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, The children of Israel, and the children of Judah were oppressed together: and all that took them captives, held them, and would not let them goe.

34 But their strong Redeemer, whose name is the Lord of hostes, he shall maintaine their cause, that he might give rest to the land, and disquiet the inhabitants of Babel.

35 A sword is upon the Caldeans, saith the Lord, and upon the inhabitants of Babel, and upon her Princes, and upon her wife men.

36 A sword is upon the southsayers, and they shall dote: a sword is upon her strong men, and they shall be afraid.

37 A sword is upon their horses, and upon their charers, and upon all the multitude that are in the mids of her, and they shall be like women: a sword is upon her treasures, and they shall be spoiled.

38 A drought is upon her waters, and they shall be dried up: for it is the land of graven images, and they dote upon their idoles.

39 Therefore the Zims with the jims shall dwell there, and the Ostriches shall dwell therein: for it shall be no more inhabited, neither shall it be inhabited from generation to generation.

40 As God destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah with the places thereof neere about, saith the Lord: so shall no man dwell there, neither shall the sonne of man remaine therein.

41 Behold, a people shall come from the North, and a great nation, and many kings shall be raised up from the coasts of the earth.

42 They shall hold the bow and the buckler: they are cruell and unmercifull their voice shall roare like the sea, and they shall ride upon horses, and be put in aray like men to the battell against thee, O daughter of Babel.

43 The king of Babel hath heard the report of them, and his hands waxed feeble: sorrow came upon him, even sorrow as of a woman in travaile.

44 Behold, he shall come up like a Lion from the swelling of Jordan unto the strong habitation: for I will make Israel to rest, and I will make them to haste away from her: and who is a chosen man that I may appoint against her? for who is like me, and who will appoint mee the time? and who is the shepherd that will stand before me?

45 Therefore heare the counsell of the Lord, that he hath devised against Babel, and his purpose, for hee hath conceived against the land of the Caldeans: surely the least of the flocke shall draw them out: surely he shall make their habitation desolate with them.

46 At the noise of the winning of Babel the earth is moved, and the crye is heard among the nations.

Why Babylon is destroyed. 41 The vaine confidence of the Babylonians. 43 The vanitie of Idolaters. 59 Is-remiah giveth his booke to Shernajah.

Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will raise up against Babel, and against the inhabitants that lift up their heart against me, a destroying winde,

2 And will send unto Babel fanners that shall fanne her, and shall emptie her land: for in the day of trouble they shall be against her on everie side.

3 Also to the bender that bendeth his bowe, and to him that lifteth himselfe up in his brigandine, will I say, Spare not her yong men, but destroy all her hoste.

4 Thus the slaine shall fall in the land of the Caldeans, and they that are thrust through in her streets.

5 For Israel hath beene no widow, nor Judah from his God, from the Lord of hostes, though their land was filled with sinne against the holy One of Israel.

6 ¶ Flee out of the middes of Babel, and deliver every man his soule: bee not destroyed in her iniquitie: for this is the time of the Lords vengeance: he will render unto her a recompense.

7 Babel hath been as a golden cup in the Lords hand, that made all the earth drunken: the nations have drunken of her wine, therefore doe the nations rage.

8 Babel is suddenly false, and destroyed: howle for her, bring balme for her sore, if she may be healed.

9 We would have cured Babel, but she could not be healed: forsake her, and let us goe everie one into his owne countrey: for her judgement is come up unto heaven, and is lifted up to the clouds.

¹ righteousness: come and let us declare in Zion the worke of the Lord our God.

11 Make bright the arrowes: † gather the shields: the Lord hath raised up the spirit of the king of the Medes: for his purpose is against Babel to destroy it, because it is the vengeance of the Lord, and the vengeance of his Temple.

12 Set up the standard upon the wals of Babel, make the watch strong: set up the watchmen: prepare the scouters: for the Lord hath both devised, and done that which he spake against the inhabitants of Babel.

13 O thou that dwellest upon many waters, abundant in treasures, thine end is come, even the † end of thy covetousness.

14 The Lord of hostes hath sworn by † himself, saying, Surely I will fill thee with men as with caterpillers, and they shall cry and shout against thee.

15 * He hath made the earth by his power, and established the world by his wisdom, and hath stretched out the heaven by his discretion.

16 He giveth by his voice the multitude of waters in the heaven, and he causeth the clouds to ascend from the ends of the earth: he turneth lightnings to rain, and bringeth forth the wind out of his treasures.

17 Every man is a beast by his owne knowledge: every founder is confounded by the graven image: for his melting is but fallhood, and there is no breath therein.

18 They are vanity, and the worke of errors: in the time of their visitation they shall perish.

19 The portion of Jaakob is not like them: for he is the maker of all things, and Israel is the rod of his inheritance:
the Lord of hosts is his Name.

20 Thou art mine hammer, and weapons of warre: for with thee will I break the nations, and with thee will I destroy kingdoms,

21 And by thee will I break horse and horseman, and by thee will I breake the charet and him that rideth therein.

22 By thee also will I breake man and woman, and by thee will I breake old and young, and by thee will I break the young man and the maid.

23 I will also break by thee the shep-heard, and his flock, and by thee will I breake the husbandman and his yoke of oxen, and by thee will I breake the dukes and princes.

24 And I will render unto Babel, and to all the inhabitants of the Caldeans al their evill that they have done in Zion, even in your sight, saith the Lord.

25 Behold, I come unto thee, O destroying mountain, saith the Lord, which de-stroyest all the earth: and I will stretch out mine hand upon thee, and rouse thee downe from the rockes, and will make thee a burnt mountain.

26 They shall not take of thee a stone for a corner, nor a stone for foundations, but thou shalt be destroyed for ever, saith
the Lord.

27 Set up a standard in the land: blow the trumpets among the nations: prepare the nations against her: call up the king-domes of Ararat, Minni, and Ashchenaz against her: appoint the prince against her: cause horses to come up as the rough caterpillers.

28 Prepare against her the nations with the Kings of the Medes, the dukes thereof, and the princes thereof, and all the land of his dominion.

29 And the land shall tremble and for-row: for the devise of the Lord shall be performed against Babel, to make the land of Babel waste without an inhabitant.

30 The strong men of Babel have ceased to fight: they have remained in their holds: their strength hath failed, and they were like women: they have burnt her dwelling places, and her barres are broken.

31 A poste shall run to meet the poste, and a messenger to meet the messenger, to shew the King of Babel, that his city is taken on a side thereof.

32 And that the passages are stopped, and the reeds burnt with fire, and the men of warre troubled.

33 For thus saith the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, The daughter of Babel is like a threshing floore: the time of her threshing is come: yet a little while, and the time of her harvest shall come.

34 Nebuchad-nezzar the King of Babel hath devoured mee, and destroyed me: he hath made me an empty vessell:
he swallowed me up like a dragon, and filled his belly with my delicates, and hath cast me out.

35 The spoile of me, and that which was left of me, is brought unto Babel, shall the inhabitant of Zion say: and my blood unto the inhabitants of Caldea, shall Jerusalem say.

36 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold I will maintain thy cause, and take vengeance for thee: and I will dry up the sea, and dry up her springs.

37 And Babel shall be as heaps, a dwelling place for dragons, an astonishment, and an hissing without an inhabitant.

38 They shall roare together like lions, and yel as the lions whelps.

x When they are inflamed with setting and drinking, I will feast with them, alluding to Belshazzars banquet, Dan. 5. 2.

39 In their ^aheate I will make them feasts, and I will make them drunken, that they may rejoyce, and sleep a perpetuall sleep, and not wake, saith the Lord.

40 I will bring them down like lambs to the slaughter, and like rammes and goates.

y Meaning Babel, as Chap. 25. 26.

41 How is ^bSherahach taken! and how is the glory of the whole earth taken! how is Babel become an astonishment among the nations!

z The great army of the Medes and Persians.

42 The ^csea is come up upon Babel: she is covered with the multitude of the waves thereof.

43 Her cities are desolate: the land is dry and a wilderness, a land wherein no man dwelleth, neither doth the sonne of man passe thereby.

a That is, his gifts and presents, which he had received as part of the spoile of other nations, & which the idolaters brought unto him from all countries.

44 I will also visite Bel in Babel, and I will bring out of his mouth, that which ^dhe hath swallowed up, and the nations shall run no more unto him, and the wall of Babel shall fall.

45 My people, goe out of the mids of her, and deliver ye every man his soule from the fierce wrath of the Lord,

46 Lest your heart even faint, and ye feare the rumour, that shall be heard in the land: the rumour shall come ^ethis year, and after that in the ^fother^b yeare shall come a rumour, and cruelty in the land, and ruler against ruler.

b Meaning, that Babylon should not be destroyed all at once, but by little and little should be brought to nothing: for the first year came the tidings, the next yeare the siege, and in the third yeare it was taken: yet this is not that horrible destruction which the Prophets threatened in many places: for that was after this when they rebelled, and Darius overcame them by the policy of Zopyrus, and hanged three thousand gentlemen, besides the common people.

47 Therefore, behold, the dayes come, that I will visit the images of Babel, and the whole land shall be confounded, and all her slain shall fall in the mids of her.

48 Then the heaven and ^gthe earth, and all that is therein, shall rejoyce for Babel: for the destroyers shall come unto her from the North, saith the Lord.

49 As Babel caused the ^hslain of Israel to fall, so by Babel the slain of all the earth did fall.

c All creatures in heaven and earth, shall rejoyce and praise God for the destruction of Babylon the great enemy of his Church.

50 Ye that ⁱhave escaped the sword, goe away, stand not still: remember the Lord afar off, and let Jerusalem come into your minde.

d Babylon did not onely destroy Israel, but many other nations.

51 Wee are ^jconfounded because we have heard reproach: shame hath covered our faces, for strangers are come into the Sanctuaries of the Lords house.

e Ye that are now captives in Babylon.

52 Wherefore behold, the daies come, saith the Lord, that I will visite her graven images, and through all her land, the wounded shall groane.

53 Though Babel should mount up to ^kheaven, and though shee should defend her strength on high, yet from me shall her destroyers come, saith the Lord.

54 A sound of a cry commeth from Babel, and great destruction from the land of the Caldeans.

55 Because the Lord hath laid Babel waste, and destroyed from her the great voice, and her waves shall roare like great waters, and a sound was made by their noise.

56 Because the destroyer is come upon her, ^leven upon Babel, and her strong men are taken, their bowes are broken: for the Lord God that recompenseth, shall surely recompense.

h I will so astonish them by afflictions, that they shall not know which way to turn them.

57 And I will ^mmake drunke her princes, and her wifemen, her dukes, and her nobles, and her strong men: and they shall sleep a perpetuall sleep, and not wake, saith the King, whose name ⁿis the Lord of hosts.

i The thickness of the wall was fifty foot thick.

58 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, The ^othick wall of Babel shall be broken, and her high gates shall be burnt with fire, and the people shall labour in vain, and the folk in the fire, for they shall be weary.

59 The word which Jeremiah the prophet commanded Sheraiah the sonne of Nerijah, the sonne of Maasejah, when he went with Zedekiah the king of Judah into Babel, in the ^pfourth year of his reigne, and this Sheraiah was a peaceable prince.

k This was not in the time of his captivity, but seven years before, when he went either to gratulate Nebuchadnezzar, or to intreat of some matters.

60 So Jeremiah wrote in a book all the evill that should come upon Babel ^qeven all these things, that are written against Babel.

61 And Jeremiah said to Sheraiah, When thou comest unto Babel, and shalt see, and shalt read all these words, 62 Then shalt thou say, O Lord, thou hast spoken against this place to destroy it, that none should remain in it, neither man nor beast, but that it should be desolate for ever.

l St. John in his Revelation alludeth to this place, when he saith, that the Angel took a millstone and cast it into the sea: signifying thereby the destruction of Babylon, Revel. 18. 14. m They shall not be able to resist, but shall labour in vaine.

63 And when thou hast made an end of reading this booke, thou shalt binde a ^rstone to it, and cast it in the mids of Euphrates, 64 And shalt say, Thus shall Babel be drowned, and shall not rise from the evill, that I will bring upon her: and they shall be ^sweary. Thus farre are the words of Jeremiah.

CHAP. LII.

^t Jerusalem is taken. ^u Zedekiah's sonnes are killed before his face, and his eyes put out. ^v The city is burned. ^w Jehoiachin is brought forth of prison, and fed like a King.

Zedekiah ^xwas one and twenty year old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem, & his mothers name ^ywas Hamutal, the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

2 And he did evill in the eyes of the Lord, according to all that Jehojakim had done.

3 ^bDoubt-

* 2. King. 25. 1. and 1st. 39. 1.

3 ^a Doubtlesse because the wrath of the Lord was against Jerusalem and Judah, till he had cast them out from his presence, therefore Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babel.

4 ^a But in the ninth yeare of his reign, in the tenth moneth, the tenth day of the moneth, came Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel, he, and all his hoste against Jerusalem, and pitched against it, and built forts against it round about.

5 So the citie was besieged unto the evelenth yeare of the king Zedekiah.

6 Now in the fourth moneth, the ninth day of the moneth, the famine was fore in the citie, so that there was no more bread for the people of the land.

7 Then the citie was broken up, and all the men of warre fled, and went out of the citie by night, by the ^b way of the gate between the two wals, which was by the kings garden: (now the Caldeans were by the citie round about) and they went by the way of the wilderness.

8 But the armie of the Caldeans pursued after the king, and tooke Zedekiah in the desert of Jericho, and all his hoste was scattered from him.

9 Then they tooke the king, and carried him up unto the king of Babel to Riblah, in the land of Hamath, ^c where he gave judgement upon him.

10 And the king of Babel slew the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes: he slew also all the princes of Judah in Riblah.

11 Then he put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and the king of Babel bound him in chaines, and carried him to Babel, and put him in prison till the day of his death.

12 Now in the fifth moneth, in the ^d tenth day of the moneth (which was the nineteenth yeare of the king Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel) came Nebuzar-adan chiefe steward, which ^e stood before the king of Babel in Jerusalem;

13 And burnt the house of the Lord, and the kings house, and all the houses of Jerusalem; and all the great houses burnt he with fire.

14 And all the armie of the Caldeans that were with the chiefe steward, brake downe all the walles of Jerusalem round about.

15 Then Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward, carried away captive certaine of the poore of the people, and the residue of the people that remained in the citie, and those that were fled, and fallen to the king of Babel, with the rest of the multitude.

16 But Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward left certaine of the poore of the land, to dresse the vines, and to till the land.

17 Also the ^f pillars of brasie that were in the House of the Lord, and the bases, and the brasen Sea, that was in the House of the Lord, the Caldeans brake, and carried all the brasie of them to Babel.

18 The pots also and the ^g befoms, and the instruments of musick, and the basons, and the incense dishes, and all the vessels of brasie wherewith they ministred, tooke they away.

19 And the bowles, and the ashpens and the basons, and the pots, and the candlestickes, and the incense dishes, and the cups, and all that was of gold, and that was of silver, tooke the chiefe steward away.

20 With the two pillars, one Sea, and twelve brasen bulles, that were under the bases, which king Salomon had made in the house of the Lord: the brasie of all these vessels was without ^h weight.

21 And concerning the pillars, the height of one pillar was eightene cubites, and a threed of twelve cubites did compass it, and the thickenesse thereof was foure fingers: it was hollow.

22 And a chapter of brasie was upon it, and the height of one chapter was five cubites with net-work, and pomegranates upon the chapters round about, all of brasie: the second pillar also, and the pomegranates were like unto these.

23 And there were ninetie and sixe pomegranates on a side: and all the pomegranates upon the net-work were an ⁱ hundredreth round about.

24 And the chiefe steward tooke Shearajah the chiefe Priest, and Zephaniah ^k the second Priest, and the three keepers of the doore.

25 Hee tooke also out of the citie an Eunuch, which had the oversight of the men of warre, and ^l seven men that were in the Kings presence, which were found in the citie, and Sopher captaine of the hoste, who mustered the people of the land, and threescore men of the people of the land, that were found in the mids of the citie.

26 Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward tooke them, and brought them to the king of Babel to Riblah.

27 And the king of Babel smote them, and slew them in Riblah, in the land of Hamath: thus Judah was carried away captive out of his owne land.

28 ¶ This is the people whom Nebuchad-nezzar carried away captive, in the ^m seventh yeare, even three thousand Jews, and three and twentie.

29 In the ⁿ eighteenth yeare of Nebuchad-nezzar, he carried away captive from Jerusalem eight hundredreth thirte and two ^o persons.

^f Of these pillars reade. 1. King. 7. 15.

^g Which were also made of brasie, as 1. King. 7. 45.

^h It was so much in quantitie.

ⁱ But because of the roundnesse no more could bee seene but ninetie and sixe.

^k Which served in the high Priests stead, if hee had any necessary impediment.

^l In the 2. King. 25. 19. is read but of five: those were the most excellent, and the other two which were not so noble, are not there mentioned with them.

^m Which was the latter end of the seventh yeare of his reigne, and the beginning of the eighth.

ⁿ In the latter end also of this yeare, and the beginning of the nineteenth: ^o Ebr. Jussiel.

30 In the three and twentieth yeare of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward caried away captive of the Jews seven hundred forty and five persons: all the persons were foure thousand and fixe hundred.

31 And in the seven and thirtieth yeare of the captivite of Jehojachin king of Judah, in the twelfth moneth, in the five and twentieth day of the moneth, Evilmerodach king of Babel, in the first yeare of his reigne, lifted up the head of Je-hojachin king of Judah, and brought him out of prison,

32 And spake kindly unto him, and set his throne above the throne of the kings, that were with him in Babel, 33 And changed his prison garments, and he did continually eate bread before him all the daies of his life.

24 His portion was a continuall portion given him of the king of Babel, every day a certaine, all the daies of his life untill he died.

^o That is, restored him to liberty and honour.

^q That is, he had allowance in the court, and thus as length he had rest and quietnesse, because hee obeyed Jeremiah the Prophet, whereas the other were cruelly ordered, that would not obey him.

LAMENTATIONS.

CHAP. I.

¹ The Prophet bewaileth the miserable estate of Ierusalem, and sheweth that they are plagued because of their sins. The first and second Chapter begin every verse according to the letters of the Hebrew Alphabet. The third hath three verses for every letter, and the fourth is as the first.

^a The Prophet wondereth at the great judgement of God, seeing Ierusalem which was so strong, & so full of people, to bee now destroyed and desolate.
^b Which had chiefe rule over many provinces and countries.

Ow doth ^a the city remaine solitary that was full of people? she is as a widow: she that was great among the nations, and ^b princeesse among the provinces, is made tributary.

^d Meaning, the Egyptians and Assyrians, which promised helpe.

2 Shee weepeth continually in the night, and her teares run downe by her cheeks: among all her ^d lovers, she hath none to comfort her: all her friends have dealt unfaithfully with her, and are her enemies.

^e For her cruelty toward the poore, and oppression of servants, 1er. 34. 11.

3 Judah is caried away captive, because of affliction, and because of great servitude: she dwelleth among the heathen, and findeth no rest: all her persecutors tooke her in the straits.

^f As they used to come up with mirth and joy, Psal. 24. 4.

4 The waies of Zion lament, because no man commeth ^f to the solemne feasts: all her gates are desolate: her Priests sigh: her virgins are discomfited, and she is in heavinesse.

5 Her adversaries ^g are the chiefe, and her enemies prosper: for the Lord hath afflicted her, for the multitude of her transgressions, and her children are gone into captivity before the enemy.

^g That is, have rule over her. Deut. 28. 44.

6 And from the daughter of Zion all her beauty is departed: her Princes are become ^h like Harts that find no pasture, and they are gone without strength before the persuer.

^h As men pined away with sorrow, and that have no courage.

7 Ierusalem remembered the daies of her affliction, and of her rebellion, and all her pleasant things that she had in times past, when her people fell into the hand of the enemy, and none did helpe her: the adversaries saw her, and did mock at her ⁱ Sabbaths.

ⁱ In her misery she considered the great benefits and commodities that she had lost.
^k At her religion and serving of God, which was the greatest griefe to the godly.

8 Ierusalem hath grievously sinned, therefore she is [†] in derision: all that honoured her; despise her, because they have seen her filthinesse: yea, she sigheth, and turneth backward.

[†] Or driven away.

9 Her filthinesse [†] is in her skirts: she remembred not her last end, therefore she came downe wonderfully: shee had no comforter: O Lord, behold mine affliction: for the enemy [†] is proud.

¹ She is not ashamed of her sin, although it be manifest.

10 The enemy hath stretched out his hand upon all her pleasant things: for she hath seen the heathen enter into her Sanctuary, whom ^m thou didst command, that they should not enter into thy Church.

^m God forbiddeth that the Ammonites & Moabites should enter into the Congregation of the Lord, and under them hee comprehendeth all enemies, Deut. 23. 3.

11 All her people sigh, and seek their bread: they have given their pleasant things for meat to refresh the soule: see, O Lord, and consider: for I am become vile.

12 Have ye no regard, all ye that passe by this way? behold, and see, if there be any ⁿ sorrow like unto my sorrow, which is done unto mee, wherewith the Lord hath afflicted me in the day of his fierce wrath.

ⁿ Thus Ierusalem lamenteth, moving others to pity her, and to leave by her example.

13 From above hath ^o he sent fire into my bones; which prevaieth against them: he hath spread a net for my feet, and turned me back: he hath made me desolate, and daily in heavinesse.

^o This declareth that wee should acknowledge God to be the author of all our afflictions, to the intent that wee might seeke tinto him for remedy.

14 The yoke of my transgressions is bound upon his hand: they are wrapped, and come up upon my neck: hee hath made my strength to fall: the Lord hath delivered me into their hands, neither am I able to rise up.

^p Mine heavie sins are continually before his eyes, as he that tyeth a thing to his hand for a remembrance

15 The Lord hath troden under foot all my valiant men in the midst of mee: he hath called an assembly against me to destroy my young men: the Lord hath troden ^q the wine-presse upon the virgin the daughter of Judah.

^r 1er. 14. 17. Chap. 2. 18.

16 For these things I weepe: mine eye, even mine eye casteth out water, because the comforter that should refresh my my soule, is farre from me : my children are desolate, because the enemy prevailed.

17 Zion stretched out her hands, and there is none to comfort her : the Lord hath appointed the enemies of Jaakob round about him : Jerusalem is as a menstruous woman in the midst of them.

18 The Lord is righteous : for I have rebelled against his commandment : heare, I pray you, all people, and behold my sorrow : my virgins and my young men are gone into captivity.

19 I called for my lovers, but they deceived me : my Priests and mine Elders perished in the city, while they sought their meat to refresh their soules.

20 Behold, O Lord, how I am troubled : my bowels swell : mine heart is turned within me, For I am full of heaviness : the sword spoileth abroad, as death doth at home.

21 They have heard that I mourne, but there is none to comfort me : all mine enemies have heard of my trouble, and are glad, that thou hast done it : thou wilt bring the day, that thou hast pronounced, and they shall be like unto me.

22 Let all their wickedness come before thee : do unto them, as thou hast done unto me, for all my transgressions : for my sighes are many, and mine heart is heavy.

CHAP. II.

How hath the Lord darkened the daughter of Zion in his wrath ! and hath cast downe from heaven unto the earth the beautie of Israel, and remembered not his footstool in the day of his wrath !

2 The Lord hath destroyed all the habitations of Jaakob, and not spared : he hath throwne downe in his wrath the strong holds of the daughter of Judah : he hath cast them downe to the ground : hee hath polluted the kingdome and the Princes thereof.

3 He hath cut off in his fierce wrath all the horn of Israel : he hath drawne back his right hand from before the enemy, and there was kindled in Jaakob like a flame of fire, which devoured round about.

4 He hath bent his bow like an enemy : his right hand was stretched up as an adversary, and slew all that was pleasant to the eye in the Tabernacle of the daughter of Zion : hee powred out his wrath like fire.

5 The Lord was an enemy : he hath devoured Israel, and consumed all his palaces : hee hath destroyed his strong holds, and hath increased in the daughter of Judah lamentation and mourning.

6 For he hath destroyed his Tabernacle, as a garden, he hath destroyed his Congregation : the Lord hath caused the feasts and Sabbaths to be forgotten in Zion, and hath despised in the indignation of his wrath the King and the Priest.

7 The Lord hath forsaken his Altar : he hath abhorred his Sanctuary : he hath given into the hand of the enemy the walls of her palaces : they have made a noise in the house of the Lord, as in the day of solemnity.

8 The Lord hath determined to destroy the wall of the daughter of Zion : he stretched out a line, he hath not withdrawn his hand from destroying : therefore he made the rampart and the wall to lament : they were destroyed together.

9 Her gates are sunke to the ground : he hath destroyed and broken her barres ; her king and her princes are among the Gentiles : the Law is no more, neither can her Prophets receive any vision from the Lord.

10 The Elders of the daughter of Zion sit upon the ground and keep silence : they have cast up dust upon their heads : they have girded themselves with sackcloth : the virgins of Jerusalem hang downe their heads to the ground.

11 Mine eyes doe faile with teares : my bowels swell : my liver is poured upon the earth, for the destruction of the daughter of my people, because the children and sucklings swoone in the streets of the citie.

12 They have said to their mothers, Where is bread and drink ? When they swooned as the wounded in the streets of the city, and when they gave up the ghost in their mothers bosome.

13 What thing shall I take to witnesse for thee ? what thing shall I compare to thee, O daughter Jerusalem ? what shall I liken to thee, that I may comfort thee, O virgin daughter Zion ? for thy breach is great like the Sea : who can heale thee ?

14 Thy prophets have looked out vaine and foolish things for thee, and they have not discovered thine iniquity, to turne away thy captivity, but have looked out for thee false prophecies, and causes of banishment.

15 All that passe by the way, clap their hands at thee : they hiss and wag their head upon the daughter Jerusalem, saying, is this the city that men call, The perfection of beauty, and the joy of the whole earth ?

Which because of her pollution was separate from her husband, Lev. 15. 19. and was abhorred for the time.
Ebr. multi.

That is they died for hunger.

Of desiring vengeance against the enemy, read Jer. 11. 20. & 18. 21.
Or, gather, them together.

That is, brought her from prosperity to adversity, which given her a most sore fall.

Alluding to the Temple, or to the Ark of the covenant, which was called the footstool of the Lord, because they should not see their minds so low, but lift up their hearts toward the heavens.

Meaning, the glory & strength ; as 1. Sam. 2. 1.
That is, his succour which hee was wont to send us, when our enemies oppressed us.

Shewing, that there is no remedy but destruction, where God is the enemy.

As the people were accustomed to praise God in the solemn feasts with a loud voice, so now the enemies blasphemed him with shouting and crying.

This is a figurative speech, as that was, when he said, the waies did lament. Chap. 1. 4. meaning, that this sorrow was so great that the insensible things had their part thereof.
Or, fide.

Or, faint.

Ebr. wheat and wine.

Ebr. poured out the soule.

Meaning, that her calamity was so evident, that it need to witnesse.

Because the false prophets called themselves Seers, as the other were called, therefore hee sheweth that they saw amiss, because they did not reprove the peoples faults, but flattered them in their sins, which was the cause of their destruction.
Or, burden.

16 All thine enemies have opened their mouth against thee : they hisse and gnash the teeth, saying, Let us devoure it : certainly this is the day that we looked for : we have found and seen it.

* Chap. 1. 16.

18 Their heart * cried unto the Lord, O wall of the daughter Zion, let teares run downe like a rivier, day and night : take thee no rest, neither let the apple of thine eye cease.

19 Arise, cry in the night : in the beginning of the warches powre out thine heart like water before the face of the Lord : lift up thine hands toward him for the life of thy young children, that faint for hunger in the corners of all the streets.

* Or, brought up in their owne hands.

20 Behold, O Lord, and confider to whom thou hast done thus : shall the women eat their fruit, and children of a * span long ? shall the Priest and the Prophet be slaine in the Sanctuary of the Lord ?

21 The young and the old lie on the ground in the streets : my virgins and my young men are fallen by the sword : thou hast slaine them in the day of thy wrath : thou hast killed, and not spared.

* Or, enemies, whom I feared.

22 Thou hast called as in a solemne day my * terrours round about, so that in the day of the Lords wrath none escaped nor remained : those that I have nourished and brought up, hath mine enemies consumed.

CHAP. III.

a The Prophet complaineth of the punishments and afflictions that he endured by the false Prophets and hypocrites, when hee declareth the destruction of Ierusalem, as Ierem. 20. 2.

I Am the man that hath seen * affliction in the rod of his indignation.

2 He hath led me, and brought mee into darknesse, but not to light.

3 Surely he is turned against mee : hee turneth his hand against mee all the day.

b He speaketh this as one that felt Gods heauie judgements, which he greatly feared, and therefore setteth them out with this diuersitie of words.

4 My flesh and my skinne hath he caused to waxe old, and he hath broken my bones.

c This is a great temptation to the godly, when they see not the fruit of their prayers, and curse them that think they are not heard, which thing God useth to doe, that they might pray more earnestly and the oftner.

5 He hath ^b builded against me, and compassed me with gall and labour.

d And keepeth me in hold as a prisoner.

6 He hath set me in dark places, as they that be dead for ever.

7 He hath hedged about me, that I cannot get out : he hath made my chaines heauie.

8 Also when I cry and shout, he shutteth out my * prayer.

9 He hath ^d stopped up my waies with hewen stone, and turned away my paths.

10 * He was unto me as a beare lying in wait, and as a lyon in secret places.

e He hath no pity on me.

11 He hath stopped my waies, and pulled me in pieces : he hath made me desolate.

12 He hath bent his bow, and made me a marke for the arrow.

13 He caused † the arrows of his quiver to enter into my reines.

14 I was a derision to all my people, and their song all the day.

15 He hath filled me with bitternesse, and made mee drunken with ^f wormewood.

f With great anguish and sorrow he hath made me to lose my sense.

16 He hath also broken my teeth with stones, and hath covered me with ashes.

17 Thus my soule was farre off from peace : I forgate prosperity.

18 And I said, My strength and mine hope * is perished from the Lord, g Thus with paine he was driven to and fro betwene hope and despaire, as the godly oft-times are, yet in the end the Spirit getteth the victory.

19 Remembring mine affliction, and my mourning, the wormewood and the gall.

h He sheweth that God thus useth to exercise his, to the intent that hereby they may know themselves, and feeble his mercy.

20 My soule hath them in remembrance, and is humbled ^h in me.

21 I consider this in mine heart : therefore have I hope.

22 It is the Lords ⁱ mercies that we are not consumed, because his compassions faile not.

i Considering the wickednesse of man, it is marvaile that any remaineth alive : but onely that God for his own mercies sake, and for his promise will ever have his Church to remaine, though they bee never so few in number.

23 They are renewed * every morning : great is thy faithfulness.

lfi. 1. 9.

24 The Lord ^k is my ^l portion, faith my soule : therefore wil I hope in him.

k We feeble thy benefits daily.

25 The Lord is good unto them that trust in him, and to the soule that seeketh him.

l The godly put their whole confidence in God, and therefore look for none other inheritance, as Psal. 16. 5.

26 It is good both to trust, and to wait for the salvation of the Lord.

m He sheweth that we can never begin too timely to be exercised under the crosse, that when the afflictions grow greater, our patience also by experience may be stronger.

27 It is good for a man that he beare the yoke in his ⁿ youth.

n He murmureth not against God, but is patient.

28 He sitteth alone, ^o and keepeth silence, because hee hath borne it upon him.

o Hee humbleth himselfe as they that fall downe with their face to the ground, and so with patience waiteth for his cour.

29 He putteth his ^p mouth in the dust, if there may be hope.

p Hee taketh no pleasure in it, but doth it of necessity for our amendment, when hee suffereth the wicked to oppress the poore.

30 He giveth his cheek to him that smitteth him : he is filled full with reproches.

31 For the Lord will not forsake for ever.

32 But though he send affliction, yet will he have compassion according to the multitude of his mercies.

33 For hee doth not ^q punish † willingly, nor afflict the children of men, q He doth not delight therein.

34 In stamping under his feet all the prisoners of the earth,

35 In overthrowing the right of a man before the face of the most High.

36 In subverting a man in his cause : the Lord ^r seeth is not.

37 Who is he then that saith, and it commeth to passe, and the Lord commandeth it not?

38 Out of the mouth of the most High proceedeth not evill and good?

39 Wherefore then is the living man sorrowfull? man suffereth for his sin.

40 Let us search and try our wayes, and turne againe to the Lord.

41 Let us lift up our hearts with our hands unto God in the heavens.

42 We have sinned, and have rebelled, therefore thou hast not spared.

43 Thou hast covered us with wrath, and persecuted us: thou hast slaine and not spared.

44 Thou hast covered thy selfe with a cloud, that our prayers should not passe through.

45 Thou hast made us as the off-scouring and refuse in the mids of the people.

46 All our enemies have opened their mouth against us.

47 Feare, and a snare is come upon us with desolation and destruction.

48 Mine eye casteth out rivers of water, for the destruction of the daughter of my people.

49 Mine eye droppeth without stay, and ceaseth not.

50 Till the Lord looke down, and behold from heaven.

51 Mine eye breaketh mine heart, because of all the daughters of my city.

52 Mine enemies chased me fore, like a bird, without cause.

53 They have shut up my life in the dungeon, and cast a stone upon me.

54 Waters flowed over mine head, then thought I, I am destroyed.

55 I called upon thy Name, O Lord, out of the low dungeon.

56 Thou hast heard my voice: stop not thine eare from my sigh, and from my cry.

57 Thou drewest neer in the day that I called upon thee: thou saidst, Feare not.

58 O Lord, thou hast maintained the cause of my soule, and hast redeemed my life.

59 O Lord, thou hast seen my wrong, judge thou my cause.

60 Thou hast seen all their vengeance, and all their devises against me.

61 Thou hast heard their reproach, O Lord, and al their imaginations against me.

62 The lips also of those that rose against me, and their whispering against me continually.

63 Behold, their sitting down and their rising up, how I am their song.

64 Give them a recompence, O Lord, according to the work of their hands.

65 Give them sorrow of heart even thy curse to them.

66 Persecute with wrath, and destroy them from under the heaven, O Lord.

CHAP. IV.

How is the gold become so dim! the most fine gold is changed, and the stones of the Sanctuary are scattered in the corner of every street.

2 The noble men of Zion comparable to fine gold, how are they esteemed as the earthen pitchers, even the worke of the hands of the potter!

3 Even the dragons draw out the breasts, and give suck to their young: but the daughter of my people is become cruel like the Ostriches in the wilderness.

4 The tongue of the sucking childe cleaveth to the roose of his mouth for thirst: the young children aske bread, but no man breaketh it unto them.

5 They that did feed delicately, perish in the streets: they that were brought up in Scarlet, embrace the dung.

6 For the iniquity of the daughter of my people is become greater then the sinne of Sodom that was destroyed as in a moment, and none pitched camps against her.

7 Her Nazarites were purer then the snow, and whiter then the milke: they were more ruddy in body, then the redde precious stones: they were like polished Saphir.

8 Now their visage is blacker then a coale: they cannot know them in the streets: their skin cleaveth to their bones: it is withered, like a stock.

9 They that be slaine with the sword, are better then they that are killed with hunger: for they fade away as they were stricken thorow for the fruits of the field.

10 The hands of the pitifull women have sodden their own children, which were their meat in the destruction of the daughter of my people.

11 The Lord hath accomplished his indignation: he hath powred out his fierce wrath, hee hath kindled a fire in Zion, which hath devoured the foundations thereof.

12 The kings of the earth, and all the inhabitants of the world would not have believed that the adversary and the enemy should have entred into the gates of Jerusalem.

13 For the finnes of her Prophets, and the iniquities of her priests that have shed the blood of the just in the mids of her.

^l He sheweth two principall causes of their destruction: their cruelty, and their vain confidence in man: for they trusted in the helpe of the Egyptians.

18 They hunt our steps that we cannot goe in our streets: our end is neere, our daies are fulfilled, for our end is come.

19 Our persecuters are swifter then the Eagles of the heaven: they pursued us upon the mountains, and laid wait for us in the wilderness.

C H A P. V.

The prayer of Jeremiah.

Remember, O Lord, what is come upon us: ^a consider, and behold our reproach.

^a This prayer, as is thought, was made when some of the people were caried away captive, others, as the poorest remained, and some went into Egypt, and other places for succour: albeit it seemeth that the Prophet foreseeing their miseries to come, thus prayed.

2 Our inheritance is turned to the strangers, our houses to the aliens.

3 Our inheritance is turned to the strangers, our houses to the aliens.

3 Wee are fatherlesse, even without father, and our mothers are as widows.

4 Wee have drunken our ^b water for money, and our wood is sold unto us.

^b Meaning, their extreame servitude and bondage.

5 Our necks are under persecution, we are weary, and have no rest.

6 Wee have given our ^c hands to the Egyptians, and to Alhur, to bee satisfied with bread.

^c We are joynt in league and unity with them, or have submitted our selves unto them.

7 Our fathers have sinned, and are not, and we have born their ^d iniquities.

8 Servants have ruled over us, none would deliver us out of their hands.

^d As our fathers have been punished for their sins, so we that are culpable of the same finnes, are punished.

9 Wee gate our bread with the perill of our lives, because of the sword ^e of the wilderness.

^e Because of the enemy that came from the wilderness, and would not suffer us to goe and seek out necessary food.

10 Our skinned was blacke like as an oven, because of the terrible famine.

11 They defiled the women in Zion, and the maids in the cities of Judah.

12 The princes are hanged up by ^f their hand, the faces of the Elders were not had in honour.

^f That is, by the enemies hand.

13 They took the yong men to grind, and the children fell under ^g the wood.

^g Their slavery was so great that they were not able to abide it.
^h There were no more laws, nor forme of common wealth.

14 The Elders have ceased from the ^h gate, and the yong men from their songs.

15 The joy of our heart is gone, our dance is turned into mourning.

16 The crown of our head is fallen: wo now unto us, that we have sinned.

17 Therefore our heart is heavy for these things, our ⁱ eyes are dimme, ⁱ With weeping.

18 Because of the mountain of Zion which is desolate: the foxes run upon it.

19 But thou, O Lord, remainest for ever: thy throne is from generation to generation.

^k And therefore thy covenant and mercies can never faile.

20 Wherefore dost thou forget us for ever, and forsake us so long time?

^l Whereby is declared, that it is not in mans power to turn to God, but is onely his worke to convert us, and thus God worketh in us before we can turn to him. Jer. 31. 18

21 Turn thou us unto thee, O Lord, and we shall be turned: renew our daies as of old.

22 But thou hast utterly rejected us: thou art exceedingly angry against us.

EZEKIEL.

THE ARGUMENT.

After that Jehojachin, by the counsell of Jeremiah and Ezekiel, had yielded himselfe to Nebuchadnezzar, and so went to captivity with his mother, and divers of his princes, and of the people, certain beganne to repent and murmure that they had obeyed the Prophets counsell, as though the thing which they had prophesied should not come to passe, and therefore their estate should be stil miserable under the Caldeans. By reason whereof he confirmeth his former prophesies, declaring by new visions and revelations shewed unto him, that the city should most certainly be destroyed, and the people grievously tormented by Gods plagues, in so much that they that remained, should be brought into cruel bondage. And lest the godly should despair in these great troubles, he assureth them that God will deliver his Church at his time appointed, and also destroy their enemies, which either afflicted them, or rejoiced in their miseries.

series, The effect of the one and the other should chiefly be performed under Christ, of whom in this booke are many notable promises, and in whom the glory of the new Temple should perfectly be restored. He prophesied these things in Caldea, at the same time that Jeremiah prophesied in Judah, and there began in the fift yeare of Jehojachins captivity.

CHAP. I.

1 The time wherein Ezekiel prophesied, and in what place.
3 His kinred. 5 The vision of the foure beasts. 26 The vision of the throne.

I came to passe in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, and in the fift day of the month (as I was among the captives by the river Chebar) that the heavens were opened, and I saw the visions of God.

2 In the fift day of the moneth (which was the fift yeare of King Jehojachins captivity)

3 The word of the Lord came unto Ezekiel the Priest, the sonne of Buzi, in the land of the Caldeans, by the river Chebar, where the hand of the Lord was upon him.

4 And I looked, and behold, a whirlwind came out of the North, a great cloud and a fire wrapped about it, and a brightness was about it, and in the mids thereof, to wit, in the mids of the fire came out as the likenesse of the amber,

5 Also out of the middes thereof came the likenesse of foure beasts, and this was their forme: they had the appearance of a man.

6 And every one had foure faces, and every one had foure wings.

7 And their feet were streight feet, and the sole of their feet, was like the sole of a calves foot, and they sparkled like the appearance of bright brasse.

8 And the hands of a man came out from under their wings in the four parts of them, and they foure had their faces and their wings.

9 They were joyned by their wings one to another, and when they went forth, they returned not, but every one went streight forward.

10 And the similitude of their faces was as the face of a man: and they foure had the face of a lion on the right side, and they foure had the face of a bullock on the left side: they four also had the face of an Eagle.

11 Thus were their faces: but their wings were spread out above: two wings of every one were joyned one to another, and two covered their bodies.

12 And every one went streight forward: they went whither their spirit led them, and they returned not when they went forth.

13 The similitude also of the beasts, and their appearance was like burning coals of fire, and like the appearance of lampes: for the fire ran among the beasts, and the fire gave a glister, and out of the fire there went lightning.

14 And the beasts ran; and returned like unto lightning.

15 ¶ Now as I beheld the beasts, behold, a wheele appeared upon the earth by the beasts, having foure faces.

16 The fashion of the wheels and their work was like unto a Chrysolite: and they foure had one form, and their fashion, and their worke was as one wheele in another wheele.

17 When they went, they went upon their foure sides, and they returned not when then went.

18 They had also rings, and height, and were fearefull to behold, and their rings were full of eyes, round about them foure.

19 And when the beasts went, the wheeles went with them: and when the beasts were lift up from the earth, the wheeles were lift up.

20 Whither their spirit led them, they went, and thither did the spirit of the wheeles lead them, and the wheeles were lifted up besides them: for the spirit of the beasts was in the wheeles.

21 When the beasts went, they went, and when they stood, they stood, and when they were lifted up from the earth, the wheeles were lifted up besides them: for the spirit of the beasts was in the wheeles.

22 And the similitude of the firmament upon the heads of the beasts was wonderful, like unto Chrysell, spread over their heads above.

23 And under the firmament were their wings streight, the one toward another: every one had two, which covered them, and every one had two, which covered their bodies.

24 And when they went forth, I heard the noise of their wings like the noise of great waters; and as the voyce of the Almighty, even the voice of speech, as the noise of an hoste: and when they stood, they let down their wings.

25 And there was a voice from the firmament, that was over their heads, when they stood, and had let down their wings.

26 And above the firmament that was over their heads, was the fashion of a throne, like unto a Saphire stone, and

CHAP. III.

¹ The Prophet being fed with the word of God, and with the constant boldnesse of the Spirit, is sent unto the people that were in captivity. ¹⁷ The office of true ministers.

Moreover he said unto me, Sonne of man, ^a eate that thou findest: eate this roule, and goe, and speake unto the house of Israel.

² So I opened my mouth, and he gave me this roule to eat.

³ And he said unto me, Sonne of man, cause thy belly to eat, and fill thy bowels with this roule that I give thee, Then did I eat it, and it was in my mouth as sweet as hony.

⁴ And he said unto me, Son of man, go, and enter into the house of Israel, and declare them my words.

⁶ Not to many people of an unknown tongue, or of an hard language, whose words thou canst not understand: yet if I should send thee to them, they would obey thee.

⁷ But the house of Israel will not obey thee: for they will not obey me: yea, all the house of Israel are impudent and stiffe hearted.

⁸ Behold, I have made thy face ^b strong against their faces, and thy forehead hard against their foreheads.

¹⁰ He said moreover unto me, Son of man, ^c receive in thine heart all my words that I speak unto thee, and heare them with thine ears.

¹¹ And goe, and enter to them that are led away captives unto the children of thy people, and speake unto them, and tell them, Thus saith the Lord God: but surely they will not heare, neither will they indeed cease.

¹² Then the spirit tooke me up, and I heard behinde me a noise of a great rushing, saying, ^d Blessed be the glory of the Lord out of his place.

¹³ I heard also the noise of the wings of the beasts, that touched one another, and the ratling of the wheeles that were by them, even a noise of a great rushing.

¹⁴ So the Spirit lift me up, and took me away, and I went in bitterness, and indignation of my spirit, but the hand of the Lord was strong upon me.

¹⁵ Then I came to them that were led away captives, to Tel-abib, that dwell by the river Chebar, and I sate where they sate, and remained there astonished among them ^e seven daies.

upon the similitude of the throne ^{was} by appearance, as the similitude of a man above upon it.

²⁹ This was the appearance of the similitude of the glory of the Lord: and when I saw it, I fell ^o upon my face, and I heard a voice of one that spake.

CHAP. II.

The Prophet is sent to call the people from their error.

And ^a he said unto me, ^b Sonne of man, stand up upon thy feet, and I wil speak unto thee.

² And the Spirit entred into me, when he had spoken unto me, and set me upon my feet, so that I heard him that spake unto me.

⁷ Therefore thou shalt speak my words unto them: but surely they will not hear, neither will they indeed cease: for they are rebellious.

⁹ And when I looked up, behold, an hand was sent unto me, and loe, a roule of a booke ^{was} therein,

¹⁰ And he spread it before me, and it was written within and without, and there was written therein, ^g Lamentations, and mourning, and woe.

ⁿ Whereby was signified a terrible judgement toward the earth.

^o Considering the majesty of God, and the weaknesse of flesh.

^a That is, the Lord.
^b Meaning, man, which is but earth and ashes, which was to humble him, and cause him to consider his own state, and Gods grace.
^c So that he could not abide Gods presence till Gods spirit did enter into him.

[†] Ebr. hard of face.

^d This declareth on the one part, Gods great affection toward his people, that notwithstanding their rebellion, yet he will send his Prophets among them and admonisheth his ministers on the other part that they cease not to doe their duty, though the people be never so obstinate: for the word of God shall be either to their salvation, or greater condemnation.

^e Read Jer. 1. 17. he sheweth, that for none afflictions they should cease to doe their duties.
^f He doth not onely exhort him to his duty, but also giveth him the means where-with he may be able to execute it.
^g He sheweth, what were the contents of this booke, to wit, Gods judgements against the wicked.

^a Whereby is meant, that none is meet to be Gods messenger before he have received the word of God in his heart, as ver. 10. and have a zeale thereto, and delight therein, as Jer. 15. 16. Revel. 10. 10.

^b God promised his assistance to his ministers, and that he will give them boldnesse and constancy in their vocation. Isa. 40. 7. Jer. 1. 18. Mich. 3. 8.

^c He sheweth what is meant by the eating of the booke, which is, that the ministers of God may speak nothing as of themselves, but that onely which they have received of the Lord.

16 And at the end of seven dayes, the word of the Lord came againe unto me, saying,

17 Sonne of man, I have made thee a ^h Watchman unto the house of Israel: therefore heare the word at my mouth, and give them warning from me.

18 When I shall say unto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die, and thou givest not him warning, nor speakest to admonish the wicked of his wicked way, that he may live, the same wicked man shall die in his iniquity: but his blood will I require at thine hand.

19 Yet if thou warne the wicked, and he turne not from his wickednesse, nor from his wicked way, he shall die in his iniquity, but thou hast delivered thy soule.

20 Likewise if a ⁱ righteous man turne from his righteousnesse, and commit iniquity, I will lay a ^k stumbling block before him, and he shall die, because thou hast not given him warning: he shall die in his sinne, and his ^l righteous deeds, which he hath done, shall not be remembered: but his blood will I require at thine hand.

21 Neverthelesse, if thou admonish that righteous man, that the righteous sin not, and that he doth not sinne, he shall live because he is admonished: also thou hast delivered thy soule.

22 And the ^m hand of the Lord was there upon me, and he said unto me, Arise, and goe into the ⁿ field, and I will there talk with thee.

23 So when I had risen up, and gone forth into the field, behold, the ^o glory of the Lord stood there, as the glory which I saw by the river Chebar, and I fell down upon my face.

24 Then the Spirit entred into me, which ^p set me up upon my feet, and spake unto me, and said to me, Come and ^q shut thy selfe within thine house.

25 But thou, O son of man, behold, they shall put bands upon thee, and shall binde thee with them, and thou shalt not goe out among them.

26 And I will make thy tongue ^r cleave to the rooffe of thy mouth, that thou shalt be dumbe, and shalt not be to them as a man that rebuketh: for they are a rebellious house.

27 But when I shall have spoken unto thee, I will open thy mouth, and thou shalt say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, He that heareth, let him heare, and he that leaveth off, ^s let him leave: for they are a rebellious house.

3 Moreover, take an ^a Iron pan, and set it for a wall of Iron between thee and the city, and direct thy face toward it, and it shall be besieged, and thou shalt lay siege against it: this shall be a signe unto the house of Israel:

4 Sleepe thou also upon thy left side, and lay the iniquity of the ^b house of Israel upon it: according to the number of the dayes, that thou shalt sleep upon it, thou shalt bear their iniquity.

5 For I have laid upon thee the years of their iniquity, according to the number of the dayes, even three hundred and ninety daies: so shalt thou beare the iniquity of the house of Israel.

6 And when thou hast accomplished them, sleepe againe upon thy ^c right side, and thou shalt beare the iniquity of the house of Judah fourty daies: I have appointed thee a day for a yeare, even a day for a yeare.

7 Therefore thou shalt direct thy face toward the siege of Jerusalem, and thine ^d arme shall be uncovered, and thou shalt prophesie against it.

8 And behold, I will lay ^e bands upon thee, and thou shalt not turn thee from one side to another, till thou hast ended the dayes of thy siege.

3 Thou shalt also take thereof a few in number, and binde them in thy clasp.

4 Then take of them again and cast them into the midst of the fire, and burn them in the fire: ^d for thereof shall a fire come forth into all the house of Israel.

5 Thus saith the Lord God, This is Jerusalem: I have set it in the midst of the nations and countries that are round about her.

6 And she hath changed my ^e judgements into wickednes more then the nations, and my statutes more then the countries that are round about her, for they have refused my judgements and my statutes, and they have not walked in them.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because your ^f multitude is greater then the nations that are round about you, and yee have not walked in my statutes, neither have yee kept my judgements: no, ye have not done according to the judgements of the nations that are round about you,

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I, even I come against thee, and will execute judgement in the midst of thee, even in the sight of the nations.

10 For in the midst of thee, the fathers ^{*} shall eate their sonnes, and the sonnes shall eate their fathers, and I will execute judgement in thee, and the whole remnant of thee will I scatter into all the windes.

11 Wherefore, as I live, saith the Lord God, Surely, because thou hast defiled my Sanctuary with all thy filthines, and with all thine abominations, therefore will I also destroy thee, neither shall mine eye spare thee, neither will I have any pity.

12 The third part of thee shall die with the pestilence, and with famine shall they be consumed in the midst of thee: and another third part shall fall by the sword round about thee: and I will scatter the last third part into all windes, and I will draw out a sword after them.

13 Thus shall mine anger be accomplished, and I will cause my wrath to cease in them, and I will be ^g comforted: and they shall know, that I the Lord have spoken it in my zeale, when I have accomplished my wrath in them.

14 Moreover, I will make thee waste, and abhorred among the nations that are round about thee, and in the sight of all that passe by.

2 An appearance of the similitude of God. 3 Ezekiel is brought to Jerusalem in the spirit. 6 The Lord sheweth the Prophet the idolatries of the house of Israel.

And in the * sixt yeare, in the ^b sixt ^a moneth, and in the fift day of the month, as I sate in mine house, and the Elders of Judah sate before me, the hand of the Lord God fell thereupon me.

2 Then I beheld, and loe: there was a likenesse, as the appearance of ^c fire, to looketo; from his loins downward: and from his loins upward, as the appearance of brightnesse, and like unto amber.

3 And he stretched out the likenesse of an hand, and took me by an hairy lock of mine head, and the Spirit lift me up between the earth, and the heaven, and brought me ⁺ by a Divine ^d vision to Jerusalem, into the entry of the inner ^e gate that lyeth toward the North, where remained the idole of ^f indignation, which provoked indignation.

4 And behold, the glory of the God of Israel was there according to the vision, that I saw ^g in the field.

5 Then said hee unto me, Sonne of man, lift up thine eyes now toward the North. So I lift up mine eyes toward the North, and behold, Northward, at the gate of the ^h altar, this idol of indignation was in the entry.

6 He said furthermore unto me, Sonne of man, seest thou not what they doe? even the great abominations that the house of Israel committeth here, to cause me to depart from ⁱ my Sanctuary? but yet turn thee and thou shalt see greater abominations.

7 And he caused mee to enter at the gate of the court: and when I looked, behold, an hole was in the wall.

8 Then said he unto me, Sonne of man, dig now in the wall. And when I had digged in the wall, behold, there was a doore.

9 And he said unto me, Go in, and behold the wicked abominations that they doe here.

10 So I went in, and saw, and behold, there was every similitude of creeping things, and ^k abominable beasts, and all the idols of the house of Israel, painted upon the wall round about.

11 And there stood before them seventy ^l men of the ancients of the house of Israel, and in the mids of them stood Jaazaniah, the Sonne of Shaphan, with every man his censer in his hand, and the vapour of the incense went up like ^m a cloud.

12 Then said hee unto me, Sonne of man, hast thou seen what the ancients of the house of Israel ⁿ doe in the darke, every one in the chamber of his imagery? for they say, The Lord seeth us not, the Lord hath forsaken the earth.

HE cried also with a loud voice in mine ears, saying, The visitations of the city draw neer; and every man hath a weapon in his hand to destroy it.

2 And behold, six men came, by the way of the high gate, which lieth toward the North, and every man a weapon in his hand, to destroy it: and one man among them was clothed with linnen, with a writers Inke-horn by his side, and they went in and stood beside the brazen altar.

3 And the glory of the God of Israel was gone up from the Cherub, whereupon he was, and stood on the doore of the house, and he called to the man clothed with linnen, which had the writers Inke-horn by his side.

4 And the Lord said unto him, Goe through the mids of the city, even through the mids of Jerusalem, and set a mark upon the foreheads of them that mourn: and cry for all the abominations that be done in the mids thereof.

5 And to the other he said, that I

6 Destroy utterly the old, and the young, and the maids, and the children, and the women, but touch no man upon whom is the marke, and begin at my Sanctuary. Then they began at the ancient men, which were before the house.

7 And he said unto them, Defile the house, and fill the courts with the slain: then goe forth: and they went out, and slew them in the city.

8 Now when they had slain them, and I had escaped, I fell downe upon my face, and cryed, saying, Ah Lord God, wilt thou destroy all the residue of Israel, in pouring out thy wrath upon Jerusalem?

9 Then said he unto me, The inquiry of the house of Israel and Judah is exceeding great, so that the land is full of blood, and the city full of corrupt judgement: for they say, The Lord hath forsaken the earth, and the Lord seeth us not.

10 As touching me also, mine eye shall not spare them, neither will I have pity, but will recompense their waies upon their heads.

^f Or, there should.
^g Or, mark with them.
^h He sheweth, what is the manner of Gods children whom hee marketh to salvation: to wit, to mourn and cry out against the wickedness, which they see committed against Gods glory.

^g Thus in all his plagues the Lord preserveth his small number which he marketh, as Exod. 12. 23. Revel. 7. 3. but the chiefe mark is the Spirit of adoption, wherewith the heart is sealed up to life everlasting. ^h Which were the chiefe occasion of these evils, as Chap. 8. 11. ⁱ This declareth, that the servants of God have a compassion, when they see his judgments executed.

^a Which in the next Chap. ver. 1. he called the four beasts.

^b This signified, that the City should be burnt.

^c There was one of the Cherubims, and the wheels.

^c Meaning, that the glory of God should depart from the Temple.

^d Read Gap. 1. 24.

^e I saw the beast, and the wheels, and the Cherubims.

6 And when he had commanded the man clothed with linnen, saying, Take fire from between the wheelles, and from between the Cherubims, then he went in and stood beside the wheele.

7 And one Cherub stretched forth his hand from between the Cherubims, unto the fire, that was between the Cherubims, and took thereof, and put it into the hands of him that was clothed with linnen: who took it, and went out.

8 And there appeared in the Cherubims, the likenesse of a mans hand under their wings.

9 And when I looked up, behold, foure wheelles were beside the Cherubims, one wheele by one Cherub, and another wheele by another Cherub, and the appearance of the wheelles was as the colour of a Chrysolite stone.

10 And their appearance (for they were all foure of one fashion) was as if one wheele had been in another wheele.

11 When they went forth, they went upon their foure sides, and they returned not as they went: but to the place whither the first went, they went after it, and they turned not as they went.

12 And their whole body, and their rings, and their hands, and their wings, and the wheelles were full of eyes round about, even in the same foure wheelles.

13 And the Cherub cryed to these wheelles in mine hearing, saying, O wheelles.

14 And every beast had foure faces: the first was the face of a Cherub, and the second face was the face of a man, and the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an Eagle.

15 And the Cherubims were lifted up: this is the beast that I saw at the river Chebar.

16 And when the Cherubims went, the wheelles went by them: and when the Cherubims lift up their wings to mount up from the earth, the same wheelles also turned not from beside them.

17 When the Cherubims stood, they stood: and when they were lifted up, they lifted themselves up also: for the spirit of the beast was in them.

18 Then the glory of the Lord departed from above the door of the house, and stood upon the Cherubims.

19 And the Cherubims lift up their wings, and mounted up from the earth in my sight: when they went out, the wheelles also were besides them: and every one stood at the entry of the gate of the Lords House, at the East side, and the glorie of the God of Israel was upon them on high.

20 * This is the beast that I saw under the God of Israel by the river Chebar, and I knew that they were the Cherubims.

21 Every one had foure faces, and every one foure wings, and the likenesse of mans hands was under their wings.

22 And the likenesse of their faces was the selfe same faces, which I saw by the river Chebar, and the appearance of the Cherubims was the selfe same, and they went every one straight forward.

1. When they were that seduced the people of Israel. 5. Against these he prophesieth, shewing them how they shall be dispersed abroad. 10. The renewing of the heart commeth of God. 21. He threatneth them that leane unto their owne counsels.

Moreover, the Spirit lift me up, and brought me unto the East gate of the Lords House, which lieth Eastward, and behold, at the entry of the gate were five and twenty men: among whom I saw Jaazaniah the sonne of Azur, and Pelatiah the sonne of Benajah, the princes of the people.

2 Then said he unto me, Son of man, these are the men that imagine mischief, and devise wicked counsell in this city.

3 For they say, * It is not neer, let us build houses: this city is the cauldron, and we be the flesh.

6 Many have ye murdered in this city, and ye have filled the streets thereof with the slaine.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, They that ye have slaine, and have laid in the mids of it, they are the flesh, and this city is the cauldron, but I will bring you forth of the mids of it.

8 Ye have feared the sword, and I will bring a sword upon you, saith the Lord God.

9 And I will bring you out of the mids thereof, and deliver you into the hands of strangers, and will execute judgements among you.

10 Ye shall fall by the sword, and I will judge you in the border of Israel, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

11 This city shall not be your cauldron, neither shall ye be the flesh in the mids thereof, but I will judge you in the border of Israel.

13 ¶ And when I prophesied, Pelatiah the sonne of^f Benajah died: then fell I downe upon my face, and cryed with a loud voice, and said, Ah Lord God, wilt thou then utterly destroy all the remnant of Israel?

14 Againe, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

15 Sonne of man, thy^g brethren, even thy brethren, the men of thy kinred, and all the house of Israel, wholly are they unto whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said, Depart yee farre from the Lord: for the Land is given us in possession.

16 Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord God, Although I have cast them far off among the heathen, and although I have scattered them among the countries: yet will I bee to them as a little^h Sanctuary in the Countries where they shall come.

17 Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord God, I will gather you againe from the people, and assemble you out of the countries where yee have been scattered, and I will give you the land of Israel.

18 And they shall come thither, and they shall take away all the idols thereof, and all the abominations thereof from thence.

19 * And I will give them one heart, and I will put a new spirit within their bowels; and I will take theⁱ stony heart out of their bodies, and will give them an heart of flesh:

20 That they may walke in my statutes, and keep my judgements, and execute them: and they shall be my people, and I will be their God.

21 But upon them whose heart is toward their idoles, and whose affection goeth after their abominations, I will lay their way upon their owne heads, saith the Lord God.

22 ¶ Then did the Cherubims lift up their wings, and the wheels besides them, and the glory of the God of Israel was upon them on high.

23 And the glory of the Lord went up from the mids of the City, and stood upon the mountaine which is toward the East side of the City.

24 Afterward the Spirit took me up, and brought me in a vision by the spirit of God into Caldea to them that were led away captives: so the Vision that I had seen, went up from me.

25 Then I declared unto them that were^k led away captives, all the things that the Lord had shewed me.

CHAP. XII.

¹ The Parable of the Captivitie. ¹⁸ Another Parable, whereby the distresse of hunger and thirst is signified.

THE word of the Lord also came unto me, saying;

2 Sonne of man, thou dwellest in the mids of a rebellious house, which have eyes to see, and see^a not: they have eares to hear, and heare not: for they are a rebellious house.

3 Therefore thou sonne of man, [†]prepare thy stuffe to goe into captivity, and goe forth by day in their sight: and thou shalt passe from thy place to another place in their sight, if it be possible that they may consider it: for they are a rebellious house.

4 Then shalt thou bring forth thy stuffe by day in their sight, as the stuffe of him that goeth into captivity: and thou shalt go forth at even in their sight, as they that go forth into captivity.

5 Dig thou through the wall in their sight, and cary out thereby.

6 In their sight shalt thou bear it upon thy shoulders, and cary it forth in the dark: thou shalt cover thy face that thou see not the earth: for I have set thee as a^b sign unto the house of Israel.

7 And as I was commanded, so I brought forth my stuffe by day, as the stuffe of one that goeth into captivitie: and by night I digged through the wall with mine hand, and brought it forth in the darke, and I bare it upon my shoulder in their sight.

8 And in the morning came the word of the Lord unto me, saying,

9 Sonne of man, hath not the house of Israel, the rebellious house, said unto thee, What^c dost thou?

10 But say thou unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, This [†]burden concerneth the chief in Jerusalem, and all the house of Israel that are among them.

11 Say, I am your sign: like as I have done, so shall it be done unto them: they shall go into bondage and captivity.

12 And the chiefeft that is among them, shall bear upon his shoulder in the darke, and shall go forth: they shall dig through the wall, to cary out thereby: he shall cover his face, that he see not the ground with his eyes.

^f It seemeth that this Noble man died of some terrible death, and therefore the Prophet feared some strange judgement of God toward the rest of the people.

17 ¶ Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

18 Sonne of man, eat thy bread with trembling, and drinke thy water with trouble, and with carefulnesse, 19 And say unto the people of the Land, Thus saith the Lord God of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and of the land of Israel, They shall eat their bread with carefulnesse, and drinke their water with desolation: for the land shall be desolate from her abundance because of the cruelty of them that dwell therein.

20 And the Cities that are inhabited, shall be left void, and the land shall be desolate, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

21 ¶ And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

22 Sonne of man, what is that proverb that you have in the land of Israel, saying, The dayes ^f are prolonged, and all visions ^g fail?

^f Because they did not immediately see the propheties accomplished, they contemned them as though they should never

^g Or take none effect.

23 Tell them therefore, Thus saith the Lord God, I will make this proverb to cease, and they shall no more use it as a Proverbe in Israel: but say unto them, the dayes are at hand, and the effect of every Vision.

23 Forno Vision shall be any more in vaine, neither shall there be any flattering divination within the house of Israel.

24 For I am the Lord: I will speake, and that thing that I shall speake, shall come to passe: it shall be no more prolonged: for in your dayes, O rebellious house, will I say the things, and will perform it, saith the Lord God.

26 Again, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

27 Sonne of man, behold, they of the house of Israel say, The vision that he seeth, is for ^h many dayes to come, and he prophesieth of the times that are far off.

^g That is, it shall not come to passe in our dayes, and therefore we care not for it: thus the wicked ever abuse Gods patience and benignity.

² The word of the Lord against false Prophets, which teach the people the counsels of their owne hearts.

3 Thus saith the Lord God, Woe unto the foolish Prophets that follow their own spirit, and have seen nothing.

4 O Israel, thy Prophets are like the foxes ^b in the waste places.

yard.

5 ^c Ye have not risen up in the gaps, neither made up the hedge for the house of Israel, to stand in the battell in the day of the Lord.

^c He speaketh to the governors and true ministers that should have refuted them.

6 They have seene vanitie, and lying divination, saying, the Lord saith it, and the Lord hath not sent them: and they have made ^d others to hope that they would confirm the word of ^e their prophesie.

7 Have ye not seene a vaine Vision? and have ye not spoken a lying divination? ^d ye say, The Lord saith it, albeit I have not spoken.

peace to this people, and now ye see their destruction, so that it is

are false Prophets.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ye have spoken vanity, and have seene lies, therefore behold, I am against you, saith the Lord God.

9 And mine hand shall be upon the Prophets that see vanity, and divine lies: they shall not be in the assembly of my people, neither shall they be written in the ^e writing of the house of Israel, neither shall they enter into the land of Israel: and ye shall know that I am the Lord God.

11 Say unto them which daub it with untempered mortar, that it shall fall: for there shall come a great showre, and I will send hail-stones, which shall cause it to fall, and a stormy wind shall break it.

^g Whereas the true Prophets prophesied the destruction of the citie to bring the people to repentance, the false prophets spake the contrary, and flattered them in their vanities, so that what one said, (which is here called the building of the wall) another false Prophet would affirme though hee had neither occasion nor good ground to beare him.

12 Loe, when the wall is false, shall it not be said unto you, Where is the daubing wherewith ye have daubed it?

13 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I will cause a stormy wind to break forth in my wrath, and a great showre shall be in mine anger, and haile-stones in mine indignation to consume it.

14 So I will destroy the wall that ye have daubed with untempered mortar, and bring it downe to the ground, so that the foundation thereof shall be discovered, and it shall fall, and ye shall be consumed in the mids thereof, and ye shall know, that I am the Lord.

15 Thus will I accomplish my wrath upon upon the wall, and upon them that have daubed it with ^h untempered mortar, and will say unto you, The wall is no more, neither the daubers thereof, 16 To wit, the Prophets of Israel, which prophesie upon Jerusalem, and see visions of peace for it, and there is no peace, saith the Lord God.

17 Likewise thou sonne of man, set thy face against the daughters of thy people, which prophesie out of their owne heart: and prophesie thou against them, and say,

18 Thus saith the Lord God, Woe unto the women that sow ⁱ pillowes under all arme-holes, and make vailes upon the head of every one that standeth up to hunt soules: will ye hunt the soules of my people, and will ye give life to the soules that come unto you?

19 And will ye pollute me among my people, for handfuls of ^k barley, and for pieces of bread to slay the soules of them that should not die, and ^l to give life to the soules that should not live, in lying to my people, that hear your lies?

20 Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will have to doe with your pillowes, wherewith ye hunt the ^m soules to make them to flie, and I will tear them from your armes, and will let the soules goe, ⁿ even the soules, that ye hunt to make them to flie.

21 Your vailes also will I teare, and deliver my people out of your hand, and they shall be no more in your hands to be hunted, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

22 Because with your lyes yee have made the heart of the ^o righteous sad, whom I have not made sad, and strengthened the hands of the wicked, that he should not returne from his wicked way, by promising him life.

23 Therefore ye shall see no more vanity, nor divine divinations: for I will deliver my people out of your hand, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XIV.

4 The Lord sendeth false Prophets for the ingratitude of the people. 22 Hee reserveth a small portion for his Church.

Then came certaine of the Elders of Israel unto me, and sate before me.

2 And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

3 Sonne of man, these men have set up their Idols in their ^p heart, and put the stumbling blocke of their iniquity before their face: should I, being required, answer them?

4 Therefore speake unto them, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Every man of the house of Israel that setteth up his Idols in his heart, and putteth the stumbling blocke of his iniquity before his face, and commeth to the ^c Prophet, I the Lord will answer him that commeth, according to the multitude ^d of his idols.

5 That ^e I may take the house of Israel in their own heart, because they are all departed from mee through their Idols.

6 Therefore say unto the house of Israel, thus saith the Lord God, Returne, and withdraw your selves, and turn your faces from your Idols, and turne your faces from all your abominations.

7 For every one of the house of Israel, or of the stranger that sojourneth in Israel, which departeth from me, and setteth up his Idols in his heart, and putteth the stumbling blocke of his iniquity before his face, and commeth to a Prophet, for to inquire of him for me, I the Lord will answer him ^f for my self.

8 And I will set my face against that man, and will make him an example and proverbe, and I will cut him off from the mids of my people, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

9 And if the Prophet be ^g deceived, when he hath spoken a thing, I the Lord have deceived that Prophet, and I will stretch out mine hand upon him, and will destroy him from the mids of my people of Israel.

10 And they shall beare their punishment: the punishment of the Prophet shall be even as the punishment of him that asketh:

11 That the house of Israel ^h may goe no more astray from me, neither be polluted any more with all their transgressions, but that they may be my people, and I may be their God, saith the Lord God.

12 ¶ The word of the Lord came again unto me, saying,

13 Sonne of man, when the land sinneth against me by committing a trespass, then will I stretch out mine hand upon it, and will breake the staffe of the bread thereof, and will send famine upon it: and I will destroy man and beast for that it.

14 Though these three men, ⁱ Noah, Daniel, and Job were among them, they should deliver ^j but their owne soules by their ^k righteousness, saith the Lord God.

As the unprofitable wood of the vine tree is cast into the fire, so Jerusalem shall be burnt.

And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

1 Sonne of man what commeth of the vine tree above all other trees? and of the vine branch which is among the trees of the forrest?

2 Shall wood be taken thereof to do any worke? or will men take a pin of it to hang any vessell thereon?

3 Behold, it is cast in the fire to be consumed: the fire consumeth both the ends of it, and the midst of it is burnt. Is it meet for any worke?

4 Behold, when it was whole, it was meet for no worke: how much lesse shall it be meet for any worke, when the fire hath consumed it, and it is burnt?

6 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, As the vine tree, that is among the trees of the forrest, which I have given to the fire to be consumed, so will I give the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

7 And I will set my face against them: they shall go out from one fire, and another fire shall consume them: and ye shall know, that I am the Lord, when I set my face against them,

CHAP. XVI.

The Prophet declareth the benefits of God toward Jerusalem. 13 Their unkindnesse. 46 He justifieth the wickednesse of another people in comparison of the sins of Jerusalem. 49 The cause of the abominations into the which the Sodomites fell. 60 Mercy is promised to the repentant.

A Gaine, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, cause Jerusalem to know her abominations;

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord God unto Jerusalem, Thine habitation and thy kindred is of the land of Canaan: thy father was an Amorite, and thy mother an Hittite.

4 And in thy nativity when thou wast borne, thy navill was not cut: thou wast not washed in water to soften thee: thou wast not salted with salt, nor swaddled in clouts.

5 None eye pittied thee to do any of these unto thee, for to have compassion upon thee, but thou wast cast out in the open field to the contempt of thy person in the day that thou wast born.

6 And when I passed by thee, I saw thee polluted in thine own blood; and I said unto thee, when thou wast in thy blood, Thou shalt live: even when thou wast in thy blood, I said unto thee, Thou shalt live.

7 I have caused thee to multiply as the bud of the field, and thou hast increased and waxed great, and thou hast gotten excellent ornaments: thy breasts are fashioned, thine hair is grown, whereas thou wast naked and bare.

8 Now when I passed by thee, and looked upon thee, behold, thy time was as the time of love, and I spread my skirts over thee, and covered thy filthinesse: yea, I ware unto thee, and entred into a covenant with thee, saith the Lord God, and thou becamest mine.

9 Then washed I thee with water: yea, I washed away thy blood from thee, and I anointed thee with oyl.

10 I clo-

^a Thou boastest to be of the seed of Abraham, but thou art degenerate and followest the abominations of the wicked Canaanites, as children do the manners of their fathers, Isa. 1. 4. and 57. 3.
^b When I first brought thee out of Egypt, and planted thee in this land to be my Church.

^c Being thus in thy filthinesse, and forsaken of all men, I took thee; and gave thee life: whereby is meant, that before God with his Church, and give life, there is nothing but filthinesse and death.
^d These words as blood, pollution, nakednesse, and filthinesse, are oftentimes repeated, to bear downe their pride, and to cause them to consider what they were before God received them to mercy, favoured them, and covered their shame.
^e That thou shouldst be a chaste wife unto me, and that I should maintaine thee, and endue thee with all graces.
^f I washed away thy sins.
^g I sanctified thee with mine holy spirit.

* Chap. 5. 17.

1 Read Chap. 5. 3.

^a Which bringeth forth no fruit, no more then the other trees of the forrest doe: meaning, that if Jerusalem, which bare the name of his Church, did not bring forth fruit, it should be utterly destroyed.

10 I clothed thee also with brodered work, and shod thee with badgers skin: and I girded thee about with fine linnen, and I covered thee with silk.

11 I decked thee also with ornaments, and I put bracelets upon thine hands, and a chain on thy neck.

12 And I put a frontlet upon thy face, and eareings in thine eares, and a beaurifull crown upon thine head.

13 Thus wast thou deckt with gold and silver, and thy rayment was of fine linnen, and silke, and brodered work: thou didst eat fine flower, and honey, and oyl, and thou wast very beautifull, and thou didst grow up into a kingdom.

14 And thy Name was spread among the heathen for thy beauty: for it was perfect through my beauty which I had set upon thee, saith the Lord God.

15 Now thou didst trust in thine own beauty, and playedst the harlot, because of thy renowne, and hast powred out thy fornications on every one that passed by, thy desire was to him.

16 And thou didst take thy garments, and deckedst thine high places with divers colours, and playedst the harlot thereupon: the like things shall not come, neither hath any done so.

17 Thou hast also taken thy faire jewels made of my gold and of my silver, which I had given thee, and madest to thy selfe images of men, and didst commit whoredom with them,

18 And tookest thy brodered garments, and coveredst them: and thou hast set mine oyl and my perfume before them.

19 My meat also which I gave thee, as fine floure, oyl, and honey, wherewith I fed thee, thou hast even set it before them for a sweetsavour: thus it was, saith the Lord God.

20 Moreover, thou hast taken thy sons and thy daughters, whom thou hast borne unto me, and these hast thou sacrificed unto them, to bee devoured: is this thy whoredom a small matter?

21 That thou hast slaine my children, and delivered them to cause them to passe thorow fire for them.

22 And in all thine abominations and whoredoms thou hast not remembered the dayes of thy youth, when thou wast naked and bare, and wast polluted in thy bloud.

23 And beside all thy wickednesse (woe, woe unto thee, saith the Lord God.)

24 Thou hast also built unto thee an high place, and hast made thee an high place in every street.

25 Thou hast built thine high place at every corner of the way, and hast made thy beauty to bee abhorred: thou hast opened thy feet to every one that passed by, and multiplyed thy whordom.

26 Thou hast also committed fornication with the Egyptians thy neighbours, which have great members, and hast increased thy whoredom, to provoke me.

27 Behold, therefore I did stretch out mine hand over thee, and will diminish thine ordinary, and deliver thee unto the will of them that hate thee, even to the daughters of the Philistims, which are ashamed of thy wicked way.

28 Thou hast played the whore also with the Assyrians, because thou wast insatiable: yea, thou hast played the harlot with them, and yet couldst not be satisfied.

29 Thou hast moreover multiplied thy fornication from the land of Canaan unto Caldea, and yet thou wast not satisfied herewith.

30 How weak is thine heart, saith the Lord God, seeing thou dost all these things, even the work of a presumptuous whorish woman?

31 In that thou buildest thine high place in the corner of every way, and makest thine high place in every street, and hast not been as an harlot, that hath despised a reward,

32 But as a wife that playeth the harlot, and taketh others for her husband:

33 They give gifts to all other whores, but thou givest gifts unto all thy lovers, and rewardest them that they may come unto thee on every side for thy fornication.

34 And the contrary is in thee from other women in thy fornications, neither the like fornication shall be after thee: for in that thou givest a reward, and no reward is given unto thee, therefore thou art contrary.

35 Wherefore, O harlot, heare the word of the Lord.

36 Thus saith the Lord God, Because thy shame was powred out, and thy filthinesse discovered through thy fornications with thy lovers, and with all the idols of thine abominations, and by the bloud of thy children, which thou didst offer unto them,

37 Behold, therefore I will gather all thy lovers, with whom thou hast taken pleasure, and all them that thou hast loved, with all them that thou hast hated: I will even gather them round about against thee, and will discover thy filthinesse unto them, that they may see all thy filthinesse.

38 And I will judge thee after the manner of them that are harlots, and of them that shed bloud, and I will give thee the bloud of wrath and jealousy.

39 I will also give thee into their hands, p Hee noteth the great impiety of this people, who first falling from God to seeke help at strange nations, did also at length embrace their idolatry, thinking thereby to make their amity more strong.

† Or, that will bear rule.

q Meaning, that some harlots contented with small rewards, but no lovers gave a reward to their wives: but they gave to all others: signifying, that the idolaters bestow all their substance, which they receive of God for his glory, to serve their vile abominations.

h Hereby hee sheweth how hee loved his Church, enriched it, and gave it power and dominion to reign

i Hee declareth wherein the dignity of Jerusalem stood: to wit, in that, that the Lord gave them of his beauty and excellency. k In abusing my gifts, and in putting thy confidence in thine own wisdom and dignity, which were the occasion of thine idolatry. l There was none idolatry so vile wherewith thou didst not pollute thy selfe.

m This declareth, how the idolaters put their chief delight in those things, which please the eyes and upward senses. n Thou hast converted my vessels and instruments which I gave thee to serve me with, to the use of thine idol.

o Meaning, by fire, read Levit. 18. 21. 1 King. 23. 10: that thou didst offer them to the use of thine idol.

† Or, head.

hands, and they shall destroy thine high place, and shall breake downe thine high places: they shall strip thee also out of thy clothes, and shall take thy faire jewels, and leave thee naked and bare.

40 They shall also bring up a Company against thee, and they shall stone thee with stones, and thrust thee thorow with their swords.

* 2 Kings 23. 9.

41 And they * shall burne up thine houses with fire, and execute judgements upon thee in the sight of many women: and I will cause thee to cease from playing the harlot, and thou shalt give no reward any more.

r I will utterly destroy thee, and so my jealousie shall cease.

42 So will I make my wrath toward thee to rest, and my * jealousie shall depart from thee, and I will cease, and be no more angry.

e I have punished thy faults, but thou wouldst not repent.

43 Because thou hast not remembered the daies of thy youth, but hast provoked me with all these things, behold, therefore I also have * brought thy way upon thine head, saith the Lord God: yet hast not thou had consideration of all thine abominations.

x As were the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and others your predecessors, so are you their successors.

44 Behold, all that use proverbs, shall use this proverb against thee, saying, As is the mother, * so is her daughter.

y That is, of Samaria and Sodom.

45 Thou art my mothers daughter, that hath cast off her husband and her children, and thou art the sister of thy * sisters, which forsooke their husbands and their children: your mother is an Hittite, and your father an Amorite.

z That is, her Cities.

46 And thine elder sister is Samaria, and her * daughters that dwell at thy left hand, and † thy younger sister that dwelleth at thy right hand, is Sodom and her daughters.

* Ebr. thy sister, younger than thou.

47 Yet hast thou * not walked after their wayes, nor done after their abominations: but as it had bene a very little thing, thou wast corrupted more then they in all thy wayes.

b Hee alledgeth these foure vices, pride, excess, idleness, and contempt of the poor, as four principall causes of such abomination, wherefore they were so horribly punished, Gen. 19. 24.

48 As I live, saith the Lord God, Sodom thy sister hath not done, neither she, nor her daughters, as thou hast done, and thy daughters.

49 Behold, this was the iniquity of thy sister Sodom, * Pride, fulnesse of bread, and abundance of idlenesse was in her, and in her daughters: neither did she strengthen the hand of the poore and needy.

c Which worshipped the calves in Bethel and Dan. d Thou art so wicked, that in respect of thee, Sodom and Samaria were just.

50 But they were haughty, and committed abomination before me: therefore I took them away as pleased me.

51 Neither hath Samaria committed half of thy sins, but thou hast exceeded them in thine abominations, and hast justified thy sisters in all thine abominations, which thou hast done.

52 Therefore thou which hast justified thy sisters, bear thine own shame for thy sins, that thou hast committed more abominable then they which are more righteous then thou art: be thou therefore confounded also, and bear thy shame, seeing that thou hast justified thy sisters.

e This he speaketh in compassion, saying, that he would restore Jerusalem, when Sodom should be restored, that is, never: and this is meant of the greatest part of the Jews.

53 Therefore I will bring again * their captivity, with the captivity of Sodom, and her daughters, and with the captivity of Samaria, and her daughters, even the captivity of thy Captives in the midst of them.

54 That thou mayest bear thine owne shame, and mayst be confounded in all that thou hast done, in that thou hast * comforted them.

f In that thou hast shewed thy selfe worse then they, and yet thoughtst to escape punishment.

55 And thy sister, Sodom and her daughters, shall returne to their former state: Samaria also and her daughters shall returne to their former state, * when thou and thy daughters shall returne to your former state.

g Meaning, that it should never come to passe.

56 For thy sister Sodom † was not heard of by thy report in the day of thy pride, † Ebr. was not a rumour in thy mouth. h Thou wouldst not call her punishment to minde when thou wast aloft, to learne by her example to feare my judgements.

57 Before thy wickednesse was discovered, as in that same time of the reproch of the daughters of Aram, and of all the daughters of the Philistims round about her, which despise thee on all sides.

i That is, till thou wast brought under by the Syrians and Philistims, 2 Chron. 28. 19. k Which joyned with the Syrians, or compassed about Jerusalem.

58 Thou hast borne therefore thy wickednesse, and thine abominations, saith the Lord.

59 For thus saith the Lord God, I might even deale with thee, as thou hast done: when thou didst despise the oath, in breaking the covenant.

l When thou brake the Covenant, which was made betweene thee and me, as verse 8. m That is, of mercy and love I will pittie thee, and be hand to my Covenant, though thou hast deserved the contrary.

60 Nevertheless, I will remember my Covenant made with thee in the dayes of thy youth, and I will confirme unto thee an everlasting Covenant.

n Whereby hee sheweth, that among the most wicked he had ever some seed of his Church, which he would cause to fructifie in due times: and here he declareth how he will call the Gentiles. o But of my free mercy, as verse 9. p This declareth what fruits Gods mercies worke in his, to wit, sorrow and repentance for their former life.

61 Then thou shalt remember thy wayes, and be ashamed, when thou shalt receive thy sisters, both thy elder and thy younger, and I will give them unto thee for daughters, but not by thy Covenant.

62 And I will establish my Covenant with thee, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

63 That thou mayst remember, and be ashamed, and never open thy mouth any more: because of thy shame when I am pacified toward thee, for all that thou hast done, saith the Lord God.

CHAPTER XVII.

The Parable of the two Eagles.

And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, pur forth a Parable, and speake a proverbe unto the house of Israel.

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord God,

The

The great ^a eagle with great wings, and long wings, and full of feathers which had divers colours, came unto Lebanon, and took the highest branch of the cedar,

4 And brake off the top of his twig, and carried it into the land of ^b merchants, and set it in a City of merchants.

5 He tooke also of the ^c seed of the land, and planted it in a fruitfull ground: he placed it by great waters, and set it as a willow tree.

6 And it budded up, and was ^d like a spreading Vine of ^e low stature, whose branches turned toward it, and the roots whereof were under it, so it became a Vine, and it brought forth branches, and shot forth buds.

7 There was also ^f another great Eagle with great wings and many feathers, and behold, this Vine did turne her rootes toward it, and spread forth her branches toward it, that shee might water it by the trenches of her plantation.

8 It was planted in a good soile by great ^g waters, that it should bring forth branches, and beare fruit, and be an excellent Vine.

9 Say thou, Thus saith the Lord God, Shall it prosper? shall ^h he not pull up the roots thereof, and destroy the fruit thereof, and cause them to drie? all the leaves of her bud shall wither without great power, or many people to pluck it up by the roots thereof.

10 Behold it was planted: but shall it prosper? shall it not be dried up and wither? ⁱ when the East winde shall touch it, it shall wither in the trenches, where it grew.

11 Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

12 Say now to this rebellious house, Know yee not what these things ^j meane? tell them, Behold, the King of Babel is come to Jerusalem, and hath taken ^k the King thereof, and the princes thereof, and led them with him to Babel, 13 And hath taken ^l one of the Kings seed, and made a covenant with him, and hath taken ^m an oath of him: he hath also taken the princes of the land.

14 That the kingdome might bee in subjection, and not lift itself up, ⁿ but keep their covenant and stand to it.

15 But he rebelled against him, and sent his Ambassadors into Egypt, that they might give him horses, and much people: shall he prosper? shall he escape, that doth such things? or shall he breake the covenant, and be delivered?

16 As I live, saith the Lord God, he shall die in the mids of Babel: in the place of the King, that had made him King; whose oath he despised, and whose covenant ^o made with him, he brake.

17 Neither shall Pharaoh with ^p his mighty hoste, and great multitude of people, maintaine him in the Warre, when they have cast up Mounts, and builded ramparts to destroy many persons.

18 For he hath despised the oath, and broken the Covenant (yet loe, hee had given ^q his hand) because he hath done all these things, he shall not escape.

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, As I live, I will surely bring mine Oath that he hath despised, and my Covenant that he hath broken, upon his own head.

20 ^r And I will spread my net upon him, and he shall be taken in my net, and I will bring him to Babel, and will enter into judgement with him there for his trespasses that he hath committed against me.

21 And all that flee from him with all his hoste, shall fall by the sword, and they that remaine, shall be scattered toward all the windes, and yee shall know that I the Lord have spoken it.

22 Thus saith the Lord God, I will also take off the top ^s of this high cedar, and will set it, and cut off the ^t top of the tender plants thereof, and I will plant it upon an high mountain and great.

23 ^u Even in the high mountaine of Israel will I plant it: and it shall bring forth boughes and beare fruit, and be an excellent cedar, and under it shall remain all birds, and every ^v fowle shall dwell in the shadow of the branches thereof.

24 And all the ^w trees of the field shall know that I the L O R D have brought down the high tree, and exalted the low tree: that I have dried up the greene tree, and made the drie tree to flourish: I the L O R D have spoken it, and have done it.

CHAP. XVIII.

2 Hee sheweth that every man shall beare his owne sinne.

21 To him that amendeth is salvation promised. 24 Death is prophesied to the righteous, which turneth backe from the right way.

THE word of the Lord came unto me again, saying,

2 What meane yee that yee speake this Proverb, concerning the Land of Israel, saying, ^a The fathers have eaten sowre grapes, and the childrens teeth are set on edge?

3 As I live, saith the Lord God, ye shall use this proverb no more in Israel.

4 Behold, all soules are mine, both the soule of the father, and also the soule of m Because hee tooke the Name of God in vaine, and brake his oath which he had confirmed by giving his hand, therefore the Prophet declareth that God would not suffer such perjurie and infidelity to escape punishment. * Chap. 12. 13. and 32. 2.

n This promise is made to the Church, which shall be as a small remnant, and as the top of a tree. o I will trim it, and dresse it.

p Both the Jewes and Gentiles shall be gathered into it. q All the world shall know that I have plucked down the proud enemies, and set up my Church which was low and contemned.

a The people murmured at the chastisings of the Lord, and therefore used this proverb, meaning that their fathers had sinned, and their children were punished for their transgressions. Read Jer. 31. 29.

a That is, Nebuchadnezzar, who had great power, riches, and many Countries under him, shall come to Jerusalem, and take away Jechoniah the king, as verse 12.

13 Or hath given forth upon usury, or hath taken increase, shall he live? he shall not live: seeing he hath done all these abominations, ^c he shall die the death, and his blood shall be upon him.

^c Hee sheweth how the sonne is punished for his fathers fault: that is, if he bee wicked as his father was, and doth not repent, he shall be punished as his father was, or else not.

14 ¶ But if he beget a sonne, that seeth all his fathers finnes, which hee hath done, and feareth, neither doth such like,

^d He joyneth the observation of the commandments with repentance: for none can repent in deed, except he labour to keepe the Law.

^e That is in the fruits of his faith, which declare that God doth accept him.

23 ^f Have I any desire that the wicked should die, saith the Lord God? ‡ or shall he not live, if he returne from his wayes?

^f He speaketh this to commend Gods mercy to poore sinners, who rather is ready to pardon, then to punish, as his long suffering declar-eth, Chap. 33. 11.

Albeit God in his eternall counsell appointed the death and damna- tion of the reprobate, yet the end of his counsell was not their death onely, but chiefly his owne glory.

And also because hee doth not approve sin, therefore it is here said, that hee would have them to turn away from it, that they might live.

* Or, rather that he may returne from his wayes and live.

^g That is the false opinion that the hypocrites have of their righteousness.

^h In punishing the father with the children.

25 Yet ye say, the way of the Lord is not ^h equall: heare now, O house of Israel, Is not my way equall? or are not your wayes unequal?

26 For when a righteous man turneth away from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, he shall even die for the same, he shall even die for his iniquity that he hath done.

27 Again, when the wicked turneth away from his wickednesse that he hath committed, and doth that which is lawfull and right, he shall save his soule alive.

28 Because he considereth, and turneth away from all his transgressions that he hath committed, he shall surely live and shall not die.

29 Yet saith the house of Israel, The way of the Lord is not equall, O house of Israel, are not my wayes equall? or are not your wayes unequal?

30 Therefore I will judge you, O house of Israel, every one according to his wayes, saith the Lord God: returne therefore, and cause others to turne away from from all your transgressions: so iniquitie shall not be your destruction.

31 Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye have transgressed, and makeⁱ you a new heart, and a new spirit; for why will ye die, O house of Israel?

THou also, take up a lamentation for the^a princes of Israel,

2 And say, wherefore lay thy^b mother as a Lionesse among the Lions? she nourished her yong ones among the Lions whelps,

3 And she brought up one of her whelps, and it became a Lion, and it learned to catch the prey, and it devoured men.

4 The^c nations also heard of him, and he was taken in their nets, and they brought him in chains unto the land of Egypt.

5 Now when she saw, that shee had waited, and her hope was lost, shee tooke another of her^d whelps, and made him a Lion.

6 Which went among the Lions, and became a Lion, and learned to catch the prey, and he devoured^e men.

7 And he knew their widowes, and he destroyed their cities, and the land was wasted, and all that was therein, by the noise of his roaring.

8 Then the^f nation set against him on every side of the countreys, and laid their nets for him: so hee was taken in their pit.

9 And they put him in prison, and in chaines, and brought him to the king of Babel, and they put him in holds, that his voice should no more be heard upon the mountaines of Israel.

10 Thy^g mother is like a vine in thy blood, planted by the waters: she brought forth fruit and branches by the abundant waters,

11 And shee had strong rods for the scepters of them that beare rule, and her stature was exalted among the branches, and shee appeared in her height with the multitude of her branches.

12 But shee was plucked up in wrath: shee was cast downe to the ground, and the^h East winde dried up her fruit: her branches were broken, and withered, as for the rodde of her strength, the fire consumed it.

13 And now shee is planted in the wilderness in a drie and thirstie ground.

14 And fire is gone outⁱ of a rodde of her branches, which hath devoured her fruit, so that shee hath no strong rod to be a scepter to rule: this is a lamentation, and shall be for a lamentation.

4 Wilt thou judge them? Sonne of man? wilt thou judge them? cause^b them to understand the abominations of their fathers,

5 And say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, In the day when I chose Israel, and^c lift up mine hand unto the seed of the house of Jaakob, and made my selfe knowne unto them in the land of Egypt, when I lift up mine hand unto them, and said, I am the Lord your God,

6 In the day that I lift up mine hand unto them, to bring them forth of the land of Egypt, into a land that I had provided for them, flowing with milke and honie, which is pleasant among all lands,

7 Then said I unto them, Let every man cast away the abominations of his eyes, and defile not your selves with the idoles of Egypt: for I am the Lord your God.

8 But they rebelled against me, and would not heare mee: for none cast away the abominations of^e their eyes, neither did they forsake the idoles of Egypt: then I thought to powre out mine indignation upon them, and to accomplish my wrath against them in the midst of the land of Egypt.

9 But I had respect to my^f Name, that it should not be polluted before the heathen among whom they were, and in whose sight I made my selfe knowe unto them, in bringing them forth of the land of Egypt.

F f to Now

ⁱ He sheweth that man cannot forsake his wickednesse till his heart be changed, which is only the worke of God.

^a That is, Jehoahaz and Jehoahazim, Iosias sons, who, for their pride and cruelty, are compared unto Lions.

^c By Pharaoh Necho king of Egypt, a King. 23. 33.

^d Which was Jehoahazim.

^e He slew of the Prophets, and then that feared God, and ravished their wives.

^f Nebuchad-nezzar with his great army which was gathered of divers nations.

^g He speaketh this in reproch of this wicked king, in whose blood, that is in the race of his predecessors, Ierusalem should have beene blessed according to Gods promise, and flourish as a fruitful vine.

ⁱ Destruction is come by Zedekiah, who was the occasion of this rebellion.

^b This declareth the great lenitie and patience of God, which calleth sinners to repentance before hee condemne them. ^c I sware that I would bee their God, which manner of oath was observed from all antiquitie, where they used to lift up their hands toward the heaven, acknowledging God to be the author of truth, and the defender thereof, and also the judge of the heart, wishing that hee should take vengeance, if they concealed any thing which they knew to be truth.

^d God hath forbidden them to make mention of the idoles, Exod. 23. 13. Psal. 16. 4.

^e Which thing declareth the wickednesse of mans heart, which judge Gods service by their eyes and outward fences. ^f God had ever this respect to his glory, that hee would not have his Name evil spoken of among the Gentiles for the punishment that his people deserved, in confidence whereof the godly ever prayed, as Exod. 32. 13. Numb. 14. 13.

10 Now I caried them out of the land of Egypt, and brought them into the wilderness.

11 And I gave them my statutes, and declared my judgements unto them, * which if a man doe, hee shall live in them.

12 Moreover, I gave them also my * Sabbaths to be a signe between me and them, that they might know that I am the Lord, that sanctifie them.

13 But the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wilderness: they walked not in my statutes, and they cast away my judgements, which if a man doe, he shall live in them, and my Sabbaths have they greatly polluted: then I thought to powre out mine indignation upon them * in the wilderness to consume them.

14 But I had respect to my Name, that it should not be polluted before the * heathen, in whose sight I brought them out.

15 Yet neverthelesse, I lift up mine hand unto them in the wilderness that I would not bring them into the land, which I had given them, flowing with milke and honie, which was pleasant above all lands.

16 Because they cast away my judgements, and walked not in my statutes, but have polluted my * Sabbaths: for their heart went after their idoles:

17 Nevertheles, mine eye spared them, that I would not destroy them, neither would I consume them in the wilderness.

18 But I said unto their children in the wilderness, walke ye not in the ordinances of your * fathers, neither observe their manners, nor defile your selves with their idoles.

19 I am the Lord your God: walke in my statutes, and keepe my judgements and doe them, 20 And sanctifie my Sabbaths, and they shall bee a signe between me and you, that yee may know that I am the Lord your God.

21 Notwithstanding, the children rebelled against me: they walked not in my statutes, nor kept my judgements to doe them, which if a man doe, hee shall live in them, but they polluted my Sabbaths: then I thought to powre out mine indignation upon them, and to accomplish my wrath against them in the wilderness.

22 Neverthelesse, I withdrew mine hand, and had respect to my Name, that it should not be polluted before the heathen, in whose sight I brought them forth.

23 Yet I lift up mine hand unto them in the wilderness, that I would scatter them among the heathen, and disperse them through the countries, 24 Because they had not executed my judgements, but had cast away my statutes, and had polluted my Sabbaths, and their eies were after * their fathers idoles.

25 Wherefore I¹ gave them also statutes that were not good, and judgements, wherein they should not live,

26 And I polluted them in their owne * gifts, in that they caused to passe by the fire all that first openeth the wombe, that I might destroy them, to the end, that they might know that I am the Lord.

27 Therefore, Sonne of man, speake unto the house of Israel, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Yet in this your fathers have blasphemed mee, though they had before grievously transgressed against me.

28 ^a For when I had brought them into the land, for the which I lifted up mine hand to give it to them, then they saw every high hill, and all the thicke trees, and they offered there their sacrifices, and there they presented their offering of provocation: there also they made their sweet savour, and powred out there their drinke-offrings.

29 Then I said unto them, What is the high place whereunto yee goe? And the name thereof was called * Bamah, unto this day.

30 Wherefore say unto the house of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God, Are yee not polluted † after the manner of your fathers? and commit yee not whoredome after their abominations?

31 For when you offer your gifts, and make your sons to passe thorow the fire, you pollute your selves with all your idoles unto this day: shall I answer you when I am asked, O house of Israel? As I live saith the Lord God, I will not answer you when I am asked.

32 Neither shall that bee done that commeth into your mind: for yee say, Wee will bee as the heathen, and as the families of the countries, and serve wood, and * stone.

33 As I live, saith the Lord God, I will surely rule you with a mighty hand, and with a stretched-out arm, and in my wrath powred out, 34 And will bring you from the people, and will gather you out of the countries wherein yee are scattered, with a mighty hand, and with a stretched-out arme, and in my wrath powred out.

35 And I will bring you into the wilderness of the people, and there will

g Who might thereby take an occasion to blaspheme my Name, and to accuse mee of lack of ability, or else that I had sought a means to destroy them more commodiously.

h That is, my true religion, which I had commanded them, and gave themselves to serve me according to their owne fantasies.

i Whereby the holy Ghost confureth them that say, that they will follow the religion & example of their fathers, and not measure their doings by Gods word, whether they be approveable thereby or no.

k Meaning, that they set their delight upon them. l Because they would not obey my Lawes, I gave them up to themselves, that they should obey their owne fantasies, as verse 39. Rom. 1. 21, 24.

m I condemned those things, and counted them as abominable which they thought had bin excellent, and to have bin excellent, and most zeale. Luke 15. 16. for that which God required as most excellent, that gave they to their idoles.

n Not onely in the wilderness when I brought the out of Egypt, but since I placed them in this land: which declareth how prompt mans heart is to idolatrie, seeing that by no admonition he can bee drawne backe.

o Which signifieth an high place, declaring that they wanted themselves of their idolatrie, and were not ashamed thereof, though God had commanded them expressly, that they should have no altar lifted up on his by fires, Exod. 20. 26, † Lev. 19. 12.

p He sheweth, that the ingratitude of the people disserveeth, that God should cut them off, and that they should not have the comfort of his word. q Hee declareth that man of nature is wholly enmied unto God, & to his owne salvation, and therefore God calleth him to the right way, partly by chastising, but chiefly by his mercy, in forgiving his rebellion and wickedness. r I will bring you amongst strange nations, as into a wilderness, and there will visit you, and so call you to repentance, and then bring the godly home againe, Isa. 65. 9.

will I plead with you face to face.

36 Like as I pleaded with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so will I plead with you, saith the Lord God.

37 And I will cause you to passe under the rod, and will bring you into the bond of the covenant.

38 And I will^f chuse out from among you the rebels, and them that transgresse against me: I will bring them out of the land where they dwell, and they shall not enter into the land of Israel, and you shall know that I am the Lord.

39 As for you, O house of Israel, thus saith the Lord God, ^g Goe you, and serve every one his idole, seeing that yee will not obey me, and pollute mine holy Name no more with your gifts and with your idoles.

40 For in mine holy mountaine, ^h even in the high mountaine of Israel, saith the Lord God, there shall all the house of Israel, and all in the land serve me: there will I accept them, and there will I require your offerings, and the first fruits of your oblations, with all your holy things.

41 I will accept your sweet savour, when I bring you from the people, and gather you out of the countries, wherein ye have been scattered, that I may be sanctified in you before the heathen.

42 And yee shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall bring you into the land of Israel, into the land, for the which I lifted up mine hand to give it to your fathers.

43 And there shall ye remember your waies, and all your workes, wherein yee have been defiled, and yeeⁱ shall judge your selves worthy to be cut off for all your evils, that yee have committed.

44 And yee shall know that I am the Lord, when I have respect unto you for my Names sake, and not after your wicked waies, nor according to your corrupt workes, O ye house of Israel, saith the Lord God.

45 ¶ Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

46 Sonne of man, set thy face toward the way of Teman, and drop ^j thy word toward^k the South, and prophesie toward the forest of the field of the South,

47 And say to the forest of the South, Hear the word of the Lord: thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will kindle a fire in thee, and it shall devour all the greene wood in thee, and all the dry wood: the continuall flame shall not be quenched, and every face from the South to the North shall be burnt therein.

48 And all flesh shall see that I the Lord have kindled it, and it shall not be quenched. Then said I, Ah Lord God, they say of mee, Doth not hee speake^l parables?

CHAP. XXI.

3 Hee threatneth the sword, and destruction to Jerusalem. 25 He sheweth the fall of King Zedekiah. 28 Hee is commanded to prophesie the destruction of the children of Ammon. 30 The Lord threatneth to destroy Nebuchadnezzar.

THE word of the Lord came to mee againe, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face toward Jerusalem,^a and drop ^b thy word toward the holy places, and prophesie against the land of Israel,

3 And say to the land of Israel, Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I come against thee, and will draw my sword out of his sheath, and cut off from thee both the^c righteous and the wicked.

4 Seeing then that I will cut off from thee both the righteous and wicked, therefore shall my sword goe out of his sheath against all flesh from the South to the^d North.

5 That all flesh may know that I the Lord have drawne my sword out of his sheath, and it shall not returne any more.

6 Mourn therefore, thou Sonne of man, ^e as in the paine of ^f thy^g reines, and mourn bitterly before them.

7 And if they say unto thee, Wherefore mournest thou? then answer, Because^h of the bruit: for it commeth, and every heart shall melt, and all hands shall be weake, and all mindes shall faint, and all knees shall fall away ⁱ as water: behold, it commeth, and shall be done, saith the Lord God.

8 ¶ Again, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

9 Sonne of man, prophesie and say, Thus saith the Lord God, say, A sword, a sword, both sharpe and fourbished.

10 It is sharpened to make a fore slaughter, and it is fourbished that it may^j glitter: how shall we reioice? for it contemneth the^k rod of my son, as^l all other trees.

11 And he hath given it to be fourbished, that he may handle it: this sword is sharpe, and is fourbished, that he may give it into the hand of the^m slayer

12 Cry, and howle, Sonne of man: for this shall come to my people, and it shall come unto all the princes of Israel: the terrours of the sword shall be upon my people: ⁿ smite therefore upon thy thigh.

13 For it is a triall,^o and what shall this be, if the sword contemne even the rod? It shall be no more, saith the Lord God.

14 Thou therefore, sonne of man, prophesie, and smite^p hand to hand, and let i Your own consciences shall convict you after that you have felt my mercies.

j For Judah stood South from Babylon.

k Both strong & weak in Jerusalem.

the sword be doubled; let the sword that hath killed, returne the third time: it is the sword of the great slaughter entring into their privie chambers.

15 I have brought the feare of the sword into all their gates to make their heart to faint, and to multiply their ruines. Ah, it is made bright, and it is dressed for the slaughter.

n Provide for thy selfe: for thou shalt see Gods plague of all parts on this country.

16 Get theeⁿ alone: goe to the right hand, or get thy selfe to the left hand, whithersoever thy face turneth.

17 I will also smite mine hands together, and will cause my wrath to cease. I the Lord have said it.

18 ¶ The word of the Lord came unto me againe, saying,

19 Also thou Sonne of man, appoint thee^o two wayes, that the sword of the King of Babel may come: both twaine shall come out of one land, and chuse a place, and chuse it in the corner of the way of the citie.

o This was spoken, because that when Nebuchadnezzar came against Judah, his purpose was also to goe against the Ammonites: but doubting in the way, which enterprise to undertake first, he consulted with his sooth sayers, and so went against Judah.

20 Appoint a way, that the sword may come to Rabbath of the Ammonites, and p to Judah in Ierusalem the strong citie.

p That is, to the Tribe of Judah that kept themselves in Ierusalem.

21 And the king of Babel stood at the parting of the way, at the head of the two waies, consulting by divination, and made his arrowes bright: hee consulted with idoles, and looked in the liver.

q To know whether he should goe against the Ammonites, or them of Ierusalem.

22 At his right hand was the divination for Ierusalem to appoint captaines, to open their mouth in the slaughter, and to lift up their voice with shouting, to lay engines of warre against the gates, to cast a mount, and to build a fortresse.

r He used conjuring and sorcerie.

23 And it shall bee unto them^f as a false divination in their sight, for the oathes made unto them: but hee will call to remembrance their iniquitie, to the intent they should be taken.

f Because there was a league betweene the Iewes and the Babylonians, they of Ierusalem shall thinke nothing lesse then that this thing should come to passe.

24 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ye have made your iniquitie to be remembered, in discovering your rebellion, that in all your works your sins might appeare: because I say, that yee are come to remembrance, ye shall be taken with the hand.

t That is, Nebuchadnezzar will remember the rebellion of Zedekiah, and so come upon them.

25 And thou^v prince of Israel polluted, and wicked, whose day is come, when iniquitie shall have an end.

v Meaning, Zedekiah, who practised with the Egyptians to make himselfe high, and able to resist the Babylonians.

26 Thus saith the Lord God, I will take away the^x diademe, and take off the crowne: this shall be no more the same: I will exalt the humble, and will abase him that is high.

x Some referre this to the priests attire: for Iehozadak the Priest went into captivity with the king.

27 I will overturne, overturne, overturne it, and it shall be no more untill he come, whose right it is, and I will give it him.

y That is, unto the coming of Messiah: for though the Iewes had some signe of government afterward under the Persians, Greeks, and Romans, yet their restitution was not till Christs coming, and at length should be accomplished, as was promised, Gen. 49. 10.

28 ¶ And thou Sonne of man, prophesie, and say, Thus saith the Lord God to the children of Ammon, and to their blasphemy: say thou, I say, The sword, the sword is drawne forth and fourbished to the slaughter, to consume, because of the glittering.

29 Whiles they see^z vanitie unto thee, and prophesie a lye unto thee to bring thee upon the neckes of the wicked that are flaine, whose day is come when their iniquitie shall have an end.

z Though the Iewes and Ammonites would not beleve that thou, to wit, the sword, shouldst come upon them, and said that the Prophets which threatened, spake lies, yet thou shalt as surely come, as though thou werest already upon their necks.

30 Shall I cause it to returne into his sheath? I will judge thee in the place where thou wast created, even in the land of thine habitation.

31 And I will powre out mine indignation upon thee, and will blow against thee in the fire of my wrath, and deliver thee into the hand of beastly men, and skilfull to destroy.

32 Thou shalt be in the fire to be devoured: thy blood shall be in the mids of the land, and thou shalt bee no more remembered: for I the Lord have spoken it.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Ierusalem is reproved for crueltie. 25 Of the wicked doctrine of the false prophets and priests, and of their unsatiable covetousnesse. 27 The tyranny of rulers. 29 The wickednesse of the people.

Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Now thou Sonne of man, wilt thou^a judge, wilt thou judge this bloudy citie? wilt thou shew her all her abominations?

a Art thou ready to execute, thy charge, which I commit unto thee against Ierusalem, that miseth the Prophets and them that are godly.

3 Then say, Thus saith the Lord God, The citie sheddeth blood in the middes of it, that her^b time may come, and maketh idoles^c against her selfe to pollute her selfe.

b That is, the time of her destruction.

c To her owne undoing.

4 Thou hast offended in thy blood, that thou hast shed, and hast polluted thy selfe in thine idoles, which thou hast made, and thou hast caused thy dayes to draw neere, and art come unto thy terme: therefore have I made thee a reproch to the heathen, and a mocking to all countries.

5 Those that be neere, and those that be far from thee, shall mocke thee, which art vile in^d name, and sore in affliction.

d Whose very name all men hate.

6 Behold, the princes of Israel every one in thee was ready to his power, to shed blood.

7 In thee have they despised father and mother: in the middes of thee^e have they oppressed the stranger: in thee have they vexed the fatherlesse and the widow.

e Hee meaneth hereby that there was no kinde of wickednes which was not committed in Ierusalem, and therefore the plagues of God should speedily come upon her.

8 Thou hast despised mine holy things, and hast polluted my Sabbaths.

9 In thee are men that carie tales to shed blood: in thee are they that eat upon the the mountaines : in the midst of thee they commit abomination.

* Levit. 20. 11. 13.

10 * In thee have they discovered their fathers shame : in thee have they vexed her that was polluted in her floures.

* Jer. 5. 8.

11 And every one * hath committed abomination with his neighbours wife, and every one hath wickedly defiled his daughter in law, and in thee hath every man forced his owne sister, even his fathers daughter.

12 In thee have they taken gifts to shed blood : thou hast taken usury and the increase, and thou hast defrauded thy neighbours by extortion, and hast forgotten me, saith the Lord God.

f In token of my wrath and vengeance.

13 Behold, therefore I have ^f smitten mine hands upon thy covetousnesse, that thou hast used, and upon the blood, which hath been in the midst of thee.

g That is, able to defend thy selfe.

14 Can thine heart endure, or can thine hands ^g be strong, in the dayes that I shall have to doe with thee ? I the Lord have spoken it, and will doe it.

h I will thus take away the occasion of thy wickednes.

15 And I will scatter thee among the heathen, and disperse thee in the countries, and will cause thy ^h filthinesse to cease from thee.

i Thou shalt be no more the inheritance of the Lord, but forsaken.

16 And thou shalt take thine ⁱ inheritance in thy selfe in the sight of the heathen, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

17 ¶ And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

k Which before was most precious.

18 Son of man, the house of Israel is unto me as ^k drosse: all they are brasse, and tin, and Iron, and lead in the midst of the furnace: they are even the drosse of silver.

19 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ye are all as drosse, behold, therefore I will gather you in the midst of Jerusalem.

20 As they gather silver and brasse, and Iron, and lead, and tin into the midst of the furnace, to blow the fire upon it to melt it, so will I gather you in mine anger and in my wrath, and I will put you there, and melt you.

l Meaning here, by, that the godly should bee tried, and the wicked destroyed.

21 I will gather you, I say, and blow the fire of my wrath upon you, and you shall be melted in the midst thereof.

22 As silver is melted in the midst of the furnace, so shall ye be melted in the midst thereof, and ye shall know that I the Lord have powred out my wrath upon you.

m Thou art like a barren land, which the Lord plague with drought. n The false prophets have conspired together to make their doctrine more probable.

23 And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

24 Son of man, say unto her, Thou art the Land that is uncleane, ⁿ and not rained upon in the day of wrath.

25 There is a conspiracy ⁿ of her prophets in the midst thereof, like a roaring lion, ravening the prey : they have devoured soules : they have taken the riches and precious things: they have made her many widows in the midst thereof.

26 Her priests have broken my Law, and have defiled mine holy things : they have put no difference between the holy and prophane, neither discerned between the uncleane and the cleane, and have hid their ^o eyes from my sabbath, and I am prophaned among them.

o They have neglected my service.

27 Her princes in ^{} the midst thereof ^{} are like wolves, ravening the prey, to shed blood, and to destroy soules for their own covetous lucre.

* Micah. 3. 11. * Zephani. 3. 3.

28 And her ^p prophets have dawbed them with untempered morter, seeing vanities, and divining lies unto them, saying, Thus saith the Lord God, when the Lord had not spoken.

p They which should have reproved them, flattered them in their vices, and covered their doings with lies, Chap. 13. 10.

29 The people of the land have violently oppressed by spoiling and robbing, and have vexed the poore and the needy : yea, they have oppressed the stranger against right.

30 And I sought for a man among them, that should ^q make up the hedge, and stand in the gap before me for the land, that I should not destroy it, but I found none.

q Which would shew himselfe zealous in my cause by resisting vice. Isa. 59. 16. and 63. 5. and also pray unto mee to withhold my plagues. Psal. 106. 23.

31 Therefore have I powred out mine indignation upon them, and consumed them with the fire of my wrath : their owne wayes have I rendred upon their heads, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXIII.

Of the idolatry of Samaria and Jerusalem, under the names of Aholah and Aholibah.

The word of the Lord came againe unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, there were two women, the daughters of one ^a mother.

a Meaning, Israel and Iudah, which came both out of one family.

3 And they committed fornication ^b in Egypt, they committed fornication in their youth : there were their breasts pressed, and there they bruised the teates of their virginity.

b They became idolaters after the manner of the Egyptians.

4 And the names of ^c them were Aholah the elder, and Aholibah her sister: and they were mine, and they bare sons and daughters : thus were their names : Samaria ^d Aholah, and Jerusalem Aholibah.

c Aholah, signifieth a mansion or dwelling in her selfe, meaning, Samaria, which was the royall city of Israel : and Aholibah signifieth my mansion in her, whereby is meant Jerusalem, where Gods Temple was.

5 And Aholah played the harlot ^e when she was mine, and she was set on fire with her lovers, ^e to wit, with the Assyrians ^e her neighbours, e For, under me, when the Israelites were named, the people of God, they became idolaters, and forsook God, and put their trust in the Assyrians.

6 Which were clothed with blue silke, ^f both captaines and princes: they were all pleasant young men, and horsemen riding upon horses.

7 Thus shee committed her whoredome with them, even with all them that were the chosen men of Asshur, and with all on whom she doted, and defiled her selfe with all their idols.

8 Neither left she her fornications, learned of the Egyptians: for in her youth they^e lay with her, and they bruised the breasts of her virginity, and powred their whoredome upon her.

9 Wherefore I delivered her into the hands of her lovers, even into the hands of the Assyrians, upon whom she doted.

10 These discovered her shame: they tooke away her sonnes and her daughters, and slew her with the sword, and shee had an evill name among women: for^f they had executed judgement upon her.

11 And when her sister Aholibah saw this, she marred her selfe with inordinate love, more then she, and with her fornications more then her sister with her fornications.

12 She doted upon the Assyrians her neighbours, both captaines and princes clothed with divers sutes, horsemen riding upon horses: they were all pleasant young men.

13 Then I saw that she was defiled, and that they were both after one sort,

14 And that she increased her fornications: for when she saw men^g painted upon the wall, the images of the Caldeans painted with vermillion,

15 And girded with girdles upon their loines, and with died attire upon their heads (looking all like princes after the manner of the Babylonians in Caldea, the land of their nativity)

16 As soone, I say, as she saw them, she doted upon them, and sent messengers unto them into Caldea.

17 Now when the Babylonians came to her into the bed of love, they defiled her with their fornication, and shee was polluted with them, and her lust departed from them.

18 So she discovered her fornication, and disclosed her shame: then mine heart forsooke her, like as mine heart had forsaken her sister.

19 Yet she increased her whoredome more, and called to remembrance the daies of her youth, wherein she had plaid the harlot in the land of Egypt.

20 For she doted upon their servants, whose members are as the members of asses, and whose issue is like the issue of horses.

21 Thou calledst to remembrance the wickednesse of thy youth, when thy teates were bruised by the Egyptians:

therefore the paps of thy youth are thus.

22 Therefore, O Aholibah, thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will raise up thy lovers against thee, from whom thine heart is departed, and I will bring them against thee on every side, 23 Towit, the Babylonians, and all the Caldeans,^h Poked, and Shoah, and Koa, and all the Assyrians with them: they were all pleasant yong men, captaines and princes: all they were valiant and renowned, riding upon horses.

24 Even these shall come against thee with charrets, wagons, and wheelles, and with a multitude of people, which shall set against thee buckler and shield, and helmet round about: and[†] I will leave the punishment unto them, and they shall judge thee according to their[‡] judgements.

25 And I will lay mine indignation upon thee, and they shall deale cruelly with thee: they shall cut off thyⁱ nose and thine eares, and thy remnant shall fall by the sword: they shall cary away thy sons and thy daughters, and thy residue shall be devoured by the fire.

26 They shall also strip thee out of thy clothes, and take away thy fayre jewels.

27 Thus will I make thy wickednesse to cease from thee, and thy fornication out of the land of Egypt: so that thou shalt not lift up thine eyes unto them, nor remember Egypt any more.

28 For thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will deliver thee into the hand of them, whom thou hatest: even into the hands of them from whom thine heart is departed.

29 And they shall handle thee despitefully, and shall take away all thy^k labour, and shall leave thee naked and bare, and the shame of thy fornications^l shall bee discovered, both thy wickednesse, and thy whoredome.

30 I will doe these things unto thee, because thou hast gone a whoring after the heathen, and because thou art polluted with their idols.

31 Thou hast walked in the way of thy sister: therefore will I give her^m cup into thine hand.

32 Thus saith the Lord God, Thou shalt drinke of thy sisters cup, deepe and large, thou shalt bee laughed to scorne and had in derision, because it containeth much.

33 Thou shalt be filled withⁿ drunkennesse and sorrow, even with the cup of destruction, and desolation, with the cup of thy sister Samaria.

35 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because thou hast forgotten me, and cast me behinde thy back, therefore thou shalt also beare thy wickednesse and thy whoredome.

36 ¶ The Lord said moreover unto me, Son of man, wilt thou judge Aholah and Aholibah? and wilt thou declare to them their abominations?

37 For they have played the whores, and blood is in their hands, and with their idols have they committed adultery, and have also caused their sonnes, whom they bare unto me, to passe by the fire to be their meat.

38 Moreover, thus have they done unto me: they have defiled my Sanctuary in the same day, and haue prophaned my Sabbaths.

39 For when they had slaine their children to their idols, they came the same day into my Sanctuary to defile it: and loe, thus have they done in the midst of mine house.

40 And how much more is it that they sent for men to come from farre, unto whom a messenger was sent, and lo, they came, for whom thou didst wash thy selfe, and paintedst thine eyes, and deckedst thee with ornaments,

41 And satest upon a costly bed, and a table prepared before it, wherupon thou hast set mine incense and mine oyle.

42 And a voice of a multitude being at ease, was with her: and with the men to make the company great were brought men of Saba from the wilderness, which put bracelets upon their hands, and beautiful crownes upon their heads.

43 Then I said unto her, that was old in adulteries, Now shall she and her fornications come to an end.

44 And they went in unto her as they goe to a common harlot: so went they to Aholah and Aholibah the wicked women.

45 And the righteous men they shall judge them, after the maner of harlots, and after the maner of murtherers: for they are harlots, and blood is in their hands.

46 Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, I will bring a multitude upon them, and will give them unto the tumult, and to the spoile, 47 And the multitude shall stone them with stones, and cut them with their swords: they shall slay their sonnes and their daughters, and burne up their houses with fire.

48 Thus will I cause wickednesse to cease out of the land, that all women may be taught not to doe after your wickednesse.

49 And they shall lay your wickednesse upon you, and ye shall beare the finnes of your idols, and ye shall know that I am the Lord God.

CHAP. XXIV.

He sheweth the destruction of Ierusalem by a parable of a seething pot. 16 The parable of Ezekiel's wife, being dead.

A Gaine, in the ninth year, in the tenth moneth, in the tenth day of the moneth, came the word of the Lord unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, write the name of the day, even of this same day: for the king of Babel set himselfe against Ierusalem, this same day.

3 Therefore speake a parable unto the rebellious house, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Prepare a pot, prepare it, and also powre water into it.

4 Gather the pieces thereof into it, even every good piece, as the thigh and the shoulder, and fill it with the chiefe bones,

5 Take one of the best sheepe, and burne also the bones under it, and make it boile well, and seeth the bones of it therein,

6 Because the Lord God saith thus, Wo to the bloody citie, even to the pot, whose scum is therein, and whose scum is not gone out of it: bring it out piece by piece: let no dot fall upon it.

7 For her blood is in the midst of her: seee set it upon an high rock, and powred it not upon the ground to cover it with dust,

8 That it might cause wrath to arise and take vengeance: even I have set her blood upon an high rock that it should not be covered.

9 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Wo to the bloody citie, for I will make it the burning great.

10 Heap on much wood, kindle the fire, consume the flesh, and cast in spice, and let the bones be burnt.

11 Then set it empty upon the coles thereof, that the brasie of it may be hot, and may burne, and that the filthinesse of it may be molten in it, and that the scum of it may be consumed.

12 She hath wearied herselfe with lies, and her great scum went not out of her: therefore her scumme shall be consumed with fire.

13 Thou remainest in thy filthinesse and 15 ¶ Also the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

16 Son of man, behold, I take away from thee the ^o pleasure of thine eyes with a plague: yet shalt thou neither mourne nor weep, neither shall thy teares run downe.

17 Cease from sighing : make no mourning for the dead, and binde the tire of thine head upon thee, ^p and put on thy shooes upon thy feet, and cover not thy lips, and eate ^q not the bread of men.

20 Then I answered them, The word of the Lord came unto me, saying, ye eate the bread of men.

23 And your tire shall be upon your heads, and your shooes upon your feet: ye shall not mourne nor weep, but ye shall pine away for your iniquities, and mourne one toward another.

24 Thus Ezekiel is unto you a sign: according to all that he hath done, ye shall doe: and when this commeth, yee shall know that I am the Lord God.

25 Also, thou sonne of man, shall it not be in the day, when I take from them their power, the joy of their honour, the pleasure of their eyes, and the desire of their heart, their sonnes and their daughters, shall come unto thee to tell thee that which he hath heard with his eares.

CHAPTER XXV.

1 The word of the Lord against Ammon, which rejoiced at the fall of Ierusalem. 8 Against Moab and Seir, Idumea, and the Philistims.

THe word of the Lord came againe unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, set thy face against the Ammonites, and prophesie against them,

3 And say unto the Ammonites, Hear the word of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thou saidst,
* Ha, ha, against my Sanctuary, when it was polluted, and against the land of Israel when it was desolate, and against the house of Judah, when they went into captivity,

4 Behold, therefore I will deliver thee to the ^b men of the East for a possession, and they shall set their ^c palaces in thee, and make their dwellings in thee: they shall eat thy fruit, and they shall drinke thy milke.

5 And I will make^d Rabbah a dwelling place for camels, and the Ammonites a sheep-cote, and yee shall know that I am the Lord.

6 For thus saith the Lord God, Because thou hast clapped thy hands, and stamped with the feet, and rejoiced in heart with all thy despite against the land of Israel :

7 Behold, therefore I will stretch out mine hand upon thee, and will deliver thee to be spoiled of the heathen, and I will root thee out from the people, and I will cause thee to be destroyed out of the countries, and I will destroy thee, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

8 Thus saith the Lord God, Because that Moab and Seir doe say, Behold, the house of Judah is like unto all the heathen,

9 Therefore behold, I will open the side of Moab, even of the cities ^e of his cities, Ifay, in his frontiers with the pleasant country, Beth-jeshimoth, Baal-meon, and Kiriathaim.

So I will call the men of the East against the Ammonites, and will give them in possession; so that the Ammonites shall no more be remembered among the nations.

Hee prophesieth that Tyrus shall be overthrowne, because it rejoiced at the destruction of Jerusalem. 15 The wondering and astonishment of the merchants for the destruction of Tyrus.

And in the eleventh yeare, in the first day of the moneth, the word of the Lord, came unto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, because that Tyrus hath said against Jerusalem, Aha, the gate of the people is broken: it is turned unto me; for seeing she is desolate, I shall be replenished:

3 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, O Tyrus, and I will bring up many nations against thee, as the Sea mounteth up with his waves.

4 And they shall destroy the walles of Tyrus, and breake downe her towres: I will also scrape her dust from her, and make her like the top of a rocke.

5 Thou shalt be for the spreading of nets in the mids of the Sea: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God, and it shall be a spoile to the Nations.

6 And her daughters which are in the fields, shall be slaine by the sword, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

7 For thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will bring upon Tyrus Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, a king of kings from the North, with horses, and with charrets, and with horsemen, with a multitude, and much people.

8 Hee shall slay with the sword thy daughters in the field, and he shall make a fort against thee, and cast a mount against thee, and lift up the buckler against thee.

9 Hee shall set engines of warre before him against thy walles, and with his weapons breake downe thy towres.

10 The dust of his horses shall cover thee, for their multitude: thy walles shall shake at the noise of the horsemen, and of the wheelles, and of the charrets, when he shall enter into thy gates, as into the entrie of a citie that is broken downe.

11 With the hoofes of his horses shall he tread downe all thy streets: he shall slay the people by the sword, and the pillars of thy strength shall fall downe to the ground.

12 And they shall rob thy riches, and spoile thy merchandise, and they shall breake downe thy walles, and destroy thy pleasant houses, and they shall cast thy stones, and thy timber, and thy dust into the mids of the water.

13 * Thus will I cause the sound of thy songs to cease, and the sound of thine harpes shall be no more heard.

14 I will lay thee like the top of a rocke: thou shalt be for a spreading of nets: thou shalt be built no more: for I the Lord have spoken it, saith the Lord God.

15 Thus saith the Lord God to Tyrus, Shall not the Isles tremble at the sound of thy fall: and at the cry of thy wounded, when they shall be slaine and murdered in the mids of thee?

16 Then all the princes of the sea shall come downe from their thrones: they shall lay away their robes, and put off their brodered garments, and shall cloth themselves with astonishment: they shall sit upon the ground, and be astonished at every moment, and be amazed at thee.

17 And they shall take up a lamentation for thee, and say to thee, How art thou destroyed, that wast inhabited of the sea men, the renowned citie, which was strong in the Sea, both she and her inhabitants, which cause their feare to be on all that haunt therein?

18 Now shall the Isles be astonished in the day of thy fall: yea, the Isles that are in the Sea, shall be troubled at thy departure.

CHAP. XXVIII.

2 The word of God against the King of Tyrus for his pride.
21 The word of the Lord against Zidon. 25 The Lord promiseth that he will gather together the children of Israel.

THe word of the Lord came againe unto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, say unto the prince of Tyrus, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thine heart is exalted, and thou hast said, I am a god, I sit in the seat of God, in the mids of the sea, yet thou art but a man and not God, and though thou didst thinke in thine heart, that thou wast equall with God,

3 Behold, thou art wiser then Daniel: there is no secret that they can hide from thee.

4 With thy wisdom and thine understanding thou hast gotten thee riches, and hast gotten gold and silver into thy treasures.

5 By thy great wisdom, and by thine occupying hast thou increased thy riches, and thine heart is lifted up because of thy riches.

6 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because thou didst thinke in thine heart, that thou wast equall with God,

7 Behold, therefore I will bring strangers upon thee, even the terrible nations: and they shall draw their swords against the beauty of thy wisdom, and they shall defile thy brightnesse.

8 They shall cast thee downe to the pit, and thou shalt die the death of them that are slaine in the mids of the sea.

9 Wilt thou say then before him that slaieth thee, I am a God? but thou shalt be a man, and no God, in the hands of him that slaieth thee.

10 Thou shalt die the death of the uncircumcised by the hands of strangers: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God.

11 Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

12 Son of man, take up a lamentation upon the king of Tyrus, and say unto him, Thus saith the Lord God, Thou sealest up the summe, and art full of wisdom and perfect in beauty.

13 Thou hast been in Eden the garden of God, every precious stone was in thy garment, the rubie, the topaze and the diamond, the chrysolite, the onix, and the jasper, the saphire, the emerald, and the carbuncle and gold: the workmanship of thy timbrels, and of thy pipes was prepared in thee in the day that thou was created.

14 Thou art the anointed Cherub, that covereth, and I have set thee in the holy mountaine of God: thou hast walked in the mids of the stones of fire.

15 Thou wast perfect in thy waies from the day that thou wast created, till iniquity was found in thee.

16 By the multitude of thy merchandise, they have filled the midst of thee with cruelty, and thou hast sinned: therefore I will cast thee as prophane out of the mountaine of God: and I will destroy thee, O covering Cherub, from the midst of the stones of fire.

17 Thine heart was lifted up because of thy beauty, and thou hast corrupted thy wisdom by reason of thy brightnesse: I will cast thee to the ground: I will lay thee before kings, that they may behold thee.

18 Thou hast defiled thy sanctification by the multitude of thine iniquities, and by the iniquity of thy merchandise: therefore will I bring forth a fire from the midst of thee, which shall devour thee: and I will bring thee to ashes upon the earth, in the sight of all them that behold thee.

19 All they that know thee among the people, shall be astonished at thee: thou shalt be a terror, and never shalt thou be any more.

That is, the honour wherunto I called thee.

Or, brought to nothing.

20 ¶ Againe, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

21 Son of man, set thy face against Zidon, and prophesie against it,

22 And say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, O Zidon, and I will be glorified in the midst of thee: and they shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall have executed judgements in her, and shall be sanctified in her.

23 For I will send into her pestilence, and bloud into her streets, and the flaine shall fall in the midst of her: ^m the enemy shall come against her with the sword on every side, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

24 And they shall bee no more a pricking thorne unto the house of Israel, nor any grievous thorne of all that are round about them, and despised them, and they shall know that I am the Lord God.

25 Thus saith the Lord God, When I shall have gathered the house of Israel from the people where they are scattered, and shall bee sanctified in them in the sight of the heathen, then shall they dwell in the land that I have given to my servant Jaakob.

26 And they shall dwell safely therein, and shall build houses, and plant vineyards: yea, they shall dwell safely, when I have executed judgements upon all round about them that despise them, and they shall know that I am the Lord their God.

CHAP. XXIX.

He propheseth against Pharaoh and Egypt. 13 The Lord promiseth that he will restore Egypt after forty years. 14 Egypt is the reward of King Nebuchad-nezzar for the labour which he tooke against Tyrus.

IN the tenth year, and in the tenth moneth, in the twelfth day of the moneth, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, set thy face against Pharaoh the king of Egypt, and prophesie against him, and against all Egypt.

3 Speake, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, Pharaoh king of Egypt, the great Dragon, that lieth in the midst of his rivers, which hath said, The river is mine, and I have made it for my selfe.

4 But I will put hookes in thy jawes, and I will cause the fish of thy rivers to stick unto thy scales, and I will draw thee out of the midst of thy rivers, and all the fish of thy rivers shall stick unto thy scales.

5 And I will leave thee in the wilderness, both thee and all the fish of thy rivers:

thou shalt fall upon the open field: thou shalt not be brought together, nor gathered: for I have given thee for meat to the beasts of the field, and to the fowles of the heaven.

6 And all the inhabitants of Egypt shall know that I am the Lord, because they have beene a staffe of reed to the house of Israel.

7 When they took hold of thee with their hand, thou didst breake, and rent all their shoulder: and when they leaned upon thee, thou brakest and madest all their loynesto stand upright.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will bring a sword upon thee, and destroy man and beast out of thee.

9 And the land of Egypt shall be desolate, and waste, and they shall know that I am the Lord: because he hath said, The river is mine, and I have made it.

10 Behold, therefore I come upon thee, and upon thy rivers, and I will make the land of Egypt utterly waste and desolate, from the towne of Seveneh, even unto the borders of the black Moors.

11 No foot of man shall passe by it, nor foot of beast shall passe by it, neither shall it be inhabited forty yeares.

12 And I will make the land of Egypt desolate in the midst of the countries, that are desolate, and her cities shall be desolate among the cities that are desolate, for forty yeares: and I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will disperse them through the countries.

13 Yet thus saith the Lord God, * At the end of forty yeares will I gather the Egyptians from the people, where they were scattered.

14 And I will bring againe the captivity of Egypt, and will cause them to returne into the land of Pathros, into the land of their habitation, and they shall be there a small kingdome.

15 It shall be the smallest of the kingdoms, neither shall it exalt it selfe any more above the nations: for I will diminish them, that they shall no more rule the nations.

16 And it shall be no more the confidence of the house of Israel, to bring their iniquity to remembrance by looking after them, so shall they know, that I am the Lord God.

17 ¶ In the seven and twentieth yeare also in the first moneth, and in the first day of the moneth, came the word of the Lord unto me, saying,

18 Sonne of man, Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel caused his army to serve a great service against Tyrus: every head was made bare, and every shoulder was made bare: yet had he no wages, nor his army

CHAPTER XXX.

The destruction of Egypt, and the cities thereof.

The word of the Lord came again unto me, saying,

2 Son of man, prophesie, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Howle and cry, Woe be unto this day.

3 For the day is neare, and the day of the Lord is at hand, a cloudy day, and it shall be the time of the heathen.

4 And the sword shall come upon Egypt, and feare shall bee in Ethiopia, when the slaine shall fall in Egypt, when they shall take away her multitude, and when her foundations shall bee broken downe.

5 Ethiopia, and Phut, and Lud, and all the common people, and Cub, and the men of the land that is in league, shall fall with them by the sword.

6 Thus saith the Lord, They also that maintaine Egypt, shall fall, and the pride of her power shall come downe: from the tower of ^bSeveneh shall they fall by the sword, saith the Lord God.

7 And they shall be desolate in the midst of the countries that are desolate, and her cities shall be in the midst of the cities that are wasted.

8 And they shall know that I am the Lord, when I have set a fire in Egypt, and when all her helpers shall bee destroyed.

9 And that day shall their messengers goe forth from mein ships, to make the carelesse Mores afraid, and feare shall come upon them, as in the day of Egypt: for so, it commeth.

10 Thus saith the Lord God, I will also make the multitude of Egypt to cease by the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel.

11 For he, and his people with him, even the terrible nations shall be brought to destroy the land: and they shall draw their swords against Egypt, and fill the land with the slaine.

12 And I will make the rivers drie, and sell the land into the hands of the wicked, and I will make the land waste, and all that therein is, by the hands of strangers: I the Lord have spoken it.

13 Thus saith the Lord God, I will also destroy the idols, and I will cause their idols to cease out of \ddagger Noph, and there shall be no more a prince of the land of Egypt, and I will send a feare in the land of Egypt:

14 And I will make Parthos desolate, and will set fire in \ddagger Zoan, and I will execute judgement in No.

15 And I will powre my wrath upon \ddagger Sin, which is the strength of Egypt: and I will destroy the multitude of \ddagger No.

16 And I will set fire in Egypt: Sin shall have great sorrow, and No shall be destroyed, and Noph shall have sorrows daily.

17 The young men of \ddagger Aven, and of \ddagger Phibeseh shall fall by the sword: and these cities shall goe into captivity.

18 At Tehaphnehes the day shall restraine his light, when I shall breake there, the ^d barres of Egypt: and when the pompe of her power shall cease in her, the cloud shall cover her, and her daughters shall goe into captivity.

19 Thus will I execute judgements in Egypt, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

20 ¶ And in the ^e eleventh yeare, in the first moneth, and in the seventh day of the moneth, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

21 Sonne of man, I have broken the arme of Pharoah king of Egypt: and loe, it shall not be bound up to be healed, neither shall they put a roule to binde it, and so make it strong, to hold the sword.

22 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against Pharoah king of Egypt, and will break his arme that was strong, but is broken, and I will cause the sword to fall out of his hand.

23 And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will disperse them through the countries.

24 And I will strengthen the arme of the king of Babel, and put my sword in his hand, but I will breake Pharaohs armes, and hee shall cast out sighings, as the sighings of him that is wounded before him.

25 But I will strengthen the armes of the king of Babel, and the armes of Pharaoh shall fall downe, and they shall

C H A P. XXXI.

² A comparison of the prosperity of Pharaoh, with the prosperity of the Assyrians. ¹⁹ He prophesieth a like destruction to them both.

^a Of Zedekiah's reigne, or of Iecoziah's captivity.

And in the ^aeleventh yeare, in the third moneth, and in the first day of the moneth, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, speake unto Pharaoh King of Egypt, and to his multitude, Whom art thou like in thy greatnesse?

^b Meaning, that he was not like in strength to the King of the Assyrians whom the Babylonians overcame.

3 Behold, Ashur was like a cedar in Lebanon with faire branches, and with thick shadowing boughs, and shot up very high, and his top was among the thicke boughs.

^c Many other nations were under their dominion.

4 The waters nourished him, and the deepe exalted him on high with her rivers running round about his plants, and sent out her ^clittle rivers unto all the trees of the ^dfield.

5 Therefore his height was exalted above all the trees of the field, and his boughs were multiplied, and his branches were long, because of the multitude of the waters, which the deepe sent out.

6 All the fowles of the heaven made their nests in his boughs, and under his branches did all the beasts of the field bring forth their young, and under his shadow dwelt all mighty nations.

7 Thus was he faire in his greatnesse, and in the length of his branches: for his root was neare great waters.

^d Signifying, that there was no greater power in the world then his was.

8 The cedars in the garden ^dof God could not hide him: no firre tree was like his branches, and the chesnut trees were not like his boughes, all the trees in the garden of God were not like unto him in his beauty.

9 I made him faire by the multitude of his branches: so that all the trees of Eden, that were in the garden of God, envied him.

^e Or, thou must lift up.

10 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ^ehee is lift up on high, and hath shot up his top among the thicke boughes, and his heart is lift up in his height:

^e That is, of Nebuchad-nezzar, who afterward was the Monarch, and onely ruler of the world.

11 I have therefore delivered him into the hands of the ^emightiest among the heathen: hee shall handle him, for I have cast him away for his wickednesse.

12 And the strangers have destroyed him, even the terrible nations, and they have left him upon the mountaine; and in all the valleys his branches are fallen, and his boughes are broken by all the rivers of the land, and all the people of the earth are departed from his shadow, and have forsaken him.

13 Upon his ruine shall all the fowles of the heaven remaine, and all the beasts of the field shall be upon his branches;

14 So that none of all the trees by the waters shall be exalted by their height, neither shall shoot up their top among the thicke boughes, neither shall their leaves stand up in their height, which drinke so much water: for they are all delivered unto death in the nether parts of the earth, in the mids of the children of men, among them that goe downe to the pit.

15 Thus saith the Lord God, In the day when he went downe to hell, I caused them to mourne, and I covered the deepe for him, and I did restrain the floods thereof, and the great waters were staid: I caused Lebanon to mourne for him, and all the trees of the field fainted.

^g The deep waters that caused him to mount so high (meaning his great abundance and pompe) shall now lament as though they were covered with sackcloth.

16 I made the nations to shake at the sound of his fall, when I cast him downe to hell, with them that descend into the pit, and all the excellent trees of Eden, and the best of Lebanon: even all that are nourished with waters, shall be comforted in the nether parts of the earth.

^h To cause this destruction of the King of Assyria to seeme more horrible, hee letteth forth other Kings and Princes which are dead, as though they rejoyced at the fall of such a tyrant.

17 They also went downe to hell with him, unto them that bee slaine with the sword, and his arme, and they that dwell under his shadow in the mids of the heathen.

18 To whom art thou thus like in glory and in greatnesse among the trees of Eden? yet thou shalt bee cast downe with the trees of Eden, unto the nether parts of the earth: thou shalt sleepe in the middes of the ^huncircumcised, with them that bee slaine by the sword: this is Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

ⁱ Meaning, that Pharaoh's power was nothing so great as his was.

C H A P. XXXII.

² The Prophet is commanded to berayle Pharaoh king of Egypt. ¹² He prophesieth that destruction shall come unto Egypt through the King of Babylon.

And in the ^atwelfth yeare, in the twelfth moneth, and in the first day of the moneth, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, take up a lamentation for Pharaoh king of Egypt, and say unto him, Thou art like a ^blion of the nations, and art as a ^cdragon in the sea: thou castedst out thy rivers, and troubledst the waters with thy feet; and stampedst in their rivers.

^b Thus the Scriptures compare tyrants to cruell and huge beasts, which devoure all that be weaker then they, and such as they may overcome.

3 Thus faith the Lord God ; * I will therefore spread my net over thee with a great multitude of people , and they shall make thee come up into my net.

4 Then will I leave thee upon the land , and I will cast thee upon the open field , and I will cause all the fowles of the heaven to remaine upon thee , and I will fill all the beasts of the field with thee.

5 And I will lay thy flesh upon the mountaines , and fill the vallyes ^d with thine height.

6 I will also water with thy blood the land wherein thou ^e swimmest , even to the mountaines , and the rivers shall be full of thee.

7 And when I shall ^f put thee out , I will cover the heaven , and make the stars thereof darke : * I will cover the sunne with a cloud , and the moone shall not give her light.

8 All the lights of heaven will I make darke for thee , and bring ^g darknesse upon thy land , faith the Lord God.

9 I will also trouble the hearts of many people , when I shall bring thy destruction among the nations , and upon the countries which thou hast not known.

10 Yea , I will make many people amazed at thee , and their Kings shall bee astonished with feare for thee , when I shall make my sword to glitter against their faces ; and they shall be afraid at everie moment : everie man for his owne life in the day of thy fall.

11 For thus faith the Lord God , the sword of the King of Babel shall come upon thee.

12 By the swords of the mightie will I cause thy multitude to fall : they all shall bee terrible nations , and they shall destroy the ^h pompe of Egypt , and all the multitude thereof shall bee consumed.

13 I will destroy also all the beasts thereof from the great water sides , neither shall the foot of man trouble them any more , nor the hooves of beasts trouble them.

14 Then will I make ⁱ their waters deepe , and cause their rivers to runne like oile , faith the Lord God.

15 When I shall make the land of Egypt desolate , and the countrie with all that is therein , shall be laid waste : when I shall smite all them which dwell therein , then shall they know that I am the Lord.

16 This is the mourning wherewith they shall lament her : the daughters of the nations shall lament her : they shall lament for Egypt , and for all her multitude , faith the Lord God.

17 ¶ In the twelfth yeare also , in the fifteenth day of the moneth , came the word of the Lord unto me , saying,

18 Sonne of man , lament for the multitude of Egypt , and ^k cast them downe , even them and the daughters of the mightie nations , unto the nether parts of the earth , with them that goe downe into the pit.

19 Whom dost thou passe ^l in beautie ? goe downe and sleep with the uncircumcised.

20 They shall fall in the mids of them that are slaine by the sword : ^m she is delivered to the sword : draw her downe , and all her multitude.

22 Afshur is there and all his companie : their graves are about him : all they are slaine and false by the sword.

23 Whose graves are made in the side of the pit , and his multitude are round about his grave : all they are slaine and false by the sword , which caused feare to be in the land of the living.

24 There is ^o Elam and all his multitude round about his grave : all they are slaine and false by the sword , which are gone downe with the uncircumcised into the nether parts of the earth , which caused themselves to be feared in the land of the living , yet have they borne their shame with them that are gone downe to the pit.

25 They have made his bed in the mids of the slaine with all his multitude : their graves are round about him : all these uncircumcised are slaine by the sword : though they have caused their feare in the land of the living , yet have they borne their shame with them that goe downe to the pit : they are laid in the mids of them that be slaine.

26 There is ^p Meshech , Tubal , and all their multitude , their graves are round about them : all these uncircumcised were slaine by the sword , though they caused their feare to be in the land of the living.

CHAP. XXXIII.

² The office of the governours and ministers. ¹⁴ He strengtheneth them that despaire, and boldneth them with the promise of mercie. ³⁰ The word of the Lord against the mothers of the Prophet.

A Gaine, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

^z Or, of their iniquity, as the sheweth, that the people ought to have continually governours and teachers which may have a care over them, and to warne them ever of the dangers which are at hand.

2 Sonne of man, speake to the children of thy people, and say unto them, When I bring the sword upon a land, if the people of the land take a man ^z from among them, and make him their watchman,

3 If when he seeth the sword come upon the land, he blow the trumpet, and warne the people,

4 Then he that heareth the sound of the trumpet, and will not be warned, if the sword come and take him away, his blood shall be upon his owne head.

5 For he heard the sound of the trumpet, and would not be admonished: therefore his blood shall be upon him: but he that receiveth warning, shall save his life.

6 But if the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people be not warned: if the sword come, and take any person from among them, he is taken away for his iniquitie, but his blood will I require at the watchmans hand.

^b Signifying, that the wicked shall not escape punishment, though the watchmen be negligent: but if the watchman blow the trumpet, and then hee will not obey, he shall deserve double punishment.

^c Chap. 3. 17. which teacheth that he that receiveth not his charge at the Lords mouth, is a spie, and not a true watchman.

7 * So thou, O sonne of man, I have made thee a watchman unto the house of Israel: therefore thou shalt heare the word at my mouth, and admonish them from me.

8 When I shall say unto the wicked, O wicked man, thou shalt die the death, if thou dost not speake, and admonish the wicked of his way, that wicked man shall die for his iniquitie, but his blood will I require at thine hand.

9 Nevertheless, if thou warne the wicked of his way to turne from it: if he doe not turne from his way, he shall die for his iniquitie, but thou hast delivered thy soule.

^d The watchman must answer for the blood of all that perish through his negligence.

10 Therefore, O thou sonne of man, speake unto the house of Israel, Thus ye speake and say, If our transgressions and our sinnes be upon us, and we are consumed because of them, how should we then live?

^e Thus the wicked when they heare Gods judgments for their sinnes, despaire of his mercies, and murmur. ^f Reade Chap. 18. 23.

11 Say unto them, As I live, saith the Lord God, I desire not the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turne from his way and live: turne you, turne you from your evill waies, for why will ye die, O ye house of Israel?

12 Therefore thou sonne of man, say unto the children of thy people, The righteousness of the righteous shall not deliver him in the day of his transgression, nor the wickednesse of the wicked shall cause him to fall therein, in the day that he returneth from his wickednesse, neither shall the righteous live for his righteousness in the day that he sinneth.

13 When I shall say unto the righteous, that he shall surely live, if he trust to his owne righteousness, and commit iniquitie, all his righteousness shall be no more remembred, but for his iniquitie that he hath committed, he shall die for the same.

14 Again, when I shall say unto the wicked, Thou shalt die the death, if he turne from his sinne, and doe that which is lawfull and right,

15 To wit, if the wicked restore the pledge, and give againe that he had robbed, and walke in the statutes of life, without committing iniquitie, hee shall surely live, and not die.

^h Hereby he condemneth all them of hypocritie, which pretend to forsake wickednes, and yet declare not themselves such by their fruits. That is, in obeying Gods commandments, and by godly life.

16 None of his sinnes that he hath committed, shall be mentioned unto him: because he hath done that which is lawfull, and right, he shall surely live.

17 Yet the children of thy people say, * The way of the Lord is not equall: but their owne way is unequal.

18 When the righteous turneth from his righteousness, and committeth iniquitie, he shall even die thereby.

19 But if the wicked returne from his wickednes, and doe that which is lawfull and right, he shall live thereby.

22 Now the hand of the Lord had beene upon mee in the evening afore hee that had escaped came, and had opened my mouth, until he came to mee in the morning, and when hee had opened my mouth, I was no more dumb.

23 Again, the word of the Lord came unto mee, and said,

24 Son of man, these that dwell in the desolate places of the land of Israel, talke and say, ^m Abraham was but one, and he possessed the land: but we are many, therefore the land shall bee given us in possession.

25 Wherefore say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Yee eat with the ^a bloud, and lift up your eyes toward your idols, and shed bloud: should yee then possesse the land?

26 Yee leane upon your ^o swords: yee worke abomination, and yee defile every one his neighbours wife: should yee then possesse the land?

27 Say thus unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, As I live, so surely they that are in the desolate places shall fall by the sword: and him that is in the open field, will I give unto the beasts to be devoured: and they that bee in the forts and in the caves, shall die of the pestilence.

28 For I will lay the land desolate and wast, and the ^a pomp of her strength shall cease: and the mountaines of Israel shall bee desolate, and none shall passe thorow.

29 Then shall they know that I am the Lord, when I have laid the land desolate and wast, because of all their abominations, that they have committed.

30 Also thou son of man, the children of thy people that ^p talke of thee by the walles and in the doores of houses, and speake one to another, every one to his brother, saying, Come, I pray you, and heare what is the word that commeth from the Lord.

31 For they come unto thee, as the people ^useth to come: and my people sit before thee, and heare thy words, but they will not doe them: for with their mouths they make ^q jests, and their heart goeth after their covetousnesse.

32 And loe, thou art unto them, as a [†] jesting song of one that hath a pleasant voice, and can sing well, for they heare thy words, but they do them not.

33 And when this commeth to passe (for loe, it will come) then shall they know that a Prophet hath beene among them.

² Against the shepherds that despise the flock of Christ, and seeke their owne gains. 7 The Lord saith that he will visit his dispersed flock: and gather them together. 23 He promisseth the true shepherd Christ, and wish him peace.

And the word of the Lord came unto mee, saying,

2 Son of man, prophesie against the shepherds of Israel, prophesie and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God unto the shepherds, ^{*} Woe bee unto the ^a shepherds of Israel, that feed themselves: should not the shepherds feed the flocks?

3 Yee eat the ^b fat, and yee clothe you with the wooll: ye kill them that are fed, but yee feed not the sheep.

4 The ^c weake have yee not strengthened, the sick have yee not healed, neither have yee bound up the broken, nor brought againe that which was driven away, neither have yee sought that which was lost, but with cruelty, and with rigour have yee ruled them.

5 And they were scattered without a shepherd: and when they were dispersed, they were ^d devoured of all the beasts of the field.

6 My sheep wandered through all the mountaines, and upon every high hill: yea, my flock was scattered through all the earth, and none did seek or search after them.

7 Therefore yee shepherds, heare the word of the Lord.

8 As I live, saith the Lord God, surely because my flock was spoiled, and my sheep were devoured of all the beasts of the field, having no shepherd, neither did my shepherds seeke my sheep, but the shepherds fed themselves and fed not my sheep,

9 Therefore, heare ye the word of the Lord, O yee shepherds.

10 Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against the shepherds, and I will require my sheep at their hands, and cause them to cease from feeding the sheepe: neither shall the shepherds feed themselves any more: for I will deliver my sheepe from ^e their mouths, and they shall no more devour them.

11 For thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will search my sheepe and seeke them out.

12 As a shepherd searcheth out his flock, when hee hath beene among his sheepe that are scattered, so will I seeke out my sheepe and will deliver them out of all places where they have beene scattered in ^f the cloudy and darke day.

⁸ His promises to deliver Israel from the Gentiles. ²² The benefits done unto the Levites, are to be ascribed to the mercy of God, and not unto their deservings. ²⁶ God reneweth our hearts, that we may walke in his commandments.

Also thou son of man, prophesie unto the * mountaines of Israel, and say, yee mountaines of Israel, heare the word of the Lord.

2 Thus saith the Lord God, Because the * enemy hath said against you, Ah, even the ^b high places of the world are ours in possession,

3 Therefore prophesie, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Because that they have made you desolate and swallowed you up on every side, that yee might bee a possession unto the residue of the heathen, and yee are come unto the lips, and ^c tongues of men, and unto the reproach of the people:

4 Therefore yee mountaines of Israel, heare the word of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God to the mountaines and to the hills, to the rivers and to the valleyes, and to the wast, and desolate places, and to the cities that are forsaken, which are spoiled and had in derision of the residue of the heathen that are round about.

5 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Surely, in the fire of mine indignation have I spoken against the residue of the heathen; and against all Idumea, which ^d have taken my land for their possession, with the joy of all their heart, and with despitefull minds, to cast it out for a prey.

6 Prophesie therefore upon the land of Israel, and say unto the mountaines, and to the hills, to the rivers and to the valleys, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I have spoken in mine indignation, and in my wrath, because yee have suffered the * shame of the heathen;

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I have ^e lifted up mine hand, surely the heathen that are about you shall beare their shame.

8 But you, O mountaines of Israel, yee shall ^f shoot forth your branches, and bring forth your fruit to my people of Israel: for they are ready to come.

9 For behold, I come unto you, and I will turne unto you, and yee shall be filled and sowne.

10 And I will multiply the men upon you, even all the house of Israel wholly, and the cities shall be inhabited, and the desolate places shall be builded.

11 And I will multiply upon you man and beast, and they shall increase and bring fruit, and I will cause you to dwell after your old estate, and I will bestow benefits upon you more then ^h at the first, and yee shall know that I am the Lord.

12 Yea, I will cause men to walke uponⁱ you, even my people Israel, and they shall possesse^j you, and yee shall be their inheritance, and yee shall no more henceforth deprive them of men.

13 Thus saith the Lord God, Because they say unto you, Thou^k land devourest up men, and hast beene a waster of thy people;

15 Neither will I cause men to heare in thee the shame of the heathen any more, neither shalt thou bear the reproch of the people any more, neither shalt cause thy folk to fall any more, saith the Lord God.

16 Moreover the word of the Lord came unto mee, saying,

29 I will also deliver you from all your filthinesse, and I will call for^o corne, and will increase it, and lay no famine upon you.

31 Then shall yee remember your owne wicked wayes, and your deeds that were not good, and shall judge your selves worthy to have bin^p destroyed for your iniquities, and for your abominations.

34 And the desolate land shall be tilled, whereas it lay waste in the sight of all that passed by.

35 For they said, This waste land was like the garden of Eden, and these waste, and desolate, and ruinous cities were strong, and were inhabited.

^r Hee prophesieth the bringing againe of the people, being in captivity. ¹⁶ Hee sheweth the union of the ten tribes with the two.

2 And he led me round about by them, and behold, there were very many in the open field, and loe, they were very dry.

3 And he said unto mee, Son of man, can these bones live? And I answered, O Lord God, thou knowest.

4 Again, he said unto mee, Prophecie upon these bones, and say unto them, O ye dry bones, heare the word of the Lord.

5 Thus saith the Lord God unto these bones, Behold, I will cause breath to enter into you, and yee shall live.

6 And I will lay sinews upon you, and make flesh grow upon you, and cover you with skin, and put breath in you, that yee may live, and yee shall know that I am the Lord.

7 So I prophesied, as I was commanded: and as I prophesied, there was a noise, and behold, there was a shaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone.

8 And when I beheld, lo, the sinews, and the flesh grew upon them, and above, the skin covered them, but there was no breath in them.

11 Then he said unto mee, Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel: Behold, they say, Our bones are dried, and our hope is gone away, and we are cleane cut off.

12 Therefore prophesie, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, my people, I will open your graves, and cause you to come up out of your sepulchres, and bring you into the land of Israel,

13 And yee shall know that I am the Lord, * when I have opened your graves, O my people, and brought you up out of your sepulchres,

14 And shall put my Spirit in you, and yee shall live; and I shall place you in your owne land: then yee shall know that I the Lord have spoken it, and performed it, saith the Lord.

17 And thou shalt joyn^e them one to another into one tree, and they shall be as one in thine hand.

18 And when the children of thy people shall speake unto thee, saying, Wilt thou not shew us what thou meanest by these?

19 Thou shalt answer them, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will take the tree ^e of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel his fellowes, and will put them with him, even with the tree of Judah; and make them one tree, and they shall bee one in mine hand.

20 And the pieces of wood, whereon thou writest, shall be in thine hand in their fight.

21 And say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will take the children of Israel from among the heathen, whither they be gone, and will gather them on every side, and bring them into their owne land.

22 And I will make them one people in the land, upon the mountaines of Israel, * and one king shall be king to them all: and they shall bee no more two people, neither bee divided any more henceforth into two kingdoms.

23 Neither shall they be poluted any more with their idols, nor with their abominations, nor with any of their transgressions: but I will save them out of all their dwelling places; wherein they have sinned, and will cleanse them: so shall they bee my people, and I will be their God.

24 And David my * servant shall bee king over them, and they all shall have one shepherd: they shall also walk in my judgments, and observe my statutes, and doe them.

25 And they shall dwell in the land, that I have given unto Jaakob my servant, where your fathers have dwelt, and they shall dwell therein, even they, and their sons, and their sons sons for ever, and my servant David shall bee their prince for ever.

26 Moreover, I will make * a covenant of peace with them: it shall be an everlasting covenant with them, and I will place them, and multiply them, and will set my Sanctuary among them for evermore.

15 And come from thy place out of the North parts, thou and much people with thee: all shall ride upon horses, even a great multitude and a mighty army.

16 And thou shalt come up against my people of Israel, as a cloud to cover the land: thou shalt bee in the latter daies, and I will bring thee upon my land, that the heathen may know mee; when I shall be sanctified in thee, O Gog, before their eyes.

17 Thus saith the Lord God, Art not thou hee of whom I have spoken in old time, by the hands of my servants the Prophets of Israel, which prophesied in those daies, and yeares, that I would bring thee upon them?

18 At the same time also when Gog shall come against the land of Israel, saith the Lord God, my wrath shall arise in mine anger.

19 For in mine indignation, and in the fire of my wrath have I spoken it: surely at that time there shall be a great shaking in the land of Israel:

20 So that the fishes of the Sea, and the fowles of the heaven, and the beasts of the field, and all that move and creepe upon the earth, and all the men that are upon the earth, shall tremble at my presence, and the mountaines shall be overthrowne, and the stars shall fall, and every wall shall fall to the ground.

21 For I will call for a sword against him throughout all my mountaines, saith the Lord God: every mans sword shall be against his brother.

22 And I will plead against him with pestilence, and with bloud, and I will cause to raine upon him and upon his bands, and upon the great people that are with him, a sore raine and hailestones, fire and brimstone.

23 Thus will I be magnified and sanctified, and knowne in the eyes of many nations, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXIX.

1 Hee sheweth the destruction of Gog and Magog. 11 The graves of Gog and his host. 17 They shall bee drowned of birds and beasts. 23 Wherefore the house of Israel is captive. 24 Their bringing againe from captivity is promised.

Therefore thou son of man, prophesie against Gog, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, O Gog, the chiefe prince of Meshech and Tubal.

2 And I will destroy thee, and leave but the sixth part of thee, and will cause thee to come up from the North parts, and will bring thee upon the mountaines of Israel:

3 And I will smite thy bow out of thy left hand, and I will cause thine arrowes to fall out of thy right hand.

4 Thou shalt fall upon the mountaines of Israel, and all thy bands, and the people that is with thee: for I will give thee unto the birds, and to every feathered fowle and beast of the field to be devoured.

5 Thou shalt fall upon the open field: for I have spoken it, saith the Lord God.

6 And I will send a fire on Magog, and among them that dwell safely in the Cities, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

7 So will I make mine holy Name knowne in the midst of my people Israel, and I will not suffer them to pollute mine holy Name any more, and the heathen shall know that I am the Lord, the Holy one of Israel.

8 Behold, it is come, and it is done, saith the Lord God: this is the day whereof I have spoken.

9 And they that dwell in the cities of ^f Or, it: meaning, the land of Israel.

^f That is, to molest and destroy the Church.

^g Meaning, Israel, which had now been destroyed, & was not yet built againe: declaring hereby the simplicity of the godly, who seeke not to much to fortifie themselves by outward force, as to depend on the providence and goodness of God.

^h One enemy shall envy another, because every one shall thinke to have the spoile of the Church.

ⁱ Shalt not thou spy thine occasion to come against my Church, when they suspect nothing?

^k Meaning, in the last age, and from the coming of Christ unto the end of the world.

^l Signifying, that God will bee sanctified by maintaining his Church, and destroying his enemies, as Chap. 36. 23. and 37. 28. m Hereby he declareth that none affliction can come to the Church, whereof they have not bin advertised aforetime, to teach them to endure all things with more patience when they know that God hath so ordained.

ⁿ All meanes whereby man should thinke to save himselfe shall faile, the affliction in those daies shall bee so great, and the destruction shall bee so terrible.

^o Against the people of Gog and Magog.

^{*} Chap. 36. 23. and 37. 28.

^a Or destroy thee with six plagues, as Chap. 38. 23.

^b Meaning, that by the verbe of Gods word, the enemy shall be destroyed wherefore he shall be Church.

^c That is, among all nations where the enemies of my people dwell, seeme they never so farr separate.

^d That is, this plague is fully determined in my counsell, and cannot be changed.

^e After this destruction the Church shall have great peace and tranquillity, and burne all their weapons, because they shall no more feare the enemy: and this is chiefly meant of the accomplishment of Christs kingdom, when by their head Christ, all enemies shall bee overcome.

^f Which declaration, that the enemies shall have an horrible fall.

^g For the stinke of the cakesies.

^h Or, of the multitude of Gog, meaning, a long time.

ⁱ Partly, that the holy land should not bee polluted, and partly, for the compassion that the children of God have, even on their enemies.

^k Whereby hee signifies the horrible destruction that should come upon the enemies of his Church.

of Israel, shall goe forth, and shall burne and set fire upon the weapons, and on the shields, and bucklers, upon the bowes, and upon the arrowes, and upon the staves in their hands, and upon the speares, and they shall burne them with fire seven yeares.

10. So that they shall bring no wood out of the field, neither cut downe any out of the Forrests: for they shall burne the weapons with fire, and they shall rob those that robbed them: and spoile those that spoiled them, saith the Lord God.

11. And at the same time will I give unto Gog ^a a place there for a buriall in Israel, even the valley whereby men goe toward the East part of the sea: and it shall cause them that passe by, to stop their noses; and there shall they bury Gog with all his multitude: and they shall call it the valley of [†] Hamon-Gog.

12. And seven months long shall the house of Israel be burying of them, that they may cleanse the land.

13. Yea, all the people of the land shall bury them, and they shall have a name when I shall bee glorified, saith the Lord God.

14. And they shall chuse out men to go continually through the ⁱ land with them that travell, to bury those that remaine upon the ground, to cleanse it: they shall search to the end of seven moneths.

15. And the travellers that passe through the land, if ^{any} see a mans bone, then shall hee set up a signe by it, till the buriers have buried it, in the valley of Hamon-Gog.

16. And also the name of the city shall be [†] Hamonah: thus shall they cleanse the land.

17. And thou son of man, thus saith the Lord God, Speake unto every feathered fowle, and to all the beasts of the field, Assemble your selves, and come: ^k gather your selves on every side to my sacrifice: for I doe sacrifice a great sacrifice for you upon the mountaines of Israel, that yee may cate flesh, and drinke blood.

18. Yee shall cate the flesh of the valiant, and drinke the blood of the princes of the earth, of the weathers, of the lambs, and of the goates, and of bullocks, even of all fat beasts of Balhan.

19. And ye shall eat fat till ye be full, and drinke blood till yee bee drunken of my sacrifice, which I have sacrificed for you.

20. Thus you shall bee filled at my table with horses and chariots, with valiant men, and with all men of warre, saith the Lord God.

21. And I will set my glory among the heathen, and all the heathen shall see my judgement that I have executed, and mine hand, which I have laid upon them.

22. So the house of Israel shall know that I am the Lord their God from that day and so forth.

23. And the heathen shall know, that the house of Israel went into captivity for their iniquity, because they trespassed against mee: therefore hid I my face from them, and gave them into the hand of their enemies: so fell they all by the sword.

24. According to their uncleannesse, and according to their transgressions have I done unto them, and hid my face from them.

25. Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Now will I bring againe the captivity of Jaakob, and have compassion upon the whole house of Israel, and will bee jealous for mine holy Name.

26. After that they have borne their shame, and all their transgressions, whereby they have transgressed against mee, when they dwelt safely in their land, and without feare of any.

27. When I have brought them again from the people, and gathered them out of their enemies lands, and am ^{*} sanctified in them in the sight of many nations,

28. Then shall they know that I am the Lord their God, which caused them to bee led into captivity among the heathen: but I have gathered them unto their owne land, and have left none of them any more there,

29. Neither will I hide my face any more from them: for I have powred out my Spirit upon the house of Israel, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XL.

The restoring of the city and the Temple.

IN the five and twentieth yeare of our being in captivity, in the ^a beginning of the yeare, in the tenth ^{day} of the moneth, in the foureteenth yeare after that the city was smitten; in the selfe same day, the hand of the Lord was upon mee; and brought mee thither.

2. Into the land of Israel brought hee mee by [†] a divine vision, and set mee upon a very high mountaine, whereupon was as the building of a city toward the South.

3. And hee brought mee thither, and behold, there was a ^b man, whose similitude was to looke to like brasse, with a linnen threed in his hand, and a reed to measure with: and hee stood at the gate.

4. And

ⁱ The heathen shall know that they overcame not my people by their strength, neither yet by the weakenesse of mine arme, but that this was for my peoples sins.

^{*} Chap. 36. 23.

^a The Jewes counted the beginning of the yeare after two sorts: for their feasts they began to count in March; and for their other affaires in September: so that this is to bee understood of September.

[†] Or, vision of God.

^b Which was an Angel in forme of a man, that came to measure out this building.

4 And the man said unto mee, Son of man, behold with thine eyes, and heare with thine eares, and set thine heart upon all that I shall shew thee: for to the intent that they might bee shewed thee, art thou brought hither: declare all that thou seest unto the house of Israel.

5 And behold, I saw a wall on the outside of the house round about: and in the mans hand was a reed to measure with, of six cubits long, by the cubite, and an hand breadth: so he measured the breadth of the building with one reed, and the height with one reed.

6 Then came he unto the gate, which looketh toward the East, and went up the staires thereof, and measured the † post of the gate, which was one reed broad, and † the other post of the gate, which was one reed broad.

† Or, upper post.

7 And every chamber was one reed long, and one reed broad, and betweene the chambers were five cubits: and the post of the gate by the porch of the gate within was one reed.

8 He measured also the porch of the gate within, with one reed.

† Or, post.

9 Then measured hee the porch of the gate of eight cubits, and the † posts thereof, of two cubits, and the porch of the gate was inward.

10 And the Chambers of the gate Eastward, were three on this side, and three on that side: they three were of one measure, and the posts had one measure on this side, and one on that side.

11 And he measured the breadth of the entry of the gate ten cubits, and the height of the gate thirteene cubits.

12 The space also before the chambers was one cubit on this side, and the space was one cubit on that side, and the chambers were six cubits on this side, and six cubits on that side.

13 He measured then the gate from the rooffe of a chamber to the top of the gate: the breadth was five and twenty cubits, doore against doore.

14 Hee made also posts of threescore cubits, and the posts of the court, and of the gate had one measure round about.

15 And upon the forefront of the entry of the gate unto the forefront of the porch of the gate within, were fifty cubites.

16 And there were narrow windowes in the chambers, and in their posts within the gate round about, and likewise to the arches: and the windowes were round about within: and upon the posts were palme-trees.

17 ¶ Then brought hee mee into the outward court, and loe, there were chambers, and a pavement made for the court round about, and thirty chambers were upon the pavement.

18 And the pavement was by the side of the gates over against the length of the gates, and the pavement was beneath.

19 Then hee measured the breadth from the forefront of the lower gate without unto the forefront of the court within, an hundred cubites Eastward and Northward.

20 And the gate of the outward court, that looked toward the North, measured he after the length and breadth thereof.

21 And the chambers thereof, were three on this side, and three on that side, and the posts thereof, and the arches thereof, were after the measure of the first gate: the length thereof was fifty cubites, and the breadth five and twenty cubites.

22 And their windowes and their arches with their palme-trees, were after the measure of the gate that looketh toward the East, and the going up unto it had seven steps, and the arches thereof were before them.

23 And the gate of the inner court stood over against the gate toward the North, and toward the East, and hee measured from gate to gate an hundred cubites.

24 After that, he brought mee toward the South, and loe, there was a gate toward the South, and he measured the posts thereof, and the arches thereof according to these measures.

25 And there were windowes in it, and in the arches thereof round about, like those windowes: the height was fifty cubites, and the breadth five and twenty cubites.

26 And there were seven steps to goe up to it, and the arches thereof were before them: and it had palme-trees, one on this side, and another on that side upon the posts thereof.

27 ¶ And there was a gate in the inner Court toward the South, and he measured from gate to gate toward the South an hundred cubites.

28 And he brought mee into the inner Court by the South gate, and he measured the South gate according to these measures.

29 And the chambers thereof, and the posts thereof, and the arches thereof, according to these measures, and there were windowes in it, and in the arches thereof round about, it was fifty cubites long, and five and twenty cubites broad.

30 And the arches round about were five five and twenty cubites long, and five cubites broad.

31 And the arches thereof were toward the utter court, and palme trees were upon the posts thereof, and the going up to it had eight steps.

32 ¶ Againe, hee brought me into the inner court toward the East, and he measured the gate according to these measures, 33 And the posts thereof, and the arches thereof were according to these measures, and there were windowes therein, and in the arches thereof round about, it was fiftie cubites long, and five and twenty cubits broad.

34 And the arches thereof were toward the utter court, and palme trees were upon the posts thereof, on this side and on that side, and the going up to it had eight steps.

35 ¶ After he brought me to the North gate, and measured it according to these measures.

36 The chambers thereof, the postes thereof, and the arches thereof, and there were windowes therein round about: the height was fiftie cubites, and the breadth five and twentie cubites.

37 And the postes thereof were toward the utter court, and palme trees were upon the postes thereof on this side, and on that side, and the going up to it had eight steps.

38 And every chamber, and the entrie thereof was under the postes of the gates: there they washed the burnt offering.

39 And in the porch of the gate stood two tables on this side, and two tables on that side, upon the which they flew the burnt-offering, and the sinne-offering, and the trespass-offering.

40 And at the sides beyond the steps, at the entrie of the North gate stood two tables, and on the other side, which was at the porch of the gate were two tables.

41 Foure tables were on this side, and foure tables on that side, by the side of the gate, even eight tables whereupon they flew their sacrifices.

42 And the foure tables were of hewen stone for the burnt offering, of a cubit and an halfe long, and a cubite and an halfe broad, and one cubite high: whereupon also they laid the instruments wherewith they flew the burnt offering and the sacrifice.

43 And within were boardes an hand broad fastned round about, and upon the tables lay the flesh of the offering.

44 And without the inner gate were the chambers of the singers in the inner court, which was at the side of the North gate: and their prospect was toward the South, and one was at the side of the East gate, having the prospect toward the North.

45 And he said unto me, This chamber whose prospect is toward the South, is for the Priests that have charge to keep the house.

46 And the chamber whose prospect is toward the North, is for the Priests that have the charge to keepe the Altar: these are the sonnes of Zadok among the sonnes of Levi, which may come neere to the Lord to minister unto him.

47 So he measured the court, an hundred cubits long, and an hundred cubits broad, even foure square: likewise the Altar that was before the house.

48 And he brought me to the porch of the house, and measured the posts of the porch, five cubites on this side, and five cubits on that side: and the breadth of the gate was three cubits on this side, and three cubits on that side.

49 The length of the porch was twentie cubits, and the breadth eleven cubits, and he brought mee by the steps whereby they went up to it, and there were pillars by the posts, one on this side, and another on that side.

C H A P. XLI.

¹ The disposition and order of the building of the Temple, and the other things thereto belonging.

Afterward hee brought mee to the Temple, and mesured the posts, fixe cubits broad on the one side, and fixe cubites broad on the other side, which was the breadth of the Tabernacle.

2 And the breadth of the entrie was tenne cubits, and the sides of the entry were five cubits on the one side, and five cubits on the other side, and hee measured the length thereof forty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits.

3 Then went he in, and measured the posts of the entry two cubits, and the entrie fixe cubits, and the breadth of the entrie seven cubits.

4 So he measured the length thereof twenty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits before the Temple. And he said unto me, This is the most holy place.

5 After, he measured the wall of the house, fixe cubits, and the breadth of every chamber, foure cubits round about the house, on every side.

6 And the chambers were chamber upon chamber, three and thirtie foot high, and they entred into the wall made for the chambers which was round about the house, that the posts might be fastned therein, and not be fastned in the wall of the house.

7 And it was large, and went round, mounting upward to the chambers: for the staire of the house was mounting upward round about the house: therefore the house was larger upward: so they went up from the lowest chamber to the highest by the mids.
 I i mount

8 I saw also the house high round about: the foundations of the chambers were a full reede of fixe great cubits.

9 The thickenesse of the wall which was for the chamber without, was five cubits, and that which remained was the place of the chambers that were within.

10 And betweene the chambers was the wideness of twenty cubits round about the house on every side.

11 And the doores of the chambers were toward the place that remained, one doore toward the North, and another doore toward the South, and the breadth of the place that remained, was five cubits round about.

12 Now the building that was before the separate place toward the West corner, was seventie cubites broad, and the wall of the building was five cubites thicke, round about, and the length ninetie cubites.

13 So he measured the house an hundred cubits long, and the separate place and the building with the walles thereof were an hundred cubits long.

14 Also the breadth of the forefront of the house, and of the separate place toward the East, was an hundred cubits.

15 And he measured the length of the building, over against the separate place, which was behinde it, and the chambers on the one side and on the other side an hundred cubits with the Temple within, and the arches of the court.

16 The postes and the narrow windowes, and the chambers round about, on three sides over against the postes, sieled with Cedar wood round about, and from the ground up to the windowes, and the windowes were sieled.

17 And from above the doore unto the innerhouse and without, and by all the wall round about within and without it was sieled according to the measure.

18 And it was made with Chrubims and palme trees, so that a palme tree was betweene a Cherub and a Cherub: and every Cherub had two faces.

19 So that the face of a man was toward the palme tree on the one side, and the face of a lion toward the palme tree on the other side: thus was it made through all the house round about.

20 From the ground unto above the doore were Cherubims and palmetrees made as in the wall of the Temple.

21 The postes of the Temple were squared, and thus to looke unto was the similitude and forme of the Sanctuary.

22 The Altar of wood was three cubits high, and the length thereof two cubites, and the corners thereof, and the length thereof, and the sides thereof were of wood. And he said unto me, This is the table that shall be before the Lord.

23 And the Temple and the Sanctuary had two doores.

24 And the doores had two wickets, even two turning wickets, two wickets for one doore, and two wickets for another doore.

25 And upon the doores of the Temple there were made Cherubims and palm trees, like as was made upon the walles, and there were thicke planks upon the forefront of the porch without.

26 And there were narrow windowes and palme trees on the one side, and on the other side, by the sides of the porch, and upon the sides of the house, and thick planks.

CHAP. XLII.

Of the chambers of the Temple for the Priests, and the holy things.

THen brought hee mee into the utter court by the way toward the North, and he brought me into the chamber that was over against the separate place, and which was before the building, toward the North.

2 Before the length of an hundred cubits, was the North doore, and it was fiftie cubits broad.

3 Over against the twenty cubites which were for the inner court, and over against the pavement, which was for the utter court, was chamber against chamber in three rowes.

4 And before the chambers was a gallerie of tenne cubits wide, and within was a way of one cubite, and their doores toward the North.

5 Now the chambers above were narrower: for those chambers seemed to eat up these, to wit, the lower, and those that were in the mids of the building.

6 For they were in three rowes, but had not pillars as the pillars of the court: therefore there was a difference from them beneath and from the middlemost, even from the ground.

7 And the wall that was without over against the chambers, toward the utter court on the forefront of the chambers, was fiftie cubits long.

8 For the length of the chambers that were in the utter court, was fiftie cubits: and loe, before the Temple were an hundred cubites.

9 And

9 And under these chambers was the entry, on the East side, as one goeth into them from the outward court.

10 The chambers were in the thicknes of the wall of the court toward the East, over against the separate place, and over against the building.

11 And the way before them was after the maner of the chambers, which were toward the North, as long as they, and as broad as they: and all their entries were like, both according to their fashions, and according to their doores.

12 And according to the doores of the chambers, that were toward the South, was a doore in the corner of the way, even the way directly before the wall toward the East, as one entreth.

13 Then said he unto me, The North chambers and the South chambers which are before the separate place, they be holy chambers; wherein the Priests that approach unto the Lord, shall eate the most holy things; there shall they lay the most holy things, and the meate-offering, and the sinne-offering, and the trespass-offering: for the place is holy.

14 When the Priests enter therein, they shall not goe out of the holy place into the utter court, but there they shall lay their garments wherein they minister: for they are holy, and shall put on other garments, and so shall approach to those things, which are for the people.

15 Now when he had made an end of measuring the inner house, he brought me forth toward the gate whose prospect is toward the East, and measured it round about.

16 He measured the East side with the measuring rodde, five hundreth reedes, even with the measuring reede round about.

17 Hee measured also the North side, five hundreth reedes, even with the measuring reede round about.

† Or, winds.

18 And he measured the South ‡ side, five hundreth reedes with the measuring reede.

19 He turned about also to the West side, and measured five hundreth reedes with the measuring reede.

20 He measured it by the foure sides: it had a wall round about, five hundreth reedes long, and five hundreth broad, to make a separation betweene the Sanctuarie, and the prophane place.

CHAP. XLIII.

2 Hee seeth the glory of God going into the Temple, from whence it had before departed. 7 Hee mentioneth the idolatrie of the children of Israel, for the which they were consumed and brought to nought. 9 Hee is commanded to call them againe to repentance.

Afterward he brought me to the gate, even the gate that turneth toward the East.

2 And behold, the glory of the God of Israel came from out of the East, whose voice was like a noise of great waters, and the earth was made light with his glory.

3 And the vision which I saw was * like the vision, even as the vision that I saw ^a when I came to destroy the cite: and the visions were like the vision that I saw by the river Chebar: and I fell upon my face:

* Chap. 9. 3.

^a When I prophesied the destruction of the cite by the Chaldeans.

4 And the ^b glory of the Lord came into the house by the way of the gate, whose prospect is toward the East.

^b Which was departed afore, Chap. 10. 4. and 11. 22.

5 So the Spirit tooke mee up and brought me into the inner court, and behold, the glory of the Lord filled the house.

6 And I heard one speaking unto me out of the house: and there stood a man by me,

7 Which said unto me, Son of man, this place is my throne, and the place of the soles of my feet, whereas I will dwell among the children of Israel for ever, and the house of Israel shall no more ^c defile mine holy Name, neither they, nor their Kings by their fornication, nor by the carkeises of ^d their Kings in their high places.

8 Albeit they set their thresholds by my thresholds, and their postes by my posts (for there was but a wall betweene mee and them) yet have they defiled mine holy Name with their abominations, that they have committed: wherefore I have consumed them in my wrath.

9 Now therefore let them put away their fornication, and the carkeises of their Kings farre from mee, and I will dwell among them for ever.

10 ¶ Thou sonne of man, shew this House to the house of Israel; that they may bee ashamed of their wickednesse, and let them measure the paterne.

11 And if they be ashamed of all that they have done, shew them the forme of the House, and the paterne thereof, and the going out thereof, and the coming in thereof, and the whole fashion thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and all the figures thereof, and all the laws thereof: and write it in their sight, that they may keepe the whole fashion thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and doe them.

12 This is the ‡ description of the House, It shall bee upon the toppe of the mount: all the limits thereof round about shall be most holy. Behold, this is the description of the house.

‡ Ebr. Law.

13 And

13 And these are the measures of the Altar, after the cubites, the cubite is a cubite and an handbreadth, even the bottome shall be a cubite, and the breadth a cubite, and the border thereof by the edge thereof round about shall be a span: and this shall be the height of the Altar.

14 And from the bottome which toucheth the ground to the lower piece shall be two cubites: and the breadth one cubite, and from the little piece to the great piece shall be foure cubits, and the breadth one cubite.

15 So the altar shall be foure cubites, and from the altar upwards shall be foure hornes.

16 And the altar shall be twelve cubites long, and twelve broad, and foure square in the foure corners thereof.

17 And the frame shall be fourteene cubites long, and foureteene broad in the foure square corners thereof, and the border about it shall be halfe a cubite, and the bottome thereof shall be a cubite about, and the steps thereof shall be turned toward the East.

18 ¶ And he said unto me, Sonne of man, thus saith the Lord God, These are the ordinances of the altar in the day when they shall make it to offer the burnt offering thereon, and to sprinkle blood thereon.

19 And thou shalt give to the Priests, and to the Levites that be of the seed of Zadok, which approach unto me to minister unto me, saith the Lord, a young bullocke for a sinne offering.

20 And thou shalt take of the blood thereof, and put it on the foure hornes of it, and on the foure corners of the frame, and upon the border round about: thus shalt thou cleanse it, and reconcile it.

21 Thou shalt take the bullocke also of the sinne offering, and burne it in the appointed place of the house without the Sanctuary.

22 But the second day thou shalt offer an hee goat without blemish for a sinne offering, and they shall cleanse the altar, as they did cleanse it with the bullock.

23 When thou hast made an end of cleansing it, thou shalt offer a young bullock without blemish, and a ram out of the flock without blemish.

24 And thou shalt offer them before the Lord, and the Priests shall cast salt upon them, and they shall offer them for a burnt offering unto the Lord.

25 Seven dayes shalt thou prepare every day an hee goat for a sinne offering: they shall also prepare a young bullocke and a ramme out of the flocke, without blemish.

C H A P. XLV.

1 Out of the land of promise are there separated four portions, of which the first is given to the Priests and to the Temple, the second to the Levites, the third to the city, the fourth to the Prince. 9 An exhortation to the heads of Israel. 10 Of just weights and measures. 13 Of the first fruits, &c.

Moreover, when ye shall divide the land for inheritance, ye shall offer an oblation unto the Lord an ^a holy portion of the land, five and twenty thousand reeds long, and ten thousand broad: this shall be holy in all the borders thereof round about.

^a Of all the land of Israel the Lord only requireth this portion for the Temple, and for the Priests, for the city, and for the prince.

2 Of this there shall be for the Sanctuary five hundred in length, with five hundred in breadth, all square round about, and fifty cubites round about for the suburbs thereof.

3 And of this measure shalt thou measure the length of five and twenty thouland, and the breadth of ten thousand: and it shall be the Sanctuarie, and the most holy place.

4 The holy portion of the land shall be the Priests, which minister in the Sanctuarie which come neare to serve the Lord: and it shall be a place for their houses, and an holy place for the Sanctuarie.

5 And in the five and twenty thousand of length, and the ten thousand of breadth, shall the Levites that minister in the house, have their possession for twentie chambers.

6 Also ye shall appoint the possession of the citie, five thousand broad, and five and twentie thousand long over against the oblation of the holy portion: it shall be for the whole house of Israel.

7 And a portion shall be for the prince on one side, and on that side of the oblation of the holy portion, and of the possession of the citie, even before the oblation of the holy portion, and before the possession of the citie from the West corner Westward, and from the East corner Eastward, and the length shall be by one of the portions from the West border unto the East border.

8 In this land shall be his possession in Israel: and my princes shall no more oppress my people, and the rest of the land shall they give to the house of Israel according to their tribes.

^b The Prophet sheweth that the heads must be first reformed afore any good order can be established among the people.

9 Thus saith the Lord God, Let ^b it suffice you, O princes of Israel: leave off crueltie and oppression, and execute judgement and justice: take away your exactions from my people, saith the Lord God.

10 Ye shall have just balance, and a true ^c Ephah, and a true Bath.

^c Ephah and Bath were both of one quantity, save that Ephah contained in drie things, that which Bath did in liquor, Levit. 5. 11. 1 King. 5. 11.

11 The Ephah and the Bath shall be equall: a Bath shall containe the tenth part of an Homer, and Ephah the tenth part of an Homer: the equalitie thereof shall be after the Homer.

13 ¶ This is the oblation that yee shall offer, the sixt part of an Ephah of an Homer of wheate, and ye shall give the sixt part of an Ephah of an Homer of barley.

14 Concerning the ordinance of the oile, even of the Bath of oile, ye shall offer the tenth part of a Bath out of the Cor (ten Baths are an Homer: for ten Baths fill an Homer.)

for a meat offering, and for a burnt offering and for peace offerings, to make reconciliation for them, saith the Lord God.

16 All the people of the land shall give this oblation for the prince in Israel.

17 And it shall be the princes part to give burnt offerings, and meat offerings, and drinke offerings in the solemne feasts and in the new Moones, and in the Sabbaths, and in all the high feasts of the house of Israel: he shall prepare the sinne offerings, and the meat offering, and the burnt offering, and the peace offerings to make reconciliation for the house of Israel.

18 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, In the first moneth, in the first day of ^e the moneth, thou shalt take a young bullocke without blemish, and cleanse the Sanctuarie.

20 And so shalt thou doe the seventh day of the moneth, for every one that hath erred, and for him that is deceived: so shall you reconcile the house.

25 In the seventh moneth, in the fifteenth day of the moneth shall he doe the like in the feast for seven daies, according to the sinne offering, according to the burnt offering, and according to the meat offering, and according to the oile.

CHAP. XLVI.

¹ The sacrifices of the Sabbath, and of the new Moones.
⁸ Thorow which doores they must goe in, or come out of the Temple, &c.

Thus saith the Lord God, The gate of the inner court that turneth toward the East, shall be shut the sixe working daies: but on the Sabbath it shall be opened, and in the day of the new Moone it shall be opened.

2 And the Prince shall enter by the way of the porch of that gate without, and shall stand by the poste of the gate, and the Priest shall make his burnt offering, and his peace offerings, and he shall worship at the threshold of the gate: after, he shall goe forth, but the gate shall not be shut till the evening.

3 Likewise, the people of the land shall worship at the entrie of this gate before the Lord on the Sabbaths, and in the new Moones.

4 And the burnt offering that the Prince shall offer unto the Lord on the Sabbath day, shall be sixe lambes without blemish, and a ram without blemish.

5 And the meate offering shall be an Ephah for a ramme: and the meate offering for the lambes ^a a gift of his hand, and an Hin of oile to an Ephah.

6 And in the day of the new Moone it shall be a young bullocke without blemish, and sixe lambes and a ramme: they shall be without blemish.

7 And he shall prepare a meate offering, even an Ephah for a bullocke, and an Ephah for a ramme, and for the lambes ^b according as his hand shall bring, and an Hin of oile to an Ephah.

8 And when the Prince shall enter, he shall goe in by the way of the porch of that gate, and he shall goe forth by the way thereof.

9 But when the people of the land shall come before the Lord in the solemn feasts, he that entreth in by the way of the North gate to worhip, shall goe out by the way of the South gate: and he that entreth by the way of the South gate, shall goe forth by the way of the North gate: he shall not returne by the way of the gate whereby he came in, but they shall goe forth over against it.

10 And the Prince shall be in the mids of them: he shall goe in when they goe in, and when they goe forth, they shall goe forth together.

11 And in the feasts, and in the solemnities the meat offering shall be an Ephah to a bullocke, and an Ephah to a ramme, and to the lambes, the gift of his hand, and an Hin of oile to an Ephah.

12 Now when the Prince shall make a free burnt offering or peace offerings freely unto the Lord, one shall then open him the gate, that turneth toward the East, and he shall make his burnt offering and his peace offerings, as he did on the Sabbath day: after, he shall goe forth, and when he is gone forth, one shall shut the gate.

13 Thou shalt daily make a burnt offering unto the Lord of a lambe of one yeere without blemish: thou shalt doe it everie morning.

14 And thou shalt prepare a meate offering for it everie morning, the sixt part of an Ephah, and the third part of an Hin of oile, to mingle with the fine flour: this meate offering shall be continually by a perpetuall ordinance unto the Lord.

15 Thus shall they prepare the lambe, and the meate offering and the oile everie morning, for a continuall burnt offering.

16 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, If the prince give a gift of his inheritance unto any of his sonnes, it shall be his sonnes, and it shall be their possession by inheritance.

17 But if he give a gift of his inheritance to one of his servants, then it shall be his to the ^c yeere of libertie: after, it shall returne to the Prince, but his inheritance shall remaine to his sonnes for them.

18 Moreover, the Prince shall ^d not take of the peoples inheritance, nor thrust them out of their possession: but he shall cause his sonnes to inherit of his owne possession, that my people be not scattered everie man from his possession.

19 ¶ After, he brought me through the entrie, which was at the side of the gate, into the holy chambers of the Priests which stood toward the North: and behold, there was a place at the West side of them.

20 Then said he unto me, This is the place where the Priests shall see the trespass offering, and the sin offering, where they shall bake the meate offering, that they should not beare them into the utter Court, ^e to sanctifie the people.

21 Then he brought me forth into the utter court, and caused me to goe by the foure corners of the court: and behold, in everie corner of the court, there was a court.

22 In the foure corners of the court there were courts joined of fortie cubites long, and thirtie broad: these foure corners were of one measure.

23 And there went a wall about them, even about those foure, and kitchins were made under the walles round about.

24 Then said he unto me, This is the kitchen where the ministers of the house shall see the sacrifice of the people.

Afterward he brought me unto the doore of the house : and behold, ^a waters issued out from the threshold of the house Eastward : for the fore-front of the house stood toward the East, and the waters ran downe from under the right side of the house, at the South side of the Altar.

2 Then brought he me out toward the North gate, and led me about by the way without unto the utter gate, by the way that turneth Eastward : and behold, there came forth waters on the right side.

3 And when the man that had the line in his hand, went forth Eastward, he measured a thousand cubites, and hee brought me through the waters : the waters were to the ancles.

4 Againe, he measured a thousand ; and brought me through the waters : the waters were to the knees : againe, he measured a thousand, & brought me through : the waters were to the loines.

b Signifying, that the graces of God should never decrease, but ever abound in his Church.

5 Afterward he measured a thousand, and it was a ^b river, that I could not passe over : for the waters were risen, and the waters did flow, as a river that could not be passed over.

6 And he said unto me, Sonne of man, hast thou seene this? Then he brought me, and caused me to returne to the brinke of the river.

c Meaning, the multitude of them that should be refreshed by the spiritual waters, d Shewing, that the abundance of these graces should be so great, that all the world should be full thereof, which is here meant by the Persian sea, or Geneareth, and the Sea called Mediterranean, Zech. 14. 8. e The waters which of nature are salt and unwholesome, shall be made sweet and comfortable.

7 Now when I returned, behold, at the brinke of the river were very ^c many trees on the one side, and on the other.

8 Then said he unto me, These waters issue out towards the East countrey, and run downe into the plaine, and shall goe into one ^d Sea : they shall runne into another Sea, and the ^e waters shall be wholesome.

9 And every thing that liveth, which moveth, wheresoever the rivers shall come, shall live, and there shall be a very great multitude of fish, because these waters shall come thither : for they shall be wholesome, and every thing shall live whither the river commeth.

f Signifying, that when God bestoweth his mercies in such abundance, the ministers shall by their preaching win many.

10 And then the ^f fishers shall stand upon it, and from En-gedi even unto ^g Englain, they shall spread out their nets : for their fish shall be according to their kindes, as the fish of ^h the maine sea, exceeding many.

16 Hamath, Berothah, Sibram, which is between the border of Damascus, and the border of Hamath, and Hazar, Hatticon, which is by the coast of Hauran.

17 And the border from the Sea shall be Hazar, Enan, and the border of Damascus, and the residue of the North, Northward, and the border of Hamath : so shall be the North part.

18 But the East side shall ye measure from Hauran, and from Damascus, and from Gilead, and from the land of Israel by Jorden, and from the border unto the East sea : and so shall be the East part.

19 And the South side shall be toward Teman from Tamar to the waters [†] of Meriboth in Kadesh, and the river to the maine sea : so shall be the South part toward Teman.

20 The West part also shall be the great sea from the border, till a man come over against Hamath : this shall be the West part.

2 And by the border of Dan from the East side unto the West side, a portion for Asher.

3 And by the border of Asher from the East part even unto the West part, a portion for Naphtali.

4 And by the border of Naphtali from the East quarter unto the West side, a portion for Manasseh.

6 And by the border of Ephraim, from the East part even unto the West part, a portion for Reuben.

7 And by the border of Reuben, from the East quarter unto the West quarter, a portion for Judah.

8 And by the border of Judah, from the East part unto the West part, ^b shall be the offering which they shall offer of five and twenty thousand reeds broad, and of length as one of the other parts, from the East side unto the West side, and the Sanctuary shall be in the mids of it.

13 And over against the border of the Priests, the Levites shall have five and twenty thousand long, and ten thousand broad: all the length shall be five and twenty thousand, and the breadth ten thousand.

14 And they shall not sell of it, neither change it, nor alienate the first fruits of the land: for it is holy unto the Lord.

15 And the five thousand that are left in the breadth over against the five and twenty thousand, shall be a prophane place for the citie, for housing, and for suburbs, and the citie shall be in the mids thereof.

16 And these shall be the measures thereof, the North part five hundred and four thousand, and the South part ^c five hundred and four thousand, and the East part five hundred and four thousand; and the West part five hundred and four thousand.

17 And the suburbs of the citie shall be toward the North two hundred and fiftie, and toward the South two hundred and fiftie, and toward the East two hundred and fiftie, and toward the West two hundred and fiftie.

18 And the residue in length over against the oblation of the holy portion, shall be ten thousand Eastward, and ten thousand Westward: and it shall be over against the oblation of the holy portion, and the increase thereof shall be food for unto them that serve in the citie.

19 And they that serve in the citie, shall be of all the tribes of Israel that shall serve therein.

20 All the oblation shall be five and twenty thousand with ^d five and twenty thousand: you shall offer this oblation, four square for the Sanctuary, and for the possession of the citie.

21 And the residue shall be for the Prince on the one side, and on the other of the oblation of the Sanctuary, and of the possession of the citie, over against the five and twenty thousand of the oblation toward the East border, and Westward over against the five and twenty thousand toward the West border, over against shall be for the portion of the Prince: this shall be the holy oblation, and the house of the Sanctuary shall be in the middes thereof.

22 Moreover, from the possession of the Levites, and from the possession of the citie, that which is in the mids shall be the Princes: between the border ^e of Judah, and between the border of Benjamin shall be the Princes.

23 And the rest of the tribes shall be thus: from the East part unto the West part, Benjamin shall be a portion.

24 And by the border of Benjamin from the East side unto the West side, Simeon a portion.

25 And by the border of Simeon, from the East part unto the West part, Issachar a portion.

26 And by the border of Issachar, from the East side unto the West, Zebulun a portion.

DANIEL.

THE ARGUMENT.

In the great providence of God, and his singular mercie toward his Church are most lively here set forth, who never leaveth his destitute, but now in their greatest miseries and afflictions giveth them Prophets, as Ezekiel, and Daniel, whom he adorned with such graces of his holy Spirit, that Daniel above all other had most speciall revelations of such things as should come to the Church, even from the time that they were in captivitie, to the last end of the world, and to the generall resurrection, as of the foure Monarchies and Empires of all the world, to wit, of the Babylonians, Persians, Grecians, and Romanes. Also, of the certaine number of the times even unto Christ, when all ceremonies and sacrifices should cease, because he should be the accomplishment thereof: moreover, he sheweth Christs office and the cause of his death, which was by his sacrifice to take away sinnes, and to bring everlasting life. And as from the beginning, God ever exercised his people under the crosse, so he teacheth here, that after that Christ is offered, he will still leave this exercise to his Church untill the dead rise againe, and Christ gather his into his kingdome in the heavens.

CHAP. I.

1 The captivitie of Jehojakim King of Judah. 4 The King chuseth certaine young men of the Jewes to learne his law. 5 They have the Kings ordinarie appointed, 8 But they abstaine from it.

^a Reade 2 Kin. 24. 1. and Jerem. 25. 1.

In the ^a third yeere of the raigne of Jehojakim king of Judah, came Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel unto Jerusalem and besieged it.

2 And the Lord gave Jehojakim king of Judah into his hand, with part of the vessels of the house of God, which he caried into the land of ^b Shinar, to the house of his god, and he brought the vessels into his gods treasure.

3 And the king spake unto ^c Ashpenaz the master of his ^d Eunuches, that he should bring certaine of the children of Israel, of the ^e kings seed, and of the Princes:

4 Children in whom was no blemish, but well ^f favoured, and instructed in all wisdom, and well seen in knowledg, and able to utter knowledge, and such as were able to stand in the kings palace, and whom they might teach the ^g learning, and the tongue of the Caldeans.

5 And the King appointed them provision every day of a ^h portion of the kings meat, and of the wine which he drank, so nourishing them ⁱ three yeare, that at the end thereof, they might ^k stand before the King.

^e His purpose was to keep them as hostages, and that he might shew himself victorious, and also by their good intreaty and learning of his religion, they might favour rather him then the Jewes, and so to be able to serve him as governors in their land: moreover, by this means the Jewes might be better kept in subjection, fearing otherwise to procure hurt to their noble men. ^f The King required three things, that they should be of noble birth, that they should be witty and learned, and that they should be of a strong and comely nature, that they might doe him better service: this did he for his owne commoditie, therefore it is not to praise his liberalitie: yet in this he is worthy praise, that he esteemed learning, and knew that it was a necessarie meane to govern by. ^g That they might forget their owne religion and countrey fashions, to serve him the better to his purpose: yet it is not to be thought that Daniel did learne any knowledge that was not godly: in all points he refused the abuse of things and superstition, inasmuch that he would not eat the meat that the king appointed him, but was content to learn the knowledge of naturall things. ^h That by their good entertainment they might learne to forget the mediocritie of their owne people. ⁱ To the intent that in this time they might both learn the manners of the Caldeans, and also their tongue. ^k As well to serve at the table, as in other offices.

^b Which was a plaine by Babylon, where was the temple of their great god, and is here taken for Babylon. ^c Who was as master of the Ward. ^d He calleth them Eunuches whom the king nourished and brought up to be rulers of other countries afterward.

6 Now

6 Now among these were certaine of the children of Judah, Daniel, Hana-niah, Misael and Azariah.

7 Unto whom the chiefe of the Eunuch¹ gave other names: for he called Daniel, Belteshazzar; and Hananiah, Shadrach, and Misael, Melchach, and Azariah, Abednego.

8 ¶ But Daniel had determined in his heart, that he would not ^m defile himselfe with the portion of the Kings meat, nor with the wine which he dranke: therfore hee required the chiefe of the Eu-nuches that he might not defile himselfe.

9 (Now God had brought Daniel into favour, and tender love with the chiefe of the Eunuches)

10 And the chiefe of the Eunuches said unto Daniel, ⁿ I feare my lord the king, who hath appointed your meate and your drinke: therefore if he see your faces worse liking then the other children, which are of your sort, then shall you make me lose mine head unto the king.

11 Then said Daniel to Melzar, whom the chiefe of the Eunuches had set over Daniel, Hananiah, Misael, and Azariah,

12 Prove thy servants, I beseech thee, ^o ten daies, and let them give us ^p pulse to eate, and water to drinke.

13 Then let our countenances be looked upon before thee, and the countenances of the children that eat of the portion of the kings meat: and as thou seest, deale with thy servants.

14 So hee consented to them in this matter, and proved them ten daies.

15 And at the end of ten daies, their ^q countenances appeared fairer and in-^r better liking then all the childrens, which did eat the portion of the Kings meat.

16 Thus Melzar tooke away the portion of their meate, and the wine that they should drinke, and gave them pulse.

17 As for these foure children, God gave them knowledge, and understanding in all learning ^r and wisdom: also hee gave Daniel understanding of all ^r visions and dreames.

18 Now when the time was ^r expired, that the King had appointed to bring them in, the chiefe of the Eunuches brought them before Nebuchad-nezzar.

19 And the King communed with them: and among them all was found none like Daniel, Hananiah, Misael, and Azariah: therefore stood they before the King.

20 And in all matters of wisdom, and understanding that the king enquired of them, he found them ten times better then all the inchanters and Astrologians, that were in all his realme.

21 And Daniel was unto ^v the first yeere of King Cyrus.

CHAP. II.

mandeth all the wise men of Babylon to be slaine, because they could not interpret his dreame. ¹⁶ Daniel requireth time to solute the question. ²⁴ Daniel is brought unto the King, and sheweth him his dreame and the interpretation thereof. ⁴⁴ Of the everlasting kingdome of Christ.

ANd in the second^a yeare of the reign of Nebuchad-nezzar, Nebuchadnezzar dreamed ^b dreames, wherewith his spirit was ^c troubled, and his ^d sleepe was upon him.

2 Then the king commanded to call the inchanters, and the astrologians, and the forcerers, and the ^e Caldeans for to shew the king his dreames: so they came and stood before the King.

3 And the king said unto them, I have dreamed a dreame, and my spirit was troubled to know the dreame.

4 Then spake the Caldeans to the King in the ^f Aramites language, O king, live for ever: shew thy servants thy dreame, and we shall shew the interpretation.

5 And the King answered and said to the Caldeans, The thing is gone from me. If ye will not make me understand the dream with the interpretation thereof, ye ^g shall be drawn in pieces, and your houses shall be made a jakes.

6 But if ye declare the dream and the interpretation thereof, ye shall receive of me gifts and rewards, and great honour:
therefore shew me the dream and the interpretation thereof.

7 They answered againe, and said,
Let the king shew ^h his servants the dream, and we will declare the interpretation thereof.

8 Then the king answered, and said,
I know certainly that ye would ⁱ gaine
the time, because ye see the thing is gone from me.

9 But if ye will not declare me the dreame, there is but one judgement for you: for ye have prepared lying and corrupt words to speake before me till the time be changed: therefore tell mee the dreame that I may know if ye can declare me the interpretation thereof.

10 Then the Caldeans answered before the King, and said, There is no man upon earth, that can declare the kings matter: yea, there is neither king nor prince, nor lord that asked such things at an enchanter or astrologian or Caldean.

^v That is, he was esteemed in Babylon as a Prophet,
so long as that common wealth stood.

^a The father and the sonne were both called by this name: so that this is meant of the son when he reigned alone: for hee reigned also after a sort with his father.

^b Not that he had many dreams, but because many matters were contained in this dreame.

^c Because it was so rare & strange a dreame, that he had not the like.
^d He was so hea-vie with sleepe, that he began to sleepe againe.

^e Some read, and his sleepe was broken from him.

^f For all these Astrologers and forcerers called themselves by this name of honour, as though all the wisdom and knowledge of the country depended upon them, and that all other countries were void of the same.

^g That is, in the Syrian tongue, which differed not much from the Caldean, save it seemed to be more eloquent, and therefore the learned used to speake it: as the Jewish writers
doe to this day.

^h This is a just reward of their arrogance (which vaunted of themselves that they had the knowledg of all things) that they should bee proved fools, and that to their perpetuall shame and confusion.

ⁱ Herein appeared their ignorance, that notwithstanding their brags, yet were they not able to tell the dreame, except he entred them into the matter, and therefore they would pretend knowledge where was meete ignorance, and so as delusers
of the people, they were worthe to die.

might altogether forget their religion: for the Jewes gave their children names, which might ever put them in remembrance of some point of religion:
therefore this was a great temptation, and a signe of servitude which they were not able to resist.

^m Not that hee thought any religion to be in the meate or drinke (for afterward he did eat) but because the king should not entice him by this sweet posion to forget his religion and accustomed soberitie, and that in his meate and drinke hee might daily remember of what people he was: and Daniel bringeth this in, to shew how God from the beginning afflied him with his Spirit, and at length called him to be a Prophet.

ⁿ Hee supposed they did this for their religion, which was contrary to the Babylonians, and therefore herein he re-presenteth them, which are of no religion: for neither he would cōdemn theirs, nor maintaine his owne.

^o Meaning, that within this space
he might have the triall, and that no man should bee able to discern it:
and thus he spake, being moved by the spirit of God.

^p Not that it was a thing abominable to eat daintie meats, & to drinke wine, as both before and after they did, but if they should have hereby been wonne to the King, and have refused their own religion, that meate and drinke had bene accursed.

ing, and that also

Deut. 18. 11.

^t So that hee only was a Prophet and none of the other: for by dreames and visions God appeared to his Prophets; Numb. 12. 6. & Of the three yeares above mentioned, verse 5.

11 For it is a rare thing that the king requireth, and there is none other that can declare it before the king, except the gods whose dwelling is not with flesh.

12 For this cause the king was angry and in great fury, and commanded to destroy all the wise men of Babel.

13 ¶ And when sentence was given, the wise men were slaine: and they sought Daniel and his fellows to be put to death.

14 Then Daniel answered with counsell and wisdom to Arioch the kings chief steward, which was gone forth to put to death the wise men of Babel.

15 Yea, he answered and said unto Arioch the kings captain, Why is the sentence so hasty from the king? Then Arioch declared the thing to Daniel.

16 So Daniel went and desired the king that he would give him leave: and that he would shew the king the interpretation thereof.

17 ¶ Then Daniel went to his house, and shewed the matter to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah his companions, 18 That they should beseech the God of heaven for grace in this secret, that Daniel and his fellows should not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babel.

19 Then was the secret revealed unto Daniel in a vision by night: therefore Daniel praised the God of heaven.

20 And Daniel answered and said, * The Name of God be praised for ever and ever: for wisdom and strength are his,

21 And hee changeth the times and seasons: he taketh away kings: he setteth up kings: he giveth wisdom unto the wise, and understanding to those that understand.

22 He discovereth the deepe and secret things: he knoweth what is in the darkenesse, and the light dwelleth with him.

23 I thank thee, and praise thee, O thou God of my fathers, that thou hast given me wisdom and strength, and hast shewed me now the thing that we desired of thee: for thou hast declared unto us the kings matter.

24 ¶ Therefore Daniel went unto Arioch, whom the king had ordained to destroy the wise men of Babel: he went and said thus unto him, Destroy not the wise men of Babel, but bring me before the king, and I will declare unto the king the interpretation.

25 Then Arioch brought Daniel before the king in all haste, and said thus unto him, I have found a man of the children of Judah that were brought captives, that will declare unto the king the interpretation.

26 Then answered the king, and said unto Daniel, whose name was Belshazzar, Art thou able to shew me the dream, which I have seene, and the interpretation thereof?

27 Daniel answered in the presence of the king, and said, The secret which the king hath demanded, can neither the wise, the Astrologians, the Inchanters, nor the Soothsayers declare unto the king.

28 But there is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets, and sheweth the king Nebuchad-nezzar what shall be in the latter daies. Thy dreame, and the things which thou hast seene in thine head upon thy bed, is this,

29 O king, when thou wast in thy bed, thoughts came into thy minde, what should come to passe hereafter, and he that revealeth secrets, telleth thee, what shall come.

30 As for me, this secret is not shewed me for any wisdom that I have, more then any other living, but onely to shew the king the interpretation, and that thou mightest know the thoughts of thine heart.

31 O king, thou sawest, and behold, there was a great image: this great image whose glory was so excellent, stood before thee, and the forme thereof was terrible.

32 This images head was of fine gold, his breast and his armes of silver, his belly and his thighes of brasse, 33 His legs of iron, and his feet were part of iron, and part of clay.

34 Thou beheldest it till a stone was cut without hands, which smote the image upon his feet, that were of iron and clay, and brake them to pieces.

35 Then was the iron, the clay, the brasse, the silver, and the gold broken all together, and became like the chaffe of the summer flowers, and the wind carried them away, that no place was found for them: and the stone that smote the image, became a great mountaine, and filled the whole earth.

36 This is the dreame, and we will declare before the king the interpretation thereof.

37 ¶ O King, thou art a king of kings: for the God of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, power, and strength, and glory,

38 And in all places where the children of men dwell, the beasts of the field, and the fowls of the heaven hath he given into thine hand, and hath made thee ruler

i Which declareth that God would not have his servants joyed in the company of these forcerers and astrologers, whose arts were wicked, & therefore justly ought to die, though the King did it upon a rage and no zeale.

* P^sal. 113. 2. and 115. 18.

k He sheweth that man hath neither wisdom nor knowledge, but very darke blindness and ignorance of himselfe: for it cometh onely of God, that man understandeth any thing.
l To whom thou madst thy promise, and who lived in thy feare: whereby hee excludeth all other gods.
m Meaning, power to interpret it.
n Whereby appeareth that many were slaine, as ver. 13. and the rest at Daniels offer, were preserved on condition: not that Daniel favoured their wicked profession, but that he had respect to equity, because the king proceeded according to his wicked affection, and not considering, if their sentence were lawfull or no.

o He affirmeth that man by reason and art is not able to attaine to the cause of Gods secrets, but the understanding onely thereof must come of God: whereby he smiteth the King with a certaine feare and reverence of God, that he might be the more apt to receive the high mysteries, that should be revealed.

p Because he had said that God onely must reveale the signification of this dreame, the King might have asked why Daniel did enterprise to interpret it, and therefore he sheweth, that he was but Gods minister, and had no gifts, but such as God had given him to set forth his glory.

q By gold, silver, brasse, and iron, are meant the Caldean, Persian, Macedonian, and Roman kingdomes, which should successively rule all the world, till Christ (which is here called the stone) come himselfe, and destroy the last: and thus was to assure the Jews, that their afflictions should not end with the empire of the Caldeans, but that they should patiently abide the coming of Messiah, which should be at the end of this fourth monarchy.

on the kingdome of the Assyrians, which was before the Babylonians, both because it was not a monar-chie and generall empire, and also because he would declare the things that were to come, to the coming of Christ, for the comfort of the elect among these woofull alterations:
and he called the Babylonian kingdome the golden head, because in respect of the other three,
it was the best,
and yet was of it felte ricked and cruell.

ing ambition, cruelty, and all kinde

⁵ They shall have continual discords

among themselves.
⁶ They shall by finities thinke to they never bee

joynd in hearts.

⁷ His purpose is to shew that all the kingdomes of the world are transitory, and that the kingdome of Christ shall onely remaine for ever.

⁸ Meaning Christ, who was sent of God, and not set up by man, whose kingdome at the beginning should be small and without beauty to mans judgement, but should at length grow and fill the whole ferred to the person of Christ, but also to the whole

Rom. 8. 10.

¹⁰ Though this humbling of the King seemed to deserve commendation, yet because he joynd Gods honour with the confession was but over them all, thou art ^a this head of gold.

39 And after thee shall arise another kingdome, ^b inferiour to thee, of silver, and another ^c third kingdome shall bee of brasse, which shall beare rule over all the earth.

40 And the fourth kingdome shall be strong as Iron: for as Iron breaketh in pieces, and subdueth all things, and as Iron bruseth all these things, so shall it breake in ^d pieces, and bruse all.

41 Whereas thou sawest the feet and toes, part of potters clay, and part of iron: the kingdome shall be ^e divided, but there shall be in it of the strength of the iron, as thou sawest the iron mixt with the clay, and earth.

42 And as the toes of the feet were part of iron, and part of clay, so shall the kingdome be partly strong, and partly broken.

43 And whereas thou sawest iron mixt with clay, and earth, they shall mingle themselves with ^f the seed of men: but they shall not joyne one with another, as iron cannot be mixed with clay.

44 And in the daies of these kings, shall the God of heaven set up a kingdome, which ^g shall never be destroyed: and this kingdome shall not be given to another people, but it shall breake and destroy all these kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever.

45 Whereas thou sawest, that the ^h stone was cut out of the mountaine without hands, and that it brake in pieces the iron, the brasse, the clay, the silver, and the gold: so the great God hath shewed the king, what shall come to passe hereafter, and the dreame is true, and the interpretation thereof is sure.

46 ¶ Then the king Nebuchad-nezzar fell upon his face, and ⁱ bowed himselfe unto Daniel, and commanded that they should offer meat offerings, and sweet odours unto him.

47 Also the king answered unto Daniel, and said, I know of a truth that your ^j God is a God of gods, and the Lord of kings, and the revealer of secrets, seeing thou couldest open this secret.

48 So the king made Daniel a great man, and gave him many and great ^k gifts. He made him governour over the whole province of Babel, and chiefe of the rulers, and above all the wise men of Babel.

49 Then Daniel ^l made request to the king, and to every member thereof, shall be eternall: for the spirit that is in them, is life eternall, Rom. 8. 10. ^b Though this humbling of the King seemed to deserve commendation, yet because he joynd Gods honour with the Prophets, it is to bee reprov'd, and Daniel herein erred, if he suffered it: but it is credible that Daniel admitted him of his fault, and did not suffer it. ^c This confession was but a sudden motion, as it was also in Pharaoh, Exod. 9. 27. 28, but his heart was not touched, as appeared soon after-ward. ^d Not that the Prophet was desirous of gifts or honour, but because by this meanes he might relieve his poore brethren which were grievously oppressed in this their capti- vity, and also he received them, lest he should offend this cruell king, which willingly gave them. ^e He did not this for their private pro- fit, but that the vniuersall Church, which was then there in affliction, might have some reliefe and ease by this benefit.

ther hee was a

thority, so that none could bee admitted to the Kings presence, but by him.

CHAP. III.

¹ The king setteth up a golden image. ⁸ Certaine are accused because they despised the Kings commandement, and are put into a burning oven. ²⁵ By believe in God they are delivered from the fire. ²⁶ Nebuchad-nezzar confesseth the power of God after the signe of the miracle.

Nebuchad-nezzar the King made ^a an image of Gold, whose height was threescore cubites, and the breadth thereof fixe cubites: hee set it up in the plaine of Dura, in the province of Babel.

² Then Nebuchad-nezzar the king sent forth to gather together the Nobles, the princes, and the dukes, the judges, the receivers, the counsellors, the officers, and all the governours of the provinces; that they should come to the ^b dedication of the image, which Nebuchad-nezzar the ^c king had set up.

⁵ That when ye heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackbut, psaltery, dulcimer, and all instruments of musick, ye fall down and worship the golden image, that Nebuchad-nezzar the King hath set up.

⁶ And whosoever falleth not downe and worshipeth, shall the same houre bee cast into the midst of an hot fiery furnace.

⁸ ¶ By reason whereof at that same time came men of the Caldeans, and grievously accused the Jewes, and here the King required not an inward content, but an outward gesture, that the Jewes might by little and little learne to forget their transgression.

10 Thou, O king, hast made a decree, that every man that shall heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackbut, psaltery, and dulcimer, and all instruments of musick, shall fall down and worship the golden image,

11 And whosoever falleth not downe, and worshipeth, that he should be cast into the midst of an hot fierie furnace.

12 There are certaine Jewes whom thou hast set over the charge of the province of Babel, * Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: these men, O king, have not regarded thy commandement, neither will they serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image, that thou hast set up.

e It seemeth, that they named not Daniel, because he was greatly in the Kings favor, thinking if these three had been destroyed, they might have had better occasion to accuse Daniel: and this declareth that this policy of erecting this image, was invented by the malicious flatterers, which sought nothing but the destruction of the Jewes, whom they accused of rebellion and ingratitude.

13 ¶ Then Nebuchad-nezzar in his anger and wrath, commanded that they should bring Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: so these men were brought before the king.

14 And Nebuchad-nezzar spake, and said unto them, What disorder? will not you, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego serve my gods, nor worship the golden image, that I have set up?

f Signifying, that he would receive them to grace, if they would now at the length obey his decree.

15 ^f Now therefore, are ye ready when ye heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackbut, psaltery, and dulcimer, and all instruments of musick, to fall downe, and worship the image, which I have made? for if ye worship it not, yee shall be cast immediately into the midst of an hot fierie furnace: for who is that God that can deliver you out of mine hands?

16 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered, and said to the king, O Nebuchad-nezzar, we ^g are not carefull to answer thee in this matter.

g For they should have done injury to God, if they should have doubted in this holy cause, & therefore they say, that they are resolved to die for Gods cause.

17 Behold, our God whom we serve, is ^h able to deliver us from the hot fierie furnace, and he will deliver us out of thine hand, O king.

h They ground on two points, first, on the power and providence of God over them, and secondly, on their cause, which was Gods glory, and the testifying of his true religion with their blood, & so make open confession, that they will not so much as outwardly consent to idolatry.

18 But if not, be it known unto thee, O king, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image, which thou hast set up.

i This declareth that the more that tyrants rage, and the more wittily they shew themselves in inventing strange and cruell punishments, the more is God glorified by his servants to whom he giveth patience and constancy to abide the cruelty of their punishment: for either he delivereth them from death, or else for this life giveth them a better.

19 ¶ Then was Nebuchad-nezzar full of rage, and the forme of his visage was changed against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: therefore hee charged and commanded that they should heat the furnace at once seven ⁱ times more then it was wont to be heat.

20 And he charged the most valiant men of warre that were in his armie, to binde Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, and to cast them into the hot fierie furnace.

21 So these men were bound in their coats, their hosen and their cloakes, with their other garments, and cast into the midst of the hot fierie furnace.

22 Therefore, because the kings commandement was strait; that the furnace should be exceeding hot, the flame of the fire slew those men that brought forth Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego.

23 And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego fell down bound into the midst of the hot fierie furnace.

24 ¶ Then Nebuchad-nezzar the king was astonied and rose up in haste, and spake, and said unto his counsellors, Did not we cast three men bound into the midst of the fire? Who answered, and said unto the king, It is true, O king.

25 And he answered, and said, Loe, I see foure men loose, walking in the midst of the fire, and they have no hurt, and the forme of the fourth is like the ^k Sonne of God.

k For the Angels were called the sons of God, because of their excellency: therefore the King called this Angel, whom God sent to comfort his in these great torments, the Sonne of God.

26 Then the king Nebuchad-nezzar came neare to the mouth of the hot fierie furnace, and spake and said, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, the servants of the high God, goe forth, and come hither: so Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego ^l came forth of the midst of the fire.

l This commendeth their obedience unto God, that they would not for any fears depart out of this furnace, till this time appointed, as Noah remained in the Arke till the Lord called him forth.

27 Then the nobles, princes, and dukes, and the kings counsellors came together to see these men, because the fire had no power over their bodies: for not an haire of their head was burnt, neither were their coats changed, nor any smell of fire come upon them.

28 Wherefore Nebuchad-nezzar spake and said, ^m Blessed bee the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, who hath sent his Angel, and delivered his servants, that put their trust in him, and have changed the kings commandement, and yeelded their bodies rather then they would serve or worship any god, save their owne God.

m He was moved by the greatness of the miracle to praise God, but his heart was not touched. And here we see that miracles are not sufficient to convert men to God, but that doctrine must chiefly be adjoined, without which there can be no faith.

29 Therefore I make a decree, that every people, nation, and language, which spake any ⁿ blasphemy against the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, shall be drawne in pieces, and their houses shall be made a jakes, because there is no god that can deliver after this sort.

n If this heathen King moved by Gods Spirit, would not see blasphemy unpunished, but made a law, and set a punishment to such transgressors, much more ought all they that profess religion, take order that such impiety reign not, lest according to their knowledge and charge is greater, so they suffer double punishment.

30 Then the king promoted Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, in the province of Babel.

31 Nebuchad-nezzar king, unto all people, nations and languages, that dwell in all the ^o world, Peace be multiplied unto you:

o Meaning, so farre as his dominion extended.

32 I thought it good to declare the signes and wonders, that the high God hath wrought toward me.

33 How

33 How great are his signes, and how mighty are his wonders! ^p his kingdome is an everlasting kingdome, and his dominion is from generation to generation.

C H A P. I V.

2 Another dreame of Nebuchad-nezzar, which Daniel declareth. 29 The Prophet declareth how of a proud King hee should become as a beast. 31 After hee confesseth the power of God, and is restored to his former dignitie.

^a There was no trouble that might cause me to dream and therefore it came only of God. ^b This was another dreame besides that which he saw of the fourte empires: for Daniel both declared what that dreame was, and what it meant: and here he only expoundeth the dreame.

I Nebuchad-nezzar being at ^a rest in mine house, and flourishing in my palace,

2 Saw a ^b dreame, which made mee afraid, and the thoughts upon my bed, and the visions of mine head troubled mee.

3 Therefore made I a decree, that they should bring all the wife men of Babel before mee, that they might declare unto me the interpretation of the dreame.

4 So came the inchanters, the Astrologians, the Caldeans, and the soothsayers, to whom I told the dreame, but they could not shew me the interpretation thereof.

5 Till at the last Daniel came before mee, (whose name was ^d Belteshazzar, according to the name of my God, which hath the spirit of the holy gods in him) and before him I told the dreame, saying,

6 O Belteshazzar, ^e chiefe of the inchanters, because I know that the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, and no secret troubleth thee, tell me the visions of my dreame, that I have seene, and the interpretation thereof.

7 Thus were the visions of mine head in my bed: And behold, I saw a ^f tree in the middes of the earth, and the height thereof was great:

8 A great tree and strong, and the height thereof reached unto heaven, and the sight thereof to the endes of all the earth.

9 The boughes thereof were faire, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meate for all: it made a shadow under it for the beasts of the field, and the fowles of the heaven dwelt in the boughes thereof, and all flesh fed of it.

10 I saw in the visions of mine head upon my bed, and behold, ^g a watchman and an Holy one came downe from heaven,

11 And cried aloud, and said thus, Hew downe the tree, and breake off his branches: shake off his leaves, and scatter his fruit, that the beasts may flee from under it, and the fowles from his branches.

12 Neverthelesse, leave the stump of his roots in the earth, and with a band of iron and brasse binde it among the grasse of the field, and let it be wete with the dewe of heaven, and let his portion be with the beastes among the grasse of the field.

13 ^h Let his heart bee changed from mans nature, and let a beasts heart be given unto him, and let seven times bee passed over him.

14 ⁱ The sentence is according to the decree of the watchmen, and according to the word of the holy ones, the demand was answered, to the intent that living men may know that the most High hath power over the kingdome of men, and giveth it to whomsoever hee will, and appointeth over it the most abject among men.

15 This is the dreame, that I King Nebuchad-nezzar have seene: therefore thou, O Belteshazzar, declare the interpretation thereof: for all the wisemen of my kingdome are not able to shew me the interpretation: but thou art able, for the spirit of the holy gods is in thee.

16 ¶ Then Daniel (whose name was Belteshazzar) held his ^k peace by the space of one houre, and his thoughts troubled him, and the king spake, and said, Belteshazzar, let neither the dreame, nor the interpretation thereof trouble thee. Belteshazzar answered, and said, My lord, the dreame be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof to thine enemies.

17 The tree that thou sawest, which was great and mighty, whose height reached unto the heaven, and the sight thereof through all the world,

18 Whose leaves were faire, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meate for all, under the which the beasts of the field dwelt, and upon whose branches the fowles of the heaven did sit,

19 It is thou, O king, that art great and mighty: for thy greatnesse is grown, and reacheth unto heaven, and thy dominions vnto the endes of the earth.

20 Whereas the King saw a watchman, and an holy One, that came downe from heaven, and said, Hew downe the tree, and destroy it, yet leave the stump of the rootes thereof in the earth, and with a band of iron and brasse binde it among the grasse of the field, and let it be wet with the dew of heaven: and let his portion be with the beasts of the field, ^l till seven times passe over him.

21 This is the interpretation, O king, and it is the decree of the most High, which

ⁱ God hath decreed this judgement, & the whole army of heaven have, as it were, subscribed unto it, like as also they desire the execution of his decree against all them that lift up themselves against God.

^k He was troubled for the great judgement of God which he saw ordained against the king: and so the Prophets used on the one part, to denounce Gods judgements for the zeale they bare to his glory: and on the other part, to have compassion upon man, & also to consider, that they should be subject to Gods judgements, it hee did not regard them with pity.

^l Whereby he meaneth a long space, as seven years. Some interpret seven months, and others, seven weekes: but it seemeth hee meant of years.

which is come upon my lord the King.

22 That they shall drive thee from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field: they shall make thee to eate grasse as the ^m oxen, and they shall wet thee with the dewe of heaven: and seven times shall passe over thee, till thou know, that ⁿ the most High beareth rule over the kingdome of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will.

23 Whereas they said, that one should leave the stumpe of the rootes, thy kingdome shall remaine unto thee: after that, thou shalt know that the heavens have the rule.

24 Wherefore, O King, let my counsell be acceptable unto thee, and ^o breake off thy finnes by righteousnesse, and thine iniquities by mercy toward the poore: loe, let there bee an ^p healing of thine errour.

25 All these things shall come upon the king Nebuchad-nezzar.

26 ¶ At the end of twelve ^q months, he walked in the royall palace of Babel.

27 And the king spake, and said, Is not this great Babel, that I have built for the house of the kingdome by the might of my power, and for the honour of my majestie?

28 While the word was in the kings mouth, a voice came downe from heaven, saying, O king Nebuchad-nezzar, to thee be it spoken, Thy kingdome is departed from thee.

29 And they shall drive thee from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field: they shall make thee to eate grasse, as the oxen, and seven times shall passe over thee, untill thou knowest, that the most High beareth rule over the kingdome of men, and giveth it unto whomsoever he will.

30 The very same houre was this thing fulfilled upon Nebuchad-nezzar, and hee was driven from men, and did eate grasse as the oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, till his haire were growne as Eagles feathers, and his nailes like birds clawes.

31 And at the end of these ^r daies, I Nebuchad-nezzar lift up mine eyes unto heaven, and mine understanding was restored unto me, and I gave thanks unto the most High, and I praised and honoured him that liveth for ever, ^s whose power is an everlasting power, and his kingdome is from generation to generation.

32 And all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing: and according to his ^t will he worketh in the army of heaven, and in the inhabitants of the earth, and none can stay his hand, nor say unto him, What doest thou?

33 At the same time was mine understanding restored unto mee, and I returned to the honour of my kingdome: my glory and my beauty was restored unto me, and my counsellors ^u and my princes fought unto mee, and I was established in my kingdome, and my glory was augmented toward mee.

34 Now therefore, I Nebuchad-nezzar ^v praise, and extoll, and magnifie the King of heaven, whose workes are all truth, and his waies judgement, and those that walke in pride, he is able to abase.

CHAP. V.

5 Belshazzar king of Babylon seeth an hand-writing on the wall. 8 The soothsayers called of the King cannot expound the writing. 25 Daniel readeth it, and interpreteth it also. 30 The King is slaine. 31 Darius enjoyeth the kingdome.

King ^a Belshazzar made a great feast to a thousand of his princes, and dranke wine ^b before the thousand.

2 And Belshazzar ^c while he tasted the wine, commanded to bring him the golden and silver vessels, which his ^d father Nebuchad-nezzar had brought from the Temple in Jerusalem, that the king and his princes, his wives and his concubines might drinke therein.

3 Then were brought the golden vessels, that were taken out of the Temple of the Lords house at Jerusalem, and the king and his princes, his wives, and his concubines, dranke in them.

4 They dranke wine, and praised the ^e gods of gold, and of silver, of brasse, of iron, of wood, and of stone.

5 At the same houre appeared fingers of a mans hand, which wrote over ^f against the candlesticke upon the plaister of the wall of the kings palace, and the king saw the palme of the hand that wrote.

6 Then the kings countenance was changed, and his thoughts troubled him, so that the joints of his loines were loosed, and his ^g knees smote one against the other.

7 Wherefore the king cried loude, that they should bring ^h the Astrologians, the Chaldeans and the Soothsayers. And the king spake, and said to the wife men of Babel, Whosoever can reade this writing, and declare me the Interpretation thereof, shall be clothed with purple, and shall have a chaine of gold about his necke, and shall be the third ruler in the kingdome.

8 Then came all the kings wife men, they seeke not to him who is the only comfort in all afflictions, but

m Not that his shape or forme was changed into a beast, but that hee was either stricken mad, & so avoided mans company, or was cast out for his tyrannie, and so wandered among the beasts, and ate herbes and grasse. n Daniel sheweth the cause why God thus punished him.

o Cease from provoking God to anger any longer by thy sins, that hee may mitigate his punishment, if thou shew by thine upright life that thou hast true faith and repentance. p Suffer the errors of thy former life to be redressed.

q After that Daniel had declared this vision: and this his pride declareth that it is not in man to convert to God, except his Spirit move him, seeing that these terrible threatnings could not move him to repent.

r When the terme of these seven yeares was accomplished.

* Chap. 7. 14. Micah 4. 7.

Luke 1. 33.

s Hee confesseth Gods will to bee the rule of all justice, and a most perfect law where-by hee governeth both man & Angels, and devils, so that none ought to mutmur, or aske a reason of his doings, but onely to stand content therewith, and give him the glory.

t By whom it seemeth that he had bene pur from his kingdome before.

u Hee doth not onely praise God for his deliverance, but also confesseth his fault, that God may onely have the glory, & man the shame, & that he may be exalted, and man cast downe.

a Daniel reciteth this history of king Belshazzar Eulimerochads sonne, to shew Gods judgements against the wicked for the deliverance of his Church, & how the prophesy of Jeremiah was true, that they should be delivered after sevenie yeares.

b The Kings of the East parts then used to sit alone commonly, & did daine that any should sit in their company: and now to shew his power, and how little he let by his enemie, which then besieged Babylon, he made a solemne banquet, and used exesse in their company, which is meant heere by drinking wine: thus the wicked are most dissolute and negligent, when their destruction is at hand.

c Or, overcame with wine.

d Meaning his grandfather.

e In contempt of the true God they praised their idols, not that they thought, that the gold or silver were gods, but that there was a certaine vertue and power in them to doe them good, which is also the opinion of all idolaters.

f That it might be the better betwixt.

g So he that before contemned God, was moved by this sight to tremble for feare of Gods judgement.

h Thus the wicked in their troubles seeke many means, who draw them from God, because but they could neither read the writing, nor shew the king the interpretation.

9 Then was king Belshazzar greatly troubled, and his countenance was changed in him, and his princes were astonished.

10 Now the^h Queene by reason of the talke of the king and his princes, came into the banquet house, and the Queene spake, and said, O king, live for ever: let not thy thoughts trouble thee, nor let thy countenance be changed.

11 There is a man in thy kingdome, in whom is the spirit of the holy gods, and in the daies of thy father, light and understanding and wisdom, like the wisdom of the gods, was found in him: whom the king Nebuchad-nezzar thy father, the king, I say, thy father, made chiefe of theⁱ inchanters, astrologians, Caldeans, and soothsayers,

12 Because a more excellent spirit, and knowledge, and understanding (for hee did expound dreames, and declare hard sentences, and dissolved doubts) were found in him, even in Daniel, whom the king named Belteshazzar: now let Daniel be called, and hee will declare the interpretation.

13 ¶ Then was Daniel brought before the king, and the King spake, and said unto Daniel, Art thou that Daniel, which art of the children of the captivity of Judah, whom my father the king brought out of Jewrie?

14 Now, I have heard of thee, that the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, and that light, and understanding, and excellent wisdom is found in thee.

15 Now therefore, wise men, and astrologians have beene brought before mee, that they should reade this writing, and shew me the interpretation thereof: but they could not declare the interpretation of the thing.

16 Then heard I of thee, that thou couldest shew interpretations, and dissolve doubts: now if thou canst read the writing, and shew me the interpretation thereof, thou shalt be clothed with purple, and shalt have a chaine of gold about thy necke, and shalt be the third ruler in the kingdome.

17 Then Daniel answered, and said before the king, Keepe thy rewards to thy selfe, and give thy gifts to another: yet I will reade the writing unto the king, and shew him the interpretation.

18 O king, heare thou, The most high God gave unto¹ Nebuchad-nezzar thy father a kingdome, and majesty, and honour, and glory.

19 And for the majesty that he gave him, all people, nations, and languages trembled, and feared before him: he put to death whom hee would: hee smote whom hee would: whom hee would hee set up, and whom hee would hee put downe.

20 But when his heart was puffed up, and his minde hardened in pride, he was depofed from his kingly throne, and they tooke his honour from him.

21 And he was driven from the sonnes of men, and his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wilde asses: they fedde him with grasse like oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, till hee knew, that the most high God bare rule over the kingdome of men, and that he appointeth over it, whomsoever he pleaseth.

22 And thou his sonne, O Belshazzar, hast not humbled thine heart, though thou knewest all these things, 23 But hast lift thy selfe up against the Lord of heaven, and they have brought the vessels of his House before thee, and thou and thy princes, thy wives and thy concubines have drunke wine in them, and thou hast praised the gods of silver and gold, of brasse, iron, wood and stone, which neither see, neither heare, nor understand: and the God, in whose hand thy breath is, and all thy waies, him hast thou not glorified.

24^m Then was the palme of the hand sent from him, and hath written this writing.

25 And this is the writing that hee hath written, ⁿ MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN.

26 This is the interpretation of the thing, MENE, God hath numbred thy kingdome, and hath finished it.

27 TEKEL, Thou art weighed in the balance, and art found [‡] too light.

28 PERES, Thy kingdome is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians.

29 Then at the commandment of Belshazzar they clothed Daniel with purple, and put a chaine of gold about his necke, and made a Proclamation concerning him, that he should bee the third ruler in the kingdome.

30 The same night was Belshazzar the King of the Caldeans slaine.

31 And Darius^o of the Medes tooke the kingdome, being threescore and two yeare old.

lions. 25 Darius by a decree magnifieth the God of Daniel.

a Reade After Chap. 1. 1.

IT pleased Darius to set over the kingdome ^a an hundred and twenty governours, which should be over the whole kingdome,

2 And over these, three rulers (of whom Daniel was one) that the governours might give accounts unto them, and the king should [†] have no damage.

3 Now this Daniel ^b was preferred above the rulers and governours, because the spirit was excellent in him, and the king thought to set him over the whole realme.

4 ¶ Wherefore the rulers and governours ^c sought an occasion against Daniel concerning the kingdome: but they could find none occasion or fault: for he was so faithfull, that there was no blame nor fault found in him.

5 Then said these men, We shall not find an occasion against this Daniel, except wee find it against him concerning the Law of his God.

6 Therefore the rulers and these governours went together to the king, and said thus unto him, King Darius, live for ever.

7 All the rulers of the kingdome, the officers and governours, the counsellors and dukes have consulted together to make a decree for the king, and to establish a statute, that whosoever shall aske a petition of any god or man for thirtie daies, save of thee, O king, he shall be cast into the denne of lions.

8 Now, O king, confirme the decree, and seale the writing, that it bee not changed according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

9 Wherefore king Darius ^d sealed the writing and the decree.

10 ¶ Now when Daniel understood that he had sealed the writing, he went into his house, and his ^e window being open in his chamber toward Jerusalem, he kneeled upon his knees three times a day, and praied, and praised his God, as he did afore time.

11 Then these men assembled, and found Daniel praying, and making supplications unto his God.

12 So they came, and spake unto the king, concerning the kings decree, Hast thou not sealed the decree, that every man that shall make a request to any god or man within thirtie daies, save to thee, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions? The king answered and said, The thing is true, according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

13 Then answered they, and said unto the king, This Daniel, which is of the children of the captivitie of Judah regardeth not thee, O king, nor the decree that thou hast sealed, but maketh his petition three times a day.

14 When the king heard these words; he was fore displeased with himselfe, and set his heart on Daniel to deliver him: and he laboured till the sunne went down, to deliver him.

15 Then these men assembled unto the king, and said unto the king, Understand, O king, that the law of the Medes and Persians ^f, that no decree nor statute which the king confirmeth may be ^g altered.

16 ¶ Then the king commanded; and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the denne of lions: now the king spake, and said unto Daniel, Thy God whom thou alway servest, even hee will deliver thee.

17 And a stone was brought, and laid upon the mouth of the den, and the king sealed it with his own signet, and with the signet of his princes, that the purpose might not be changed, concerning Daniel.

18 Then the king went unto his palace, and remained fasting, neither were the instruments of musick brought before him, and his sleepe went from him.

19 ¶ Then the king rose early in the morning, and went in all haste unto the denne of lions.

20 And when hee came to the denne, hee cried with a lamentable voice unto Daniel: and the king spake, and said to Daniel, O Daniel, the servant of the living God, is not thy God, (whom thou alway servest) ^h able to deliver thee from the lions?

21 Then said Daniel unto the king, O king, live for ever.

22 My God hath sent his Angel, and hath shut the lions mouthes, that they have not hurt me: for my ⁱ justice was found out before him: and unto thee, O King, I have done ^j no hurt.

23 Then was the king exceeding glad for him, and commanded that they should take Daniel out of the denne: so Daniel was brought out of the den, and no manner of hurt was found upon him, because he ^k beleeveth in his God.

24 And by the commandment of the king, these men which had accused Daniel, were brought, and were ^l cast into the den of lions, even they, their children, and their wives: and the lions had the masterie of them, and brake all their bones a pieces or ever they came at the ground of the denne.

25 ¶ After-

b This heathen King preferred Daniel a stranger to all his nobles & familiars, because the graces of God were more excellent in him then in others.

c Thus the wicked cannot abide the graces of God in others, but seeke by all occasions to deface them: therefore against such assaults there is no better remedie then to walke uprightly in the feare of God, and to have a good conscience.

d Herein is condemned the wickednes of the king who would be set up as a god, and passed not vvhath wicked lawes hee approved, for the maintenance of the same.

e Because hee would not by his silence shew that he consented to this wicked decree, he set open his windowes toward Jerusalem, when hee praied: both to stirre up himselfe with the remembrance of Gods promises to his people when they should pray toward that Temple, and also that others might see that he would neither consent in heart nor deed for these few daies, to any thing that was contrary to Gods glorie.

f Thus the wicked maintaine evill lawes by constancie & authority, which is oftentimes either lightnesse, or stubbornnesse, when as the innocent, thereby perish: and therefore governours neither ought to feare, nor be ashamed to breake such.

g This declareth that Darius was not touched with the true knowledge of God, because he doubted of his power.

h By just cause and uprightnesse in this thing wherein I was charged, is approved of God.

i For he did disobey the Kings wicked commandment to obey God, and so did no injurie to the king, who ought to command nothing, whereby God should be dishonoured.

k Because he committed himself wholly unto God whose cause hee did defend, he was assured, that nothing but good could come unto him: vvherein we see the power of faith, as Heb. 11.

l This is a terrible example against all the wicked, which doe against their conscience make cruel lawes to destroy the children of God, and also admonisheth Princes how to punish such when their wickednesse is come to light: though not in every point, or with like circumstances, yet to execute true justice upon them.

25 ¶ Afterward king Darius wrote, Unto all people, nations and languages, that dwell in all the world: Peace bee multiplied unto you.

26 I make a decree, that in all the dominion of my kingdome, men tremble and feare^m before the God of Daniel: for he is theⁿ living God, and remaineth for ever: and his kingdome shall not perish, and his dominion shall be everlasting, 27 He rescueth and delivereth, and he worketh signes & wonders in heaven and in earth: who hath delivered Daniel from the power of the lions.

28 So this Daniel prospered in the reigne of Darius, and in the reigne of Cyrus of Persia.

¶ which hath not onely life in himselfe, but is the onely fountaine of life, and quickneth all things, so that without him there is no life.

CHAP. VII.

3 A vision of foure beasts is shewed unto Daniel. 8 The ten hornes of the fourth beast. 27 Of the everlasting kingdome of Christ.

IN the first yeare of Belshazzar king of Babel, Daniel saw a dreame, and there were visions in his head, upon his bed: a then he wrote the dreame, and declared the summe of the matter.

2 Daniel spake, and said, I saw in my vision by night, and behold, the foure winds of heaven strove upon^b the great sea:

3 And foure great beasts came up from the sea, one diverse from another.

4 The first was as a^c lion, and had eagles wings: I beheld, til the wings thereof were pluckt off, and it was lifted up from the earth, and set upon^d his feet as a man, and a mans heart was given him.

5 And behold, another beast which was the second, was like a^e beare, and stood upon the^f one side: and he had three ribs in his^g mouth betwene his teeth, and they said thus unto him, Arise, and devour much flesh.

6 After this I beheld, and lo, there was another like a^h leopard, which had upon his backeⁱ foure wings of a fowle: the beast had also foure heads, and^k dominion was given him.

7 After this, I saw in the visions by night, and behold, the^l fourth beast was fearefull and terrible and very strong. It had^m great iron teeth: it devoured and brake in pieces, and stampedⁿ the residue under his feet: and it was unlike to the beasts that were before it: for it had^o ten hornes.

8 As I considered the hornes, behold, there came up among them another little^p horne, before whom there were^q three of the first hornes pluckt away: and behold, in this horne were^r eyes like the eyes of man, and a mouth speaking presumptuous things.

9 I beheld till the^s thrones were set up, and the^t Ancient of daies did sit, whose garment was white as snow, and the haire of his head like the pure wooll: his throne was like the fierie flame, and his wheelles as burning fire.

10 A fiery streame issued, and came forth from before him: thousand thousands ministred unto him, and ten thousand^v thousands stood before him: the judgement was set, and the^w books opened.

11 Then I beheld, and because of the voice of the presumptuous words, which the horne spake: I beheld, even till the beast was slaine, and his body destroyed, and given to the burning fire.

12 As^x concerning the other beasts, they had taken away their dominion: yet their lives were prolonged for a certaine time and season.

13 ¶ As I beheld in visions by night, behold, a one like the Son of man came in the clouds of heaven, and^y approached unto the Ancient of daies, and they brought him before him.

14 And hee gave him^z dominion, and honour, and a kingdome, that all people, nations, and languages should serve him: his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall never be taken away: and his kingdome shall never be destroyed.

15 ¶ I Daniel was^a troubled in my spirit, in the mids of my body, and the visions of mine head made me afraid.

16 Therefore I came unto^b one of them that stood by, and asked him the truth of all this: so hee told me, and shewed mee the interpretation of these things.

should come to judge these Monarchies, which judgement should begin at the first coming of Christ. ^t That is, God, which was before all times, and is here described as mans nature is able to comprehend some portion of his glory. ^v That is, an infinite number of Angels, which were ready to execute his Commandment. ^x This is meant of the first coming of Christ, when as the will of God was plainly revealed by his Gospel. ^y Meaning, that hee was astonished, when he saw these Emperours in such dignitie and pride, and so suddenly destroyed at the coming of Christ, when this fourth Monarchie was subject to men of other nations. ^z As the three former Monarchies had an end at the time that God appointed, although they flourished for a time, so shall this fourth have, and they that patiently abide Gods appointment, shall enjoy the promises. ^a Which is meant of Christ, who had not yet taken upon him mans nature, neither was the sonne of David according to the flesh, as hee was afterward: but appeared then in a figure, and that in the clouds: that is, being separate from the common sort of men by manifest signes of his divinitie. ^b To wit, wherhe ascended into the heavens, and his divine majestie appeared, and all power was given unto him in respect of that, that hee was our Mediatour. ^c This is meant of the beginning of Christs kingdome, when God the Father gave unto him all dominion, as to the Mediatour, so the intent that hee should governe here his Church in earth continually, till the time that he brought them to eternall life. ^d Through the strangeness of the vision. ^e Meaning, of the Angels, as verbe is.

^o That is sundry and divers provinces which were governed by the Deputies & Procurators, wherof every one may be compared to a King.

^p Which is meant of Julius Cesar, Augustus, Tiberius, Caligula, Claudius, and Nero, &c. who were as kings in effect, but because they could not rule but by the consent of the Senate, their power is compared to a little horne. For Mahomet came not of the Roman Empire, and the Pope hath no vocation of government: therefore this cannot be applied unto them: and also in this prophesie the Prophets purpose is chiefly to comfort the Jewes unto the revelation of Christ. Some take it for the whole body of Antichrist.

^r These Romane Emperours at the first used a certaine humane & gentleness, and were content that others, as the Consuls and Senate, should beare the name of dignitie, so that they might have the profit, & therefore in elections and Councils would behave themselves according as did other Senators: yet against their enemies, and those that would resist them, they were fierce and cruel, which is here meant by the proud mouth.

^s Meaning, the places where God and his Angels were barbarous and cruell. ^t They were small in the beginning, and were shut up in their mountaines, and had no brute. ^u That is, destroyed many kingdomes, and was insatiable. ^v To wit, the Angels by Gods commandment, who by this means punished the ingratitude of the world. ^w Meaning, Alexander the King of Macedonie. ^x That is, his four captaines, which had the Empire among them after his death. Seleucus had Asia the great, Antigonus the lesse, Callander, and after him, Antipater was king of Macedonia, and Ptolemeus had Egypt. ^y It was not of himselfe, nor of his owne power, that hee gave all these countries: for his army contained but thirty thousand men, and hee overcame in one battell Darius, which had ten hundred thousand, when he was so heavy with sleepe, that his eyes were scarce open, as the stories report: therefore this power was given him of God. ^z That is, the Romane Empire, which was as a monster, and could not be compared to any beast, because the nature of none was able to expresse it. ^a Signifying, the tyrannie and greedinesse of the Romans. ^b That which the Romans could not quietly enjoy in other countries, they would give it to other Kings and rulers, that at all times when they would they might take it againe: which liballitie is here called, the stamping of the rest under the feete.

17 These great beasts which are foure, are foure kings, which shall arise out of the earth,

18 And they shall take the ^fkingdome of the Saints of the ^smost High, which shall possesse the kingdome for ever, even for ever and ever.

19 ¶ After this I would know the truth of the fourth beast, which was so ^hunlike to all the others, very fearefull, whose teeth were of iron, and his nailes of brasse: which devoured, brake in pieces, and stamped the ⁱresidue under his feet.

20 Also to know of the ten hornes that were in his head, and of the other which came up, before whom three fell, and of the horne that had eyes, and of the mouth that spake presumptuous things, whose ^klook was more stout then his fellows.

21 I beheld, and the same ^lhorne made battell against the Saints, yea, and prevailed against them,

22 Untill ^mthe Ancient of daies came, and judgement was given to the Saints of the most high: and the time approached, that the Saints possessed the kingdome.

23 Then he said, The fourth beast shall be the fourth kingdom in the earth, which shall be unlike to all the kingdomes, and shall devour the whole earth, and shall tread it downe and break it in pieces.

24 And the ten hornes out of this kingdome are ten kings that shall arise: and another shall rise after them, and he shall be unlike to the first, and he shall subdue ⁿthree kings,

25 And shall speak words against ^othe most High, and shall consume the Saints of the most High, and thinke that he may ^pchange times and laws, and they shall be given into his hand, untill a ^qtime, and times, and the dividing of time.

26 But the ^rjudgement shall sit, and they that take away his dominion, to consume and destroy it unto the end.

27 And the ^fkingdome and dominion, and the greatnesse of the kingdom under the whole heaven shall be given to the holy people of the most High, whose kingdome is an everlasting kingdome, and all ^tpowers shall serve and obey him.

28 Even this is the end of the matter, I Daniel had many ^vcogitations which troubled mee, and my countenance changed in me: but I kept the matter in mine heart.

CHAP. VIII.

A vision of a battell betwene a Ramme and a Goat.
20 The understanding of the vision.

IN the third yeare of the reigne of King Belshazzar, a vision appeared unto mee, even unto mee Daniel, ^aafter that which appeared unto mee at the first.

2 And I saw in a vision, and when I saw it, I was in the palace of Shushan, which is in the province ^bof Elam, and in a vision me thought I was by the river of Ulai.

3 Then I looked up and saw, and behold, there stood before the river a ^cramme, which had two hornes: and these two hornes were high: but one was ^dhigher then another, and the highest came up last.

4 And I saw the ramme pushing against the West, and against the North, and against the South: so that no ^ebeasts might stand before him, nor could deliver out of his hand, but he did what he listed, and became great.

5 And as I considered, behold, ^fa goat came from the West over the whole earth, and touched not the ground: and this goat had an ^ghorne that appeared betwene his eyes.

6 And he came unto the ramme that had the two hornes, whom I had seene standing by the river, and ranne unto him in his fierce rage.

7 And I saw him come unto the ram, and being moved against him, he ^hsmote the ramme, and brake his two hornes: and there was no power in the ramme to stand against him, but he cast him downe to the ground, and stamped upon him, and there was none that could deliver the ramme out of his power.

8 Therefore the goate waxed exceeding great, and when hee was at the strongest, his great ⁱhorne was broken: and for it came up foure that ^kappeared toward the foure winds of the heaven.

9 And out of one of them came forth ^la little horne, which waxed very great toward the ^mSouth, and toward the ⁿEast, and toward the ^opleasant land.

10 Yea, it grew up unto the ^phoste of heaven, and it cast down some of the hoste, and of the stars to the ground, and trode upon them,

11 And extolled himselfe against the ^o That is, Judea. ^p Antiochus raged against the elect of God, and trod his precious faith under feet, which are so called, because they are separated from the world.

^q prince,

f Because Abraham was appointed heire of all the world, Rom. 4. 13. and in him all the faithfull, therefore the kingdome thereof is theirs by right, which these foure beasts or tyrants should invade and usurpe untill the world were restored by Christ: and this was to confirme them that were in troubles, that their afflictions should have an end at length.

g That is, of the most high things, because God hath chosen them out of this world, that they should look up to the heavens, whereon all their hope dependeth. h For the other three Monarchies were governed by a king, and the Romane Empire by Consuls: the Romanes changed their governours yearly, and the other Monarchies retained them for terme of life: also the Romans were the strongest of all the other, and were never quiet among themselves.

i Read verse 7. k This is meant of the fourth beast, which was more terrible then the other.

l Meaning, the Romane Emperours, who were most cruell against the Church of God both of the Iews and of the Gentiles. m Till God shewed his power in the person of Christ, and by the preaching of the Gospel gave unto his, some rest, and so obtained a famous name in the world, and were called the Church of God, or the kingdom of God.

n Read the exposition hereof, vers. 8. o That is, shall make wicked decrees and proclamations against Gods Word, and send throughout all their dominion, to destroy all that did professe it. p These Emperours shall not consider that they have their power of God, but think it is in their owne power to change Gods laws and mans, and as it were the order of nature, as appeareth by Octavius, Tyberius, Caligula, Nero, Domitianus, &c.

q God shall suffer them thus to rage against his Saints for a long time, which is meant by the time and times, but at length he will assuage these troubles, and shorten the times for his elects sake, Mat. 24. 22. which is here meant by the dividing of time. r God by his power shall restore things that were out of order, and so destroy this little horne, that it shall never rise up againe. s He sheweth wherefore the beast should be destroyed, to wit, that his Church might have rest and quietnesse, which though they do not fully enjoy here, yet they have it in hope, and by the preaching of the Gospel enjoy the beginning thereof, which is meant, by these words, Under the heaven: and therefore he here speaketh of the beginning of Christs kingdome in this world. which kingdome the faithfull have by the participation that they have with Christ their head. t That is, some of every sort that beare rule. v Though he had many motions in his heart, which moved him too and fro to seeke out this matter curiously: yet he was content with that which God revealed, and kept it in memory, and wrote it for the use of the Church.

a After the general vision he cometh to certain particular visions: as touching the destruction of the Monarchie of the Persians and Macedonians, for the ruine of the Babylonians was at hand, and also hee had sufficiently spoken thereof. b That is, of Persia. c Which representeth the kingdom of the Persians and Medes, which were joyned together. d Meaning, Cyrus, which after grew greater in power then Darius his uncle and father in law.

e That is, no kings or nations. f Meaning, Alexander that came from Grecia, with great speed and expedition.

g Though he came in the name of all Grecia, yet he bare the title and dignity of the general captain, so that the strength was attributed to him, which is meant by this horne.

h Alexander overcame Darius in two bloody battels, and so had the two kingdoms of the Medes and Persians.

i Alexanders great power was broken, for when he had overcome all the East, he thought to returne toward Grecia to subdue them that there had rebelled, and so died by the way.

k That is, which were famous: for almost in the space of fifteene years, there were fifteene divers successfull monarchies before this Monarchie was divided to these foure, whereof Cassander had Macedonia, Seleucus Syria, Antigonus Asia the lesse, and Ptolemeeus Egypt.

l Which was Antiochus Epiphanes, who was of a servile and flattering nature, and also there were other betweene him and the kingdome, and therefore is here called the little horne, because neither princely conditions, nor any other thing was in him, why hee should obtrude this kingdome.

m That is, toward Egypt. n Whereby hee meant the Ptolemies, his precious faith under feet, which are so called, because they are separated from the world.

q That is, God who governeth and maintaineth his Church.

r He aboured to abolish all religion, and therefore call Gods service out of his Temple, which God had chosen as a little corner from all the rest of the world to have his Name there truly called upon.

s He sheweth that their sins are the cause of these horrible afflictions: and yet comforteth them, in that he appointeth this vision a time, whom he would not suffer utterly to abolish his religion.

t This horne shall stand for a time the true doctrine, and so corrupt Gods service.

u Meaning, that he heard one of the Angels asking this question of Christ, whom he calleth a carnate one, or a secret one, or a marvellous one.

x That is, the Jews law, which were cause of this destruction.

y That is, which suppleth Gods religion, and his people.

z Christ answered me for the comfort of the Church, a That is, until so many natural daies be past, which make five yeares three moneths and a halfe: for so long under Antiochus was the Temple prophaned.

aa Which was Christ, who in this manner declared himselfe to the old fathers: howe be yvond be God manifested in the flesh.

ab This power to command the Angel, declared that he was God.

ac The effect of this vision shall not yet appear, but a long time after.

ad Meaning, that great rage which Antiochus should shew against the Church.

ae That is, out of Grecia.

af They shall not have like power as had Alexander.

ag Noting, that this Antiochus was impudent and cruel, and also crafty, that he could not be deceived.

ah That is, not like Alexanders strength.

ai Both the Gentiles that dwell about him, and also the Jews.

aj Whatever bee goeth about by his craft, hee shall bring it to passe.

9 prince, of the hoste from whom the daily sacrifice was taken away, and the place of his Sanctuary was cast downe.

12 And a time shall be given him over the daily sacrifice for the iniquity: and it shall cast down the truth to the ground, and thus shall it doe; and prosper.

13 Then I heard one of the Saints speaking, and one of the Saints spake unto a certaine one, saying, How long shall endure the vision of the daily sacrifice, and the iniquity of the desolation to tread both the Sanctuary and the army under foot?

14 And he answered me, Unto the evening and the morning, two thousand and three hundred: then shall the Sanctuary be cleansed.

15 ¶ Now when I Daniel had seene the vision, and sought for the meaning, behold, there stood before me like the similitude of a man.

16 And I heard a mans voice between the bankes of Ulai, which called, and said, Gabriel, make this man to understand the vision.

17 So he came where I stood: and when he came, I was afraid, and fell upon my face: but he said unto me, Understand, O son of man, for in the last time shall be the vision.

18 Now as he was speaking unto me, I being asleepe fell on my face to the ground: but he touched me, and set me up in my place.

19 And he said, Behold, I will shew thee what shall be in the last wrath: for in the end of the time appointed it shall come.

20 The ramme which thou sawest having two hornes, are the kings of the Medes and Persians.

21 And the goate is the king of Grecia, and the great horne that is betweene his eyes, is the first king.

22 And that that is broken, and foure stood up for it, are foure kingdoms, which shall stand up of that nation, but not in his strength.

23 And in the end of their kingdome, when the rebellious shall bee consumed, a king of fierce countenance, and understanding darke sentences, shall stand up.

24 And his power shall be mighty, but not in his strength: and he shall destroy wonderfully, and shall prosper, and practise, and shall destroy the mighty, and the holy people.

25 And through his policie also, he shall cause craft to prosper in his hand, and he shall extoll himselfe in his heart, and by peace shall destroy many: he shall also stand up against the prince of princes, but he shall be broken downe without hand.

26 And the vision of the evening and the morning, which is declared, is true: therefore seale thou up the vision, for it shall be after many daies.

27 And I Daniel was stricken and sicke certaine daies: but when I rose up, I did the Kings businesse, and I was astonished at the vision, but none understood it.

C H A P. IX.

3 Daniel desireth to have that performed of God, which he had promised concerning the returne of the people from their banishment in Babylon. 5 A true confession.

20 Daniels prayer is heard. 21 Gabriel the Angel expoundeth unto him the vision of the seventy weeks.

24 The anointing of Christ. 25 The building againe of Ierusalem. 26 The death of Christ.

IN the first yeare of Darius the son of Ahasuerus, of the seed of the Medes, which was made king over the Realme of the Caldeans.

2 Even in the first yeare of his reigne, I Daniel understood by books, the number of the yeares, whereof the Lord had spoken unto Jeremiah the Prophet, that hee would accomplish seventy yeares in the desolation of Ierusalem.

3 And I turned my face unto the Lord God, and sought by prayer and supplications, with fasting and sackcloth and ashes.

4 And I prayed unto the Lord my God, and made my confession, saying, O Lord God, which art great and fearefull, and keepest covenant and mercie toward them which love thee, and toward them that keepe thy commandments.

5 Wee have sinned, and have committed iniquity, and have done wickedly, yea, we have rebelled, and have departed from thy precepts, and from thy judgements.

6 For we would not obey thy servants the Prophets, which spake in thy Name to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, and to all the people of the Land.

7 O Lord, righteousnesse belongeth unto thee, and unto us open shame, as appeareth this day, to every man of Iudah, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalem, yea, unto all Israel, both neare and farre off, through all the countries, whether thou hast driven them, because of their offences, that they have committed against thee.

8 O Lord, unto us appertaineth open shame, m That is, under pretence of peace: or as it were in sport.

n Meaning, against God.

o For God would destroy him with a notable plague, and so comfort his Church.

a Who was also called Aryages.

b For Cyrus led with ambition, went about wars in other countries, and therefore Darius had the title of the kingdome, though Cyrus was King in effect.

c For though hee was an excellent Prophet, yet hee daily increased in knowledge by reading of the Scriptures.

d He speaketh not of that ordinary prayer, which he used in his house thrice a day, but of a rare and vehement prayer, lest their sins should cause God to delay the time of their deliverance prophesied by Jeremiah.

e That is, hath all power in thy selfe to execute thy terrible judgements against obstinate sinners, as thou art, rich in mercy to comfort them which obey thy word, and love thee.

shame, to our ⁸ kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we have sinned against thee.

⁹ Yet compassion and forgiveness is in the Lord our God, albeit we have rebelled against him:

¹¹ Yea, all Israel have transgressed thy Law, and are turned backe, and have not heard thy voice: therefore the ⁱ curse is powred upon us, and the oath that is written in the Law of Moses the servant of God, because we have sinned against him.

¹³ All this plague is come upon us, as it is written in the Law of Moses: yet made we not our praier before the Lord our God, that we might turne from our iniquities, and understand thy truth.

¹⁴ Therefore hath the Lord [†] made ready the plague, and brought it upon us: for the Lord our God is righteous in all his works which he doth: for we would not heare his voice.

²⁷ And he ^a shall confirme the covenant with many for one week: and in the mids of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to ^b cease, ^c and for the overspreading of the abominations, he shall make it desolate, even untill the consummation determined shall be powred upon the desolate.

^f In this last weeke of the fiftie that Christ came and preached, and suffered death.

^g He shall seeme to have no being, nor to be of any estimation, as Isaiah, 53. 2.

^h Meaning, Titus Vespasianus son, vvho should come and destroy both the Temple and the people, vvithout all hope of recoverie.

ⁱ By the preaching of the Gospel he confirmed his promise, first to the Jewes, and after to the Gentiles.

^j Christ accomplished this by his death and resurrection.

^k Meaning, that Jerusalem and the Sanctuarie should be utterly destroyed for their rebellion against God, and their idolatry: or, as some reade, that the plagues shall be so grievous that they shall be astonished at them.

Daniel (whose name was called Belshazzar) and the word was true, but the time appointed was long, and he understood the thing, and had understanding of the vision.

2 At the same time I Daniel was in heavineſſe for three weekes of daies.

3 I ate no pleaſant bread, neither came fleſh, nor wine in my mouth, neither did I anoint my ſelfe at all, till three weekes of daies were fulfilled.

4 And in the foure and twentieth day of the e firſt moneth, as I d was by the ſide of that great river, even Hiddekel,

5 And I liſt up mine eies, and looked, and behold, there was a man e clothed in linnen, whoſe loines were girded with fine gold of  Uphaz*.

6 His body alſo was like the Chryſolite, and his face (to looke upon) like the lightning, and his eies as lampes of fire, and his armes and his feet were like in colour to poliſhed braſſe, and the voice of his words was like the voice of a multitude.

7 And I Daniel alone ſaw the viſion: for the men that were with me, ſaw not the viſion: but a great feare fell upon them, ſo that they fled away and hid themſelves.

8 Therefore I was left alone, and ſaw this great viſion, and there remained no ſtrength in me: for f my ſtrength was turned in me into corruption, and I retained no power.

9 Yet heard I the voice of his words: and when I heard the voice of his words, I ſlept on my face: and my face was toward the ground.

10 And behold, an g hand touched me, which ſet me upon my knees, and upon the palmes of mine hands.

11 And he ſaid unto me, O Daniel, a man greatly beloved, underſtand the words that I ſpeake unto thee, and ſtand in thy place: for unto thee am I now ſent. And when he had ſaid this word unto me, I ſtood trembling.

12 Then ſaid he unto me, Feare not, Daniel: for from the firſt day that thou didſt ſet thine heart to underſtand, and to humble thy ſelfe before thy God, thy words were heard, and I am come for thy words.

13 But the h prince of the kingdome of Perſia withſtood me one and twentie daies: but loe, i Michael one of the chiefe princes, came to helpe me, and I remained there by the kings of Perſia.

14 Now I am come to ſhew thee what ſhall come to thy people in the latter daies: for yet the k viſion is for many daies.

15 And when he ſpake theſe words unto me, I ſet my face toward the ground, and held my tongue.

16 And behold, l one like the ſimilitude of the ſonnes of man touched my lips: then I opened my mouth, and ſpake, and ſaid unto him that ſtood before me, O my Lord, m by the viſion my ſorrowes are returned upon me, and I have retained no ſtrength.

17 For how can the ſervant of this my Lord talke with my Lord being ſuch one? for as for me, ſtraight way there remained no ſtrength in me, neither is there breath left in me.

18 Then there came againe and touched me, one like the appearance of a man, and he ſtrengthened me, 19 And ſaid, O man, greatly beloved, feare not: n peace be unto thee: be ſtrong and of good courage. And when he had ſpoken unto me, l o was ſtrengthened, and ſaid, let my Lord ſpeake: for thou haſt ſtrengthened me.

20 Then ſaid he, Knoweſt thou wherefore I am come unto thee? but now will I returne to fight with the prince of Perſia: and when I am gone forth, loe, the p prince of Grecia ſhall come.

21 But I will ſhew thee that which is decreed in the Scripture of truth: q and there is none that holdeth with mee in theſe things, but Michael your Prince.

CHAP. XI.

A propheſie of the kingdomes which ſhould be enemies to the Church of God, as of Perſia. 3 Of Grecia. 5 Of Egypt. 28 Of Syria. 36 And of the Romanes.

Alſo I, in the firſt yeere of Darius of the Medes, even I ſtood a to encourage and to ſtrengthen him.

2 And now will I ſhew thee the truth. Behold, there ſhall ſtand up yet b three Kings in Perſia, and the fourth ſhall be farre richer then they all: and by his ſtrength, and by his riches, he ſhall ſtirre up c all againſt the realme of Grecia.

3 But a d mightie King ſhall ſtand up, that ſhall rule with great dominion, and doe according to his pleaſure.

4 And when he ſhall ſtand up, e his kingdome ſhall be broken, f and ſhall be

c For he raiſed up all the Eaſt Countries for to fight againſt the Grecians: and altho he had in his Armie nine hundred thouſand men, yet in foure battels he was diſcomfited and fled away with ſhame. d That is, Alexander the great. e For when his eſtate was moſt flouriſhing, he overcame himſelfe with drinke, and ſo fell into a diſeaſe, or as ſome write, was poiſoned by Ciliander. f For his twelve chiefe princes firſt divided his kingdome among themſelves.

k For though the Prophet Daniel ſhould end and ceaſe, yet his doctrine ſhould continue till the coming of Chriſt, for the comfort of his Church. l This was the ſame Angel that ſpake with him before in the ſimilitude of a man.

m I was overcome with feare and ſorrow, when I ſaw the viſion.

n Hee declareth hereby, that God would be mercifull unto the people of Iſrael.

o Which declareth, that when God ſmiteth downe his children, he doth not immediately liſt them up at once, (for now the Angel had touched him twice) but by little and little.

p Meaning, that he would not only himſelfe bridle the rage of Cambyses, but alſo the other Kings of Perſia, by Alexander the King of Macedonia.

q For this Angel was appointed for the defence of the Church under Chriſt, who is the head thereof.

a The Angel ſtrengthens Daniel, that God hath given him power to performe theſe things, ſeeing he appointed him to aſſiſt Darius, when he overcame the Caldeans.

b Whereof Cambyses that now reigned was the firſt, the ſecond Smerdes, the third Darius the ſonne of Hyſtaſpis, and the fourth Xerxes, which all were enemies to the people of God, and ſtood againſt them.

b Which is to declare that the godly ſhould not haſten too much, but patiently to abide the iſſue of Gods promiſe.

c Called Abib, which containeth part of March, and part of April. d Being carried by the Spirit of propheſie to have the ſight of this river Tygris. e This was the Angel of God, which was ſent to aſſure Daniel in this propheſie that followeth. f Iſr. 10. 9.

f The word alſo ſignifieth, corruption, or beaſtie, ſo that for feare he was like a dead man for deformitie. g Which declareth, that when we are ſtricken downe with the rage of God, we cannot riſe, except hee alſo liſt us up with his hand, which is his power.

h Meaning, Cambyses, who reigned in his fathers ſolence, and did not onely for this ſpace hinder the building of the Temple, but would have further raged, if God had not ſent me to reſiſt him, and therefore have I ſtand for the profit of the Church. i Though God could by one Angel deſtroy all the world, yet to aſſure his children of his love he ſendeth forth double power, even Michael, that is, Chriſt Jeſus, the head of Angels.

^g After this his Monarchie vvas divided into foure: for Seleucus had Syria, Antigonus Asia-minor, Cassander the kingdome of Macedonia, and Ptolomeus Egypt.

^h Thus God reuenged Alexanders ambition and crueltye, in causing his posteritie to be murdered, partly of the fathers chiefe friends, and partly one of another.

ⁱ None of these foure shall be able to be compared to the power of Alexander.

ⁿ That is, Berenice the daughter of Ptolomeus Philadelphus shall be given in marriage to Antiochus Theos, thinking by this affinitie, that Syria and Egypt should haue a continuall peace together.

^o That force and strength shall not continue: for soon after Berenice and her yong sonne after her husbands death, vvas slaine of her step sonne Seleucus Calinicus, the sonne of Laodice, the lawfull wife of Antiochus, but put away for this vnomans sake.

^p Neither Ptolomeus nor Antiochus.

^q Some read, feed, meaning the Child begotten of Berenice.

^r Some reade, the that begate her, and thereby understand her nurse, which brought her up: so that all they that were occasion of this marriage, were destroyed.

^s Meaning, that Ptolomeus Euergetes after the death of his father Philadelphus should succeed in the Kingdome, being of the same stocke that Berenice vvas.

divided toward ^s the foure windes of heaven: and not to his ^h posteritie, nor according to his ⁱ dominion which he ruled: for his kingdome shall be pluckt up, even to be for others besides ^k those.

⁹ So the king of the South shall come into his kingdome, and shall returne into his owne land.

¹² Then the multitude shall be proud, and their heart shall be lifted up: for he shall cast downe thousands: but he shall not still preuaile.

¹³ For the king of the North ^b shall returne, and shall set forth a greater multitude then afore, and shall come forth (after certaine yeares) with a mightie armie and great riches.

¹⁴ And at the same time there shall ^c many stand up against the king of the South: also the rebellious children of thy ^d people shall exalt themselves to establish the vision, but they shall fall.

¹⁹ For he shall turne his face toward the forts of ^o his owne land: but he shall be overthrowne and fall, and be no more ^p found.

²⁰ ^q Then shall stand up in his place in the glorie of the kingdome, one that shall raise taxes: but after few daies he shall be destroyed, neither in ^r wrath nor in battell.

²² And the ^t armes shall bee overthrowne with a flood before him, and shall be broken, and also the Prince of the ^v covenant.

his father Antiochus. ^r Not by forreigne enemies, or battell, but by treason. ^s Which was Antiochus Epiphanes, vvhoo as is thought, vvas the occasion of Seleucus his brothers death, and vvas of a vile, cruell and flattering nature, and defrauded his brothers sonne of the kingdome, and usurped the kingdome without the consent of the people. ^t He sheweth, that great forreinge powers shall come to helpe the young sonne of Seleucus against his uncle Antiochus, and yet shall be overthrowne. ^u Meaning, Ptolomeus Philometor, Philopatens sonne, vvhoo vvas this childes colen germane, and is here called the Prince of the covenant, because he vvas the chiefe, and all other followed his conduct. ^x For after the battell, Philometor and his uncle Antiochus made a league. ^y For hee came upon him at unawares, and when he suspected his uncle Antiochus nothing. ^z Meaning, in Egypt. ^a He will content himselfe with the small holds for a time, but ever labour by craft to attaine to the chiefe.

25 Also, he shall stirre up his power and his courage against the king of the South with a great armie, and the king of the South shall be stirred up to battell with a very great and mightie armie: but he shall not stand: for they shall forecast and practise against him.

26 Yea, they that feed of the portion of his meate, shall destroy him: and his armie shall overflow: and many shall fall, and be slaine.

27 And both these kings hearts shall be to doe mischief, and they shall talke of deceit at one table: but it shall not availe: for yet the end shall be at the time appointed.

28 Then shall he returne into his land with great substance: for his heart shall be against the holy covenant: so shall he doe and returne to his owne land.

29 At the time appointed he shall returne and come toward the South: but the last shall not be as the first.

30 For the ships of Chittim shall come against him: therefore he shall be sorie and returne, and fret against the holy covenant: so shall he doe, he shall even returne and have intelligence with them that forsake the holy covenant.

31 And armes shall stand on his part, and they shall polute the Sanctuarie of strength, and shall take away the daily sacrifice, and they shall set up the abominable defolation.

32 And such as wickedly breake the covenant shall he cause to sinne by flatterie: but the people that doe know their God, shall prevaile and prosper.

33 And they that understand among the people, shall instruct many: yet they shall fall by sword, and by flame, by captivitie and by spoile many daies.

34 Now when they shall fall, they shall be holpen with a little helpe: but many shall cleave unto them feignedly.

35 And some of them of understanding shall fall to trie them, and to purge, and to make them white, till the time be out: for there is a time appointed.

36 And the king shall doe what him list: he shall exalt himselfe and magnifie himselfe against all, that is, God, and shall speake marveilous things against the God of gods, and shall prosper, till the wrath be accomplished: for the determination is made.

37 Neither shall he regard the God of his fathers, nor the desires of women, nor care for any God: for he shall magnifie himselfe above all.

38 But in his place shall he honour the god Mauzzim, and the god whom his fathers knew not, shall he honour with gold and with silver, and with precious stones, and pleasant things.

39 Thus shall he doe in the holes of Mauzzim with a strange god whom he shall acknowledge: he shall increase his glory, and shall cause them to rule over many, and shall divide the land for gaine.

40 And at the end of time shall the king of the South push at him, and the king of the North shall come against him like a whirlewinde with charets, and with horsemen, and with many ships, and he shall enter into the countries, and shall overflow and passe thorow.

41 He shall enter also into the pleasant land, and many countries shall be overthrowne: but these shall escape out of his hand, even Edom and Moab, and the chiefe of the children of Ammon.

42 He shall stretch forth his hands also upon the countries, and the land of Egypt shall not escape.

43 But he shall have power over the treasures of gold and of silver, and over all the precious things of Egypt, and of the Lybians, and of the blacke Moores where he shall passe.

44 But the tydings out of the East, and the North shall trouble him: therefore he shall goe forth with great wrath to destroy and root out many.

45 And he shall plant the tabernacles of his palace betweene the seas in the glorious and holy mountaine, yet he shall come to his end, and none shall helpe him.

CHAP. XII.

1 Of the deliverance of the Church by Christ.

And at that time shall Michael stand up, the great Prince, which standeth for the children of thy people, and there shall be a time of trouble such as never was since there began to be a nation unto that same time: and at that time thy people shall be delivered, everie one that shall bee found written in the booke.

2 And

t So long the tyrants shall prevail as God hath appointed to punish his people, but he sheweth it is but for a time.

v The Romans shall observe no certaine forme of Religion as other nations, but shall change their gods at their pleasures: yea contemne them, and preferre themselves to their gods.

x Signifying, that they should bee without all humanitie: for the love of women is taken for singular or great love, as 2 Sam. 13. 26.

y That is, the God of power and riches: they shall esteeme their own power above all their gods, and worship it.

z Under pretence of worshipping the gods, they shall enrich their cities with the most precious jewels of all the world, because that hereby all men should have them in admiration for their power and riches.

a Although in their hearts they had no religion, yet they did acknowledge the gods, and worshipped them in their temples, lest they should have beene despised as Atheists: but this was to increase their fame and riches: and when they gave any countrie, they so made others the rulers thereof, that the profit ever came to the Romanes.

b That is, both the Egyptians and Syrians shall at the length fight against the Romanes, but they shall bee overcome.

c The Angel forewarneth the Jewes that when they should see the Romanes invade them, and that the wicked should escape their hands, that when they should not thinke but that all this was done by Gods providence, forasmuch as he vvarerth them of it so long afore, and therefore he would still preserve them. d Hearing that Crassus was slaine, and Antonius discomfited. e For Augustus overcame the Parthians, and recovered that which Antonius had lost. f The Romanes after this reigned quietly through all countries, and from sea to sea, and in Judea: but at length for their cruellie God shall destroy them.

c Signifying his Princes, and the chiefe about him. d Declaring, that his souldiers shall break out, and venture their life to day and to be slaine for the sake of their Prince.

e The uncle and the nephew shall take truce, and become together, yet in their hearts they shall imagine mischief one against another.

f Signifying, that it standeth not in the counsell of men to bring things to passe, but in the providence of God, who ruleth the Kings by a secret bridle, that they cannot doe what they list themselves.

g Which he shall take of the Jewes in spoiling Jerusalem and the Temple, and this is told them before, to move them to patience, knowing, that all things are done by Gods providence.

h That is, the Romanes power shall come against him: for P. Pompeius the Ambassador appointed him to depart in the Romanes name, to which thing he obeyed, although with griefe, and to revenge his rage, he came against the people of God the second time.

i With the Jewes which shall forsake the covenant of the Lord: for first he was called against the Jewes by Jason the high Priest, and this second time by Menelaus.

k A great faction of the wicked Jewes shall hold with Antiochus.

s To wit, of them that feare God, and will lose their life for the defence of true Religion, signifying also, that the Church must continually be tried and purged, and ought to looke for one persecution after another: for God hath appointed the time, therefore we must obey.

t Because the Angels purpose is to shew the whole course of the persecutions of the Jewes unto the coming of Christ, he now speaketh of the Monarchie of the Romans, which he noteth by the name of a King, who were without all religion, and contemned the true God.

4 But thou, O Daniel, ^e shut up the words, and seale the booke ^f till the end of the time: many shall runne too and fro, and knowledge shall be increased.

5 ¶ Then I Daniel looked, and behold, there stood other two, the one on this side of the brinke of the river.

6 And one said unto the man clothed in linnen, which was upon the waters of the river, When shall be the end of these wonders?

7 And I heard the man clothed in linnen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his ^h right hand, and his left hand unto heaven, and sware by him that liveth for ever, that it shall tarie for a ⁱ time, two times and an halfe:

HOSEA.

THE ARGUMENT.

After that the ten Tribes had falne away from God by the wicked and subtil counsell of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, and instead of his true service commanded by his word, worshipped him according to their owne fantasies and traditions of men, giving themselves to most vile idolatrie and superstition, the Lord from time to time sent them Prophets to call them to repentance: but they grew ever worse and worse, and still abused Gods benefits. Therefore now when their posteritie was at the highest under Ieroboam the sonne of Ioash, God sent Hosea and Amos to the Israelites (as he did at the same time Isaiah and Micah to them of Iudah) to condemne them of their ingratitude: and whereas they thought themselves to be greatly in the favour of God, and to be his people, the Prophet calleth them bastards, and children borne in adulterie: and therefore sheweth them that God would take away their kingdome, and give them to the Assyrians to be led away captives. Thus Hosea faithfully executed his office for the space of seven-tye yeares, though they remained still in their vices and wickednesse, and derided the Prophets, and contemned Gods judgements. And because they should neither be discouraged with threatnings onely, nor yet flatter themselves by the sweetnesse of Gods promises, he setteth before them the two principall parts of the Law, which are the promise of salvation, and the doctrine of life: for the first part he directeth the faithfull to Messiah, by whom onely they should have true deliverance: and for the second, he useth threatnings and menaces to bring them from their wicked manners and vices, and this is the chiefe scope of all the Prophets, either by Gods promises to allure them to be godly, or else by threatnings of his judgements to feare them from vice: and albeit that the whole Law containe these two points, yet the Prophets moreover note peculiarly both the time of Gods judgements, and the manner.

CHAP. I.

C H A P. I.

1 The time wherein Hosea prophesied. 2 The idolatrie of the people 10 The calling of the Gentiles. 11 Christ is the head of all people.

He Word of the Lord that came unto Hosea the sonne of Beeri, in the daies of ^a Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, ^b Kings of Judah, and in the daies of Jeroboam the sonne of Joash King of Israel.

2 At the beginning the Lord spake by Hosea, and the Lord said unto Hosea, Goe, take unto thee a wife ^c of fornications, and children of fornications: for the land hath committed great whoredome, departing from the Lord.

3 So he went and tooke ^d Gomer, the daughter of Diblaim, which conceived and bare him a sonne.

4 And the Lord said unto him, Call his name ^e Izreel: for yet a little, and I will visite the blood of Izreel, upon the ^f house of Jehu, and will cause to cease the kingdome of the house of Israel.

5 And at that ^g day will I also breake the bow of Israel, in the valley of Izreel.

6 She conceived yet againe, and bare a daughter, and God said unto him, Call her name ^h Lo-ruhamath: for I will no more have pitie upon the house of Israel: but I will utterly ⁱ take them away.

7 Yet I will have mercie upon the house of Judah, and will ^k save them by the Lord their God, and will not save them by bow, nor by sword, nor by battell, by horses, nor by horsemen.

8 Now when she had wained Lo-ruhamath, shee conceived, and bare a sonne.

9 Then said God, Call his name ^l Lo-amnu; for ye are not my people: therefore will I not be yours.

10 Yet the number of the ^m children of Israel shall be as the sand of the sea, which cannot be measured nor told: and in the place where it was said unto them, Ye are not my people, it shall be said unto them, ⁿ Ye are the sonnes of the living God.

11 Then shall the children of Judah, and the children of Israel be ^o gathered together, and appoint themselves one head, and they shall come up out of the land: for great ^p is the ^q day of Izreel.

^a Called also Azariah, who being a leper was deposed from his kingdome.

^b So that it may be gathered by the reign of these 4 kings, that hee preached above 60. years.

^c That is, one that of long time hath accustomed to play the harlot: not that the prophet did this thing in effect, but hee shew this in a vision, or else was commanded by God, to set forth under this parable, or figure: the idolatrie of the Synagogue, and of the people her children.

^d Gomer signifies a contumacious corruption, and Diblaim clustring of figs, declaring that they were all corrupt like rotten figs.

^e Meaning, that they should be no more called Israelites, of the which name they boasted, because Israel did prevaile with God: but that they were as bastards, and therefore should be called Izreelites, that is, scattered people, alluding to Izreel, which was the chiefe citie of the ten tribes under Abahy, where Jehu shed so much blood, 1 King. 10. 11.

^f I will be revenged upon Jehu for the blood that he shed in Izreel: for albeit God stirred him up to execute his judgements, yet hee did them for his own ambition, and not for the glory of God, as the end declared: for hee built up that idolatrie, which hee had destroyed.

^g When the measure of their iniquitie is full, and I shall take vengeance and destroy all their policie and force.

^h That is, not obtaining mercie: whereby hee signifies that Gods favour was departed from them.

ⁱ For the Israelites never returned after that they were taken captives by the Assyrians. ^k For after their captivitie hee restored them miraculously by the means of Cyrus. Ezra 1. 1. ^l That is, not my people. ^m Because they thought that God could not have been true in his promise, except hee had preserved them, hee declared that though they were destroyed, yet the true Israelites, which are the sonnes of the promise, should be without number, which stand both of the Jewes and the Gentiles. Rom. 9. 26. ⁿ To wit, after the captivitie of Babylon, when the Jewes were restored: but chiefly this is referred to the time of Christ, who should be the head both of the Jewes and Gentiles. ^o The calamitie and destruction of Izreel shall be so great, that to restore them shall be as a miracle.

C H A P. I I.

1 The people is called to repentance. 5 He sheweth their idolatrie, and threatneth them except they repent.

Say unto your ^a brethren, Ammi, and to your sisters, Ruhamah.

2 Plead with your ^b mother: plead with her: for she is not my wife, neither am I her husband: but let her take away her fornications out of her sight, and her adulteries ^c from betweene her breasts,

3 ^d Left I strip her naked, and set her as in the day that she was ^e borne, and make her as a wildernesse, and leave her like a drie land, and slay her for thirst.

4 And I will have no pitie upon her children, for they be the ^f children of fornications.

5 For their mother hath plaid the harlot: shee that conceived them, hath done shamefully: for she said, I will goe after my ^g lovers that give me my bread and my water, my wooll and my flaxe, mine oile and my drinke.

6 Therefore behold, I will ^h stop thy way with thornes, and make an hedge that she shall not finde her paths.

7 Though she follow after her lovers, yet shall she not come at them: though she seek them, yet shall she not finde them: then shall she say, ⁱ I will goe and returne to my first husband: for at that time was I better then now.

8 Now she did not know that I gave her ^k corne and wine, and oile, and multiplied her silver and gold, which they bestowed upon Baal.

9 Therefore will I returne, and take away ^l my corne in the time thereof, and my wine in the season thereof, and will recover my wooll and my flaxe ^m lent, to cover her shame.

10 And now I will discover ⁿ her lewdnesse in the sight of her lovers, and no man shall deliver her out of mine hand.

11 I will also cause all her mirth to cease, her feast daies, her new Moones, and her Sabbaths, and all her solemne feasts.

12 And I will destroy her vines and her figtrees, whereof she hath said, These are my rewards that my lovers hath given me: and I will make them as ^o a Forrest, and the wilde beasts shall eat them.

13 And I will visite upon her the daies of ^p Baalim, wherein shee burnt incense to them: and shee decked her selfe with her ^q care-rings, and her jewels, and she followed her lovers, and forgate me, saith the Lord.

14 Therefore behold, I will ^r allure her, their holy daies. ^p By my benefits in offering her grace and mercie, even in that place where she shall thinke her selfe destitute of all helpe and comfort.

^a Seeing, that I have promised you deliverance, it remaineth that you encourage one another to embrace the same, considering, that ye are my people, on whom I will have mercie.

^b God sheweth, that the fault was not in him, but in their Synagogue, and their idolatries, that hee forsooke them, 1sa. 50. 1.

^c Meaning, that their idolatrie was so great, that they were not ashamed, but boasted of it. Ezek. 16. 25.

^d For though this people were as an harlot for their idolatries, yet hee had left them with their apparel and dowrie, and certain signes of his favour, but if they continued still hee would utterly destroy them.

^e When I brought her out of Egypt, Ezek. 16. 4.

^f That is, bastards, and begotten in adulterie.

^g Meaning, the idols which they served, and by whom they thought they had wealth and abundance.

^h I will punish thee, that then thou mayest trie whether thine idoles can helpe thee, and bring thee into such straightnesse, that thou shalt have no lust to play the wanton.

ⁱ This hee speaketh of the faithfull which are truly converted, and also sheweth the use and profit of Gods rods.

^k This declareth that idolaters defraud God of his honour when they ascribe his benefits to their idols.

^l Signifying, that God will take away his benefits when man by his ingratitude doth abuse them.

^m That is, all her service, ceremonies, and inventions, whereby shee worshipped her idoles.

ⁿ I will punish her for her idolatrie.

^o By shewing how harlots trim themselves to please others, hee declareth how the superstitious idolaters set a great part of their religion in decking themselves on and bring her into the wilderness, and speake friendly unto her.

15 And I will give her her vineyards from thence, and the valley of Achor for the doore of hope, and she shall sing there as in the daies of her youth, and as in the day when she came up out of the land of Egypt.

16 And at that day saith the Lord, thou shalt call me ^r Ishi, and shalt call me no more ^r Baali.

17 For I will take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and they shall be no more remembered by their names.

18 And in that day will I make a covenant for them with the ^x wilde beasts, and with the fowles of the heaven, and with that that creepeth upon the earth: and I will breake the bow and the sword, and the battell out of the earth, and will make them to sleepe safely.

19 And I will marrie thee unto me for ever: yea, I will marrie thee unto me in righteousness, and in judgement, and in mercie, and in compassion.

20 I will even marrie thee unto me in faithfulness, and thou shalt know the Lord.

21 And in that day I will heare, saith the Lord, I will even heare ^z the heavens, and they shall heare the earth.

22 And the earth shall heare the corne, and the wine, and the oile, and they shall heare Izreel.

23 And I will sow her unto me in the earth, and I will have mercie upon her, that was not pitied, and I will say to them which were not my people, ^{*} Thou art my people. And they shall say, Thou art my God.

CHAP. III.

1 The Iewes shall be cast off for their idolatrie. 5 Afterward they shall returne to the Lord.

Then said the Lord to me, ^a Goe yet, and love a woman (beloved of her husband, and was an harlot) according to the love of the Lord toward the children of Israel: yet they looke to other gods, and ^b loved the wine bottles.

2 So ^c I brought her to me for fifteene pieces of silver, and for an Homer of barley and an halfe Homer of barley.

3 And I said unto her, Thou shalt abide with ^d me many daies: thou shalt not play the harlot: and thou shalt be to none other man, and I will be so unto thee.

4 For the children of Israel shall ^e remaine many daies without a King, and without a ^f Prince, and without an offering, and without an image, and without an Ephod, and without Teraphim.

5 Afterward shall the children of Israel convert, and seeke the Lord their God, and ^g David their King, and shall feare the Lord, and his goodnesse in the latter daies.

CHAP. IV.

A complaint against the people, and the Priests of Israel.

Hear the word of the Lord, ye children of Israel: for the Lord ^a hath a controversie with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land.

2 By swearing, and lying, and killing, and stealing, and whoring, they breake out, and ^b blood toucheth blood.

3 Therefore shall the land mourne, and every one that dwelleth therein, shall be cut off with the beasts of the field, and with the fowles of the heaven, and also the fishes of the sea shall be taken away.

4 Yet ^c let none rebuke, nor reprove another: for thy people are as they that rebuke the Priest.

5 Therefore shalt thou fall in the ^d day, and the Prophet shall fall with thee in the night, & I will destroy thy ^e mother.

6 My people are destroyed for lacke of knowledge: because ^f thou hast refused knowledge, I will also refuse thee, that thou shalt be no Priest to me: and seeing, ^g thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I will also forget thy children.

7 As they were ^h increased, so they sinned against me: therefore will I change their glorie into shame.

8 ⁱ They eat up the sins of my people, and lift up their mindes in their iniquitie.

9 And there shall be like people, like ^k Priest: for I will visite their waies upon them, and reward them their deeds.

10 For they shall eate, and not have enough: they shall ^l commit adulterie, and shall not increase, because they have left off to take heed to the Lord.

11 ^m Whoredome, and wine, and new wine take away their heart.

12 My ⁿ people aske counsell at their stockes, and their staffe teacheth them: for the ^o spirit of fornications hath caused them to erre, and they have gone a whoring from under their God.

13 They sacrifice upon the tops of the mountaines, and burne incense upon the hills under the oaks, and the poplar tree, and the elme, because the shadow thereof is good: therefore your daughters shall be ^p harlots, and your spouses shall be whores.

people, which now for their finnes they were not: for they sought helpe of rocks and stickes, o They are caried away with rage. p Because they take away Gods honour, and give it to idoles, therefore he will give them up to their lusts, that they shall dishonour their own bodies, Rom. 1. 26.

g This is meant of Christs kingdome, which was promised unto David to be eternal, Psal. 72. 17.

a Because the people would not obey the admonitions of the Prophet, hee cith them before the judgement seate of God, against whom they chiefly offended, Isa. 7. 13. Zech. 12. 10. Mich. 6. 1, 2. b In every place appeareth a libertie to most heinous vices, so that one followeth in the necke of another.

c As though he would say, that it were in vaine to rebuke them: for no man can abide it: yea, they will speake against the Prophets and Priests, whose office it is chiefly to rebuke them.

d Ye shall perish all together: the one, because he would not obey, and the other, because hee would not admonish.

e That is, the Synagogue, wherein thou dwellest.

f That is, the Priests shall be cast off, because that for lacke of knowledge they are not able to execute their charge, and instruct others, Deut. 33. 3. Malac. 2. 7.

g Meaning, the whole bodie of the people, which were vvarie with hearing the word of God.

h The more I was beneficiall unto them.

i To wit, the Priests seeke to eate the peoples offerings, and flatter them in their finnes.

k Signifying, that as they have sinned together, so shall they be punished together.

l Shewing, that their wickednesse shall be punished on all sorts: for though they think by the multitude of wives to have many children, yet they shall be deceived of their hope.

m In giving themselves to pleasures, they become like brut beasts.

n Thus he speaketh by derision in calling them his people, which now for their finnes they were not: for they sought helpe of rocks and stickes, o They are caried away with rage. p Because they take away Gods honour, and give it to idoles, therefore he will give them up to their lusts, that they shall dishonour their own bodies, Rom. 1. 26.

q Which was a plentiful valley, and wherein they had great comfort when they came out of the wilderness, as Josh. 7. 26. and it is called the doore of hope, because it was a departing from death, and an entrie into life.

r Shee shall then praise God, as she did when shee was delivered out of Egypt.

s That is, mine husband, knowing that I am joined to thee by an inviolable covenant.

t That is, my master: which name was applied to their idoles.

v No idolatrie shall once come into their mouth, but they shall serve me purely according to my word.

x Meaning, that he will so blesse them, that all creatures shall favour them.

y With a covenant that never shall be broken, z Then shall the heaven desire raine for the earth, which shall bring forth for the use of man.

* Rom. 9. 25.
1 Ps. 2. 10.

a Herein the Prophet representeth the perion of God, which loved his Charch before he called her, and did not withdraw the same when she gave her selfe unto idoles.

b That is, gave themselves wholly to pleasures, and could not take up, as they that are given to drunkennesse.

c Yet I loved her, and payed a small portion for her, lest she perceiving the greatnesse of my love, should have abused me, and not been under duerie: for fifteene pieces of silver were but half the price of a slave, Exod. 21. 3. 2.

d I will trie thee a long time as in thy widow-hood, whether thou wilt be mine or no. e Meaning, not onely all the time of their captivitie, but also unto Christ. f That is, they should neither have policie nor religion, and their idoles also wherein they put their confidence, should be destroyed.

^a I will not correct your shame to bring you to amendment, but let you run headlong to your own damnation.
^b God complained that Judah is infected, and will teach them to learn by their example to returne in time.
^c For albeit the Lord had honoured this place in time past by his presence, yet because it was abused by their idolatry, he would not that his people should resort thither, the callen Beth-el, that is, the house of God, Beth-aven, that is, the house of iniquity, because of their abominations set up there, signifying, that no place is holy where God is not purely worshipped.
^d God will to discipline them, that they shall not remaine in any certaine place. ^e They are so impudent in receiving bribes, that they will command men to bring them unto them. ^f To carry them suddenly.

14 I will not ^a visit your daughters when they are harlots, nor your spouses, when they are whores: for they themselves are separated with harlots, and sacrifice with whores: therefore the people that doth not understand, shall fall.

15 Though thou, Israel, play the harlot, yet ^a let not Judah sinne: come not ye unto ^b Gilgal, neither goe yee up to ^c Beth-aven, nor sweare, The Lord liveth.

16 For Israel is rebellious as an unruly heifer, Now the Lord will feed them as a ^a lambe in a large place.

17 Ephraim ^a is joyned to idols: let him alone.

18 Their drunkenesse stinketh: they have committed whoredome: their rulers love to ^a say with shame, ^x Bring ye.

19 The wind hath ^a bound them up in her wings, and they shall bee ashamed of their sacrifices.

CHAP. V.

1 Against the Priests and rulers of Israel. 13 The helpe of man is in vaine.

O Ye Priests, heare this, and hearken yee, O house of Israel, and give ye care, O house of the King: for judgement ^a is toward you, because yee have bene a ^a snare on Mizpah, and a net spread upon Tabor.

2 Yet they were profound, to decline to ^a slaughter, though I have been a ^c rebuker of them all.

3 I know ^a Ephraim, and Israel is not hid from me: for now, O Ephraim, thou art become an harlot, and Israel is defiled.

4 They will not give their mindes to turne unto their God: for the spirit of fornication ^a is in the midst of them, and they have not knowne the Lord.

5 And the ^c pride of Israel doth testify to his face: therefore shall Israel and Ephraim fall in their iniquity: Judah also shall fall with them.

6 They shall goe with their sheepe, and with their bullockes to seeke the Lord: but they shall not finde him: for hee hath withdrawne himselfe from them.

7 They have transgressed against the Lord: for they have begotten ^a strange children: now shall ^a a moneth devour them with their portions.

8 Blow yee the trumpet in Gibeah, and the shahme in Ramah: cry out at Beth-aven, after thee, O ^a Benjamin.

9 Ephraim shall bee desolate in the day of rebuke: among the tribes of Israel have I caused to ^a know the truth.

10 The Princes of Judah were like them that ^a remove the bound: therefore will I powre out my wrath upon them like water.

11 Ephraim is oppressed, and broken in judgement, because he willingly walked after the ^a commandment.

12 Therefore will I be unto Ephraim as a moth, and to the house of Judah as a rottenesse.

13 When Ephraim saw his sicknesse, and Judah his wound, then went Ephraim unto ^a Asshur, and sent unto king ^a Jareb: yet could he not heale you, nor cure you of your wound.

14 For I will be unto Ephraim as a Lion, and as a Lions whelp to the house of Judah: I, ^a even I, will spoile, and go away: I will take away, and none shall rescue it.

15 I will goe, and returne to my place, till they acknowledge their fault, and seek me: in their affliction they will seeke me diligently.

CHAP. VI.

1 Affliction causeth a man to turne to God. 9 The wickednesse of the Priests.

Come, and let us ^a returne to the Lord: for he hath spoiled, and he will heale us: he hath wounded us, and he will binde us up.

2 After two daies will ^a he revive us, and in the third day he will raise us up, and we shall live in his sight.

3 Then shall wee have knowledge, and endeavour our selves to know the Lord: his going forth is prepared as the morning, and he shall come unto us as the raine, and as the latter raine unto the earth.

4 O Ephraim, what shall I doe unto thee? O Judah, how shall I entreat thee? for ^a your goodnesse ^a is as a morning cloud, and as the morning dew it goeth away.

5 Therefore have I ^a cut downe by the Prophets: I have slaine them by the words of my mouth, and thy ^c judgments were as the light that goeth forth.

6 For I desired ^a mercy, and not sacrifice, and the knowledge of God more then burnt offerings.

7 But they ^a like men have transgressed the covenant: there have they trespassed against me.

8 ^a Gilead ^a is a city of them that worke iniquity, and ^a is poluted with blood.

9 And as thieves waite for a man, so the company of Priests murder in the way by consent: for they work mischief.

M m 3

10 I have

ⁱ By the successe they shall know that I have surely determined this.
^k They have turned upside downe all political order, and all manner of religion.

^m In stead of seeking for remedy at Gods hand.
ⁿ Who was a king of the Assyrians.

^a He sheweth the people how they ought to turne to the Lord, that he might call backe his plagues.

^b Though he correct us from time to time, yet his help will not be farre off, if we returne to him.

^c You seem to have a certaine holiness and repentance, but it is upon the sudden, and as a morning cloud. I have still labored by my Prophets, and as it were framed you to bring you to amendment, but all was in vaine: for my sword was not meat to feed them, but a sword to slay them.

^d My doctrine which I taught thee, was most evident.

^e He sheweth to what scope his doctrine tended, that they should joyne the obedience of God, and the love of their neighbour with outward sacrifice.

^f That is, like light and weak persons.
^g Which was the place where the Priests dwelt, and which should have been best instructed in my sword.

^a The Priests and Princes caught the pious people in their snares as the snailers did the birds in these two high mountaines.
^b Nowwithstanding, they seemed to be given altogether to holiness, and to sacrifices, which here he calleth slaughter in contempt.
^c Though I had admonished them continually by my Prophets.
^d They boasted themselves not only to be Israelites, but also Ephraimites, because their king Jeroboam came of that tribe.
^e Meaning, their concerning of all admonitions.

^f That is, their children are degenerate, so that there is no hope in them.
^g Then destruction is not farre off.
^h That is, all Israel comprehended under this part, signifying, that the Lord's plagues should pursue them from place to place, till they were destroyed.

10 I have seen villanie in the house of Israel : there is the whoredome of Ephraim : Israel is defiled.

11 Yea: Judah hath set a ¹ plant for thee, whiles I would returne the captivity of my people.

CHAP. VII.

1 Of the vices and wantonnesse of the people. 12 Of their punishment.

WHEN I would have healed Israel, then the iniquity of Ephraim was discovered, and the wickednesse of Samaria: for they have dealt falsely: and ^a the thiefe commeth in, and the robber spoileth without.

^a Meaning, that there was no one kinde of vice among them, but that they were subject to all wickednes, both secret and open.

2 And they consider not in their hearts, that I remember all their wickednesse: now their owne inventions have beset them about: they are in my sight.

^b They esteeme their wicked king Jeroboam above God, and seek but how to flatter and please him.

3 They make the ^b King glad with their wickednesse, and the princes with their lies.

^c He compareth the rage of the people to a burning oven vvhich the baker heateth still, till his dough be leavened and raised.

4 They are all adulterers, and as a very ^c oven heated by the baker, which ceaseth from raising up, and from kneading the dough untill it be leavened.

^d They used all riot and excess in their feasts and solemnities, whereby their king was overcome vvvith surfe, and brought into diseases, and delighted in flatulencies.

5 ^d This is the day of our King: the Princes have made him sicke with flagons of wine, he stretcheth out his hand to scorner.

6 For they have made ready their heart like an oven whiles they lie in waite: their baker sleepeth all the night: in the morning it burneth as a flame of fire.

^e By their occasion God hath deprived them of all good rulers.

7 They are all hot as an oven, and have ^e devoured their Judges: all their Kings are fallen: there is none among them that calleth unto me.

^f That is, he counterfeith the religion of the Gentiles, yet is but as a cake baked on the one side, and raw on the other, that is, neither thorow hot, nor thorow cold, but partly a Jew, and partly a Gentile.

8 Ephraim hath ^f mixt himselfe among the people, Ephraim is as a cake on the hearth not turned.

9 Strangers have devoured his strength, and he knoweth it not: yea, ^g gray haire are here and there upon him, yet he knoweth not.

^g Which are a token of his manifold afflictions.

10 And the pride of Israel testifieth to his face, and they doe not returne to the Lord their God, nor seeke him for all this.

^h That is, without all judgement, as they that cannot tell vvwhether it is better to cleave onely to God, or to seeke the helpe of man.

11 Ephraim also is like a Dove deceived, without ^h heart: they call to Egypt: they goe to Ashtur.

ⁱ According to my curses made to the vvhole congregation of Israel.

12 But when they shall goe, I will spread my net upon them, and draw them downe as the fowles of the heaven: I will chastise them as their ⁱ Congregation hath heard.

^k That is, divers times redeemed them, & delivered them from death.

13 Woe unto them: for they have fled away from me: destruction shall bee unto them, because they have transgressed against mee: though I have ^k redeemed them, yet they have spoken lies against me.

14 And they have not cried unto me with their hearts, ¹ when they howled upon their beds: ^m they assemble themselves for corne, and wine, and they rebell against me.

¹ When they were in affliction, and cried out for paine, they sought not unto me for helpe. ^m They only seek their owne commodity & wealth, and palle not for me their God.

15 Though I have bound and strengthened their arme, yet doe they imagine mischief against me.

16 They returne, but not to the most High: they are like a deceitfull bow: their Princes shall fall by the sword, for the rage ⁿ of their tongues: this shall bee their derision in the land of Egypt.

ⁿ Because they boast of their owne strength, and palle not vvhat they speak against mee and my servants, Psal. 73. 9.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The destruction of Judah and Israel, because of their idolatry.

SEt the trumpet to thy ⁿ mouth: be shall come as an Eagle against the house of the Lord, because they transgressed my covenant, and trespassed against my Law.

^a God encourageth the Prophet to signifye the speedy coming of the enemy against Israel, vvwhich was once the people of God.

2 Israel shall ^b cry unto me, My God, we know thee.

^b They shall cry like hypocrites, but not from the heart, as their deeds declare.

3 Israel hath cast off the thing that is good: the enemy shall pursue him.

4 They have set up a ^c King, but not by me: they have made Princes, and I knew it not: of their silver and their gold have they made them idols: therefore shall they be destroyed.

^c That is, Jeroboam, by vvhom they bought their owne liberty, and not to obey my vvill.

5 Thy calfe, O Samaria, hath cast thee off: mine anger is kindled against them: how long will they be without ^d innocency!

^d That is, upright judgement, and godly life.

6 ^e For it came even from Israel: the workeman made it: therefore it is not God: but the calfe of Samaria shall be broken in peeces.

^e Meaning, the calfe vvwas invented by themselves, and of their fathers in the vvildernesse.

7 For they have ^f sowne the winde, and they shall reap the whirlwinde: it hath no stalke: the bud shall bring forth no meale: if so be it bring forth, the strangers shall devoure it.

^f Shewing, that their religion hath but a show, and in it selfe is but vanitie.

8 Israel is devoured, now shall they be among the Gentiles as a vessell, wherein is no pleasure.

9 For they are gone up to Ashtur: they are as a ^g wilde asse alone by himselfe: Ephraim hath hired lovers.

^g They never cease, but run to and fro to seeke helpe.

10 Yet though they have hired among the nations, now will I gather them, and they shall sorrow a little, for the ^h burden of the King and the Princes.

^h That is, for the tribute vvwhich the king and the princes shall lay upon them: vvwhich means the Lord vvseth to bring them to repentance.

11 Because Ephraim hath made many altars to sinne, his altars shall be to sinne.

ⁱ Thus the idolaters count the word of God as strange in respect of their owne inventions.

12 I have written to them the great things of my Law: but they were counted as a ⁱ strange thing.

13 They

13 They sacrificed flesh for the sacrifices of mine offerings, and ate it: but the Lord accepteth them not: now will he remember their iniquity, and visit their sins: they shall returne to Egypt.

14 For Israel hath forgotten his maker, and buildeth Temples, and Judah hath increased strong cities: but I will send a fire upon his cities, and it shall devour the palaces thereof.

CHAP. IX.

Of the hunger and captivity of Israel.

Rejoyce not, O Israel, for joy, as other people: for thou hast gone a whoring from thy God: thou hast loved a reward upon every corne floore.

2 The floore, and the winepresse shall not feed them, and the new wine shall faile in her.

3 They will not dwell in the Lords land, but Ephraim will returne to Egypt, and they will eate uncleane things in Ashur.

4 They shall not offer wine to the Lord, neither shall their sacrifices be pleasant unto him: but they shall be unto them as the bread of mourners: all that eate thereof, shall be polluted: for their bread for their soules shall not come into the house of the Lord.

5 What will ye doe then in the solemne day, and in the day of the feast of the Lord?

6 For lo, they are gone from destruction: but Egypt shall gather them up, and Memphis shall bury them: the nettle shall possesse the pleasant places of their silver, and the thorne shall be in their tabernacles.

7 The daies of visitation are come: the daies of recompence are come: Israel shall know it: the Prophet is a fool: the spirituall man is mad, for the multitude of thine iniquity: therefore the hatred is great.

8 The watchman of Ephraim should be with my God: but the Prophet is the snare of a fowler in all his waies, and hated in the House of his God.

9 They are deeply set: they are corrupt as in the daies of Gibeah: therefore he will remember their iniquity, he will visit their sinnes.

10 I found Israel like grapes in the wilderness: I saw your fathers as the first ripe in the figge tree at her first time: but they went to Baal-peor, and separated themselves unto that shame, and their abominations were according to their lovers.

11 Ephraim their glory shall flee away like a bird: from the birth and from the womb, and from the conception.

12 Though they bring up their children, yet I will deprive them from being men: yea, woe to them, when I depart from them.

13 Ephraim, as I saw, is as a tree in Tyrus planted in a cottage: but Ephraim shall bring forth his children to the murderer.

14 O Lord, give them: what wilt thou give them? give them a barren wombe and dry breasts.

15 All their wickednesse is Gilgal: for there do I hate them: for the wickednesse of their inventions, I will cast them out of mine House: I will love them no more: all their princes are rebels.

16 Ephraim is smitten, their root is dried up: they can bring no fruit: yea, though they bring forth, yet will I slay even the dearest of their body.

17 My God will cast them away, because they did not obey him: and they shall wander among the nations.

CHAP. X.

1 Against Israel and his idols. 14 His destruction for the same.

Israel is an empty vine, yet hath it brought forth fruit unto it selfe, and according to the multitude of the fruit thereof he hath increased the altars: according to the goodnesse of their land they have made faire images.

2 Their heart is divided: now shall they be found faulty: he shall break downe their altars: he shall destroy their images.

3 For now they shall say, We have no King, because we feared not the Lord: and what should a king doe to us?

4 They have spoken words, swearing falsely in making a covenant: thus judgement groweth as wormewood in the furrows of the field.

5 The inhabitants of Samaria shall feare because of the calfe of Beth-aven: for the people thereof shall mourne over it, and the Chemarims thereof that rejoiced on it for the glory thereof, because it is departed from it.

6 It shall be also brought to Ashur, for a present unto king Jareb: Ephraim shall receive shame, and Israel shall be ashamed of his owne counsell.

7 Of Samaria, the king thereof is destroyed, as the fume upon the water.

8 The high places also of Aven shall be destroyed: even the sinne of Israel: the thorne and thistle shall grow upon their altars, and they shall say to the mountaines, Cover us, and to the hills, Fall upon us.

O Israel,

o As they kept tender plants in their houses in Tyrus, to preserve them from the cold aire of the Sea, so was Ephraim at the first unto me, but now I will give him to the slaughter.
p The Prophet seeing the great plagues of God toward Ephraim, praish to God to make them barren, rather then that this great slaughter should come upon their children.
q The chiefe cause of their destruction is, that they commit idolatry, and corrupt their religion in Gilgal.

a Whereof though the grapes were gathered, yet ever as it gathered new strength, it increased new wickednesse, so that the correction which should have brought them to obedience, did but utter their stubbornnesse.
b As they were rich, and had abundance.
c To wit, from God.

d The day shall come that God shall take away their king, & then they shall see the fruit of their sins, and how they trusted in him in vaine, 2 King. 17.

e In promising to be faithful toward God.

f Thus their integrity and fidelity which they pretended, was nothing but bitterness and griefe.

g When the calfe shall be carried away.
h Chemarims were certaine idolatrous priests, which did wear black apparel in their sacrifices, and cried with a loud voice: which superstition Elijah derided, 1 King. 18. 27. read 2 King. 23. 5.

i This he speaketh in contempt of Beth el, read chap. 4 15.

* Isa. 2. 19. Lxx. 23. 30. Revel 6. 10. and 9. 10.

a For though all other people should escape, yet thou shalt be punished.
b Thou hast committed idolatry in hope of reward, and to have thy bones filled, Jer. 44. 17. as an harlot that had rather live by playing the whore, then to be entertained of her own husband.
c These outward things that thou seekst, shall be taken from thee.
d All their doings both touching policy and religion shall be rejected as things polluted.

e The meat offering, which they offered for themselves.

f When the Lord shall take away all the occasions of serving him, which shall be the most glorious point of your captivity, when ye shall see your selves cut off from God.

g Though they think to escape by doing the destruction that is at hand, yet shall they be destroyed in the place whither they flee for succour.

h Then they shall know that they were deluded by them who challenged to themselves to be their Prophets and Spirituall men.

i The Prophet, he is to bring men to God, and not to be a snare to pull them from God.

k This people is so rooted in their wickednesse, that Gibeah, which was like to Sodoma, was never more corrupt; Judg. 19. 22.

l Meaning, that he so esteemed them, and delighted in them.

m They were as abominable unto me, as their lovers, the idols.

n Signifying, that God would destroy their children by these sundry means, and so consume them by little and little.

k In those daies
vvas thou as wicked as the Gibeo-nites, as God there

9 O Israel, thou hast ^k sinned from the daies of Gibeah: there they ^l stood:
the battell in Gibeah against the children of iniquity did not ^m touch them.

10 It is my desire ⁿ that I should chastise them, and the people shall be gathered against them, when they shall gather themselves in their two ^o furrows.

11 And Ephraim ^p is as an heifer used to delight in threshing: but I will passe by her ^q faire neck: I will make Ephraim to ride: Judah shall plough, and Jaakob shall break his clods.

12 Sow to your selves in righteous-nesse: reap after the measure of mercies:
break up your fallow ground: for ^r it is time to seek the Lord, till he come and raigne righteousness upon you.

13 But you have plowed wickednesse:
ye have reaped iniquity: you have eaten
the fruit of lies: because thou diddest trust in thine owne waies, and in the multitude of thy strong men,

14 Therefore shall a tumult arise among thy people, and all thy munitions shall be destroyed, as ^s Shalman destroyed Betharbel in the day of battell: the mother with the children was dashed in pieces.

15 So shall Beth-el doe unto you, because of your malicious wickednesse: in a morning shall the king of Israel be destroyed.

CHAP. XI.

^t The benefits of the Lord toward Israel. ^u Their ingratitude against him.

WHEN Israel ^a was a childe, then I loved him, and called my sonne out of Egypt.

2 They called them, but they ^b went thus from them: they sacrificed unto Baalim, and burnt incense to images.

3 I led Ephraim also, as ^c one should beare them in his armes: but they knew not that I healed them.

4 I led them with cords ^d of a man, even with bands of love, and I was to them, as hee that taketh off the yoke from their jawes, and I laid the meat unto them.

5 He shall no more returne into the land of Egypt: but Asshur shall bee his king, because they refused to convert.

6 And the sword shall fall on his cities, and shall consume his barres, and devoure them, because of their owne counsels.

7 And my people are bent to rebellion against me: though ^e they called them to the most High: yet none at all would exalt him.

8 ^f How shall I give thee up, Ephraim?
how shall I deliver thee, Israel? how shall I make thee as ^g Admah? how shall I set thee, as Zeboim? mine heart is turned within me: ^h my repentings are rowled together.

9 I will not execute the fiercenesse of my wrath: I will not returne to destroy Ephraim: for I am God, and not man, the holy One in the midst of thee, and I will not ⁱ enter into the city.

10 They shall walke after the Lord:
hee shall roare like a Lion: when he shall roare, then the children of the West shall feare:

11 ^k They shall feare as a Sparrow out of Egypt: and as a Dove out of the land of Asshur, And I will place them in their houses, saith the Lord.

12 Ephraim compasseth me about with lies, and the house of Israel with deceit:
but Judah yet ruleth with ^l God, and is faithfull with the Saints.

CHAP. XII.

He admonisheth by Iaakobs example to trust in God, and not in man.

EPHRAIM is fed ^a with the winde, and followeth after the East winde: hee increaseth daily lies and destruction, and they doe make a covenant with Asshur, and ^b oyle is caried into Egypt.

2 The Lord hath also a controversie with ^c Judah, and will visite Jaakob, according to his waies: according to his workes, will he recompence him.

3 He took his brother by the heele in the wombe, and by his strength he had ^d power with God,

4 And had ^e power over the Angel, and prevailed: he wept and praied unto him: ^f He found him in Beth-el, and there he spake with us.

5 Yea, the Lord God of hostes, the Lord ^g is himselfe his memoriall.

6 Therefore turne thou to thy God:
keep mercy and judgement, and hope still in thy God.

7 He ^h is ⁱ Canaan: the balances of deceit are in his hand: he loveth to op-presse.

8 And Ephraim said, Notwithstanding I am rich: I have found mee out-riches in all my labours: they shall finde none iniquity in me, ^j that were wickednesse.

9 Though I am the Lord thy God, from the land of Egypt, yet will I make thee to dwell in the Tabernacles, as in ^k the daies of the solemne feast.

10 I have also spoken by the Prophets, and I have multiplied visions, and used similitudes by the ministry of the Prophets.

11 Is there ^l iniquity in Gilead?

h Meaning: that ther, Judahs in-red.

akob as he lay sleeping in Beth-el,

him there, that ed to the whole body of the people, vvhereof we are.

g As for Ephraim he is more like the wicked Cananites, then godly Abraham or Jaakob.

h Thus the wicked measure Gods favour, by outward prosperity, and like hypocrites cannot abide that any should reprove their doings.

i Seeing thou wilt not acknowledge my benefits, I will bring thee againe to dwell in tents, as in the feast of the Tabernacles, vvithout thou doest
now contrite.

k The people thought that no man durst have spoken against Gilead, that holy place, and yet the Prophet saith, that all their religion was but vanity.

surely they are vanity: they sacrifice bullocks in Gilgal, and their altars are as heaps in the furrows of the field.

12 ¹ And Jaakob fled into the country of Aram, and Israel served for a wife, and for a wife he kept sheepe, 13 And by a ^m Prophet the Lord brought Israel out of Egypt, and by a Prophet was he reserved.

14 But Ephraim provoked him with high places: therefore shall his blood be powred upon him, and his reproach shall his Lord reward him.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The abomination of Israel, 9 And the cause of their destruction.

When Ephraim spake, there was ^a trembling: he ^b exalted himselfe in Israel, but he hath sinned in Baal, ^c and is dead.

2 And now they sin more and more, and have made them molten images of their silver, and idols according to their owne understanding: they were all the worke of the craftsmen: they say one to another whiles they sacrifice a ^d man, Let them kisse the calves.

3 Therefore they shall be as the morning cloud, and as the morning dew that passeth away, as the chaffe that is driven with a whirlewinde out of the floore, and as the smoke that goeth out of the chimney.

4 Yet I am the Lord thy God ^e from the land of Egypt; and thou shalt know no God but me: for there is no Saviour beside me.

5 I did know thee in the wilderness, in the land of drought.

6 And in their pastures, so were they filled: they were filled, and their heart was exalted: therefore have they forgotten me.

7 And I will be unto them as a very Lion, and as a Leopard in the way of Ashur.

8 I will meet them, as a beare that is robbed of her whelps, and I will breake the kall of their heart, and there I will devoure them like a Lion: the wilde beast shall teare them.

9 O Israel, one ^f hath destroyed thee, but in me is thine helpe.

10 I am: where is thy king, that should help thee in all thy cities? and thy judges, of whom thou sayest, Give me a King, and Princes?

11 I gave thee a King in mine anger, and I tooke him away in my wrath.

12 The iniquity of Ephraim is ^h bound up: his sinne is hid.

13 The sorrows of a travelling woman shall come upon him: he is an unwise son, else would he not stand still at the time, even at the ⁱ breaking forth of the children.

14 I will redeem them from the power of the grave: I will deliver them from death: O ^k death, I will be thy death: O grave, I will be thy destruction: ^l repentance is hid from mine eyes.

15 Though he grow up among his brethren, an East winde shall come, even the winde of the Lord shall come up from the wilderness, and drie up his veine, and his fountaine shall be dried up: he shall spoile the treasure of all pleasant vessels.

CHAP. XIV.

1 The destruction of Samaria. 2 He exhorteth Israel to turne to God, who requirith praise and thanks.

Samaria shall be desolate: for she hath rebelled against her God: they shall fall by the sword: their infants shall be dashed in pieces, and their women with child shall be ript.

2 O Israel, ^a returne unto the Lord thy God: for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity.

3 Take unto you words, and turne to the Lord, and say unto him, ^b Take away all iniquity, and receive us graciously: so will we render the calves of our ^c lips.

4 Ashur shall ^d not save us, neither will we ride upon horses, neither will we say any more to the worke of our hands, Ye are our gods: for in thee the fatherlesse findeth mercy.

5 I will heale their rebellion: I will love them freely: for mine anger is turned away from him.

6 I will be as the dew unto Israel: he shall grow as the lily, and fasten his roots as the trees of Lebanon.

7 His branches shall spread, and his beauty shall be as the olive tree, and his smell as Lebanon.

8 They that dwell under his ^f shadow, shall returne: they shall revive as the corn, and flourish as the vine: the scent thereof shall be as the wine of Lebanon.

9 Ephraim shall say, What have I to doe any more with idols? I ^g have heard him, and looked upon him: I am like a green fir tree: upon me is thy fruit found.

10 Who is ^h wise, and he shall understand these things? and prudent, and hee shall know them? for the waies of the Lord are righteous, and the just shall walke in them: but the wicked shall fall therein.

^h It is surely laid up to be punished, as Lev. 17. 1.

ⁱ But would come out of the womb, that is, out of this danger where in he is, and not tary to be stifled.

^k Meaning, that no power shall resist God, when he will deliver his, but even in death will he give them life.

^l Because they will not turne to me, I will not change my purpose.

^a Hee exhorteth them to repentance, to avoide all these plagues, willing them to declare by words their obedience and repentance. ^b He sheweth them how they ought to confesse their finnes. ^c Declaring that this is the true sacrifice, that the faithful can offer, even thanks and praise, Heb. 13. 15. ^d Wee will leave off all vaine confidence and pride.

^e Hee declareth how ready God is to receive them that doe repent.

^f Whosoever joyne themselves to this people, shall bee blessed.

^g God sheweth how prompt hee is to heare his, when they repent, and to offer himselfe as a protection, and safeguard unto them, as a most sufficient fruit and profit. ^h Signifying, that the true wisdom and knowledge, consisteth in this, even to rest upon God.

IOEL.

JOEL.

THE ARGUMENT.

He Prophet Joel first rebuketh them of Iudah, that being now punished with a great plague of famine, remaine still obstinate. Secondly, hee threatneth greater plagues, because they grew daily to a more hardnesse of heart, and rebellion against God, notwithstanding his punishments. Thirdly, he exhorteth them to repentance, shewing that it must be earnest, and proceed from the heart, because they had grievously offended God. And so doing, he promisseth that God will be mercifull, and not forget his covenant that hee made with their fathers: but will send his Christ, who shall gather the scattered sheepe, and restore them to life and liberty, though they seemed to be dead.

CHAP. I.

¹ A prophesie against the Iews. ² He exhorteth the people to praier, and fasting, for the misery that was at hand.

He word of the Lord that came to Joel the sonne of Pethuel.

² Heare yee this, O Elders, and hearken ye, all inhabitants of the land, whether ^b such a thing hath beene in your daies, or yet in the daies of your fathers.

³ Tell your children of it, and let your children shew to their children, and their children to another generation.

⁴ That which is left of the palmer-worme, hath the grasshopper eaten, and the residue of the grasshopper hath the cankerworme eaten, and the residue of the cankerworme hath the caterpillar eaten.

⁵ Awake ye ^c drunkards, and weepe, and howle all ye drinkers of wine, because of the new wine: for it shall bee pulled from your mouth.

⁶ Yea, ^d a nation commeth upon my land, mighty, and without number, whose teeth are like the teeth of a lion, and hee hath the jawes of a great lion.

⁷ He maketh my vine waste, and pilleth off the barke of my fig tree: he maketh it bare, and casteth it down: the branches thereof are made white.

⁸ Mourne like a virgin girded with sackcloth for the ^e husband of her youth.

⁹ The meat offering, and the drinke offering is ^f cut off from the House of the Lord: the Priests the Lords ministers mourne.

¹⁰ The field is wasted: the land mourneth: for the corne is destroyed: the new wine is dried up, and the oyle is decayed.

¹¹ Beye ashamed, O husbandmen: howle, O ye vine dressers, for the wheat, and for the barley, because the harvest of the field is perished.

¹² The vine is dried up, and the figge tree is decayed: the pomegranat tree, and the palme tree, and apple tree, even all the trees of the field are withered: surely the joy is withered away from the sonnes of men.

¹³ ^h Gird your selves and lament, ye Priests: howle ye ministers of the altar: come and lie all night in sackcloth, ye ministers of my God: for the meat offering, and the drinke offering is taken away from the house of your God.

¹⁴ Sanctifie you a fast, call a solemne assembly: gather the Elders, and all the inhabitants of the land into the house of the Lord your God, and cry unto the Lord.

¹⁵ Alas: for the day, for the ⁱ day of the Lord is at hand, and it commeth as a destruction from the Almighty.

¹⁶ Is not the meat cut off before our eyes? and joy and gladnesse from the house of our God?

¹⁷ The seed is rotten under their clods: the garners are destroyed: the barnes are broken downe, for the corne is withered.

¹⁸ How did the beasts mourne! the herds of cattell pine away, because they have no pasture, and the flockes of sheepe are destroyed.

¹⁹ O Lord, to thee will I cry: for the fire hath devoured the pastures of the wilderness, and the flame hath burnt up all the trees of the field.

²⁰ The beasts of the field cry also unto thee: for the rivers of waters are dried up, and the ^k fire hath devoured the pastures of the wilderness.

in mine holy mountaine: let all the inhabitants of the land tremble; for the day of the Lord is come: for it is at hand.

2 A ^b day of darkenes, and of black-nesse, a day of cloudes and obscuritie, as the morning spread upon the mountines, so is there a ^c great people, and a mighty:
there was none like it from the beginning, neither shall be any more after it, unto the yeares of many generations.

3 A fire devoureth before him, and behinde him a flame burneth up: the land is as the garden of ^d Eden before him, and behinde him a desolate wildernesse, so that nothing shall escape him.

4 The beholding of him is like the like the noise of a flame of fire that devoureth the stubble, and as a might people prepared to the battell.

6 Before his face shall the people tremble: all faces ^e shall gather blackenesse.

7 They shall runne like strong men, and goe up to the wall like men of war, and every man shall goe forward in his waies, and they shall not stay in their pathes:

8 Neither shall one ^f thrust another, but every one shall walke in his path: and when they fall upon the sword, they shall not be wounded.

9 They shall run to and fro in the ci-tie: they shall runne upon the wall: they shall climbe up upon the houses, and enter in at the windowes like the thiefe:

10 The earth shall tremble before him, the heavens shall shake, the ^g sunne and the moone shall be darke, and the stars shall withdraw their shining.

11 And the Lord shall ^h utter his voice before his hoste: for his hoste is very great: for he is strong that doth his word:
ⁱ for the day of the Lord is great and very terrible, and who can abide it?

12 Therefore also now the Lord saith, Turne you unto me with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning,

13 And ^j rent your heart, and not your clothes: and turne unto the Lord your God, for he is gracious, and mercifull, slow to anger, and of great kind-nesse, and repenteth him of the evill.

14 Who knoweth, if he will ^k return and repent, and leave a blessing behind him, even a meat offering, and a drinke offering unto the Lord our God.

15 Blow the trumpet in Zion, sanctifie
a fast, call a solemne assembly,

16 Gather the people: sanctifie the congregation, gather the Elders: assemble the ^l children, and those that sucke the breasts: let the bridegrome go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her bride chamber.

17 Let the Priests, the ministers of the Lord, weepe betwene the porch and the altar, and let them say, Spare thy people, O Lord, and give not thine heritage into reproch, that the heathen should rule over them, ^m Wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God?

18 Then will the Lord bee ⁿ jealous over his land, and spare his people.

19 Yea, the Lord will answer, and say unto his people, Behold, I will send you corne, and wine, and oyle, and you shall bee satisfied therewith: and I will no more make you a reproch among the heathen;

20 But I will remove farre off from you the ^o Northerne armie, and I will drive him into a land, barren and desolate with his face toward the ^p East sea, and his end to the utmost sea, and his sinke shall come up, and his corruption shall ascend, because hee hath exalted himselfe to doe this.

21 Feare not, O land, but bee glad, and rejoyce: for the Lord will doe great things.

22 Be not afraid ye beasts of the field:
for the pastures of the wildernesse are greene: for the tree beareth her fruit:
the figtree and the vine doe give their force.

23 Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and rejoyce in the Lord your God: for he hath given you the raine of ^q righteoufnesse, ^r and he will cause to come downe for you the raine, even the first raine, and the latter raine in the first moneth.

24 And the barnes shall bee full of wheate, and the presses shall abound with wine and oyle.

25 And I will render you the yeares that the grasshopper hath eaten, the canker worme, and the caterpillar; and the palmer worme, my great hoste which I sent among you.

26 So you shall eat and be satisfied, and praise the name of the Lord your God, that hath dealt marvellously with you: and my people shall never be ashamed.

27 Yee shall also know, that I am in the middes of Israel, and that I am the Lord your God, and none other, and my people shall never be ashamed.

N n 2 28 And ^l That as all have sinned, so all may shew forth signes of their repentance, that men seeing the children, which are not free from

be the more lively touched with the r As they had visions and dreames in old time, so shall they now have clearer revelations.

29 And also upon the servants, and upon the maides in those daies will I powre my Spirit.

30 And I will shew ^r wonders in the heavens, and in the earth: blood and fire, and pillars of smoake.

31 The ^r sunne shall be turned into darkenesse, and the moone into blood, before the great and terrible day of the Lord come.

32 But whosoever shall call ^v on the Name of the Lord, shall bee saved: for in mount Zion, and in Jerusalem shall be deliverance, as the Lord hath said, and in the ^x remnant, whom the Lord shall call.

CHAP. III.

Of the judgement of God against the enemies of his people.

a When I shal deliver my Church, which standeth of the Jewes and of the Gentiles.

For behold, in ^a those daies, and in that time when I shall bring againe the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem, b It appeareth, that hee alludeth to that great victorie of Jehoshaphat, when as God without mans helpe destroyed the enemies, 2 Chro. 20. 26. also hee hath respect to this word Jehoshaphat, which signifies pleading, or judgement, because God would judge the enemies of his Church, as hee did there.

c That which the enemye gate for the sale of my people, he bestoweth upon harlots and drinke.

d Hee taketh the cause of his church in hand against the enemye, as though the injurie were done to himselfe.

e Have I done you wrong, that ye will render me the like?

2 I will also gather all nations, and will bring them downe into ^b the valley of Jehoshaphat, and will plead with them there for my people, and for my heritage Israel, whom they have scattered among the nations, and parted my land.

3 And they have cast lots for my people, and have given the childe ^c for the harlot, and sold the girle for wine, that they might drinke.

4 Yea, and ^d what have you to doe with me, O Tyrus and Zidon, and all the coasts of Palestina? will yee render mee ^e a recompence? and if ye recompence me, swiftly and speedily will I render your recompence unto your head:

5 For yee have taken my silver and my gold, and have carried into your temples my goodly and pleasant things.

6 The children also of Judah, and the children of Jerusalem have you sold unto the Grecians, that ye might send them far from their border.

7 Behold, I will raise them out of the place where ye have sold them, and will render your reward upon your own head.

8 And I will sell your sons and your daughters into the hand of the children of Judah: and they ^f shall sell them to the Sabeans, to a people farre off: for the Lord hath spoken it.

9 Publish this among the Gentiles: prepare warre, wake up the mighty men: let all the men of warre draw neere and come up.

10 ^g Breake your plowshares into swords, and your sithes into speares: let the weake say, I am strong.

11 Assemble your selves, and come all yee heathen, and gather your selves together round about: there shall the Lord cast downe thy mighty men.

12 Let the heathen be weakened and come up to the valley of Jehoshaphat: for there will I sit to judge all the heathen round about.

13 Put in your ^h sithes, for the harvest is ripe: come, get you downe, for the winepresse is full: yea, the winepresses runne over, for their wickednesse is great.

14 O multitude, O multitude, come into the valley of threshing: for the day of the Lord is neere unto the valley of threshing.

15 The Sunne and Moone shall bee darkened, and the starres shall withdraw their light.

16 The Lord also shall roare out of Zion, and utter his voice from Jerusalem, and the heavens and the earth shall shake, but the Lord will be the hope ⁱ of his people, and the strength of the children of Israel.

17 So shal ye know that I am the Lord your God, dwelling in Zion, mine holy Mountaine: then shall Jerusalem be holy, and there shall no stranger goe ^k thorow her any more.

18 And in that day shall the mountaines ^l drop downe new wine, and the hills shall flow with milke, and all the rivers of Judah shall runne with waters, and a fountaine shall come forth of the House of the Lord, and shall water the valley of Shittim.

19 ^m Egypt shall be waste, and Edom shall be a desolate wilderness, for the injuries of the children of Judah, because they have shed innocent blood in their land.

20 But Judah shall dwell for ever, and Jerusalem from generation to generation.

21 For I will ⁿ cleanse their blood, that I have not clenfed, and the Lord will dwell in Zion.

f For afterward God sold them by Nebuchad-nazar, and Alexander the great, for the love hee bare to his people, and thereby they were comforted although the price had been theirs.

g When I shall execute my judgements against mine enemies, I will cause every one to bee ready, and to prepare weapons to destroy one another, which he calleth the valley of Gods judgement.

h Thus hee shall encourage the enemies wh^o their wickednesse is full ripe to destroy one another, which he calleth the valley of Gods judgement.

i God assureth his againstal troubles, that when hee destroyeth his enemies, his children shall be delivered.

k The strangers shall no more destroy his Church: which if they doe, it is the people, which by their finnes make the breach for the enemy.

l Hee promitteth to his Church abundance of graces, seeke Ezek. 47. 1. which shold water and comfort the most barren places, Amos 9. 13.

m The malicious enemies shall have no part of this grace.

n He had suffered his Church hitherto to lie in their filthines, but now he promitteth to cleanse them, and to make them pure unto him.

AMOS.

AMOS.

THE ARGUMENT.

AMong many other Prophets that God raised up to admonish the Israelites of his plagues, for their wickednesse and idolatrie, he stirred up Amos, who was an herdman or shepherd of a poore towne, and gave him both knowledge and constancie to reprove all estates and degrees, and to denounce all horrible judgements against them, except they did in time repent: shewing them, that if God spare not the other nations about them, who had lived, as it were, in ignorance of God in respect of them, but for their sinnes will punish them, that they could looke for nothing, but an horrible destruction, except they turned to the Lord by unfained repentance. And finally, he comforteth the godly with hope of the comming of the Messiah, by whom they should have perfect deliverance and salvation.

CHAP. I.

1 The time of the prophesie of Amos. 3 The word of the Lord against Damascus, 6 The Philistims, Tyrus, Idumea and Ammon.

HE words of Amos, who was among the herdmen at ^a Tecoa, which he saw upon Israel, in the daies of Uzziah King of Judah, and in the daies of ^b Jeroboam the sonne of Joash king of Israel, two yeare before the ^c earthquake.

2 And he said, The Lord shall roare from Zion, and utter his voice from Jerusalem, and the dwelling places of the shepherds shall perish, and the toppe of ^d Carmel shall wither.

3 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For ^e three transgressions of Damascus, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they have ^f threshed Gilead with threshing instruments of iron.

4 Therefore will I send a fire into the house of Hazael, and it shall devour the ^g palaces of Ben-hadad.

5 I will breake also the barres of Damascus, and cut off the inhabitant of Biceath-aven: and him that holdeth the scepter out of Beth-eden, and the people of Aram shall goe into captivitie unto ^h Kir, saith the Lord.

6 Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Azzah, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they ⁱ carried away prisoners the whole captivitie to shut them up in Edom.

7 Therefore will I send a fire upon the walles of Azzah, and it shall devour the palaces thereof.

8 And I will cut off the inhabitant from Ashdod, and him that holdeth the scepter from Ashkelon, and turne mine hand to Ekron, and the remnant of the Philistims shall perish, saith the Lord God.

9 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Tyrus, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they shut the whole captivitie in Edom, and have not remembered the ^k brotherly covenant.

10 Therefore will I send a fire upon the walles of Tyrus, and it shall devour the palaces thereof.

11 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Edom, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because hee did pursue his brother with the sword, and did ^l cast off all pitie, and his anger spoiled him evermore, and his wrath watched him ^m alway.

12 Therefore will I send a fire upon Teman, and it shall devour the palaces of Bozrah.

13 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of the children of Ammon, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they ⁿ have ript up the women with childe of Gilead, that they might enlarge their border.

14 Therefore will I kindle a fire in the wall of Rabbath, and it shall devour the palaces thereof, with shouting in the day of battell, and with a tempest in the day of the whirlewinde.

15 And their king shall goe into captivitie, tivitie,

^a Which, was a towne six miles from Jerusalem in Judea, but hee prophesied in Israel.

^b In his daies the kingdome of Israel did most flourish.

^c Which, as Josephus writeth, was when Uzziah would have usurped the Priests office, and therefore was smitten with the leprosie.

^d Whatsoever is fruitful and pleasant in Israel shall shortly perish.

^e He sheweth, first that all the people round about should be destroyed for their manifold sinnes: which are meant by three and foure, which make seven, because the Israelites should the more deeply consider Gods judgements toward them.

^f If the Syrians shall not bee spared for committing this crueltie against one city, it is not possible that Israel should escape punishment, which hath committed so many and grievous sins against God and man.

^g The antiquitie of the buildings shall not avoid my judgements, saith Jer. 49:27.

^h Tiglath Pileser led the Syrians captive, and brought them to Cyrene, which he called here Kir.

ⁱ They joined themselves with the Edomites their enemies, which carried them away captives.

^k For Esau (of whom came the Edomites) & Jacob were brethren: therefore they ought to have admonished them of their brotherly friendship, and not to have provoked them to hatred.

ⁿ He noteth the great crueltie of the Ammonites, that spared not the women, but most tyrannously tormented them, and yet the Ammonites came of Lot, who was of the household of Abraham.

CHAP. II.

Agaiſt Moab, Iudah, and Iſrael.

THUS ſaith the Lord, For three transgreſſions of Moab, and for foure, I will not turne to it, becauſe it burnt the ^a bones of the King of Edom into lime.

^a For the Moabites were ſo cruell againſt the King of Edom, that they burnt his bones after that he was dead, which declared their barbarous rage, ſeeing they would revenge themſelves of the dead.

2 Therefore will I ſend a fire upon Moab, and it ſhall devoure the palaces of Kerioth, and Moab ſhall die with tumult, with ſhouting, and with the ſound of a trumpet.

3 And I will cut off the judge out of the middes thereof, and will ſlay all the Princes thereof with him, ſaith the Lord.

4 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, For three transgreſſions of Iudah, and for foure, I will not turne to it, becauſe they have caſt away the Law of the Lord, and have not kept his commandements, and their lies cauſed them to erre, after the which their fathers have walked.

^b Seeing the Gentiles that had not ſo farre knowledg, were thus puniſhed, Iudah which was ſo fully inſtructed of the Lords will, might not thinke to eſcape.

5 Therefore will I ſend a fire upon Iudah, and it ſhall devoure the palaces of Jeruſalem.

6 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, for three transgreſſions of ^c Iſrael, and for foure, I will not turne to it, becauſe they ſold the righteous for ſilver, and the poore ^d for ſhoes.

^c If he ſpare not Iudah, unto whom his promiſes were made, much more he will not ſpare this degenerate kingdom.

^d They eſteemed moſt vile bribes more then mens lives.

^e When they have ſpoiled him and mrowne him to the ground, they gape for his life.

^f Thinking by theſe ceremonies, that is, by ſacrificing, and being neare mine altar, they may excuſe all their other wickedneſſe.

^g They ſpoile others, and offer thereof unto God, thinking that he will diſpenſe with them when he is made partaker of their iniquities.

^h The deſtruction of their enemies and his mercie toward them ſhould have cauſed their hearts to melt for love toward him.

ⁱ Ye contemned my benefits, and abuſed my graces, and craftily went about to ſtop the mouthes of my Prophets.

7 They gape over the head of the poore, in the ^e duſt of the earth, and pervert the waies of the meeke: and a man and his father will goe in to a maid to diſhonour mine holy Name.

8 And they lie downe upon clothes laid to pledge ^f by everie altar: and they ^g drinke the wine of the condemned in the houſe of their God.

9 Yet deſtroied I the ^h Amorite before them, whoſe height was like the height of the cedars, and he was ſtrong as the oakes, notwithstanding I deſtroied his fruit from above, and his root from beneath.

10 Alſo I brought you up from the land of Egypt, and led you fortie yeares thorow the wilderneſſe, to poſſeſſe the land of the Amorite.

11 And I raiſed up of your ſonnes for Prophets, and ⁱ of your young men for Nazarites. Is it not even thus, O ye children of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord?

12 But ye gave the Nazarites wine to drinke, and commanded the Prophets, ſaying, Propheſie not.

13 Behold, I am ^k preſſed under you as a cart is preſſed that is full of ſheaves.

14 Therefore the flight ſhall periſh from the ^l ſwift, and the ſtrong ſhall not ſtrengthen his force, neither ſhall the mightie ſave his life.

^l None ſhall be delivered by any meanes.

15 Nor hee that handleth the bow, ſhall ſtand, and he that is ſwift of foot, ſhall not eſcape, neither ſhall he that rideth the horſe, ſave his life.

16 And he that is of a mightie courage among the ſtrong men, ſhall flee away naked in that day, ſaith the Lord.

CHAP. III.

He reproveth the houſe of Iſrael of ingratitude, 11 For the which God will puniſh them.

HEARE this word that the Lord pronounceth againſt you, O children of Iſrael, even againſt the whole familie which I brought up from the land of Egypt, ſaying,

2 You ^a onely have I knowne of all the families of the earth: therefore I will viſit you for all your iniquities.

^a I have onely choſen you to be mine among all other people: and yet you have forgotten me.

3 Can two walke together except they be ^b agreed:

^b Hereby the Prophet ſignifieth that he ſpeaketh not of himſelfe, but as God guideth and moveth him: which is called the agreement betweene God and his Prophets.

4 Will a ^c lion roare in the foreſt, when hee hath no prey? or will a lions whelpes crie out of his den, if he hath taken nothing?

^c Will God threaten by his Prophets, except there be ſome great occaſion?

5 Can a bird fall in a ſnare upon the earth, where no fowler is? or will he take up the ^d ſnare from the earth, and have taken nothing at all?

^d Can any thing come without Gods providence? Shall his threatenings be in vaine? Shall the Prophets threaten Gods judgement, and the people not be afraid?

6 Or ^e ſhall a trumpet be blowne in the citie, and the people be not afraid? or ſhall there ^f be evill in a citie, and the Lord hath not done it?

^e Doth any adverſitie come without Gods appointment? 1ſa 45. 7.

7 Surely, the Lord God will doe nothing, but hee ^h revealeth his ſecret unto his ſervants the Prophets.

^h God dealeth not with the Iſraelites, as he doth with other people: for he ever warneth them before of his plagues by his Prophets.

8 The lion hath roared, who will not not be afraid? the Lord God hath ſpoken: who can but ⁱ propheſie?

ⁱ Becauſe the people ever murmured againſt the Prophets: hee ſheweth, that Gods ſpirit moved them ſo to ſpeake as they did.

9 Proclaime in the palaces at ^k Aſhdod, and in the palaces of the land of Egypt, and ſay, Aſſemble your ſelves upon the mountaines of Samaria: ſo behold the great tumults in the mids thereof, and the oppreſſed in the mids thereof.

^k He calleth the ſtrangers, as, the Philiftines and Egyptians, to be witneſſes of Gods judgments againſt the Iſraelites for their crueltie and oppreſſion.

10 For they know not to doe right, ſaith the Lord: they ſtore up violence, and robberie ^l in their palaces.

^l The fruit of their crueltie and theft appeareth by their great riches which they have in their houſes.

11 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, An adverſarie ſhall come even round about the countrie, and ſhall bring downe thy ſtrength from thee, and thy palaces ſhall be ſpoiled.

^m When the Lion hath ſatiated his hunger, the ſhepherd heard ſindeceth a leg or a tip of an eare to ſhew that the ſheep have been vvoried.

12 Thus ſaith the Lord, as the Shepherd taketh ⁿ out of the mouth of the Lion two legs, or a piece of an eare: ſo ſhall the children of Iſrael be taken out, that dwell in Samaria, in the corner of a bed, and in ⁿ Damascus as in a couch.

ⁿ Where they thought to have had a ſure hold, and to have been in ſafety.

13 Heare, and teſtifie in the houſe of Iacob,

Jaakob, faith the Lord God, the God of hostes.

14 Surely in the day that I shall visit the transgressions of Israel upon him, I will also visit the altars of Beth-el, and the hornes of the altar shall be broken off, and fall to the ground.

15 And I will smite the winter house with the summer house, and the houses of ivorie shall perish, and the great houses shall be consumed, faith the Lord.

CHAP. IV.

Against the governours of Samaria.

HEARE this word, ye ^a kine of Basan that are in the mountain of Samaria, which oppresse the poore, and destroy the needie, and they say to their master, ^b Bring, and let us drinke.

2 The Lord God hath sworne by his Holinesse, that loe, the daies shall come upon you, that he will take you away with ^c thornes, and your posteritie with fish-hookes.

3 And ye shall goe out at the breaches, everie ^d how forward: and ye shall cast your selves out of the palace, faith the Lord.

4 Come to ^e Beth-el, and transgresse: to Gilgal, and multiplie transgression, and bring your sacrifices in the morning, and your tithes after three ^f yeeres.

5 And offer a thanksgiving ^g of leaven, publish and proclaime the free offerings: for this ^h liketh you, O ye children of Israel, faith the Lord God.

6 And therefore have I given you ⁱ cleanness of teeth in all your cities, and scarcenesse of bread in all your palaces, yet have ye not returned unto me, faith the Lord.

7 And also I have with-holden the rain from you, when there were yet three ^j moneths to the harvest, and I caused it to raine upon one citie, and have not caused it to raine upon another citie: one piece was rained upon, and the piece whereupon it rained not, withered.

8 So two or three cities wandered unto one citie to drinke water, but they were ^k not satisfied: yet have ye not returned unto me, faith the Lord.

9 I have smitten you with blasting, and mildew: your great gardens and your vineyards, and your fig trees, and your olive trees did the palmer worm devour: yet have ye not returned unto me, faith the Lord.

10 Pestilence have I sent among you, after the manner of ^l Egypt: your young men have I slaine with the sword, and have taken away your horses: and I have made the stinke of your tents to come up even unto your nostrils: yet have ye not returned unto me, faith the Lord.

11 I have overthrowne you, as God overthrow Sodom and Gomorah: and ye were as a ^m fire brand pluckt out of the burning: yet have ye not returned unto me, faith the Lord.

12 Therefore, thus will I doe unto thee, O Israel: and because I will do this unto thee, prepare to ⁿ meet thy God, O Israel.

13 For loe, he that formeth the mountaines, and createth the winde, and declareth unto man what is his thought: which maketh the morning darknesse, and walketh upon the high places of the earth, the Lord God of hosts is his Name.

CHAP. V.

A lamentation for the captivitie of Israel.

HEARE ye this word, which I lift up upon you, even a lamentation of the house of Israel.

2 The ^a virgin Israel is false, and shall no more rise: she is left upon her land, and there is none to raise her up.

3 For thus faith the Lord God, The citie which went out by a thousand, shall leave an ^b hundreth: and that which went forth by an hundreth, shall leave ten to the house of Israel.

4 For thus faith the Lord unto the house of Israel, seeke ye me, and ye shall live.

5 But seek not in Beth-el, nor enter into ^c Gilgal, and goe not to Beer-sheba: for Gilgal shall goe into captivitie, and Beth-el shall come to nought.

6 Seeke the Lord, and ye shall live, lest he breake out like fire in the house of Joseph, and devoure it, and there be none to quench it in Beth-el.

7 They turne ^d judgement to worm-wood, and leave off righteousness in the earth.

8 He ^e maketh Pleiades, and Orion, and he turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and he maketh the day dark as night: he calleth the waters of the sea, and powreth them out upon the open earth: the Lord is his Name.

9 Hee strengtheneth the destroyer, against the mightie: and the destroyer shall come against the fortress.

10 They have hated him ^f that rebuked in the gate: and they abhorred him that speaketh uprightly.

11 Forasmuch then as your treading is upon the poore, and ^g ye take from him burdens of wheat, ye have built houses of hewed stone, but ye shall not dwell in them: ye have planted pleasant vineyards, but ye shall not drinke wine of them.

12 For

^a Thus he calleth the princes and governours, which being overwhelmed with the great abundance of Gods benefites, forget God, and therefore he calleth them by the name of beasts, and not of men.
^b They encourage such as have authority over the people, to powle them, so that they may have profit by it.
^c He alludeth to fishers which catch fish by hookes and thornes.
^d He speaketh this in contempt of them which referred to these places, thinking that their great devotion and good intention had bin sufficient to have bound God unto them.
^e Beale Deut. 14. 18.
^f Levit. 7. 13.
^g You onely delight in these outward ceremonies and have none other respect.
^h That is, lacke of bread and meate.

ⁱ I failed the raine till the fruits of the earth were destroyed with drought, and yet you would not consider it to returne to me by penance.

^k They could not find water enough where they had heard say it had rained.

^l As I plagued the Egyptians, Exod. 9. 10.

^m You were almost all consumed and a few of you wonderfully preserved, 2 King. 14. 26.

ⁿ Turne to him by repentance.

^a He so calleth them, because they boasted of themselves, or because they were given to vanity, nesse and daintiness.

^b Meaning, that the tenth part should scarcely be saved.

^c In these places they worshipped new idols, which aforetime served for the true honor of God: therefore he saith that they shall not save them.

^d In stead of judgement and equitie, they execute crueltie and oppression.

^e He describeth the power of God, Job. 9. 9.

^f They hate the Prophets, which reprove them in the open assemblies.

^g Ye take both his money and also his food where with he should live.

12 For I know your manifold transgressions, and your mightie sinnes, they afflict the just, they take rewards, and they oppresse the poore in the gate.

13 Therefore ^h the prudent shall keep silence in that time, for it is an evill time.

14 Seeke good, and not evill, that yee may live: and the Lord God of hostes shall be with you, as you have spoken.

15 Hate the evill, and love the good, and establish judgement in the gate: it may be that the Lord God of hostes will be mercifull unto the remnant of Joseph.

16 Therefore the Lord God of hostes, the Lord saith thus, Mourning shall be in all streets: and they shall say in all the high waies, Alas, alas: and they shall call the ⁱ husbandman to lamentation, and such as can mourne, to mourning.

17 And in all the vines shall be lamentation: for I will passe through thee, saith the Lord.

19 As if a man did flee from a lion, and a beare met him: or went into the house, and leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him.

20 Shall not the day of the Lord be darknesse, and not light? even darknesse and no light in it?

21 I hate and abhorre your fast daies, and I will not smell in your assemblies.

22 Though ye offer me burnt offerings and meat offerings, ^l I will not accept them: neither will I regard the peace offerings of your fat beasts.

23 Take thou away from me the multitude of thy songs (for I will not heare the melodie of thy violes.)

4 ¶ Thus also hath the Lord God shewed unto me, and behold, the Lord God called to judgement by fire, ^d and it devoured the great deepe, and did eate up a part.

7 ¶ Thus again he shewed me, and behold, the Lord stood upon a wall made by line, ^e with a line in his hand.

10 ¶ ^f Then Amaziah the Priest of Beth-el sent to Jeroboam king of Israel, saying, Amos hath conspired against thee in the middes of the house of Israel: the land is not able to beare all his words.

11 For thus Amos saith, Jeroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shall be led away captive out of their owne land.

12 Also ^g Amaziah said unto Amos, O thou the Seer, goe, flee thou away into the land of Judah, and there eat thy bread, and prophesie there.

14 Then answered Amos, and said to Amaziah, I was no ^h Prophet, neither was I a Prophets son, but I was an herdman, and a gatherer of wilde figs.

15 And the Lord took me as I followed the flocke, and the Lord said unto me, Goe, prophesie unto my people Israel.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe Idumeans which came of Esau, were mortall enemies alwaies to the Israelites, which came of Iakob, and therefore did not onely vex them continually with sundrie kindes of crueltie, but also stirred up others to fight against them. Therefore when they were now in their greatest prosperitie, and did most triumph against Israel, which was in great affliction, and and miserie, God raised up his Prophet to comfort the Israelites, forasmuch as God had now determined to destroy their adversaries, which did so fore vexed them, and to send them such as should destroy them, and set up the Kingdome of Messiah, which he had promised.

He vision of Obadiab. Thus saith the Lord God against Edom, ^a Wee have heard a rumor from the Lord, and an Ambassadors sent among the heathen: arise, and ^b let us rise up against her to battell.

2 Behold, I have made thee small among the heathen: thou art utterly despised.

3 The ^c pride of thine heart hath deceived thee: thou that dwellest in the clefts of the rockes, whose habitation is high, that saith in his heart, Who shall bring me downe to the ground?

4 Though thou exalt thy selfe as the eagle, and make thy nest among the stars, thence will I bring thee downe, saith the Lord.

5 ^d Came theeves to thee or robbers by night? how wast thou brought to silence? would they not have stolln till they had enough? if the grape gatherers came to thee, would they leave some grapes?

6 How are the things of Esau sought up, and his treasures searched?

7 All the men of thy confederacie ^e have driven thee to the borders: the men that were at peace with thee, have deceived thee, and prevailed against thee: they that ate thy ^f bread, have laid a wound under thee: there is no understanding in him.

8 Shall not I in that day, saith the Lord, even destroy the wife men out of Edom, and understanding from the mount of Esau?

9 And thy strong men, O Teman, shall be afraid, because everie one of the mount of Esau shall be cut off by slaughter.

10 For thy crueltie against thy ^g brother Jaakob, shame shall cover thee, and thou shalt be cut off for ever.

11 When thou stoodest ^h on the other side, in the day that the strangers caried away his substance, and strangers entred into his gates, and cast lots upon Jerusalem, even thou wast as one of them.

12 But thou shouldest not have be- holden the day of thy brother, in the day that hee was made ⁱ a stranger, neither shouldest thou have rejoiced over the children of Judah, in the day of their destruction: thou shouldest not have spoken proudly in the day of affliction.

13 Thou shouldest not have entred into the gate of my people, in the day of their destruction, neither shouldest thou have once looked on their affliction in the day of their destruction, nor have laid hands on their substance in the day of their destruction.

14 Neither shouldest thou have stood in the crosse waies to cut off them, that should escape, neither shouldest thou have shut up the remnant thereof in the day of affliction.

19 And they shall possesse the South side of the ^o mount of Esau, and the plain of the Philistims: and they shall possesse the fields of Ephraim, and the fields of Samaria, and Benjamin shall have Gilead.

20 And the captivitie of this hoste of the children of Israel, which were among the ^p Canaanites, shall possesse unto Zarephath, and the captivitie of Jerusalem, which is in Shepharad, shall possesse the cities of the South.

^o He describeth, how the Church shall be enlarged and have great possessions, but this chiefly is accomplished under Christ, when as the faithfull are made heires and lords of all things by him, which is their head.

JONAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

When Jonah had long prophesied in Israel, and had little profited, God gave him expresse charge to goe and denounce his judgements against Nineveh the chiefe citie of the Assyrians, because hee had appointed, that they which were of the heathen, should convert by the mighty power of his word, and that within three daies preaching, that Israel might see how horribly they had provoked Gods wrath, which for the space of so many yeares, had not converted to the Lord for so many Prophets, and so diligent preaching. Hee prophesied under Iosaph, and Ieroboam, as 2 King. 14. 25.

CHAP. I.

3 Jonah fled when he was sent to preach, 4 A tempest arising, and he is cast into the sea for his disobedience.

p After that he had reached a long time in Israel: and so Ezekiel, after that for a time hee had prophesied in Juda, he had visions in Babylon, Ezek. 1. 1.

b For seeing the great obstination of the Israelites, he sent his Prophet to the Gentiles, that they might provoke them to repentance, or at least make them inexcusable: for Nineveh was the chief: citie of the Assyrians.

c For as authors write, it contained in circuit about eight and forty mile, and had a thousand and five hundred towers, and at this time there were an hundred and twenty thousand children therein, Cha. 4. 11.

d Whereby he declared his weakness, that would not promptly follow the Lords calling, but gave place to his own reason, which perswaded him that he should nothing at all profit there, seeing he had done so small good among his owne people, Chap. 4. 2.

e Which was the haven, and port to take shipping thither, called also Joppe.

f From that vocation whereunto God had called him, and wherein he would have assisted him.

g As one that would have cast off this care and solicitude, by seeking rest and quietnesse.

h As they had called on their idols, which declareth, that idolaters have no stay nor certainty, but in their troubles seeke, they cannot tell to whom.

i Which declareth, that the matter was in great extremity and doubt, which thing was Gods motion in them, for the trial of the cause: and this may not be done but in matters of great importance.

He word of the Lord came also unto Jonah the son of Amittai, saying,

2 Arise, and goe to Nineveh, that great city, and cry against it: for their wickednesse is come up before me.

3 But Jonah rose up to flee into Tarshish from the presence of the Lord, and went down to Japho: and he found a ship going to Tarshish: so he paid the fare thereof, and went downe into it, that he might goe with them unto Tarshish, from the presence of the Lord.

4 But the Lord sent out a great wind into the sea, and there was a mighty tempest in the sea, so that the ship was like to be broken.

5 Then the mariners were afraid, and cried every man unto his god, and cast the wares that were in the ship, into the sea, to lighten it of them: but Jonah was gone downe into the sides of the ship, and he lay downe, and was fast asleepe.

6 So the ship-master came to him, and said unto him, What meanest thou, O sleeper? Arise, call upon thy God, if so be that God will thinke upon us, that we perish not.

7 And they said every one to his fellow, Come, and let us cast lots, that we may know, for whose cause this evill is upon us. So they cast lots, and the lot fell upon Jonah.

8 Then said they unto him, Tell us, for whose cause this evill is upon us? what is thine occupation? and whence comest thou? which is thy countrey? and of what people art thou?

9 And he answered them, I am an Ebrew, and I feare the Lord God of heaven, which hath made the sea, and the dry land.

10 Then were the men exceedingly afraid, and said unto him, Why hast thou done this? (for the men knew that he fled from the presence of the Lord, because he had told them.)

11 Then said they unto him, What shall we doe unto thee, that the sea may be calme unto us? (for the sea wrought and was troublous.)

12 And he said unto them, Take me, and cast me into the sea: so shall the sea be calme unto you: for I know that for my sake this great tempest is upon you.

13 Nevertheless, the men rowed to bring it to land, but they could not: for the sea wrought, and was troublous against them.

14 Wherefore they cried unto the Lord, and said, We beseech thee, O Lord, we beseech thee, let us not perish for this mans life, and lay not upon us innocent blood: for thou, O Lord, hast done, as it pleased thee.

15 So they took up Jonah, and cast him into the sea, and the sea ceased from her raging.

16 Then the men feared the Lord exceedingly, and offered a sacrifice unto the Lord, and made vows.

17 Now the Lord had prepared a great fish to swallow up Jonah: and Jonah was in the belly of the fish three daies, and three nights.

CHAP. II.

1 Jonah is in the fishes belly. 2 His prayer. 10 He is delivered.

Then Jonah praied unto the Lord his God out of the fishes belly, medie to escape, his faith brast out unto the Lord, knowing that out of the very hell he was able to deliver him.

k This declareth that the very wicked in their necessities flee unto God for succour, and also that they are touched with a certaine feare to shed mans blood, whereas they know no manifest signe of wickednesse.

l They were touched with a certaine repentance of their life past, and began to worship the true God, by whom they saw themselves so wonderfully delivered: but this was done for feare and not of a pure heart and affection, neither according to Gods word.

m Thus the Lord would chastise his Prophet with a most terrible spectacle of death, and hereby also confirmed him of his favour and support in this his charge, which was enjoyed him.

2 And

^b For he was now

9 But I will sacrifice unto thee with the voice of thanksgiving, and will pay that that I have vowed: salvation ^g of the Lord.

10 And the Lord spake unto the fish, and it cast out Jonah upon the dry land.

CHAP. III.

1 ^h Jonah is sent againe to Nineveh. 5 ⁱ The repentance of the King of Nineveh.

And the word of the Lord came unto ^a Jonah the second time, saying,

2 Arise, goe unto Nineveh that great city, and preach unto it the preaching which I bid thee.

^a This is a great declaration of Gods mercy, that he receiveth him again, and sendeth him forth as his prophet, which had before shewed to great infirmity.

3 So Jonah arose and went to Nineveh according to the word of the Lord:
now Nineveh was ^b a great and excellent city of three daies journey.

^b Read chap. i. 2.

4 And Jonah began to enter into the city ^a daies ^c journey, and he cried, and said, Yet forty daies, and Nineveh shall be overthrowne.

^c He went forward one day in the city, and preached, and so hee
continued till the city was converted.

5 So the people of Nineveh ^d beleev-ed God, and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them, even to the least of them.

^d For he declared that he was a Prophet sent to them from God, to denounce his judgements against them.

6 For word came unto the king of Nineveh, and he arose from his throne, and he laid his robe from him, and covered him with sackcloth, and sate in ashes.

^e Not that the dumb beasts had reason or could repent, but that by their example man might be affonished, considering that for his sin, the anger of God hanged over all creatures.

7 And he proclaimed and said through Nineveh (by the counsell of the King and his nobles) saying, Let neither man, nor ^e beast, bullock nor sheep taste any thing, neither feed, nor drinke water.

8 But let man and beast put on sackcloth, and ^f cry mightily unto God: yea, let every man turne from his evill way, and from the wickednesse that is in their hands.

9 ^g Who can tell if God will turne, and repent and turne away from his fierce wrath, that we perish not?

10 And God saw their ^h workes, that they turned from their evill waies: and ⁱ God repented of the evill that he said that he would doe unto them, and he did it not.

^f Hee willed that the men should earnestly call unto God for mercy.
^g For partly by the threatening of the Prophet, and partly by the motion of his owne conscience hee doubted whether God would shew
them mercy.
^h That is, the fruits of their repentance, which did proceed of faith which God had planted by the ministrie of his Prophet.
ⁱ Read Ier. 18. 8.

CHAP. IV.

The great goodnesse of God toward his creatures.

Therefore it displeased ^a Jonah exceedingly, and he was angry.

2 And he praied unto the Lord, and said,
I pray thee, O Lord, was not this my saying, when I was yet in my country? therefore I prevented it to flee unto ^b Tarshish:
for I knew that thou art a gracious God, and mercifull, slow to anger, and of great kindnesse, and repentest thee of the evill.

^a Because hereby he should be taken as a false prophet, and so the Name of God, which he preached, should be blasphemed.

^b Read chap. 1. 3.

3 Therefore now, O Lord, take, I beseech thee, my life ^c from me: for it is better for me to die then to live.

4 Then said the Lord, Dost thou well to be ^d angry?

5 So Jonah went out of the city, and fate on the East side of the city, and there made him a boothe, and sate under it in the shadow ^e till he might see what should be done in the city.

^c Thus he praied of griefe, fearing lest Gods Name
by this forgiveness might be blasphe-med, as though he sent his Prophets forth to denounce his judgements in vaine.
^d Wilt thou bee
judge when I do things for my glory, and when I doe not?

6 And the Lord God prepared a ^f gourd, and made it to come up over Jonah, that it might be a shadow over his head, and deliver him from his griefe. So Jonah was exceeding glad of the gourd.

^e For he doubted
as yet whether God would shew them mercie or no: and therefore after forty daies he departed out of the citie, looking what issue God would send.
^f Which was a further meanes to cover him from the heat of the sun, as he remained in his boothe.

7 But God prepared a worme when the morning rose the next day, and it smote the gourd, that it withered.

8 And when the sun did arise, God prepared also a fervent East winde: and the sun beat upon the head of Jonah, that he fainted, and wished in his heart to die, and said, It is better for me to die then to live.

9 And God said unto Jonah, Dost thou well to be angry for the gourd? And he said, I do well to be ^g angry unto the death.

10 Then said the Lord, Thou hast had pitty on the gourd for the which thou hast not laboured, neither madest it grow:
which came up in a night, and perished in a night.

^g This declared the great inconvenience wherinto Gods servants doe fall, when they give place to their owne affections, and doe not in all things willingly submit themselves to God.

11 And should ^h not I spare Nineveh that great city, wherein are sixscore thousand persons, that ⁱ cannot discerne betweene their right hand, and their left hand, and also much cattell?

^h Thus God mercifully reproveth him, which would pittie himselfe, and this gourd, and yet would retrain
God to shew his cumpassion to so many thousand people.
ⁱ Meaning, that they were chi-dren and infants.

THE ARGUMENT.

Micah the Prophet, of the tribe of Judah, served in the worke of the Lord concerning Judah and Israel at the least thirty yeares: at what time Isaiah prophesied. Hee declareth the destruction, first of the one kingdome, and then of the other, because of their manifold wickednesse, but chiefly for their idolatry. And to this end he noteth the wickednesse of the people, the cruelty of the princes and governours, and the permission of the false prophets, and the delighting in them. Then he setteth forth the comming of Christ, his kingdome, and the felicity thereof. This Prophet was not that Micah, which resisted Ahab and all his false prophets, as 1 King. 22.8. but another of the same name.

CHAP. I.

¹ The destruction of Judah and Israel because of their idolatry.

He word of the Lord, that came unto Micah the ^a Mo-rashite in the daies of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah Kings of Judah; which hee saw concerning Samaria, and Jerusalem.

^a Boene in Mare-shah, a city of Judah.

^b Because of the malice and obstinacy of the people whom he had so oft exhorted to repentance, hee summoneth them to Gods judgments, taking all creatures and God himselfe to witness, that the preaching of his Prophets, which they have abused, shall be revenged. ^c Meaning hereby, that God will come to judgement against the strong cities and holds.

^d Samaria, which should have beene an example to all Israel of true religion and justice, was the puddle and stews of all Idolatry and corruption, and boasted themselves of their father Jaakob.

^e That is, the idolatry & infection. ^f Which they gathered by evill practises, and thought that their idols had enriched them therewith, for their service unto them.

^g The gaine that came by their idols, shall be consumed as a thing of nought; for as the wages or riches of harlots are wickedly gotten, so are they vilely and speedily spent.

² Heare, ^b all yee people: hearken thou, O earth, and all that therein is, and let the Lord God be witnesse against you, even the Lord from his holy Temple.

³ For behold, the Lord commeth out of his place, and will come ^c downe, and tread upon the high places of the earth.

⁴ And the mountaines shall melt under him (so shall the valleys cleave) as waxe before the fire, and as the waters that are powred downward.

⁶ Therefore I will make Samaria as an heape of the field, and for the planting of a vineyard, and I will cause the stones thereof to tumble downe into the valley, and I will discover the foundations thereof.

⁷ And all the graven images thereof shall bee broken, and all the ^f gifts thereof shall be burnt with the fire, and all the idols thereof will I destroy: for she gathered it of the hire of an harlot, and they shall returne ^g to the wages of an harlot.

⁸ Therefore I will mourne and howle:

I will goe without clothes, and naked: I will make lamentation like the dragons, and mourning as the ostriches.

⁹ For her plagues are grievous: for it is come into Judah: the enemy is come unto the gate of my people, unto Jerusalem.

¹⁰ Declare ye it not at ^h Gath, neither weepe yee: for the house of ⁱ Aphrah roule thy selfe in the dust.

¹² For the inhabitant of Maroth waited for good, but evill came from the Lord unto the ^m gate of Jerusalem.

¹⁴ Therefore shalt thou give presents to Moreheth ^p Gath: the houses of Achib shall bee as a lie to the Kings of Israel.

¹⁵ Yet will I bring an ^q heire unto thee, O inhabitant of Mare-shah, hee shall come unto Adullam, ^r the glory of Israel.

¹⁶ Make thee bald: and shave thee for thy delicate children: enlarge thy baldnesse as the Eagle, for they are gone into captivity from thee.

thee, as well as they of Jerusalem. ^q He prophesieth against his own city, and because it signified an heritage, he saith that God would send an heire to possesse it. ^r For so they thought themselves for the strength of their citie.

CHAP. II.

ⁱ Which was a citie neare to Jerusalem. ^j Joth. 18. 23. there called Ophrah, and signifieth dust: therefore hee willeth them to mourne, and rowle themselves in the dust, for their dustie cities.

^k These were cities wherby the enemy should passe, as he came to Judah.

^l He shall not depart before hee hath overcome you, & so you shall pay for his tarrying.

^o Thou hast received the idolatry of Jeroboam, and so didst infect Jerusalem.

^p Thou shalt be like the Philistines thy neighbours, but they shall deceive thee.

^q He prophesieth against his own city, and because it signified an heritage, he saith that God would send an heire to possesse it. ^r For so they thought themselves for the strength of their citie.

practise it because their hand hath power.

2 And they covet fields, and take them by violence, and houses, and take them away: so they oppresse a man and his house, even man and his heritage.

3 Therefore thus saith the Lord, Behold, against this family have I devised a plague, whereout yee shall not pluck your necks, and ye shall not goe ^{so} proudly, for this time is evill.

4 In that day shall they take up a parable against you, and lament with a doleful lamentation, and say, ^b We be utterly wasted: he hath changed the portion of my people: how hath he taken it away to restore it unto me: he hath divided our fields.

5 Therefore thou shalt have none that shall cast a cord by lot in ^c the congregation of the Lord.

6 ^d They that prophesied, prophesie ye not. ^e They shall not prophesie to them, neither shall they take iame.

7 O thou that art named of the house of Jaakob, is the Spirit of the Lord shortned?
^f are these his works? are not my words good unto him? that walketh uprightly?

8 But hee that was ^h yesterday my people, is risen upon the other side, as against an enemy: they spoile the ⁱ beautiful garment from them that passe by peaceably, as though they returned from the warre.

9 The women of my people have yee cast out from their pleasant houses, and from their children have yee taken away ^k my glory continually.

10 Arise, and depart, for this is not your ^l rest: because it is polluted, it shall destroy you, even with a fore destruction.

11 If a man ^m walke in the spirit, and would lie falsely, saying, ⁿ I will prophe-sie unto thee of wine, and of strong drinke, hee shall even bee the Prophet of this people.

12 I will surely ^o gather thee wholly,
O Jaakob: I will surely gather the remnant of Israel: I will put them together as the sheepe of Bozrah, even as the flocke in the middes of their fold: ^p the cities shall be full of bruit of the men.

13 The ^q breaker up shall come up before them: they shall breake out, and passe by the gate, and goe out by it, and their king shall goe before them, and the Lord shall be ^r upon their heads.

CHAP. III.

^s Against the tyranny of princes, and false Prophets.

the house of Israel: should not ye know a judgement?

warn the Prophets that they speak to them no more: for they cannot abide their threatnings.

e God saith that they shall not prophe-sie, nor receive so much of their

ly find my words

dity by them, but they spoile them

from them, & their flesh from their bones.

3 And they eate also the ^b flesh of my people, and flay off their skinnies from them, and they breake their bones, and chop them in pieces, as for the pot, and as flesh within the cauldron.

4 Then shall they crie unto the Lord, but he will not hear them: he wil even hide his face from them at that time, because they have done wickedly in their works.

5 Thus saith the Lord, Concerning the prophets that deceive my people, and ^d bite them with their teeth, and cry peace, but if a man put not into their mouths, they prepare warre against him.

6 Therefore ^e night shall bee unto you for a vision, and darkenesse shall bee unto you for a divination, and the Sunne shall goe downe over the Prophets, and the day shall be darke over them.

7 Then shall the Seers be ashamed, and the Soothsayers confounded: yea, they shall all cover ^f their lips, for they have none answer of God.

8 Yet notwithstanding I am full ^g of power by the spirit of the Lord, and of judgement, and of strength to declare unto Jaakob his transgression, & to Israel his sin.

9 Heare this, I pray you, ye heads of the house of Jaakob, and Princes of the house of Israel: they abhorre judgement, and pervert all equitie.

10 They build up Zion with ^h blood, and Jerusalem with iniquitie.

11 The heads thereof judge for rewards, and the Priests thereof teach for hire, and the prophets thereof prophesie for money: yet will they ⁱ leane upon the Lord, and say, Is not the Lord among us?
no evil can come upon us.

12 Therefore shall Zion for your sake be ^k plowed as a field, and Jerusalem shall be an heape, and the mountaine of the house, as the high places of the forrest.

They will say, that they are the people of God, and abuse his name as a pretence to cloake their hypocrisie. k Read Jer. 26. 18.

^g He sheweth that the people of God ought to remain constant in their religion, albeit all the world should give themselves to their superstition and idolatry.

^h I will cause that Israel, which is now as one lame and halting, and so almost destroyed, shall live againe and grow into a great people.

ⁱ Meaning, Jerusalem, where the Lords flock was gathered.

ⁿ God giveth his Church this victory, so oft as he overcometh their enemies: but the accomplishment hereof shall be at the last coming of Christ.

^a He forewarneth them of the dangers that shall come before they enjoy these comforts: shewing that for as much as Jerusalem was accustomed with her garisons to trouble others, the Lord would now cause other garisons to vex her, and that her rulers should be smitten on the face most contemptuously. b For so the Jewes divided their countrey, that for every thousand there was a chiefe captain, and because Beth-lehem was not able to make a thousand, he calleth it little. c For yet God will raise up his captain and governour therein: and thus it is not the least by reason of this benefit, as Math. 2. 6.

7 And I will make her that halted, ^a a remnant, and her that was cast farre off, a mighty nation: and the Lord shall reigne over them in mount Zion, from hence forth even for ever.

10 Sorrow and mourne, O daughter Zion, like a woman in travaile: for now shalt thou goe forth of the citie, and dwell in the field, and shalt goe into Babel, but there shalt thou be delivered: there the Lord shall redeeme thee from the hand of thine enemies.

13 Arise, & thresh, ⁿ O daughter Zion: for I will make thine horne iron, and I will make thine hoofs brasse, and thou shalt breake in pieces many people: and I will consecrate their riches unto the Lord, and their substance unto the ruler of the whole world.

4. And he shall ^e stand, and feed in the strength of the Lord, and in the Majesty of the Name of the Lord his God, and they shall dwell still: for now shall he be magnified unto the ends of the world.

5 And he ^f shall be our peace when Ashtur shall come into our land: when hee shall tread in our palaces, then shall wee raise against him seven shepherds, and eight principall men.

7 And the ⁱ remnant of Jaakob shall be among many people, as a deaw from the Lord, and as the showres upon the grasse, that wayteth not for man, nor hopeth in the sons of Adam.

8 And the remnant of Jaakob shall be among the Gentiles in the mids of many people, as the Lyon among the beasts of the Forrest, and as the Lyons whelp among the flocks of sheep, who when he goeth thorow, treadeth down and teareth in pieces, and none can deliver.

9 Thine hand shall be lift up upon thine adversaries, and all thine enemies shall be cut off.

10 And it shall come to passe in that day, saith the Lord, that I will cut off thine ^k horses out of the mids of thee, and I will destroy thy charrets.

11 And I will cut off the cities of thy land, and overthrow all thy strong holds.

12 And I will cut off thine incanters out of thine hand: and thou shalt have no more sooth-sayers.

13 Thine idoles also will I cut off, and thine images out of the mids of thee: and thou shalt no more worshipsse the worke of thine hands.

14 And I will plucke up thy groves out of the mids of thee: so will I destroy thine enemies.

15 And I will execute a vengeance in my wrath and indignation upon the heathen, ^l which they have not heard.

^e That is, Christs Kingdome shall be stable and everlasting, and his people as well the Gentiles as the Jewes shall dwell in safety.

^l It shall be so terrible that the like hath not been heard of.

^a He retheth the high mountaines and hard rocks to witness against the obstinacy of his people.

2 Heare yee, O mountaines, the Lords quarrell, and ye mighty foundations of the earth: for the Lord hath a quarrell against his people, and he will pleade with Israel.

3 O my people, what have I done unto thee? or wherein have I grieved thee? testifie against mee.

4 Surely I^b brought thee up out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed thee out of the house of servants, and I have sent before thee Moses, Aaron, and Miriam.

5 O my people, remember now what Balak king of Moab had devised, & what Balaam the sonne of Beor answered him, from ^c Shittim unto Gilgal, that yee may know the ^d righteousness of the Lord.

6 Wherewith ^e shall I come before the Lord, and bow my selfe before the high God? Shall I come before him with burnt-offerings, and with calves of a yeare old?

7 Will the Lord be pleased with thousands of rammes, or with ten thousand rivers of oyle? shall I give my ^f first-borne for my transgression, even the fruit of my body, for the sinne of my soule?

8 He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good, and what the Lord requireth of thee: ^g surely to doe justly, and to love mercy, and to humble thy selfe to walke with thy God.

9 The Lords voice crieth unto the ^h citie, and the man of wisdom shall see thy name: Heare the rod, and who hath appointed it.

10 Are yet the treasures of wickednesse in the house of the wicked, and the scant measure that is abominable?

11 Shall I justifie the wicked balances, and the bag of deceitfull weights?

12 For the rich men ⁱ thereof are full of crueltie, and the inhabitants thereof have spoken lies, and their tongue is deceitfull in their mouth.

13 Therefore also will I make thee sicke in finiting thee, and in making thee desolate, because of thy finnes.

14 Thou shalt eat and not be satisfied, & ^k thy casting down shall be in the mids of thee, and thou shalt ^l take hold, but shalt not deliver: and that which thou deliverest, will I give up to the sword.

15 Thou shalt sowe, but not reape: thou shalt tread the olives, but thou shalt not annoint thee with oyle, and ^m make sweet wine, but shalt not drinke wine.

16 For the ⁿ statutes of Omri are kept, and all the manner of the house of Ahab, and yee walke in their counsels, that I should make thee waste, and the inhabitants thereof an hissing: therefore yee shall bear the reproach of my people,

CHAP. VII.

¹ A complaint for the small number of the righteous. ⁴ The wickednesse of those times. ¹⁴ The prosperity of the Church.

WO is me, for I am as ^a the summer gatherings, and as the grapes of the vintage: there is no cluster to eate: my soule desired the first ripe fruits.

2 The good man is perished out of the earth, and there is none righteous among men: ^b they all lie in waite for blood: every man hunteth his brother with a net.

3 To make good for the evill of ^c their hands, the Prince asked, and the judge judgeth for a reward: therefore the ^d great man he speaketh out the corruption of his soule: so ^e they wrapt it up.

4 The best of them is as ^f a briar, and the most righteous of them is ^g sharper then a thorne hedge: the day of ^h thy watchmen and thy visitation commeth: then shall be their confusion.

5 Trust ye not in a friend, neither put ye confidence in a counseller: keepe the doores of thy mouth from her that lieth in thy bosom.

6 For the sonne revileth the father: the daughter riseth up against her mother: the daughter in law against her mother in law, and a mans enemies are the men of his owne house.

7 Therefore ⁱ I will looke unto the Lord: I will wait for God my Saviour: my God will heare me.

8 Rejoice not against me, ^j O mine enemy: though I fall, I shall arise: when I shall sit in darkenesse, the Lord shall be a light unto me.

9 I will beare the wrath of the Lord, because I have sinned against him, untill hee plead my cause, & execute judgement for mee: then will hee bring mee forth to the light, and I shall see his righteousness.

10 Then she that is mine enemy, shall look upon it, and shame shall cover her, ^k when she said unto me, where is the Lord thy God? Mine eyes shall behold her: now shall she be troden downe as the mire of the streets.

11 This is ^l the day that thy walles shall be built: this day shall drive farre away ^m the decree.

12 In this day also they shall come unto thee from ⁿ Asshur, and from the strong cities, and from the strong holds even unto the river, and from sea to sea, and from mountaine to mountaine.

13 Notwithstanding, the land shall be desolate because of them that dwell therein, and for the fruits of ^o their inventions.

14 ^p Feed thy people with thy rodde, the flocke of thine heritage (which dwell solitarie in the wood) as in the mids of Carmel: let them feed in Bashan and Gilead, as in old time.

15 ^q According to the daies of thy comming out of the land of Egypt, will I shew unto him marvellous things.

^a The Prophet taketh upon him the person of the earth, which complaineth that all her fruits are gone, so that none is left: that is, that there is no godly man remaining: for all are given to cruelty and deceit: so that none spareth his own brother. ^b He sheweth that the Prince, the judge, and the rich man are linked together, all to doe evill, and to cloke the doings one of another.

^c That is, the rich man that is able to give money, abtaineth from no wickednesse nor injury.

^d These men agree among themselves, and conspire with one consent to doe evil.

^e They that are of most estimation, and are counted most honest among them, are but thorns and briars to prick.

^f Meaning, of the Prophets and governors.

^g The Prophet sheweth that the onely remedy for the godly in desperate evils, is to flee unto God for succour.

^h This is spoken in the person of the Church, which calleth the malignans Church her enemy.

ⁱ To wit, when God shall shew himself a deliverer of his Church, and a destroyer of his enemies.

^k Meaning, the cruell empire of the Babylonians.

^l When the Church shall be restored, they that were enemies afore shall come out of all the corners of the world unto her, so that neither holds, rivers, seas, nor mountaines shall be able to let them.

^m Afore this grace appeare, hee sheweth how grievously the hypocrites themselves shall be punished, seeing that the earth is self, which cannot sin, shall be made waste because of their wickednes.

ⁿ The Prophet prayeth to God to be mercifull unto his Church, when they should be scattered abroad in solitary places in Babylon, and to be beneficiall unto them as in time past.

^o God promiseth to be favorable to his people, as hee had bene aforetime.

p They shall be as dumbe men, and dare brag no more.
q They shall bee
astonied and afraid to hear men speak.
lest they should heare of their destruction.
r They shal fall flat on the ground for feare.
s As though hee
would not see it,
but winke at it.

16 The nations shall see and bee confounded for all their power: they shall lay their hand upon their mouth: their eares shall be deafe.

17 They shall lick the dust like a serpent: they shall move out of their holes like wormes: they shall be afraid of the Lord our God, and shall feare because of thee.

18 Who is a God like unto thee, that taketh away iniquitie, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage! Hee retaineth not his wrath for ever, because mercie pleaseth him.

19 Hee will turne againe, and have compassion upon us: hee will subdue our iniquities, and cast all their sinnes into the bottome of the Sea.

20 Thou wilt performe thy truth to Jaakob, and mercy to Abraham, as thou hast sworne unto our fathers in old time,

t Meaning, of his elect.
v The Church is assured that God will declare in effect the truth of his mercifull promise, which he had made of old to Abraham, and to all that should apprehend the promise by faith.

THE ARGUMENT.

As they of Nineveh shewed themselves prompt and ready to receive the word of God at Io-nahs preaching, and so turned to the Lord by repentance: so after a certaine time, rather giving themselves to worldly meanes to increase their dominion, then seeking to continue in the feare of God, and trade wherein they had begunne, they cast off the care of Religion, and so returned to their vomite, and provoked Gods just judgement against them, in afflicting his people. Therefore their citie Nineveh was destroyed, and Meroch-baladan King of Babel (or as some thinke Nebuchad-nezzar) enjoyed the Empire of the Assyrians. But because God hath continuall care of his Church, hee stirreth up his Prophet to comfort the godly, shewing that the destruction of their enemies should bee for their consolation. And as it seemeth, he prophesied about the time of Hezekiah, and not in the time of Manasseh his sonne, as the Iewes write.

THE ARGUMENT.

THe Prophet complaineth unto God, considering the great felicity of the wicked, and their miserable oppression of the godly, which endure all kind of affliction and cruelty, and yet can see none end. Therefore he had this revelation shewed him of God, that the Caldeans should come and take them away captives, so that they could looke for none end of their troubles as yet, because of their stubbornnesse and rebellion against the Lord. And lest the godly should despaire, seeing this horrible confusion, he comforteth them by this, that God will punish the Caldean their enemies, when their pride and cruelty shall be at height: wherefore he exhorteth the faithfull to patience by his owne example, and sheweth them a forme of prayer, wherewith they should comfort themselves.

3 Why dost thou shew me iniquity, and cause mee to behold sorrow? for spoiling, and violence are before mee: and there are that raise up strife & contention.

4 Therefore the Law is dissolved, and judgement doth never goe forth: for the wicked doth ^b compass about the righteous: therefore ^c wrong judgement proceedeth.

5 Behold, among the heathen, and regard, and wonder, and marvell: for I will worke a worke in your daies: ^d ye will not beleve it, though it be told you.

8 Their horses also are swifter then the leopards, and are more fierce then the wolves in the ^f evening: and their horsemen are many: and their horsemen shall come from far: they shall flee as the eagle hasting to meat.

11 Then shall they ^j take a courage, and transgresse and do wickedly, imputing this their power unto their god.

12 Art not thou of old, O Lord my God, mine Holy one? we shall ^k not dy: O Lord, thou hast ordained them for judgement, and O God, thou hast established them for correction.

13 Thou art of pure eyes, and canst not see evil: thou canst not behold wickednesse: wherefore dost thou looke upon the transgressours, and holdest thy tongue, when the wicked devoureth the man, that is more righteous then he?

14 And makest men as the ^l fishes of the sea, and as the creeping things, that have no ruler over them?

15 They take up all with the angle: they catch it in their net, and gather it in their yarne, whereof they rejoyce and are glad.

THE ARGUMENT.

Seeing the great rebellion of the people, and that there was now no hope of amendment, he denounceth the great judgement of God, which was at hand, shewing that their countrey should be utterly destroyed, and they caried away captives by the Babylonians. Yet for the comfort of the faithfull, hee prophecied of Gods vengeance against their enemies, as the Philistims, Moabites, Assyrians, and others, to assure them that God had a continuall care over them. And as the wicked should be punished for their sinnes and transgressions: so hee exhorteth the godly to patience, and to trust to find mercy by reason of the free promise of God made unto Abraham: therefore quietly to abide till God shew them the effect of that grace, whereby in the end they should be gathered unto him, and counted as his people and children.

THE ARGUMENT.

When the time of the seventy yeares captivity, prophesied by Jeremiah, was expired, God raised up Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi, to comfort the Jewes, and to exhort them to the building of the Temple, which was a figure of the spirituall Temple and Church of God, whose perfection and excellency stood in Christ. And because that all were given to their owne pleasures and commodities, he declareth that that plague of famine, which God then sent among them, was a just reward of their ingratitude, in that they contemned Gods honour, who had delivered them. Yet he comforteth them, if they will returne to the Lord, with the promise of greater felicity, forasmuch as the Lord will finish the worke that he hath begun, and send Christ, whom he had promised, and by whom they should attain to perfect joy and glory.

^b Because the building of the temple began to cease, by reason that the people were discouraged by their enemies, and if these two notable men had need to be stirred up, & admonished of their duties, what shall wee thinke of other governours, whose doings are either against God, or very cold in his cause?

^c Not that they condemned the building thereof, but they preferred policy and private profit to religion, being content with small beginnings.

^d Shewing, that they sought not onely their necessities, but their vanity pleasures before Gods honour.

13 Then spake Haggai the Lords messenger in the Lords message unto the people, saying, I am with you, saith the Lord.

14 And the Lord stirred up the spirit of Zerubbabel, the son of Shealtiel, a prince of Judah, and the spirit of Jehoshua the son of Jehozadak the high Priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people, and they came, and did the work in the house of the Lord of hosts their God.

CHAP. II.

He sheweth that the glory of the second Temple shall exceed the first.

IN the foure and twentieth day of the sixth moneth, in the second year of king Darius;

2 In the seventh moneth, in the one and twentieth day of the moneth, came the word of the Lord by the ministry of the Prophet Haggai, saying,

3 Speake now to Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel prince of Judah, and to Jehoshua the son of Jehozadak the high Priest, and to the residue of the people, saying,

4 Who is left among you, that saw this House in her first glory, and how do you see it now? is it not in your eyes, in comparison of it as nothing?

5 Yet now be of good courage, O Zerubbabel, saith the Lord, and be of good comfort, O Jehoshua, son of Jehozadak the high Priest: and be strong, all ye people of the land, saith the Lord, and do it: for I am with you, saith the Lord of hosts,

6 According to the word that I covenanted with you, when ye came out of Egypt: so my Spirit shall remain among you, feare ye not.

7 For thus saith the Lord of hosts, Yet a little while, and I will shake the heavens and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land:

8 And I will move all nations, and the desire of all nations shall come, and I will fill this house with glory, saith the Lord of hosts, 9 The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, saith the Lord of hosts.

10 The glory of this last house shall be greater then the first, saith the Lord of hosts: and in this place will I give peace, saith the Lord of hosts.

11 ¶ In the foure and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, in the second year of Darius, came the word of the Lord unto the Prophet Haggai, saying,

12 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Aske now the Priests concerning the Law, and say, 13 If one beareth holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, and with his skirt do touch the bread, or the pottage, or the wine, or oyle, or any meat, shall it be holy? And the Priests answered, and said, No.

14 Then said Haggai, If a polluted person touch any of these, shall it be unclean? And the Priests answered, and said, It shall be unclean.

15 Then answered Haggai, and said, So is this people, and so is this nation before me, saith the Lord: and so are all the works of their hands, and that which they offer here is unclean.

16 And now, I pray you consider in your minds; from this day, and afore, even afore a stone was laid upon a stone in the Temple of the Lord:

17 Before these things were, when one came to an heape of twenty measures, there were but ten: when one came to the wine-press for to draw out fifty vessels out of the presse, there were but twenty.

18 I smote you with blasting, and with mildeaw, and with haile, in all the labours of your hands: yet you turned not to me, saith the Lord.

19 Consider, I pray you, in your minds, from this day, and afore, from the foure and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, even from the day that the foundation of the Lords Temple was laid: consider it in your minds.

20 Is the seed yet in the barn? as yet the vine, and the fig-tree, and the pomegranate, and the olive tree hath not brought forth: from this day will I blesse you.

21 And again the word of the Lord came unto Haggai in the foure and twentieth day of the moneth, saying,

22 Speak unto Zerubbabel the prince of Judah, and say, I will shake the heavens and the earth,

23 And I will overthrow the throne of kingdomes, and I will destroy the strength of the kingdomes of the heathen, and I will overthrow the charrets, and those that ride in them, and the horse and the riders shall come down, every one by the sword of his brother.

24 In that day, saith the Lord of hosts, will I take thee, O Zerubbabel my servant, the sonne of Shealtiel, saith the Lord, and will make thee as a signet: for I have chosen thee, saith the Lord of hosts.

g That is, the flesh of the sacrifices, whereby he signifies that thing which of itself is good cannot make another thing so; and therefore they ought not to justify themselves by their sacrifices and ceremonies: but contrary, he that is unclean & not pure of heart, doth corrupt those things and make them detestable unto God, which else are good and godly.

h Consider how God did plague you with famine afore you began to build the temple. i That is, before the building was begun.

k From the time they began to build the temple, he promised that God would blesse them: and albeit as yet the fruit was not come forth, yet in the gathering they should have plenty. l He exhorteth them to patience, and to abide till the harvest came, and then they should see Gods blessings.

m I will make a change and renew all things in Christ, of whom Zerubbabel here is a figure.

n Hereby he sheweth, that there shall be no let nor hindrance, when God will make this wonderfull restitution of his Church.

o Signifying, that his dignity should be most excellent, which thing was accomplished in Christ.

THE ARGUMENT.

TWo moneths after that Haggai had begun to prophesie, Zechariah was also sent of the Lord to help him in the labour, and to confirm the same doctrine. First, therefore he putteth them in remembrance, for what cause God had so sore punished their fathers: and yet comforteth them, if they will repent unsainedly, and not abuse this great benefit of God in their deliverance, which was a figure of that true deliverance, that all the faithfull should have from death and sin by Christ. But because they still remained in their wickednes and coldnesse, to set forth Gods glory, and were not yet made better by their long banishment, he rebuketh them most sharply: yet for the comfort of the repentant, he ever mixeth the promise of grace, that they might by this meanes be prepared to receive Christ, in whom all should be sanctified to the Lord.

C H A P. I.

^a He exhorteth the people to return to the Lord, and to eschew the wickednesse of their fathers. ¹⁶ He signifieth the restitution of Ierusalem and the Temple.

IN the eight moneth of the second yeare of ^a Darius, came the word of the Lord unto ^b Zechariah the son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo the Prophet, saying,

2 The Lord hath been ^cfore displeased with your fathers.

3 Therefore say thou unto them, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, ^d Turn ye unto me, saith the Lord of hosts, and I wil turn unto you, saith the Lord of hosts.

4 Be ye not as your fathers, unto whom the former ^e Prophets have cried, saying, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, Turn you now from your evill wayes, and from your wicked works: but they would not heare, nor hearken unto me, saith the Lord.

5 Your fathers, where ^f are they? and do the Prophets live for ever?

6 But did not my words and my statutes, which I commanded by my servants the Prophets, take hold off your fathers? and ^g they returned, and said, As the Lord of hosts hath determined to do unto us, according to our own wayes, and according to our works, so hath he dealt with us.

7 Upon the foure and twentieth day of the eleventh moneth, which is the moneth ^h Shebat, in the second yeare of Darius, came the word of the Lord unto Zechariah the son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo the Prophet, saying,

8 I ⁱ saw by night, and behold ^k a man riding upon a red horse, & he stood among the myrrhe trees, that were in a bottome, and behinde him were there ^l red horses speckled and white.

9 Then said I, O my Lord, what are these? And the Angel that talked with me, said unto me, I will shew thee what these be.

10 And the man that stood among the myrrhe trees, answered, and said, These are they whom the Lord hath sent to go thorow the world.

11 And they answered the Angel of the Lord that stood among the myrrhe trees, and said, we have gone thorow the world: and behold, all the world sitteth still, and is at rest.

12 Then the ^m Angel of the Lord answered & said, O Lord of hosts, how long wilt thou be unmercifull to Ierusalem, and to the cities of Judah, with whom thou hast been displeased now these threescore and ten yeares?

13 And the Lord answered the Angel that talked with me, with good words, and comfortable words.

14 So the Angel that communed with me, said unto me, Cry thou, and speake, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, I am ⁿ jealous over Ierusalem and Zion with a great zeale, 15 And am greatly angry against the carelessse heathen: for I was angry but ^o a little, and they helped forward the affliction.

16 Therefore thus saith the Lord, I will returne unto Ierusalem with tender mercie: mine house shall bee builded in it, saith the Lord of hostes, and a line ^p shall bee stretched upon Ierusalem.

17 Cry yet and speake, Thus saith the Lord of hostes, My cities shall yet ^q be broken with plenty: the Lord shall yet comfort Zion, and shall yet chuse Ierusalem.

18 Then

^a Who was the son of Hythaspis.

^b This was not that Zechariah whereof is mention, 2 Chron. 24. 20. but had the same name, and is called the son of Berechiah, as he was, because he came of those progenitours, as of O-jada, or Berechiah, and Iddo.

^c He speaketh this to feare them with Gods judgements that they should not provoke him as their fathers had done, whom he so grievously punished.

^d Let your fruits declare that you are Gods people, and that he hath wrought in you by his spirit, and mortified you: for else man hath no power to return to God, but God must convert him, as Jer. 31. 18. Lamen. 5. 21. Isa. 21. 8. and 31. 6. and 45. 21. ^e Jer. 3. 12.

^f Ezek. 18. 30. ^g Hef. 14. 2. ^h Jer. 3. 12.

ⁱ Though your fathers be dead, yet Gods judgements in punishing them ought still to be before your eyes: and though the prophets be dead, yet their doctrine remaineth for ever. ^j Pet. 1. 15.

^k Seeing ye saw the force of my doctrine in punishing your fathers, why do not ye feare the threatenings contained in the same, and declared by my Prophets?

^l As men astonished with my judgements, and not that they were touched with true repentance. ^m Which containeth part of January and part of February. ⁿ This vision signifieth the restitution of the Church, but as yet it should not appeare to mans eyes, which is here meant by the night, by the bottome, & by the myrrhe trees which are black, and give a darke shadow: yet he compareth God to a king, who hath his posts and messengers abroad, by whom he still worketh his purpose, & bringeth his matters to passe. ^o Who was the chief among the rest of the horse-men.

^m That is, Christ the Mediator, prayed for the salvation of his Church, which was now troubled when all the consuetudes about them were at rest.

ⁿ Though for a time God deferre his help and comfort from his Church, yet this declareth that he loveth them still most dearly, as a most mercifull father his children, or an husband his wife, and when it is expedient for them, his help is ever ready.

^o In destroying the reprobate I shewed my self but a little angry toward my Church, but the enemy would have destroyed them also, and considered not the end of my chastisements.

^p To measure out the buildings.

^q The abundance shall be so great, that the places of store shall not be able to contain these blessings that God will send, but shall even break for fullnesse.

ly strength, but

18 Then lift I up mine eyes and saw, and behold, four hornes:

19 And I said unto the Angel that talked with me, What be these? And he answered me, These are the hornes which have scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem.

20 And the Lord shewed me four carpenters.

21 Then said I, What come these to do? And he answered, and said, These are the hornes, which have scattered Judah, so that a man durst not lift up his head: but these are come to fray them, and to cast out the hornes of the Gentiles, which lift up their horne over the land of Judah, to scatter it.

CHAP. I.

The restoring of Jerusalem and Judah.

I Lift up mine eyes again and looked, and behold, a man with a measuring line in his hand.

2 Then said I, Whither goest thou? And he said unto me, To measure Jerusalem, that I may see what is the breadth thereof, and what is the length thereof.

3 And behold, the Angel that talked with me went forth: and another Angel went out to meet him,

4 And said unto him, Run, speak to this young man, and say, Jerusalem shall be inhabited without wals, for the multitude of men and cattell therein:

5 For I, saith the Lord, will be unto her a wall of fire round about, and will be the glory in the mids of her.

6 Ho, ho, come forth, and flee from the land of the North, saith the Lord: for I have scattered you into the four winds of the heaven, saith the Lord.

7 Save thy self, O Zion, that dwellest with the daughter of Babel,

8 For thus saith the Lord of hosts, After this glory hath he sent me unto the nations, which spoiled you: for he that toucheth you, toucheth the apple of his eye.

9 For behold, I will lift up mine hand upon them: and they shall be a spoile to those that served them, and ye shall know that the Lord of hosts hath sent me.

10 Rejoyce, and be glad, O daughter Zion: for loe, I come, and will dwell in the mids of thee, saith the Lord.

11 And many nations shall be joynted to the Lord in that day, and shall be my people: and I will dwell in the mids of thee, and thou shalt know that the Lord of hosts hath sent me unto thee.

12 And the Lord shall inherit Judah his portion in the holy land, and shall chuse Jerusalem again.

13 Let all flesh be still before the Lord, for he is raised up out of his holy place.

1 Upon the heathen your enemies. m They shall be your servants as you have been theirs. n This must necessarily be understood of Christ, who being God equall with his Father, was sent as he was Mediatour to dwell in his Church, and to governe them.

CHAP. III.

A prophesie of Christ and of his kingdom.

And he shewed me Jehoshua the high Priest, standing before the Angel of the Lord, and Satan stood at his right hand to resist him.

2 And the Lord said unto Satan, The Lord reprove thee, O Satan: even the Lord that hath chosen Jerusalem, reprove thee. Is not this a brand taken out of the fire?

3 Now Jehoshua was clothed with filthy garments, and stood before the Angel.

4 And he answered and spake unto those that stood before him, saying, Take away the filthy garments from him. And unto him he said, Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to depart from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of raiment.

5 And I said, Let them set a fair diademe upon his head. So they set a fair diademe upon his head, and clothed him with garments, & the Angel of the Lord stood by.

6 And the Angel of the Lord testified unto Jehoshua, saying,

7 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, If thou wilt walk in my waies, & keep my watch, thou shalt also judge mine house, and shalt also keep my courts, and I will give thee place among these that stand by.

8 Hear now, O Jehoshua the high Priest, thou & thy fellows that sit before thee: for they are monstrous persons: but behold, I will bring forth the Branch my servant.

9 For loe, the stone that I have laid before Jehoshua: upon one stone shall be seven eyes: behold, I will cut out the graving thereof, saith the Lord of hosts, and I will take away the iniquity of this land in one day.

10 In that day saith the Lord of hosts, shall ye call every man his neighbour under the vine, and under the figge tree.

such are condemned that can content themselves with any mean reformation in religion, seeing the prophet desireth the perfection and obtaineth it. h That is, have rule and government in my Church as thy predecessors have had. i Whereby he meaneth to have the whole charge and ministry of the Church. k That is, the Angels who represented the whole number of the faithful: signifying that all the godly should willingly receive him. l Because they follow my word they are condemned in the world, and esteemed as monsters. Isa. 8. 18. m That is Christ, who did so humble himself that not only he became the servant of God, but also the servant of men: and therefore in him they should have comfort, although in the world they were contemned. Isa. 11. 1. Iere. 23. 5. and 33. 14. 15. n He weth that the ministers cannot build before God lay the first stone, which is Christ, who is full of eyes, both because he giveth light unto all others, and that all ought to seek light at him. Chap. 4. 10. o That is, I will make it perfect in all points, as a thing wrought by the hand of God. p Although I have punished this land for a time, yet I will even now be pacified, and visit their sins no more. q Ye shall then live in peace and quietness, that is, in the kingdom of Christ, Isa. 2. 2. Micah. 4. 4. Hag. 2. 10.

CHAP. IV.

The vision of the golden Candlestick, and the Exposition thereof.

And the Angel that talked with me, came againe and waked me, as a man that is raised out of his sleepe,

2 And said unto me, What seest thou? And I said, I have looked, and behold, a candlestick all of gold with a bowl upon the top of it, and his seven lamps therein, and seven pipes

He prayed to Christ the Mediator for the state of the Church.

b Which declareth that the faith-full have not only war with Beasts and blood, but with Satan himself, and spiritual wickednesses, Eph. 6. 12.

c That is, Christ spoke to God
as the Mediatour
of his Church,
that he would rebuke Satan: and here he sheweth himself to be the continual prefer-ver of his Church.

d Meaning that Jehoshua was wonderfully preserved in the captivity, and now Satan sought to afflict and trouble him when he was doing his office.

e In respect of the glorious garments and precious stones that the Priests did wear before the captivity: and by this concomitant state
the Prophet signified that these small beginnings should be made excellent, when Christ shall make the full restoration of his Church.

f He sheweth of what apparel he spake, which is when our filthy sins are taken away and we are clad with Gods mercies, which is meant of the spiritual restoration.

g The Prophet prayeth that besides the raiment, the Priest might also have fire for his head accordingly that is, that the dignity of the Priesthood might be perfect: and this was fulfilled in Christ, who was both Priest and
King: and here all

Which was ever in the mids
of the Temple, signifying that the graces of Gods Spirit should thine there in most abundance, and in all perfection.

b Which conveyed the oyle that dropped from the trees into the lamps, so that the light never failed: and this vision was to confirme the faithfull, that God had sufficient power, in himself to continue his graces, & to bring his promise to passe, though he had no help of man.

c Who was a figure of Christ, and therefore this doctrine was directed to all the Church, who are his body and members.

d He sheweth that Gods power only is sufficient to preserve his Church, though he use not mans help thereunto.

e He comprehendeth the power of the adversaries to a great mountaine, who thought the Jews nothing in respect of them, & would have hindered Zerubbabel, who represented Christ, whom the enemies daily labour to let, in the building of his spirituall Temple, but all in vain.

f Though the enemies thinke to stay this building, yet Zerubbabel shall lay the highest stone thereof, and bring it to perfection, so that all the godly shall rejoyce, and pray unto God that he would continue his grace and favour toward the Temple.

g Meaning, the Prophet, that I am Christ sent of my Father for the building and preservation of my spirituall Temple.

h Signifying, that all were discouraged at the small & poor beginnings of the Temple.

i Whereby he signifieth the plummet and line, that is, that Zerubbabel which represented Christ, should go forward with his building, to the joy and comfort of the godly, though the world be against him, & though his for a while be discouraged, because they see not things pleasant to the eye.

k That is, God hath seven eyes: meaning, a continual providence, so that neither Satan nor any power in the world can go about to bring any thing to passe to hinder his worke, chap. 3. 9.

l Which were ever green and full of oyle, so that still they powred forth oyle into the lamps: signifying that God will continually maintain and preserve his Church, and endue it still with abundance and perfection of graces.

a Because the Jews had provoked Gods plagues by contemning his word, and casting off all judgement, and equities, he sheweth that Gods curses written in this booke had justly light both on them, and their fathers: but now if they would repent, God would send the same among the Caldeans their former enemies.

b pipes to the lamps, which were upon the top thereof,

3 And two olive trees over it, one upon the right side of the bowle, and the other upon the left side thereof.

4 So I answered, and spake to the Angel that talked with me, saying, What are these my Lord?

5 Then the Angel that talked with me, answered and said unto me, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my Lord.

6 Then he answered and spake unto me, saying, This is the word of the Lord unto Zerubbabel, saying, Neither by an armie nor strength, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of hosts.

7 Who art thou, O great mountaine, before Zerubbabel? thou shalt be a plaine, and he shall bring forth the head stone thereof, with shoutings, crying, Grace, grace unto it.

8 Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

9 The hands of Zerubbabel have laid the foundation of this house: his hands shall also finish it, and thou shalt know that the Lord of hosts hath sent me unto you.

10 For who hath despised the day of the small things? but they shall rejoyce, and shall see the stone of tin in the hand of Zerubbabel: these seven are the eyes of the Lord, which go thorow the whole world.

11 Then answered I, and said unto him, What are these two olive trees upon the right and upon the left side thereof?

12 And I spake moreover, and said unto him, What be these two olive branches, which thorow the two golden pipes empty themselves into the gold?

13 And he answered me, and said, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my Lord.

14 Then said he, These are the two olive branches, that stand with the ruler of the whole earth.

15 Then I turned me, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold, a flying booke.

2 And he said unto me, What seest thou? And I answered, I see a flying booke: the length thereof is twenty cubites, and the breadth thereof ten cubites.

3 Then said he unto me, This is the curse that goeth forth over the whole earth: for every one that stealeth, shall be cut off as well on this side, as on that: and every one that sweareth, shall be cut off as well on this side, as on that.

4 I will bring it forth, saith the Lord of hosts, and it shall enter into the house of the thiefe, and into the house of him that falsely sweareth by my Name: and it shall remaine in the midst of his house, and shall consume it, with the timber thereof, and the stones thereof.

5 Then the Angel that talked with me, went forth, and said unto me, Lift up now thine eyes, and see what is this that goeth forth.

6 And I said, What is it? And he said, This is an Ephah that goeth forth. He said moreover, This is the sight of them through all the earth.

7 And behold, there was lift up a talent of lead: and this is a woman that sitteth in the midst of the Ephah.

8 And he said, This is wickednesse, and he cast it into the midst of the Ephah, and he cast the weight of lead upon the mouth thereof.

9 Then lift I up mine eyes, and looked: and behold, there came out two women, and the winde was in their wings (for they had wings like the wings of a storke) and they lift up the Ephah betweene the earth and the heaven.

10 Then said I to the Angel that talked with me, Whither doe these beare the Ephah?

11 And he said unto me, To build it an house in the land of Shinar, and it shall be established and set there upon her own place.

CHAP. VI.

By the four charrets he describeth the four monarchies.

Againe, I turned and lift up mine eyes, and looked: and behold, there came foure charrets out from betweene two mountaines, and the mountaines were mountaines of brasse.

2 In the first charret were red horses, and in the second charret black horses,

3 And in the third charret white horses, and in the fourth charret, horses of divers colours, and reddish.

4 Then I answered, and said unto the Angel that talked with mee, What are these my Lord?

5 And the Angel answered, and said unto me, These are the four spirits of the heaven, which go forth from standing with the Lord of all the earth.

6 That with the black horse went forth into the land of the North, and the white went out after them, and they of divers colours, which restored them to libertie. f Which signified that God would sometime give his Church rest, and powre his plagues upon their enemies, as he did in destroying Niniveh & Babylon, & other their enemies. g Meaning, all the actions, and motions of Gods Spirit, which according to his unchangeable counsell he causeth to appear through all world

b That is, with any injurie toward his neighbour, meaning, wherefore he be in the world.

d He that transgresseth the first Table, and serveth not God aright, but abuseth Gods Name.

e Which was a measure in drie things, containing about ten potters.

f That is, all the wickednesse of the ungodly is in Gods sight, which he keepeth in a measure, and can shut it or open it at his pleasure.

g To cover the measure.

h Which representeth iniquities, as in the next verse.

i Signifying, that Satan should not have such power against the Jews to tempt them, as he had in time past, but that God would shut up iniquity in a measure, as in a prison.

k Which declared that God would execute his judgements by the means of weak and infirme means.

l To remove the iniquity and afflictions that came from the same from Judah, to place it for ever in Babylon.

a By charrets here, as by horses afore, he meaneth the swift messengers of God, to execute and declare his will.

b By the brazen mountaine he meaneth the eternall counsell and providence of God, whereby he hath from before all eternitie decreed what shall come to passe, and that which neither Satan nor all the world can alter.

c Which signified the great cruelty and persecutions that the Church had endured under divers enemies.

d Signifying, that they had endured great afflictions under the Babylonians.

e These represented their state under the Persians, which restored them to libertie.

f Which signified that God would sometime give his Church rest, and powre his plagues upon their enemies, as he did in destroying Niniveh & Babylon, & other their enemies.

g Meaning, all the actions, and motions of Gods Spirit, which according to his unchangeable counsell he causeth to appear through all world

lours

^h That is, toward Egypt, and other countreyes there about.

lours went forth toward the ^h South countrey.

ⁱ That is, they of divers counties, which heke leave, to signifye that Satan hath no power to hurt or afflict, till God give it him. Job 1.12.

7 And the ⁱ reddish went out, and required to go, and passe through the world, and he said, Go passe through the world. So they went throughout the world.

^k By punishing the Chaldeans, mine anger ceased, and you were delivered.

8 Then cried he upon me, and spake unto me, saying, Behold, these that go toward the North countrey, have pacified my ^k spirit in the North countrey.

^l To receive of him and the other three, money to make the two crowns: which were men of great authority among the Jews, and doubted of the restoration of the kingdom, and of the Priesthood. &c. hurt others by their example.

9 And the word of the Lord came unto me, saying,

^m Because this could not be attributed to any one according to the Law, therefore it followeth that Jehoshua mult represent the Messiah, who was both Priest and King. n Meaning Christ, of whom Jehoshua was the figure: for in Greek they were both called Jesus.

10 Take of them of the captivity, even of Heldai, and of Tobijah, and Jedajah, which are come from Babel, and come thou the same day, and go unto the house ^l of Joshua, the son of Zephaniah.

^o That is, of himself without the hope of man.

11 Take even silver, and gold, and make crowns, and set ^{them} upon the ^m head of Jehoshua, the sonne of Jehozadak the high Priest,

^p Which declareth that none could build this Temple, whereof Haggai speaketh, but onely Christ: and therefore it was spirituall, and not materiall. Hagg. 2.10.

12 And speake unto him, saying, Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, and saith, Behold the man whose name is the ⁿ Branch, and he shall grow up ^o out of his place, and hee shall ^p build the Temple of the Lord.

^q Whereof Jehoshua had but a shadow.

13 Even he shall build the Temple of the Lord, and he shall bear the ^q glory, and shall sit and rule upon his throne, and he shall be a Priest upon his throne, and the counsell of peace shall bee betweene ^r them both.

^r The two offices of the kingdom and Priesthood shall be so joynted together, that they shall be no more divided.

14 And the crownes shall be to ^r Helem, and to Tobijah, and to Jedajah, and to ^r Hen the sonne of Zephaniah, for a ^v memoriall in the Temple of the Lord.

^s Who was also called Heldai.

15 And they that are ^s farre off, shall come and build in the Temple of the Lord, and ye shall know, that the Lord of hosts hath sent me unto you. And this shall come to passe, if ye will ^v obey the voice of the Lord your god.

^t He was also called Jolthia.

¶ That they may acknowledge their infirmities, which looked that all things should have been restored incontinently: and of this their infidelity these two crowns shall remain as tokens. Act. 1.6.

x That is, the Gentiles by the preaching of the Gospel shall help toward the building of this Spirituall Temple.

y If ye will believe and remain in the obedience of faith.

CHAP. VII.

⁵ The true fasting. ¹¹ The rebellion of the people is the cause of their affliction.

^a Which contained part of November, and part of December.

And in the fourth yeare of King Darius, the Word of the Lord came unto Zechariah in the fourth ^a day of the ninth moneth, even in ^a Chisleu.

^b That is, the rest of the people that remained yet in Chaldeas, sent to the Church at Jerusalem, for the resolution of these questions, because these feasts were constituted upon the agreement of the whole Church, the one in the mouth that the Temple was destroyed, and the other when Gedaliah was slain, Jer. 41.2.

2 For ^b they had sent unto the House of God Sharezer, and Regem-melech, and their men to pray before the Lord,

^c By weeping and mourning, appear what exercises they used in their fasting.

3 And to speak unto the Priests, which were in the house of the Lord of hosts, and to the Prophets, saying, Should I ^c weep in the fift moneth, and ^d separate my self as I have done these fo many ^e yeares?

^d That is, prepare my self with all devotion

4 Then came the word of the Lord of hosts unto me, saying,

^e Which was now since the time the Temple was destroyed.

5 Speak unto all the people of the land, and to the ^f Priests, and say, When yee fasted, and mourned in the fift and seventh moneth, even these seventy yeares, did ye fast unto mee? ^g doe I approve it?

6 And when yee did eate, and when ye did drinke, did yee not eat ^h for your selves, and drinke for your selves?

7 Should yee not ^{heare} the words, which the Lord ⁱ hath cried by the ministrie of the former Prophets when Jerusalem was inhabited, and in prosperitie, and the cities thereof round about her, when the South and the plaine was inhabited?

8 And the word of the Lord came unto Zechariah, saying,

9 Thus speaketh the Lord of Hosts, saying, ^k Execute true judgement, and shew mercie and compassion, every man to his brother,

10 And oppresse not the widow, nor the fatherlesse, the stranger nor the poore, and let none of you imagine evill against his brother in your heart.

11 But they refused to hearken, and ^l pulled away the shoulder, and stopped their eares, that they should not heare.

12 Yea, they made their hearts as an Adamant stone, lest they should hear the Law, and the words which the Lord of hosts sent in his ^m Spirit by the ministrie of the former Prophets: therefore came a great wrath from the Lord of hosts.

13 Therefore it is come to passe, that as he cried, and they would not heare, so they cried, and I would not heare, saith the Lord of hostes.

14 But I scattered them among all the nations, whom they knew not: thus the land was desolate ⁿ after them, that no man passed thorow nor returned: for they laid the pleasant land ^o waste.

thinking to merite thereby: which similitude is taken of oxen, which flink at the yoke. Nehem. 9.29.

m Which declareth that they rebelled not onely against the Prophets, but against the Spirit of God that spake in them.

n That is, after they were carried captive.

o By their sins, whereby they provoked God to anger.

CHAP. VIII.

² Of the return of the people unto Jerusalem, and of the mercie of God toward them. ¹⁶ Of good workes. ²⁰ The calling of the Gentiles.

A Gaine, the word of the Lord of hostes came to me, saying,

2 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, I was ^a jealous for Zion with great jealousie, and I was jealous for her with great wrath.

3 Thus saith the Lord, I will returne unto Zion, and will dwell in the middes of Jerusalem: and Jerusalem shall be called a ^b citie of truth, and the mountaine of the Lord of hostes, the holy Mountaine.

4 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, There shall yet old ^c men and old women dwel in the streets of Jerusalem, and every man with his staffe in his hand for very age.

5 And the streets of the citie shall be full

f For there were both of the people and of the priests, which doubted as touching this controversie, besides them that yet remained in Chaldeas, and reasoned of it, as one of the chief points of their religion.

g For they thought they had deserved toward God, because of this fast, which they invented of themselves: and though fasting of it self be good, yet because they thought it a service toward God, and trusted therein, it is heere re-proved.

h Did ye not eat, and drinke for your own commodity and necessitie? and so likewise ye did abstain according to your own fantasies, and not after the precept of my Law.

i Hereby he condemneth their hypocrisie, which thought by their fasting to please God, and by such things as they invented, and in the mean season would not serve him as he had commanded.

k He sheweth that they did not fast with a sincere heart, but for hypocrisie, &c. that it was not done of a pure religion, because that they lacked these offices of charitie, which should have declared that they were godly, Matth. 23.23.

l And would not cary the Lords burden, which was sweet and easie, but would bear their own, which was heavie and grievous to the flesh.

m Which declareth that they rebelled not onely against the Prophets, but against the Spirit of God that spake in them.

n That is, after they were carried captive.

o By their sins, whereby they provoked God to anger.

a I loved my citie with a singular love, so that I could not abide that any should do her any injurie.

b Because the shall be faithfull and loyal toward me her husband.

c Though their enemies did greatly molest and trouble them, yet God would come and dwell among them, and so preserve them so long as nature would suffer them to live, and increase their children in great abundance.

of boyes and girles, playing in the streets thereof.

d He sheweth wherein our faith standeth, that is, to beleieve that God can performe that which he hath promised, though it seem never to be impossible to man, Rom. 4. 20. Gen. 18. 14.

6 Thus saith the Lord of Hostes, Though it be ^d impossible in the eyes of the remnant of this people in these daies, should it therefore bee impossible in my sight, saith the Lord of hostes?

7 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Behold, I will deliver my people from the East countrey, and from the West countrey.

8 And I will bring them, and they shall dwell in the mids of Ierusalem, and they shall be my people, and I will bee their God in truth, and in righteoufnesse.

e So that their return shall not be in vain: for God will accomplish his promise, and their prosperity shall be true and stable. f Let neither respect of your private commodities, neither countsell of others, nor fear of enemies discourage you in the going forward with the building of the Temple, but be constant, and obey the Prophets which encourage you thereunto. g For God cursed your work so, that neither man nor beast had profit of their labours.

9 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Let your ^f hands be strong, yee that heare in these daies these words by the mouth of the Prophets, which were in the day, that the foundation of the house of the Lord of hostes was laid, that the Temple might be builded.

10 For before these daies there was no hire for ^g man, nor any hire for beast, neither was there any peace to him that went out or came in because of the affliction: for I set all men, every one against his neighbour.

11 But now, I will not ^h intreat the residue of this people as aforetime, saith the Lord of hostes.

12 For the seed shall be prosperous: the vine shall give her fruit, & the ground shall give her increase, & the heavens shall give their dew, and I will cause the remnant of this people to possesse all these things.

13 And it shall come to passe, that as ye were a curse among the heathen, O house of Judah, and house of Israel, so will I deliver you, and ye shall be a blessing: fear not, but let your hands be strong.

h Read Ezek. 18. 20.

14 For thus saith the Lord of Hostes, as I thought to punish ^h you, when your fathers provoked me unto wrath, saith the Lord of hostes, and repented not,

15 So againe have I determined in these daies ⁱ to doe well unto Ierusalem, and to the house of Judah: feare ye not.

i Which declareth that man cannot turn to God till he change mans heart by his Spirit, and so begin to doe well, which is to pardon his sins and to give him his graces.

16 These are the things that yee shall doe. Speake ye every man the truth unto his neighbour: execute judgement truly and uprightly in your gates,

17 And let none of you imagine evil in your hearts against his neighbour, and love no false oath: for all these are the things that I hate, saith the Lord.

k Which fast was appointed when the citie was besieged, and was the first fast of these four: and here the prophet sheweth, that if the Iews will repent, and turn wholly to God, they shall have no more occasion to fast, or to these signes of heaviness: for God will send them joy and gladnesse.

18 And the word of the Lord of hostes came unto me, saying,

19 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, The fast of the fourth ^{moneth}, and the fast of the fifth, and the fast of the seventh, and the fast of the ^k tenth, shall be to the house of Judah joy and gladnesse, and prosperous high feasts: therefore love the truth and peace.

20 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, that there shall yet come ^l people, and the inhabitants of great cities.

21 And they that dwell in one ^m citie, shall goe to another, saying, * Up, let us goe and pray before the Lord, and seeke the Lord of hostes: I will goe also.

22 Yea, great people, and mighty nations shall come to seek the Lord of hostes in Ierusalem, and to pray before the Lord.

23 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, In those daies shall tenne men take hold out of all languages of the nations, ⁿ even take hold of the skirt of him that is a Jew, and say, we will goe with you: for we have heard, that God is with you.

CHAP. IX.

^o The threatening of the Gentiles. ^p The coming of Christ.

The burden of the word of the Lord in the land of ^a Hadrach and Damascus shall be his ^b rest: when the ^c eyes of man, ⁿ even of all the tribes of Israel shall be toward the Lord.

l He declareth the great zeal that God should give the Gentiles to come to his Church, and to joyne with the Iews in his true religion, which should be in the kingdom of Christ * 1 Jo. 2. 2. Micah. 4. 1.

a Whereby he meaneth Syria, b Gods anger shall abide upon their chief citie, and not spare so much as that. c When the Iews shall convert and repent, then God will destroy their enemies. d That is, by Damascus, meaning, that Hamath or Antiochia should be under the same rod and plague. e He secretly sheweth the cause of their destruction, because they deceived all other by their craft and subtiltie, which they cloaked with this name of wisdom. f Though they of Tyrus think themselves invincible by reason of the sea, that compasseth them round about, yet they shall not escape Gods judgments. g Meaning, that all should be destroyed save a very few, that should remain as strangers. h He promiseth to deliver the Iews when he shall take vengeance on their enemies for their cruelty, and wrongs done to them. i As the Jebusites had been destroyed, so should Ekron and all the Philistines. k He sheweth that Gods power onely shall be sufficient to defend his Church against all adversaries, be they never so cruel, or assemble their powers never so often. l That is, God hath now seen the great injuries and afflictions wherewith they have been afflicted by their enemies. m That is, he hath righteously & salvation in himself for the use and commodities of his Church. n Which declareth that they should not look for such a king as should be glorious in the eyes of man, but should be poor, and yet in himself have all power to deliver his: and this is meant of Christ, as Math. 21. 5.

2 And Hamath also shall ^d border thereby: Tyrus also and Zidon, though they be ^e very wise.

3 For Tyrus did build her selfe a strong hold, and heaped up silver as the dust, and gold as the mire of the streets.

4 Behold, the Lord will spoile her, and he will smite her ^f power in the Sea, and she shall be devoured with fire.

5 Ashkelon shall see it, and feare, and Azzah also shall be very sorrowfull, and Ekron: for her countenance shall be ashamed, and the King shall perish from Azzah, and Ashkelon shall not be inhabited.

6 And the ^g stranger shall dwell in Ashdod, and I will cut off the pride of the Philistims.

7 And I will take away his blood out of his mouth, and his abominations from between his ^h teeth: but he that remaineth, even he shall be for our God, and he shall be as a Prince in Judah, but ⁱ Ekron shall be as a Jebusite.

8 And I will camp about ^k mine house against the armie, against him that passeth by, and against him that returneth, and no oppressour shall come upon them any more: for now ^l have I seen with mine eyes.

9 Rejoyce greatly, O daughter Zion: shout for joy, O daughter Ierusalem: behold, thy king commeth unto thee: ^m he is just and saved himself, poor & riding upon an ⁿ asse, and upon a colt the foale of an asse.

10 And I will cut off the charrets from Ephraim, and the horse from Ierusalem: the bow of the battell shall be broken, and he shall speak peace unto the heathen, and self for the use and commodities of his Church. n Which declareth that they should not look for such a king as should be glorious in the eyes of man, but should be poor, and yet in himself have all power to deliver his: and this is meant of Christ, as Math. 21. 5. o No power of man or creature shall be able to let this kingdom of Christ, and he shall peaceably governe them by this word.

his

his dominion shall be from ² sea unto sea, and from the ¹ River to the end of the land.

11 ¹ Thou also shalt be saved through the blood of thy covenant: I have loosed thy prisoners out of the pit wherein is no water.

12 Turn you to the strong hold, ye prisoners of hope: even to day doe I declare, that I will render the ² double unto thee:

13 For Judah have I bent, as a bow for me: Ephraims hand have I filled, and I have raised up thy sonnes, O Zion, against thy sonnes, O Grecia, and have made thee as a giants sword.

14 And the Lord shall be seene over them, and his arrow shall goe forth as the lightning: and the Lord God shall blowe the trumpet, and shall come forth with the whirlewindes of the South.

15 The Lord of hostes shall defend them, and they shall devoure them, ² and subdue them with sling stones, and they shall drink, and make a noyse as thorow wine, and they shall be filled like bowles, and as the hornes of the altar.

16 And the Lord their God shall deliver them in that day as the flocke of his people: for they shall be as the ¹ stones of the crowne lifted up upon his land:

17 For how great is his goodnesse! and how great is his beautie! corne shall make the young men cheerefull, and new wine the maides.

CHAP. X.

² The vanitie of idolatrie. ³ The Lord promiseth to visite and comfort the house of Israel.

ASke you of the Lord raine in the time of the latter raine: so shall the Lord make white cloudes, and give you shewres of raine, and to every one grasse in the field.

2 Surely ^b the idoles have spoken vanitie, and the soothsayers have seene a lye, & the dreamers have told a vain thing: they comfort in vaine: therefore ^c they went away as sheepe: they were troubled, because there was no shepherd.

3 My wrath was kindled against the shepherds, and I did visite the ^d goates: but the Lord of hostes will visite his flocke the house of Judah, and will make them as ^e his beautifull horse in the battell.

4 Out ^f of him shall the corner come forth: out of him the naile, out of him the bowe of battell, and out of him every

^g appointer of tribute also.

5 And they shall be as the mightie men, which tread down their enemies in the mire of the streets in the battell, and they shall fight, because the Lord ^h is with them, and the riders on horses shall be confounded.

6 And I will strengthen the house of Judah, and I will preserve the house ⁱ of Joseph, and I will bring them again, for I pitie them: and they shall be as though I had not cast them off: for I am the Lord their God, and will heare them.

7 And they of Ephraim shall be as a giant, & their heart shall rejoyce as thorow wine: yea, their children shall see it, and be glad: and their heart shall rejoyce in the Lord.

8 I will ^j hiffe for them, and gather them, for I have redeemed them: and they shall increase, as they have increased.

9 And I will ^k sow them among the people, and they shall remember me in farre countreies: and they shall live with their children and ^l turne againe.

10 I will bring them again also out of the land of Egypt, and gather them out of Asihur: and I will bring them into the land of Gilead, and Lebanon, and place shall not be found for them.

11 And he ^m shall go into the sea with affliction, and shall smite the waves in the sea, and all the depthes of the river shall drie up: and the pride of Asihur shall be cast down, and the scepter of Egypt shall depart away.

12 And I will strengthen them in the Lord, and they shall walke in his Name, faith the Lord.

CHAP. XI.

² The destruction of the Temple. ⁴ The care of the faithfull is committed to Christ. ⁷ A grievous vision against Ierusalem and Iudah.

OPen thy doores, O ^a Lebanon, and the fire shall devoure thy cedars.

2 Howle, ^b firre trees: for the cedar is fallen, because all the mighty are destroyed: howle ye, O oakes of Balsan, for the ^c defenced Forrest is cut downe.

2 There is the voyce of the howling of the shepherds, for their ^d glory is destroyed: the voyce of the roaring of lyons whelpes, for the pride of Jorden is destroyed.

4 Thus faith the Lord my God, Feed the sheepe of the ^e slaughter.

5 They that possesse them, slay them ^f and sin not: and they that sell them, say, ^g Blessed be the Lord, for I am rich, and their owne shepherds spare them not.

6 Surely I will no more spare those that dwell in the land, faith the Lord: but loe, ^h I will deliver the men every one into his neighbours hand, and into the hand of nours destroy them without any remorse of conscience, or yet thinking that they doe evil. ⁱ He noteth the hypocrites, which ever have the Name of God in their mouthes, though in their life and doings they denie God, attributing their gaine to Gods blessings, which cometh of the spoyle of their brethren. ^j I will cause one to destroy another.

¹ That is, from the river, to the sea called Syriacum: & by these places which the Jewes knew, he meant an infinite space & compass over the whole world.

² This is, from Ephraim.

³ Meaning, Ierusalem, or the Church which is saved by blood of Christ, whereof the blood of the sacrifices was a figure, and is here called the covenant of the Church, because God made it with his Church, and left it with them for the love that he bare unto them.

⁴ God sheweth that he will deliver his Church out of all dangers, seeme they never so great.

⁵ That is, into the holy land where the citie and the Temple are, where God will defend you.

⁶ Meaning, the faithfull, which seemed to be in danger of their enemies on every side, and yet lived in hope that God would restore them to liberty.

⁸ I will make Judah and Ephraim, that is, my whole Church, victorious against all enemies, which he here meaneth by the Grecians.

⁹ He promiseth that the Jewes shall destroy their enemies and have abundance and exche of all things, as there is abundance on the altar when the sacrifice is offered: Which things are not to move them to intemperancie, but to sobrietie, and thankfull remembrance of Gods great liberalitie.

² He calleth to remembrance Gods punishments in times past, because they trusted not in him, but in their idoles and force-ers, who ever deceived them.

³ That is, the Jewes went into captivity.

⁴ Meaning, the cruel governors, which did oppress the poore there: Ezek. 34. 16. 17.

⁵ He will be mercifull to his Church, and cherish them as a King or Prince doeth his best horse, which shall be for his owne use in the warre.

⁶ Out of Judah shall the chiefe, governor proceed, who shall be as a corner to uphold the building, and as a naile to fatten it together.

^g Over their enemies. ^h That is, the renne tribes, which should be gathered under Christ, to the rest of the Church.

ⁱ Whereby he declareth the power of God, who needeth no great preparation, when he will deliver his: for with a becke or hiffe he can call them from all places suddenly.

^j Though they shall yet be scattered and seeme to be lost, yet it shall be profitable unto them: for there they shall come to the knowledge of my Name, which was accomplished under the Gospel, among whom it was first preached. ^k Not that they should return into their country, but be gathered and joyined in one faith, by the doctrine of the Gospel.

^l He alludeth to the deliverance of the people out of Egypt, whereas the Angel smote the floods and rivers.

^a Because the Jewes thought themselves so strong by reason of this mountaine, that no enemy could come to hurt them, the prophet sheweth, that when God sendeth the enemies, it shall shew it self ready to receive them.

^b Shewing that if the strong men were destroyed, the weaker were not able to resist.

^c Seeing that Lebanon was destroyed, which was the strongest munition, the weaker places could not think to hold out.

^d That is, the renowne of Judah and Israel should perish.

k That is, the small remnant whom he thought worthy to shew mercy unto.

l God sheweth his great benefits toward his people to convince them of greater ingratitude, which would neither be ruled by his most beautifull order of government, neither continue in the bands of brotherly unitie, and therefore he breaketh both the one and the other. Some read, for bands, Destroyers, but in the 14. verse the first reading is confirmed.

m Whereby he sheweth his care & diligence, y he would suffer them to have no evil rulers, because they should consider his great love.

n Meaning the people, because they would not acknowledge these great benefits of God.

o He sheweth that the least part ever profit by Gods judgements.

p Besides their ingratitude God accuseth them of malice & wickednesse, which did not onely forget his benefits, but esteemed them as things of nought.
q Shewing, that it was to little to pay his wages which could scarce suffice to make a few tiles for to cover the Temple.

r Signifying, that they should have a certain kind of regiment, and outward shew of government: but in effect it should be nothing: for they should be wolves, and devouring beasts in stead of shepherds.

t By the arme he signifieth strength, as he doth wisdom and judgement by the eye: that is, the plague of God shall take away both thy strength and judgement.

his King: and they shall smite the land, and out of their hands I will not deliver them.

7 For I fed the sheep of slaughter, even the poore of the flock, and I took unto me two staves: the one I called Beautie, and the other I called Bands, and I fed the sheep.

8 Three shepherds also I cut off in one moneth, and my soule loathed them, and their soule abhorred me.

9 Then said I, I will not feed you: that that dieth, let it die: and that that perisheth, let it perish: and let the remnant eat, every one the flesh of his neighbour.

10 And I took my staffe, even Beauty, and brake it, that I might disanul my covenant, which I had made with all people.

11 And it was broken in that day: and so the poore of the sheep that waited upon me, knew that it was the word of the Lord.

12 And I said unto them, If ye think it good, give me my wages: and if no, leave off: so they weighed for my wages thirtie pieces of silver.

13 And the Lord said unto me, Cast it unto the potter: a goodly price, that I was valued at of them. And I took the thirtie pieces of silver, and cast them to the potter in the house of the Lord.

14 Then brake I mine other staffe, even the Bands, that I might dissolve the brotherhood betweene Judah and Israel.

15 And the Lord said unto me, Take to thee yet the instruments of a foolish shepherd.

16 For loe, I will raise up a shepherd in the land, which shall not look for the thing that is lost, nor seek the tender lambes, nor heale that that is hurt, nor feed that that standeth up: but he shall eat the flesh of the fat, and teare their clawes in pieces.

17 O idole shepherd that leaveth the flock: the sword shall be upon his arme, and upon his right eye. His arme shall be cleane dried up, and his right eye shall be utterly darkened.

as he doth wisdom and judgement by the eye: that is, the plague of God shall take away both thy strength and judgement.

CHAP. XII.

Of the destruction and building againe of Jerusalem.

The burden of the word of the Lord upon Israel, saith the Lord, which spread the heavens, and laid the foundation of the earth, and formed the spirit of man within him.

2 Behold, I will make Jerusalem a cup of poyson unto all the people round about: and also with Judah will he be in the siege against Jerusalem.

3 And in that day I will make Jerusalem an heave stone for all people: all that lift it up, shall be torne, though all the people of the earth be gathered together against it.

4 In that day, saith the Lord, will I smite every horse with astonishment, & his rider with madness, and I will open mine eyes upon the house of Judah, and will smite every horse of the people with blindness.

5 And the Princes of Judah shall say in their hearts, The inhabitants of Jerusalem shall be my strength in the Lord of hostes their God.

6 In that day will I make the princes of Judah like coales of fire among the wood, & like a firebrand in the sheaf, and they shall devour all the people round about on the right hand and on the left: and Jerusalem shall be inhabited againe in her owne place, even in Jerusalem.

7 The Lord also shall preserve the tents of Judah, as afore time: Therefore the glorie of the house of David shall not boast, nor the glory of the inhabitants of Jerusalem against Judah.

8 In that day shall the Lord defend the inhabitants of Jerusalem, & he that is feeble among them, in that day shall be as David: & the house of David shall be as Gods house, and as the Angel of the Lord before them.

9 And in that day will I seek to destroy all the nations that come against Jerusalem.

10 And I will powre upon the house of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem the Spirit of grace and of compassion, and they shall look upon me, whom they have pierced, and they shall lament for him, as one mourneth for his onely sonne, and be sorie for him as one is sorie for his first borne.

11 In that day shall there be a great mourning in Jerusalem, as the mourning of Hadadrimmon in the valley of Megiddon.

12 And the land shall bewaile, every family apart: the familie of the house of David apart, and their wives apart: the familie of the house of Nathan apart, and their wives apart:

13 The familie of the house of Levi apart, and their wives apart: the familie of Simeon apart, and their wives apart:

14 All the families that remaine, every familie apart, and their wives apart.

In that day there shall be a fountain opened to the house of David, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, for sinne and for uncleannesse.

2 And in that day, saith the Lord of hosts, I will cut off the names of the idols out of the land: and they shall no more be remembred: & I will cause the prophets, & the unclean spirit to depart out of the land.

3 And when any shall yet prophesie, d The people which are now as it were dispersed by the fields, and lie open to their enemies, shall be no lesse preferred by my power, then if they were under their Kings, (which is meant by the house of David) or in their defended cities.

4 And in that day shall the prophets be ashamed every one of his vision, when he hath prophesied: neither shall they wear a rough garment to deceive.

5 But he shall say, I am no Prophet: I am an husbandman: for man taught me to be an herdman from my youth up.

7 ¶ Arise, O sword, upon my shepherd, and upon the man, that is my fellow, sayth the Lord of hostes: smite the shepherd and the sheep shall be scattered: and I will turn mine hand upon the little ones.

8 And in all the land, saith the Lord, two parts therein shall be cut off, and die: but the third shall be left therein.

9 And I will bring that third part thorow the fire, and will fine them as the silver is fined, and will trie them as gold is tried: they shall call on my Name, and I will hear them: I will say, It is my people, and they shall say, the Lord is my God.

10 The greatest part shall have no portion of these blessings, and yet they that shall enjoy them, shall be tried with great afflictions, so that it shall be known that onely Gods power and his mercies doe preserve them.

CHAP. XIV.

Of the doctrine that shall proceed out of the Church, and of the restauration thereof.

BEhold, the day of the Lord commeth, and thy spoyle shall be divided in the middes of thee;

2 For I will gather all nations against Jerusalem to battell, and the citie shall be taken, and the houses spoiled, and the women defiled, and halfe of the citie shall goe into captivity, and the residue of the people shall not be cut off from the citie.

3 Then shall the Lord goe forth, and fight against those nations, as when he fought in the day of battell:

4 And his feet shall stand in that day upon the mount of olives, which is before Jerusalem on the East side, and the mount of olives shall cleave in the mids thereof: toward the East and toward the West there shall be a very great valley, and halfe of the mountaine shall remove toward the North, and halfe of the mountaine toward the South.

5 And ye shall flee unto the valley of the mountaines: for the valley of the mountaines shall reach unto Azal: yea, ye shall flee like as ye fled from the earthquake in the dayes of Uzziah King of Judah: and the Lord is my God shall come, and all the Saints with thee.

6 And in that day shall there be no cleare light, but dark.

7 And there shall be a day (it is known to the Lord) neither day nor night, but about the evening time it shall be light.

8 And in that day shall there waters of life goe out from Jerusalem, halfe of them toward the East Sea, and halfe of them toward the uttermost Sea, and shall be, both in summer and winter.

9 And the Lord shall be King over all the earth: in that day shall there be one Lord, and his name shall be one.

10 All the land shall be turned as a plaine from Geba to Rimmon, toward the South of Jerusalem; and it shall be lifted up, and inhabited in her place, from Benjamins gate unto the place of the first gate, unto the corner gate, and from the towre of Hananiel, unto the kings wine-presses.

11 And men shall dwell in it, and there shall be no more destruction, but Jerusalem shall be safely inhabited.

12 And this shall be the plague where-with the Lord will smite all people, that have fought against Jerusalem: their flesh shall consume away, though they stand upon their feet; and their eyes shall consume in their holes, and their tongue shall consume in their mouth.

13 But in that day a great tumult of the Lord shall be among them; and every one shall take the hand of his neighbour, and his hand shall rise up against the hand of his neighbour.

14 And Judah shall fight against Jerusalem, and the arme of all the heathen shall be gathered round about, with gold and silver, and great abundance of apparell.

15 Yet this shall be the plague of the horse, of the mule, of the camell, and of the asse, and of all the beasts that be in these tents as this plague:

16 But it shall come to passe that every one that is left of all the nations, which came against Jerusalem, shall goe up from yeare to yeare to worship the King the Lord of hostes, and to keep the feast of Tabernacles.

17 And who so will not come up of all the families of the earth unto Jerusalem to worship the King the Lord of hostes, even upon them shall come no rain.

18 And if the familie of Egypt goe not up, and come not, it shall not rain upon them. This shall be the plague wherewith the Lord will smite all the heathen, that come not up to keep the feast of Tabernacles.

19 This shall be the punishment of Egypt, and the punishment of all the nations

Because they did not credit the Prophets words, he turneth to God, and comforteth himselfe in that he knoweth these things should come, and saith, Thou, O God, with thine Angels wilt come to performe this great thing. Signifying, that there should be great troubles in the Church, and that the time hereof is in the Lords handes, yet at length (which is here meant by the evening) God would send comfort. That is, the spirituall graces of God, which should ever continue in most abundance. All idolatry and superstition shall be abolished, and there shall be one God, one faith, & one religion. This new Jerusalem shall be seen through all the world, and shall excell the first in excellencie, wealth, and greatness.

God will not onely raise up warre without, but sedition at home to trie them. To hurt, and oppress him.

The enemies are rich, and therefore shall not come for a prey, but to destroy and shed blood. As the men should be destroyed, verse 12.

By the Egyptians, which were greatest enemies to true religion, be meant all the Gentiles.

Q. 5 that

r Signifying, that to what service they were put now (whether to labour, or to serve in warre) they were now holy, because the Lord had sanctified them.

f As precious the one, as the other, because they shall be sanctified.

that come not up to keep the feast of Tabernacles.

20 In that day there shall be written upon the bridles of the horses, The holiness unto the Lord, and the pots in the Lords house shall be like the bowles before the altar.

21 Yea, every pot in Jerusalem and Judah shall be holy unto the Lord of hostes, and all they that sacrifice, shall come and take of them, and seeth therein: and in that day there shall be no more the Canaanite in the house of the Lord of hostes.

But all shall be pure and cleane and there shall not be any that shall corrupt that true service of God.

MALACHI.

THE ARGUMENT.

THis Prophet was one of the three, which God raised up for the comfort of his Church after the captivity, and after him there was no more until John Baptist was sent, which was either a token of Gods wrath, or an admonition that they should with more fervent desires look for the coming of Messiah. He confirmeth the same doctrine, that the two former doe, but chiefly he reproveth the Priests for their covetousnesse, and for that they served God after their owne fantasies, and not according to the prescript of his word. He also noteth certain peculiar sinnes, which were then among them, as marrying of Idolatrous and many wives, murmurings against God, impatiencie, and such like. Notwithstanding, for the comfort of the godly, he declareth that God would not forget his promise made unto their fathers, but would send Christ his messenger, in whom the covenant should be accomplished, whose coming should be terrible to the wicked, and bring all consolation and joy unto the godly.

CHAP. I.

A complaint against Israel, and chiefly the Priests.

a Read Isa. 13. 1. b Which declareth their great ingratitude that did not acknowledge this love, which was fo evident in that he chose Abraham from out of all the world, and next, chose Jakob the younger brother, of whom they came, and left Esau the elder.

c For besides that the signes of my hatred appeared even when he was made servant unto his younger brother, being yet in his mothers belly, and also afterward in that he was put from his birth-right, yet even now before your eyes the signes hereof are evident in that his country lyeth waste, and he shall never returne to inhabit it, whereas ye my people, whom the enemies hated more then them, are by my grace and love toward you delivered, read Rom. 9. 13.

d Besides the rest of the people he condemneth the Priests chiefly, because they should have reproveth others for their hypocrisie, and obstinacy against God, and not have hardened them by their example to greater evils.

e He noteth their grosse hypocrisie, which would not see their faults, but most impudently covered them, and so were blind guides.

He burden of the word of the Lord to Israel by the ministerie of Malachi.

2 I have loved you, saith the Lord: yet ye say, ^b Wherein hast thou loved us? Was not Esau Jakobs brother, saith the Lord? yet I loved Jakob,

3 And I ^c hated Esau, and made his mountains waste, and his heritage a wilderness for dragons.

4 Though Edom say, We are impoverished, but we will returne and build the desolate places, yet saith the Lord of hostes, They shall build, but I will destroy it, and they shall call them, The border of wickednesse, and the people, with whom the Lord is angry for ever.

5 And your eyes shall see it, and ye shall say, The Lord will be magnified upon the border of Israel.

6 A sonne honoureth his father, and a servant his master. If then I be a father, where is mine honour? and if I be a master, where is my feare, saith the Lord of hostes unto you, ^d O Priests, that despise my Name? and ye say, ^e Wherein have we despised thy Name?

7 Ye offer ^funcleane bread upon mine altar, and you say, Wherein have we polluted thee? In that ye say, The table of the Lord is not ^gto be regarded.

8 And if ye offer the blind for sacrifice, it is not ^hevill: and if ye offer the lame and sick, it is not ⁱevill: offer it now unto thy prince, will he be content with thee, or accept thy person, saith the Lord of hostes?

9 And now, I pray you, ^jpray before God, that he may have mercie upon us: this hath beene by your meanes: will he regard your ^kpersons, saith the Lord of hostes?

10 Who is there even among you, ^lthat would shut the doores, and kindle not fire on mine altar in vain? I have no pleasure in you, saith the Lord of hostes, neither will I accept an offering at your hand.

11 For from the rising of the sun unto the going down of the same, my Name, is ^mgreat among the Gentiles, and in every place incense shall be offered unto my Name, and a pure offering: for my Name is great among the heathen, saith the Lord of hostes.

12 But ye have polluted it, in that ye say, The table of the Lord is ⁿpolluted, and the fruit thereof, ^oeven his meate is not to be regarded.

13 Ye said also, Behold, it is a ^pwearie the Law. God willeth that they would rather shut the doores, then to receive such as were not perfect. ^qGod sheweth that their ingratitude, and neglect of his true service shall be the cause of the calling of the Gentiles: and here the Prophet that was under the law framed his words to the capacite of the people: and by the altar and sacrifice he meaneth the spiritual service of God which should be under the Gospel, when an end should be made to all these legal ceremonies by Christs only sacrifice. ^rBoth the Priests & the people were infected with this error, that they passed not what they offered, for they thought that God was as well content with tholeane as with the fat: but in the meane season they shewed not that obedience to God, which he required, and so committed both impiety, and also shewed their contempt of God, and covetousnesse. ^sThe Priests and people were both weary with serving God, and passed not what manner of sacrifice and service they gave to God, for that which was least profitable, was thought good enough for the Lord.

f Ye receive all manner offerings for your owne greedinesse, and do not examine whether they be according to my Law or no.

g Not that they said thus, but by their doings they declared no lesse.

h You make it no fault: whereby he condemneth them that think it sufficient to serve God, partly, as he hath commanded, and partly, after mans fantasie, and so come not to that purenesse of religion, which he requirith, and therefore in reproch he sheweth them that a mortal man would not be content to be so served.

i He derideth the Priests, who bare the people in hand that they prayed for them, and sheweth that they were the occasion, that these evils came upon the people.

j Will God consider your office & state, seeing you are so covetous and wicked?

k Because the Levites, who kept the doores did not trie whether the sacrifices that came in, were according to the Law.

l God sheweth that their ingratitude, and neglect of his true service shall be the cause of the calling of the Gentiles: and here the Prophet that was under the law framed his words to the capacite of the people: and by the altar and sacrifice he meaneth the spiritual service of God which should be under the Gospel, when an end should be made to all these legal ceremonies by Christs only sacrifice.

m Both the Priests & the people were infected with this error, that they passed not what they offered, for they thought that God was as well content with tholeane as with the fat: but in the meane season they shewed not that obedience to God, which he required, and so committed both impiety, and also shewed their contempt of God, and covetousnesse.

n The Priests and people were both weary with serving God, and passed not what manner of sacrifice and service they gave to God, for that which was least profitable, was thought good enough for the Lord.

nesse,

neſſe, and ye have ſnuffed at it, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and ye offered that which was torn, and the lame, and the ſick: thus ye offered an offering: ſhould I accept this of your hand, ſaith the Lord?

14 But curſed be the deceiver, which hath in his flock ^a a male, and voweth, and, ſacrificeth unto the Lord a corrupt thing: for I am a great king, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and my Name is terrible among the heathen.

CHAP. II.

Threatnings againſt the Priests, being ſeducers of the people.

ANd now, O ye ^a Priests, this commandment is for you.

2 If ye will not heare it, nor conſider it in your heart, to give glory ^b unto my name, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, I will even ſend a curſe upon you, and will curſe your ^c bleſſings: yea, I have curſed them already, becauſe ye do not conſider it in your heart.

3 Behold, I will corrupt ^d your ſeed, and caſt dung upon your faces, ^e even the ^f dung of your ſolemn feaſts, and you ſhall be like unto it.

4 And ye ſhall know, that I have ^g ſent this commandment unto you, that my covenant, which I made with Levi, might ſtand, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

5 My ^h covenant was with him of life and peace, and I ⁱ gave him feare, and he feared me, and was afraid before ^j my Name.

6 The law of ^k truth was in his mouth, and there was no iniquity found in his lips: he walked with me in peace and equity, and did turn many away from iniquity:

7 For the Priests ^l lips ſhould preſerve knowledge, and they ſhould ſeek the law at his mouth: for he is the ^m meſſenger of the Lord of hoſts.

8 But ye are gone out of the way: ye have cauſed many to fall by the law: ye have broken the covenant of Levi, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

9 Therefore have I alſo made you to be deſpiſed, and vile before all the people, becauſe ye kept not my wayes, but have been partiall in the law.

10 Have we not all one ⁿ father? hath not one God made us? why do we tranſgreſſe every one againſt his brother, and breake the covenant of ^o our fathers?

11 Judah hath tranſgreſſed, and an abomination is committed in Iſrael and in Jeruſalem: for Judah hath deſiled the holineſſe of the Lord, which he loved, and hath married the ^p daughter of a ſtrange god:

12 The Lord will cut off the man that doth this: ^q both the maſter & the ſervant out of the Tabernacle of Jaakob, and him that ^r offereth an offering unto the Lord of hoſts.

13 And this have ye done again, and ^s covered the altar of the Lord with teares, with weeping, and with mourning: becauſe the offering is no more regarded, neither received acceptably at your hands.

14 Yet ye ſay, ^t Wherein? Becauſe the Lord hath been witneſſe between thee and the wife of thy youth, againſt whom thou haſt tranſgreſſed: yet is ſhe thy ^u companion, and the wife of thy ^v covenant.

15 And did not ^w he make one? yet had he ^x abundance of ſpirit: and wherefore one? becauſe he ſought a godly ^y ſeed: therefore keep yourſelves in your ^z ſpirit, and let none tranſgreſſe againſt the wife of his youth.

16 If thou hateſt ^a her, ^b put her away, ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, yet he covereth ^c the injurie under his garment, ſaith the Lord of hoſts: therefore keep yourſelves in your ſpirit, and tranſgreſſe not.

17 Ye have ^d wearied the Lord with your words: yet ye ſay, Wherein have we wearied him? When ye ſay, every one that ^e doth evil, is good in the ſight of the Lord, and he delighteth in them. Or where is the God of ^f judgement?

CHAP. III.

Of the meſſenger of the Lord, Iohn Baptiſt, and of Chriſts office.

BEhold, I will ſend my ^a meſſenger, and he ſhall prepare the way before me: and ^b the Lord whom ye ſeek, ſhall ſpeedily come to his Temple: even the ^c meſſenger of the covenant whom ye deſire: behold, he ſhall come; ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

2 But who ^d may abide the day of his coming? and who ſhall endure, when he appeareth? for he is like a purging fire, and like fullers ſope.

3 And he ſhall ſit down to try and fine the ſilver: he ſhall even fine the ſons of Levi and puriſe them as gold and ſilver; that they may bring offerings unto the Lord in righteouſneſſe.

4 Then ſhall the offerings of Judah and Jeruſalem be acceptable unto the Lord, as in old time, and in the yeares afore.

5 And I will come neere to you to judgement, and I will be a ſwift witneſſe againſt the ſoothſayers, and againſt the adulterers, and againſt falſe ſwearers, and againſt thoſe that wrongfully keep back the hirelings wages, and ^e vex the widow, and the fatherleſſe, and oppreſſe the ſtranger, and feare not me, ſaith the Lord of hoſts:

^q That is, the Priests.

^r Ye cauſe the people to lament, becauſe that God doth not regard their ſacrifices, ſo that they ſeem to ſacrifice in vain.

^s This is another fault, whereof he accuſeth them, that is, that they breake the laws of marriage.

^t As the one half of thy ſelf.

^u She that was joy- ned to thee by a ſolemn covenant, and by the invocation of Gods name.

^x Did not God make man and woman as one fleſh and not many?

^y By his power & vertue he could have made many women for one man.

^z Such as ſhould be born in lawfull and moderate marriage, wherein is no exceſſe of luſt.

^a Contrain yourſelves within your bounds, and be ſober in minde, and bridle your affections.

^b Not that he doth allow divorcement, but of the two faults he ſheweth, which is the leſſe.

^c He thinketh it ſufficient to keep his wife ſtill, albeit he take others, and ſo as it were covereth his fault. ^d Ye murmured againſt God, becauſe he heard not you alſoon as ye called. ^e In thinking that God favoured the wicked, and had no reſpect to them that ſerve him. ^f Thus they blaſphemed God in condemning his power, and juſtice, becauſe he judged not according to their fantasies.

^a This is meant of Iohn Baptiſt, as Chriſt expoundeth it. Luke. 7. 27.

^b Meaning Meſſiah, as Pſal. 40. 1. 7. Dan. 9. 17. 25.

^c That is, Chriſt by whom the covenant was made and ratified, who is called the Angel or meſſenger of the covenant, becauſe he reconciled us to his Father, and is Lord, or King, becauſe he hath the government of his Church.

^d He ſheweth that the hypocrites, which with ſo much for ^e Lords coming, will not abide when he draweth neere: for he will conſume them, and purge his and make them cleane.

^e He beginneth at the Priests, that they might be lights, and ſhine unto others.

f They murmured against God because they saw not his help ever present to defend them: and therefore he accuseth them of ingratitude, and sheweth that in that they are not daily consumed, it is a token that he doth still defend them: and so his mercy toward them never changeth.

g Read Zech. 1. 3. h There are none of the heathen so barbarous, that will defende their gods of their honour, or deale deceitfully with the. i Whereby the service of God should have been maintained, and the Priests and the poore relieved. k Not having respect how much ye need, but I will give you in all abundance: so that ye shall lack place to put my blessings in.

l Meaning, the caterpillar, and whatsoever destroyeth corn and fruits. m The Prophet condemneth them of double blasphemy against God: first, in that they said, that God had no respect to them that served him, & next, that the wicked were more in his favour then the godly.

n They are not onely perverted to honour, but also delivered from dangers.

o After these admonitions of the Prophet, somewe lively touched, & encouraged others to feare God.

p Both because the thing was strange that some turned to God in that great and universal corruption, and also that this might be an example of Gods mercies to all penitent sinners.

6 For I am the Lord: I change not, and ye sons of Jaakob^f are not consumed.

7 From the dayes of your fathers, ye are gone away from mine ordinances, and have not kept them: & return unto me, and I will return unto you, saith the Lord of hosts: but he said, Wherein shall we return?

8 Will a^h man spoyle his gods? yet have ye spoyled me: but ye say, Wherein have we spoyled thee? Inⁱ tythes, and offerings.

9 Ye are cursed with a curse: for ye have spoyled me, even this whole nation.

10 Bring ye all the tythes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open the windows of heaven unto you, and powre you out a blessing^k without measure.

11 And I will rebuke the^l devourer for your sakes, & he shall not destroy the fruit of your ground, neither shall your vine be barren in the field, saith the Lord of hosts.

12 And all nations shall call you blessed: for ye shall be a pleasant land, saith the Lord of hosts.

13 Your words have been stout^m against me, saith the Lord: yet ye say, What have we spoken against thee?

14 Ye have said, It is in vain to serve God: and what profit is it that we have kept his commandment, and that we walked humbly before the Lord of hosts?

15 Therefore we count the proud blessed: even they that work wickednesse are set up, and they that tempt God, yea, they areⁿ delivered.

16^o Then spake they that feared the Lord, every one to his neighbour, and the Lord hearkened and heard it, and a^p book of remembrance was written before him for them that feared the Lord, and that thought upon his Name.

17 And they shall be to me, saith the Lord of hosts, in that day^q that I shall do this, for a flock, and I will^r spare them, as a man spareth his own son that serveth him.

18 Then shall you return, and discern between the righteous and wicked, between him that serveth God, and him that serveth him not.

CHAP. IV.

The day of the Lord, before the which Elijah should come.

For behold, the day cometh that shall burn as an oven, and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble, and the day that cometh, shall burn them up, saith the Lord of hosts, and shall leave them neither root nor branch.

2 But unto you that feare my name, shall the^b sun of righteousness arise, and health shall be under his wings, and ye shall^c go forth, and grow up as fat calves.

3 And ye shall tread down the wicked: for they shall be dust under the soles of your feet in the day that I shall do this, saith the Lord of hosts.

4^d Remember the Law of Moses my servant, which I commanded unto him in Horeb for all Israel, with the statutes and judgements.

5 Behold, I will send you^e Elijah the Prophet before the coming of the great and^f fearfull day of the Lord.

6 And he shall^g turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come^h and smite the earth with a curse.

desire his coming, the Prophet exhorteth them to exercise themselves diligently in studying the Law of Moses in the meane season, whereby they might continue in the true religion, and also be armed against all tentations. e This Christ expoundeth of Iohn Baptist. Matth. 11. 13. 14. who both for his zeale, and restoring of religion, is aptly compared to Elijah. f Which as it is true for the wicked, so doeth it waken the godly, and call them to repentance. g He sheweth wherein Iohns office should stand: in the turning of men to God, and joyning the father and children in one unitie of faith: so that the father shall turn to the religion of his son which is converted unto Christ, and the sonne shall embrace the faith of the true fathers. Abraham, Ishak, and Jaakob. h The second point of his office was to denounce Gods judgements against them that would not receive Christ.

q When I shall restore my Church according to my promise, they shall be as mine own proper goods. r That is, forgive their finnes, and govern them with my Spirit.

a He prophesieth of Gods judgements against the wicked, who would not receive Christ, when as God should send him for the restoration of his Church.

b Meaning, Christ who with his wings, or beams of his grace should lighten and comfort his Church. Ephe. 5. 14. and he is called the sunne of righteousness because in himself he hath all perfection, & also the justice of the Father dwelleth in him, whereby he regenerateth us into righteousness, cleanseth us from the filth of this world, and reformeth us to the image of God.

c Ye shall be set at libertie and increase in the joy of the Spirit. 2. Cor. 3. 17.

THE PRINTER TO THE DILIGENT READER.

DEARE Christian Reader, to the intent thou mightest the better enjoy the benefit of these notes or expositions upon the new Testament: I thought it not amisse to declare unto thee the use of the same: And first, for as much as the quotations or citing of places of the Scriptures in the margent, which direct to other places, containing like phrase or sense, have beene so placed, that none without great labour could find out the text alledged, I have made this mark *, and have set it as well in the margent, as in the text, so that thou mayest easily find that which thou desirest. For example, in the first word of the first Chapter of Matthew is placed this mark *, looke out the like mark in the margent, and there thou shalt find, Luke 3. 23. which place agreeth to this of Matthew, and so likewise thou shalt find in the residue. But if many quotations belong to one place, word, or sentence, the first is onely marked and those that follow unmarked appertaine to the same.

The Notes that are directed by figures of Arithmatick, as ¹. ². ³. ⁴. &c. throughout the Evangelists and Acts, declare the effect or sum of the doctrine contained betweene one of the said figures, and the next that followeth: as for example, from the figure ¹. in the first line and first word of Matthew unto the figure ². in the 18. verse of the same Chapter, the doctrine there gathered is set downe in the margent in this sort; Jesus came of Abraham of the tribe of Juda, and of the stock of David, as God promised.

And in the Epistles in like sort they declare the method and art which the Apostles use, and how every argument or reason dependeth one upon another: these figures are begun againe at the beginning of every Chapter. Lastly, the notes which goe by order of the letters of the Alphabet placed in the text with the like answering unto them in the margent, serve to expound and lighten the dark words and phrases immediately following them. As in the first line and second word, the letter ^a, being referred unto ^a, directly against him in the margent, sheweth that this word, Booke, signifieth A rehearfall, as the Hebrewes use to speake: as Gen. 5. 1. The booke of the generations.

These letters begin at the beginning of every Chapter continuing unto ^z. and so beginning againe with ^a, if there be so many notes that they doe exceed in number the letters of an Alphabet. This have I faithfully done for thy commodity, reape thou the fruit, and give the praise to GOD.

2 Saying, Where is that King of the Jewes that is borne? for wee have seene his starre in the East, and are come to worship him:

3 When king Herod heard this, hee was c troubled, and all Jerusalem with him.

4 And gathering together all the d chiefe Priests, and e Scribes of the people, hee asked of them, where Christ should be borne.

5 And they said unto him, At Beth-leem in Judea: for so it is written by the Prophet,

6 * And thou Beth-leem in the land of Juda, art not the f least among the Princes of Juda: For out of thee shall come the Governour that s shall feed my people Israel.

7 Then Herod privily called the Wifemen, and diligently enquired of them the time of the starre that appeared,

8 And sent them to Beth-leem, saying, Goe, and search diligently for the Babe: and when yee have found him, bring me word againe, that I may come also and worship him.

9 ¶ So when they had heard the King, they departed: and loe, the starre which they had seene in the East, went before them, till it came and stood over the place where the Babe was.

10 And when they saw the starre, they rejoiced with an exceeding great joy,

11 And went into the house, and found the Babe with Mary his mother, and h fell downe, and worshipped him, and opened their i treasures, and presented unto him gifts, even gold, and frankincense, and myrrhe.

12 And after they were k warned of God in a dreame, that they should not goe againe to Herod, they returned into their countrey another way.

13 ¶ After their departure, behold, the Angel of the Lord appeareth to Joseph in a dreame, saying, Arise, and take the Babe and his mother, and fle into Egypt, and be there till I bring thee word: for Herod will seeke the Babe to destroy him.

14 So he arose, and tooke the Babe and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt.

17 Then was that fulfilled which is spoken l by the Prophet Jeremias, saying,

18 * In Rhama was m a voice heard, mourning, and weeping, and great howling: n Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they were not.

19 And when Herod was dead, behold, an Angel of the Lord appeareth in a dreame to Joseph in Egypt, 20 Saying, Arise, and take the Babe and his mother, and goe into the land of Israel: for they are dead which sought the Babes life.

21 Then he arose up, and tooke the Babe and his mother, and came into the land of Israel.

33 Again, ye have heard that it was faid to them of old time, Thou shalt not forfwear thy felf, But shalt perform thine oathes to the Lord.

34 But I say unto you, Swear not at all, neither by heaven, for it is the throne of God:

35 Nor yet by the earth, for it is his footftool: neither by Jerufalem, for it is the citie of the great King.

36 Neither shalt thou fwear by thine head, becaufe thou canft not make one haire white or black.

37 But let your communication be Yea, yea: Nay, nay. For whatfoever is more then thefe, commeth of evil.

39 But I say unto you, Refift not evil: but whofoever fhall fmite thee on the right cheek, turn to him the other alfo.

40 And if any man will fue thee at the law, and take away thy coate, let him have thy cloake alfo.

41 And whofoever will compell thee to go a mile, go with him twain.

42 Give to him that asketh, and from him that would borrow of thee, turn not away.

43 Ye have heard that it hath been faid, Thou shalt love thy neighbour, and hate thine enemy.

44 But I say unto you, Love your enemies: bleffe them that curfe you: doe good to them that hate you, and pray for them which hurt you, and perfecute you;

45 That ye may be the children of your Father that is in heaven: for he maketh his funne to arife on the evill, and the good, and fendeth rain on the juft and unjuft.

46 For if ye love them, which love you, what reward fhall you have? Do not the Publicanes even the fame?

47 And if ye be friendly to your brethren onely, what fingular thing do ye? doe not even the Publicanes likewise?

48 Ye fhall therefore be perfite, as your Father which is in heaven, is perfite.

4 Whereas we make here, Hell, it is in the Text it felf, Gheenna, which is an Hebrew word made of fire, and is as much to fay, as the valley of Hinnon, which otherwise the Hebrews called Tophet: it was a place where the Ifraelites were wont moft commonly to facrifice their children to false gods, whereupon it was taken for a place appointed to torment the reprobates in Lev. 24.14.

5 The Jewes used fureties of punishment, before their government was taken away by Herod, hanging, beheading, flogging, and burning: this is that Chrift faith at becaufe burning was the greateft judgement, therefore in that he maketh mention of a judgement, a fentence, and a fire, he fignifieth that fome finnes are worfe then other finnes, but yet they are all finfull, and muft give an account for them, and fhall be punished for them.

6 The covetous Pharifees taught: that God was appeafed by the facrifices appointed in the Law,

But Chrift on the contrary fide denieth, that God accepteth any mans offerings, unleffe he maketh fatisfaction to his brother whom he hath offended: and faith moreover, that thefe fubborne and ftiffnecked defpifers of their brethren, fhall never efcape the wrath and curfe of God, before they have made full fatisfaction to their brethren.

3 But when thou doest thine almes, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth,

5 ² And when thou prayest, be not as the hypocrites: for they love to stand, and pray in the Synagogues, and in the corners of the streets, because they would be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, they have their reward.

6 But when thou prayest, enter into thy chamber: and when thou hast shut thy doore, pray unto thy father which is in secret, and thy father which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly.

7 Also when ye pray, use no ^c vain repetitions as the heathen: for they think to be heard for their much babling.

14 * * For if yee doe forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you.

16 ⁵ Moreover, when ye fast, look not fowre as the hypocrites: for they ^f disfigure their faces, that they might seem unto men to fast. Verily I say unto you, that they have their reward.

24 * No man can serve two masters: for either he shall hate the one, and love the other, or else he shall leane to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and ⁹ riches.

25 * Therefore I say unto you, Be not carefull for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink: nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more worth than meat? and the body then raiment?

26 Behold the fowles of the ¹⁰ heaven: for they sow not, neither reape, nor carie into the barnes; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better then they?

27 Which of you by ¹¹ taking care is able to adde one cubite unto his stature?

28 And why care ye for raiment? Learne how the lilies of the field do grow: they ¹² are not wearied, neither spin:

29 Yet I say unto you, that even Solomon in all his glorie was not arrayed like one of these.

30 Wherefore if God so clothe the grasse of the field which is to day, and to morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not ¹³ do much more unto you, O ye of little faith?

31 Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall wee eate? or what shall we drink? or wherewith shall we be clothed?

32 (For after all these things seek the Gentiles) for your heavenly Father knoweth, that ye have need of all these things.

33 But seeke ye first the kingdome of God, and his righteousnesse, and all these things shall be ministred unto you.

34 Care not then for the morrow: for the morrow shall care for itself: the day hath enough with his own grief.

Judge not, that ye be not judged.
 2 For with what ^a judgement yee judge, ye shall be judged, and with what ^a measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you againe.

3 And why seekest thou the mote that is in thy brothers eye, and perceivest not the beame that is in thine owne eye?

4 ^a Or how sayest thou to thy brother, Suffer me to cast out the mote out of thine eye; and behold, ^a beame is in thine owne eye?

5 Hypocrite, first cast out that beame out of thine owne eye, and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brothers eye.

6 ¶ ^a Give ye not that which is holy to dogges, neither cast yee your ^a pearles before swine, lest they tread them under their feete, and turning againe, all to rent you.

7 ¶ ^a Aske, and it shall be given you: seeke, and ye shall finde: knocke, and it shall be opened unto you.

8 For whosoever asketh, receiveth: and he that seeketh, findeth: and to him that knocketh, it shall be opened.

9 For what man is there among you, which if his sonne aske him bread, would give him a stone?

10 Or if he aske fish, will he give him a serpent?

11 If yee then, which are evill, can give to your children good gifts, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven, give good things to them that aske him?

12 ^a Therefore whatsoever ye would that men should doe to you, even so doe ye to them: for this is the ^b Law and the Prophets.

13 ¶ ^a Enter in at the strait gate: for it is the wide gate, and broad way that leadeth to destruction: and many there be which goe in thereat.

14 Because ^a the gate is strait, and the way narrow that leadeth unto life, and few there be that finde it.

15 ¶ Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheepes clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves.

16 Ye shall know them by their fruits, ^a Doe men gather grapes of thornes? or figs of thistles?

17 So every good tree bringeth forth good fruit, and a corrupt tree bringeth forth evill fruit.

18 A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruite, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.

19 ^a Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit, is hewen down, and cast into the fire.

20 Therefore by their fruits yee shall know them.

21 ¶ ^a Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, ^a but he that doth my Fathers will which is in heaven.

22 ^a Many will say to me, in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not by thy ^a Name prophesied? and by thy Name cast out devils? and by thy Name done many ^a great workes?

23 And then will I professe to them, ^a I never knew you: ^a depart from me, ye that worke iniquitie.

24 ^a Whosoever then heareth of mee these words, ^a and doth the same, I will liken him to a wise man, which hath builded his house on a rocke.

25 And the raine fell, and the floods came, and the windes blew, and beat upon that house, and it fell not: for it was grounded on a rocke.

26 But whosoever heareth these my words, and doth them not, shall be likened to a foolish man, which hath builded his house upon the sand:

27 And the raine fell, and the floods came, and the windes blew, and beat upon that house, and it fell, and the fall thereof was great.

28 ¶ ^a And it came to passe, when Jesus had ended these words, the people were astonished at his doctrine.

29 For he taught them as one having authoritie, and not as the Scribes.

8 But

8 But the Centurion answered, saying, Master, I am not worthy that thou shouldest come under my rooffe: but speake the word onely, and my servant shall be healed.

9 For I am a man also under the authority of another, and have souldiers under me: and I say to one, Goe, and he goeth: and to another, Come, and hee commeth: and to my servant, Doe this, and he doth it.

10 When Jesus heard that, he marvelled, and said to them that followed him, Verely, I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, even in Israel.

11 But I say unto you, that many shall come from the East and West, and shall sit downe with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdome of heaven:

12 And the children of the kingdome shall be cast out into utter darkenesse: there shall bee weeping and gnashing of teeth.

13 Then Jesus said unto the Centurion, Goe thy way, and as thou hast beleevd, so be it unto thee. And his servant was healed the same houre.

14 ¶ And when Jesus came to Peters house, hee saw his wives mother laid downe, and sick of a feaver.

15 And he touched her hand, and the feaver left her: so she arose, and ministered unto them.

17 That it might bee fulfilled, which was spoken by * Esaias the Prophet, saying, He tooke our infirmities, and bare out sicknesses.

18 ¶ And when Jesus saw great multitudes of people about him, he commanded them to goe over the water.

19 ¶ Then there came a certaine Scribe, and said unto him, Master, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest.

20 But Jesus said unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birdes of the heaven have nests, but the Sonne of man hath not whereon to rest his head.

21 ¶ And another of his disciples said unto him, Master, suffer me first to goe, and bury my father.

22 But Jesus said unto him, Follow me, and let the dead burie their dead.

23 ¶ And when hee was entred into the ship, his disciples followed him.

24 And behold, there arose a great tempest in the Sea, so that the shippe was covered with waves: but he was asleepe.

25 Then his disciples came and awoke him, saying, Master, save us, we perish.

26 And he said unto them, Why are ye fearefull, O yee of litle faith? Then he arose, and rebuked the winds and the sea: and so there was a great calme.

27 And the men marvelled, saying, What man is this, that both the winds and the sea obey him?

28 ¶ And when hee was come to the other side into the countie of the Gergesenes, there met him two possessed with devils, which came out of the graves very fierce, so that no man might goe by that way.

29 And behold, they cried out, saying, Jesus the Sonne of God, what have wee to doe with thee? Art thou come hither to torment us before the time?

30 Now there was a farre off from them, a great herd of swine feeding.

31 And the devils besought him, saying, If thou cast us out, suffer us to goe into the herd of swine.

32 And he said unto them, Goe. So they went out and departed into the herd of swine: and behold, the whole herd of swine ran headlong into the sea, and died in the water.

33 Then the herdmen fled: and when they were come into the citie, they told all things, and what was become of them that were possessed with the devils.

34 And behold, all the citie came out to meet Jesus: and when they saw him, they besought him to depart out of their coasts.

7 And he arose, and departed to his own house.

8 So when the multitude saw it, they marvelled, and glorified God, which had given such authority to men.

9 ¶ And as Jesus passed forth from thence, he saw a man sitting at the custom, named Matthew, and said to him, Follow me. And he arose, and followed him.

10 And it came to passe, as Jesus sat at meat in his house, behold, many Publicanes and sinners, that came thither, sat down at the table with Jesus and his Disciples.

11 And when the Pharises saw that, they said to his Disciples, Why eateth your Master with Publicanes and sinners?

12 Now when Jesus heard it, he said unto them, The whole need not a Physician, but they that are sick.

13 But go ye and learn what this is, * I will have mercy, and not sacrifice: for I am not come to call the righteous, but the sinners to repentance.

14 ¶ Then came the disciples of John to him, saying, Why do ye and the Pharises fast oft, and thy disciples fast not?

15 And Jesus said unto them, Can the children of the marriage chamber mourn as long as the bridegroom is with them? But the dayes will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken from them, and then shall they fast.

16 Moreover, no man pieceth an old garment with a piece of a new cloth, for that that should fill it up, taketh away from the garment, and the breach is worse.

17 Neither do they put new wine into old vessels: for then the vessell would break, and the wine would be spilt, and the vessels should perish: but they put new wine into new vessels, and so are both preserved.

18 ¶ While he thus spake unto them, behold, there came a certain Ruler, and worshipped him, saying, My daughter is now deceased, but come and lay thine hand on her, and she shall live.

19 And Jesus arose, and followed him with his Disciples.

20 And behold, a woman which was diseased with an issue of blood twelve yeares, came behinde him, and touched the hemme of his garment.

21 For she said in herself, If I may touch but his garment only, I shall be whole.

22 Then Jesus turned him about, and seeing her, did say, Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath made thee whole. And the woman was made whole at that same moment.)

23 Now when Jesus came into the Rulers house, and saw the sinners and the multitude making a noise, 24 He said unto them, Get you hence: for the maid is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed him to scorn.

25 And when the multitude were put forth, he went in and took her by the hand, and the maid arose.

26 And this brute went throughout all that land.

27 And as Jesus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and saying, O son of David, have mercy upon us.

28 And when he was come into the house, the blind came to him: and Jesus said unto them, Beleeve ye that I am able to do this? And they said unto him, Yea, Lord.

29 Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you.

30 And their eyes were opened, and Jesus gave them great charge, saying, See that no man know it.

31 But when they were departed, they spread abroad his fame throughout all that land.

32 ¶ And as they went out, behold, they brought to him a dumb man possessed with a devill.

33 And when the devill was cast out, the dumbe spake: then the multitude marvelled, saying, The like was never seen in Israel.

34 But the Pharises said, * He casteth out devils, through the prince of devils.

35 ¶ And * Jesus went about all cities and towns, teaching in their Synagogues, and preaching the Gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sicknesse, and every disease among the people.

36 * But when he saw the multitude, he had compassion upon them, because they were dispersed, and scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd.

37 Then said he to his disciples, * Surely the Harvest is great, but the labourers are few.

38 Wherefore pray the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth labourers into his harvest.

files are these. The first is Simon, called Peter, and Andrew his brother: James the son of Zebedeus, and John his brother:

3 Philip and Bartlemew: Thomas and Matthew the publicane: James the sonne of Alphaeus, and Lebbeus whose surname was Thaddeus:

4 Simon the Canaanite, and Judas Iscariot, who also betrayed him.

5 These twelve did Jesus send forth, and commanded them, saying, Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into the cities of the Samaritanes enter ye not:

6 But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel.

7 And as ye go, preach, saying, The kingdome of heaven is at hand.

8 Heale the sick, cleanse the lepers: raise up the dead: cast out the devils. Freely ye have received, freely give.

9 Possesse not gold, nor silver, nor money in your girdles,

10 Nor a scrip for the journey, neither two coats, neither shoes, nor a staffe: for the workman is worthy of his meat.

11 And into whatsoever city or town ye shall come, enquire who is worthy in it, and there abide till ye go thence.

12 And when ye come into an house, salute the same.

13 And if the house be worthy, let your peace come upon it: but if it be not worthy, let your peace return to you.

14 And whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear your words, when ye depart out of that house, or that city, shake off the dust of your feet.

15 Truly I say unto you, it shall be easier for them of the land of Sodom and Gomorah, in the day of judgement, then for that city.

16 Behold, I send you as sheep in the mids of the wolves: be ye therefore wise as serpents, and innocent as doves.

17 But beware of men, for they will deliver you up to the Councils, and will scourge you in their Synagogues.

18 And ye shall be brought to the governors and kings for my sake, in witnesse to them, and to the Gentiles.

19 But when they deliver you up, take no thought how or what ye shall speake: for it shall be given you in that houre, what ye shall say.

20 For it is not ye that speak, but the spirit of your Father which speaketh in you.

21 And the brother shall betray the brother to death, and the Father the sonne, and the children shall rise against their parents, and shall cause them to die.

22 And ye shall be hated of all men for my Name: but he that endureth to the end, he shall be saved.

23 And when they persecute you in this city, flee into another: for verily I say unto you, ye shall not goe over all the cities of Israel, till the Son of man be come.

25 It is enough for the disciple to be as his Master, and the servant as his Lord. If they have called the Master of the house Beelzebub, how much more them of his household?

26 Feare them not therefore: for there is nothing covered, that shall not be disclosed, nor hid, that shall not be known.

27 What I tell you in darknesse, that speake ye in light: and what ye hear in the ear, that preach ye on the houfes.

28 And feare ye not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soule: but rather feare him, which is able to destroy both soule and body in hell.

29 Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing, and one of them shall not fall on the ground without your father?

30 Yea, and all the haire of your head are numbred.

31 Feare ye not therefore, yee are of more value then many sparrows.

32 Whosoever therefore shall confesse me before men, him will I confesse also before my Father which is in heaven.

33 But whosoever shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my Father which is in heaven.

34 Think not that I am come to send peace into the earth: I came not to send peace, but the sword.

35 For I am come to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter in law against her mother in law.

36 And a mans enemies shall be they of his own household.

37 He that loveth father or mother more then me, is not worthy of me. And he that loveth son, or daughter more then me, is not worthy of me.

38 And he that taketh not his crosse, & followeth after me, is not worthy of me.

39 He that will finde his life, shall lose it: and he that loseth his life for my sake, shall finde it.

40 He that receiveth you, receiveth me: and he that receiveth me, receiveth him that sent me.

41 He that receiveth a Prophet in the name of a Prophet, shall receive a Prophets reward: and hee that receiveth a righteous man, in the name of a righteous man, shall receive the reward of a righteous man.

2 John sendeth his disciples to Christ. 7 Christ's testimony of John. 13 The Law and the Prophets. 18 Christ and John. 21 Chorazin, Bethsaida. 25 The Gosp. ll revealed to children. 28 They that are weary and laden.

And it came to passe that when Jesus had made an end of commanding his twelve Disciples, he departed thence to teach and to preach in their cities.

¶ And when John heard in the prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples, and said unto him,

3 Art thou he that should come, or shall we look for another?

4 And Jesus answering, said unto them, Go, and shew John, what things ye hear, and see.

5 The blind receive sight, and the halt doe walk: the lepers are cleansed, and the deafe hear: the dead are raised up, and the poor receive the Gospel.

6 And blessed is he that shall not be offended in me.

7 And as they departed, Jesus began to speake unto the multitude, of John, What went ye out into the wilderness to see? a reed shaken with the wind?

8 But what went ye out to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? Behold, they that wear soft clothing, are in Kings houses.

9 But what went ye out to see? A Prophet? Yea, I say unto you, and more then a Prophet.

10 For this is he of whom it is written, Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

11 Verily, I say unto you, Among them which are begotten of women, arose there not a greater then John Baptist: notwithstanding, he that is the least in the kingdom of heaven, is greater then he.

12 And from the time of John Baptist hitherto, the kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force.

13 For all the Prophets and the Law prophesied unto John.

14 And if ye will receive it, this is that Elias, which was to come.

¶ He that hath eares to hear, let him hear.

16 But whereunto shall I liken this generation? It is like unto little children which sit in the markets, and call unto their fellowes, 17 And say, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced, we have mourned unto you, and ye have not lamented.

18 For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, He hath a devill.

19 The Sonne of man came eating and drinking, and they say, Behold, a glutton, and a drinker of wine, a friend unto Publicanes and sinners: but wisdom is justified of her children.

20 ¶ Then began he to upbraid the Cities, wherein most of his great works were done, because they repented not.

21 Woe be to thee Chorazin: Woe be to thee Bethsaida: for if the great works, which were done in you, had been done in Tyrus and Sidon, they had repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes.

22 But I say unto you, It shall be easier for Tyrus and Sidon at the day of judgement then for you.

23 And thou, Capernaum, which art lifted up unto heaven, shalt be brought down to hell: for if the great works, which have been done in thee, had been done among them of Sodom, they had remained unto this day.

24 But I say unto you, that it shall be easier for them of the land of Sodom in the day of judgement, then for thee.

25 At that time Jesus answered, and said, I give thee thanks, O father, Lord of heaven and earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise, and men of understanding, and hast opened them unto babes.

26 It is so, O father, because thy good pleasure was such.

27 All things are given unto me of my Father: and no man knoweth the Sonne, but the Father: neither knoweth any man the Father, but the Sonne, and he to whom the Son will reveal him.

28 Come unto me all ye that are weary and laden, and I will ease you.

29 Take my yoke on you, and learn of me that I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls.

30 For my yoke is easie, and my burden light.

7 Wherefore if ye knew what this is, ^{*} I will have mercy, and not sacrifice, ye would not have condemned the innocents.

8 For the Son of man is Lord, even of the Sabbath.

9 ^{*} And he departed thence, and went into their Synagogue:

10 And behold, there was a man which had ^b his hand dried up. And they asked him, saying, Is it lawfull to heal upon a Sabbath day? that they might accuse him.

11 And he said unto them, What man shall there be among you, that hath a sheep, and if it fall on a Sabbath day into a pit, doth he not take it and lift it out?

12 How much more then is a man better then a sheep? therefore it is lawfull to do well on the Sabbath day.

13 Then said he to the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he stretched it forth, and it was made whole as the other.

14 ^{*} Then the Pharisees went out, and consulted against him, how they might destroy him.

15 But when Jesus knew it, he departed thence: and great multitudes followed him, and he healed them all.

16 And charged them in threatning wise, that they should not make him known,

22 ^e ¶ ^{*} Then was brought to him one possessed with a devil, both blind and dumb, and he healed him, so that he ^{which was} blind and dumb, both spake and saw.

23 And all the people were amazed, and said, Is not this that son of David?

24 But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, ^{*} This man casteth the devils no otherwise out, but through Beelzebub the prince of devils.

25 ^{*} But Jesus knew their thoughts, and said to them, every Kingdome divided against it selfe, is brought to nought: and every city or house divided against it selfe, shall not stand.

26 So if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himselfe: how shall then his kingdom endure?

27 Also if I through Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom doe your children cast them out? Therefore they shall be your Judges.

28 But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then is the kingdom of God come unto you.

29 Else how can a man enter into a strong mans house and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man, and then spoil his house,

30 He that is not with me, is against me: and he that gathereth not with me, scattereth.

31 ^{*} Wherefore I say unto you, every sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: but the blasphemy ^{against} the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men.

32 And whosoever shall speak a word against the Sonne of man, it shall be forgiven him: ⁶ but whosoever shall speake against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, nor in the world to come.

33 Either make the tree good, and his fruit good: or else make the tree evill, and his fruit evill: for the tree is knowne by the fruit.

34 ⁷ O generations of vipers, how can you speak good things, when ye are evill? For of the ^{*} abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.

35 A good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth good things: and an evill man out of an evill treasure bringeth forth evill things.

36 But I say unto you, that of every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof at the day of judgement.

The same day went Jesus out of the house, and fate by the sea side.

2 ¶ And great multitudes resorted unto him, so that he went into a ship, and fate down: and the whole multitude stood on the shore.

3 Then he spake many things to them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow.

4 And as he sowed, some fell by the way side, and the fowles came and devoured them up.

5 And some fell upon stony ground, where they had not much earth, and anon they sprung up, because they had no depth of earth.

6 And when the Sunne was up, they were parched, and for lacke of rooting, withered away.

7 And some fell among thornes, and the thorns sprung up, and choked them.

8 Some again fell in good ground, and brought forth fruit, one an hundred fold, some sixty fold, and another thirty fold.

9 He that hath eares to hear, let him heare.

10 ¶ Then the disciples came, and said to him, Why speakest thou to them in parables?

11 ¶ And he answered, and said unto them, Because it is given unto you, to know the secrets of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given.

12 * For whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away, even that he hath.

13 Therefore speake I to them in parables, because they seeing, do not see: and hearing, they hear not, neither understand.

14 So in them is fulfilled the Prophecie of Esaias, which prophesie saith, * By hearing, ye shall hear, and shall not understand, and seeing, ye shall see, and shall not perceive.

15 For this peoples heart is waxed fat, and their eares are dull of hearing, and with their eyes they have winked, lest they should see with their eyes, and hear with their eares, and should understand with their hearts, and should return that I might heal them.

16 ¶ But blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your ears, for they hear.

17 * For verily, I say unto you, that many Prophets, and righteous men have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them, and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

18 ¶ Hear ye therefore the parable of the sower.

19 ¶ Whensoever any man heareth the word of that kingdom, and understandeth it not, that evill one commeth and catcheth away that which was sowed in his heart: and this is he which hath received the seed by the way side.

20 And he that received seed in the stony ground, is he which heareth the word, and incontinently with joy receiveth it.

21 Yet hath he no root in himself, and dureth but a season: for as soon as tribulation or persecution commeth because of the word, by and by he is offended.

22 And he that received the seed among thornes, is he that heareth the word: but the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches choke the word, and he is made unfruitfull.

23 But he that received the seed in the good ground, is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it, which also beareth fruit and bringeth forth, some an hundred fold, some sixty fold, and some thirty fold.

4 Though there be mention made of the heart, yet the sowing is referred to hearing, without understanding. For whether the seed be received in the heart or no, yet hee that soweth, soweth to the heart.

4 Christ sheweth in another parable of the evill seed mixt with the good, that the Church shal never be free and quit from offences, both in doctrine and manners, untill the day appointed for the restoring of all things doe come. & therefore the faithfull are to arm themselves with patience and constancy.

24 ¶ Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The Kingdom of heaven is like unto a man which sowed good seed in his field.

25 But while men slept, there came his enemy, and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way.

26 And when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also.

27 Then came the servants of the householder, and said unto him, Master, sowedst not thou good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares?

28 And he said unto them, some envious man hath done this. Then the servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we goe and gather them up?

29 But he said, Nay, lest while ye go about to gather the tares, ye pluck up also with them the wheat.

30 Let both grow together untill the harvest, and in time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye first the tares, and binde them in sheaves to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn.

31 ¶ Another parable he put forth unto them, saying, The Kingdom of heaven is like unto a graine of mustard seed, which a man taketh and soweth in his field.

32 Which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and it is a tree, so that the birds of heaven come and build in the branches thereof.

33 ¶ Another Parable spake he to them, The Kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman taketh and hideth it in three pecks of meale, till all be leavened.

34 ¶ All these things spake Jesus unto the multitude in Parables, and without Parables spake he not unto them,

35 That it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the Prophet, saying, * I will open my mouth in Parables, and will utter the things which have been kept secret from the foundation of the world.

36 Then sent Jesus the multitude away, and went into the house. And his disciples came unto him, saying, Declare unto us the parable of the tares of that field.

37 Then answered he, and said to them, He that soweth the good seed, is the Son of man.

38 And the field is the world, and the good seed are the children of the Kingdom, and the tares are the children of that wicked one.

39 And the enemy that soweth them is the devill, * and the harvest is the end of the world, and the Reapers be the Angels.

40 As then the tares are gathered and burned in the fire, so shall it be in the end of this world.

41 The Sonne of man shall send forth his Angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity,

42 And shall cast them into a furnace of fire. There shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.

43 * Then shall the just men shine as the Sun in the kingdom of their father. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

44 ¶ Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a treasure hid in the field, which when a man hath found, he hideth it, and for joy thereof departeth, and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.

45 ¶ Again, the Kingdom of heaven is like to a merchant man, that seeketh good pearles, 46 Who having found a pearle of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it.

47 ¶ Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a draw-net cast into the sea, that gathereth of all kind of things, 48 Which, when it is full, men draw to land, and sit and gather the good into vessels, and cast the bad away.

49 So shall it be at the end of the world. The Angels shall goe forth, and sever the bad from among the just,

50 And shall cast them into a furnace of fire: there shall be wailing, and gnashing of teeth.

51 ¶ Jesus said unto them, Understand ye all these things? They said unto him, Yea, Lord.

52 Then said he unto them, Therefore every Scribe which is taught unto the kingdom of heaven, is like unto an householder, which bringeth forth out of his treasure things both new and old.

53 ¶ And it came to passe, that when Jesus had ended these Parables, he departed thence,

54 * And came into his owne country, and taught them in their Synagogue, so that they were astonished, & said, Whence cometh this wisdom and great works unto this man?

55 Is not this the Carpenters son? Is not his mother called Mary, * and his brethren James, and Josés, and Simon, and Judas?

56 And are not his sisters all with us? Whence then hath hee all these things?

57 And they were offended with him. Then Jesus said to them, * A Prophet is not without honour, save in his own country, and in his own house.

1 Herods judgement of Christ. 3 Wherefore John was bound, 10 And beheaded. 13 Jesus departeth. 18 Of the five loaves. &c. 23 Christ prayeth. 24 The Apostles tossed with the waves. 27 Faith. 30 Peter in jeopardy. 36 The hemme of Christs garment.

AT that time Herod the Tetrarch heard of the fame of Jesus,

2 And said unto his servants, This is that John Baptist, he is risen again from the dead, and therefore great workes are wrought by him.

3 For Herod had taken John, and bound him, and put him in prison for Herodias sake, his brother Philips wife.

4 For John said unto him, It is not lawfull for thee to have her.

5 And when hee would have put him to death, he feared the multitude, because they counted him as a Prophet.

6 But when Herods birth-day was kept, the daughter of Herodias daunced before them, and pleased Herod.

7 Wherefore hee promised with an oath, that he would give her whatsoever she would ask.

8 And she being before instructed of her mother, said, Give me here John Baptists head in a platter.

9 And the king was fory: nevertheless because of the oath, and them that sate with him at the table, he commanded it to be given her.

10 And sent, and beheaded John in the prison.

11 And his head was brought in a platter, and given to the maid, and she brought it unto her mother.

12 And his disciples came, and took up the body, and buried it, and went, and told Jesus.

13 And when Jesus heard it, he departed thence by ship into a desert place apart. And when the multitude had heard it, they followed him on foot out of the cities.

14 And Jesus went forth and saw a great multitude, and was moved with compassion toward them, and he healed their sick.

15 And when Even was come, his disciples came to him, saying, This is a desert place, and the time is already past: let the multitude depart, that they may go in to the towns, and buy them victuals.

16 But Jesus said to them, They have no need to go away: give ye them to eat.

17 Then said they unto him, We have here but five loaves and two fishes.

18 And he said, Bring them hither to me.

19 And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the grasse, and tooke the five loaves and the two fishes, and looked up to heaven, and blessed, and brake, and gave the loaves to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude:

20 And they did all eat, and were sufficed, and they took up of the fragments that remained, twelve baskets full.

21 And they that had eaten, were about five thousand men, besides women and little children.

22 And straightway Jesus compelled his disciples to enter into a ship, and to go over before him, while he sent the multitude away.

23 And as soon as he had sent the multitude away, he went up into a mountaine alone to pray: and when the evening was come, he was there alone.

24 And the ship was now in the mids of the sea, and was tossed with waves: for it was contrary winde.

25 And in the fourth watch of the night, Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea.

26 And when his disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit, and cried out for feare.

27 But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good comfort, it is I: be not afraid.

28 Then Peter answered him, and said, Master, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water.

29 And he said, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus.

30 But when he saw a mighty wind, he was afraid: and as he began to sink, he cried, saying, Master, save me.

31 So immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand, and caught him, and said unto him, O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt?

32 And as soon as they were come into the ship, the winde ceased.

33 Then they that were in the ship, came and worshipped him, saying, Of a truth thou art the Sonne of God.

34 And when they were come over, they came into the land of Gennezaret.

35 And when the men of that place knew him, they sent out into all that country round about, and brought unto him, all that were sick, 36 And besought him that they might touch the hem of his garment: onely, and as many as touched it were made whole.

Then came to Jesus the Scribes and Pharisees, which were of Jerusalem, saying,

2 Why do thy Disciples transgress the tradition of the Elders? for they walk not their hands when they eat bread.

3 But he answered and said unto them, Why do ye also transgress the commandment of God by your tradition?

4 For God hath commanded, saying, Honour thy father and mother: and he that curseth father or mother, let him die the death.

5 But ye say, whosoever shall say to father or mother, By the gift that is offered by me, thou mayest have profit,

6 Though he honour not his father or his mother, shall be free: thus have ye made the commandment of God of no authority by your tradition.

7 O hypocrites, Esaias prophesied well of you, saying,

8 This people draweth neer unto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with their lips, but their heart is far off from me.

9 But in vain they worship me, teaching for doctrines mens precepts.

10 Then he called the multitude unto him, and said to them, Hear and understand.

11 That which goeth into the mouth, defileth not the man, but that which cometh out of the mouth, that defileth the man.

12 Then came his disciples and said unto him, Perceivest thou not, that the Pharisees are offended in hearing this saying?

13 But he answered and said, every plant which mine heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up.

14 Let them alone, they be the blind leaders of the blind: and if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch.

15 Then answered Peter, and said to him, Declare unto us this parable.

16 Then said Jesus, Are ye yet without understanding?

17 Perceive ye not yet, that whatsoever entereth into the mouth, goeth into the belly, and is cast out into the draught?

18 But those things which proceed out of the mouth, come from the heart, and they defile the man.

19 For out of the heart come evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false testimonies, slanders, 20 These are the things, which defile the man: but to eat with unwashen hands, defileth not the man.

21 And Jesus went thence, and departed into the coasts of Tyrus and Sidon.

22 And behold, a woman a Canaanite came out of the same coasts, and cried, saying unto him, Have mercy on me, O Lord, the son of David: my daughter is miserably vexed with a devill.

23 But he answered her not a word. Then came to him his Disciples, and besought him, saying, Send her away, for she crieth after us.

24 But he answered, and said, I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel.

25 Yet she came, and worshipped him, saying, Lord, help me.

26 And he answered, and said, it is not good to take the childrens bread, and to cast it to whelps.

27 But she said, Truth, Lord: yet indeed the whelps eat of the crumbs, which fall from their masters table.

28 Then Jesus answered, and said unto her, O woman, great is thy faith: be it to thee, as thou desirest. And her daughter was made whole at that houre.

29 So Jesus went away from thence, and came neer unto the Sea of Galilee, and went up into a mountain and sat down there.

30 And great multitudes came unto him, having with them, halt, blinde, dumbe, maimed, and many other; and cast them downe at Jesus feet, and he healed them.

31 In somuch that the multitude wondered, to see the dumb speak, the maimed whole, the halt to go, and the blind to see: and they glorified the God of Israel.

32 Then Jesus called his Disciples unto him, and said, I have compassion on this multitude, because they have continued with me already three dayes, and have nothing to eat: and I will not let them depart fasting, lest they faint in the way.

33 And his Disciples said unto him, Whence should we get so much bread in the wilderness, as should suffice so great a multitude?

34 And Jesus said unto them, how many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven, and a few little fishes.

35 Then he commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground,

36 And took the seven loaves, and the fishes, and gave thanks, and brake them, and gave to his Disciples, and the Disciples to the multitude.

37 And they did all eat, and were sufficed: and they took up of the fragments that remained, seven baskets full.

38 And they that had eaten, were four thousand men, beside women, and little children.

39 Then Jesus sent away the multitude, and took ship, and came into the parts of Magdala.

CHAP. XVI.

4 The signe of Ionas. 6 The leaven of the Pharisees. 12 For their doctrine. 13 The peoples opinion of Christ. 17 Faith cometh of God. 18 The rock. 19 The keyes. 21 Christ fore-sheweth his death. 24 The forsaking of ones selfe, and the crosse, 25 To looke the life.

THen ¹came the Pharisees and Sadduces, and did ²tempt him, desiring him to shew them a signe from heaven.

2 But he answered, and said unto them, When it is evening, yee say, Fair weather: for the skie is red.

3 ^{*} And in the morning, yee say, To day shall be a tempest: for the skie is red and lowring. O hypocrites, yee can discerne the ^b face of the skie, and can yee not ^c discerne the signes of the times?

4 ^{} The wicked generation, and adulterous seeketh a signe, but there shall no signe be given it, but ^c that signe of the Prophet ^{} Jonas: so he left them, and departed.

5 ¶ ² And when his disciples were come to the other side, they had ^{*} forgotten to take bread ^{with} them.

6 Then Jesus said unto them, Take heed and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadduces.

7 And they reasoned among themselves, saying, It is because we have brought no bread.

8 But Jesus ^d knowing it, said unto them, O yee of little faith, why reason yee ^{thus} among your selves, because yee have brought no bread?

9 Doe yee not yet perceive, neither remember the ^e five loaves, when there were ^{*} five thousand men, and how many baskets tooke yee up?

10 Neither the seven loaves when there were ^{*} foure thousand men, and how many baskets tooke yee up?

11 Why ^f perceive yee not that I ¹ said not unto you concerning bread, that yee should beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and Sadduces?

12 Then understood they that hee had not said that they should beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees, and Sadduces.

13 ¶ ³ Now when Jesus came into the coasts of ^h Cesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom doe men say that I, the Son of man am?

14 And they said, Some say, ⁱ John Baptist: and some, Elias: and others, Jeremias, or one of the Prophets.

15 Hee said unto them, But whom say yee that I am?

16 Then Simon Peter answered, and said, ^{*} Thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God.

17 ^{*} And Jesus answered, and said to him, Blessed art thou Simon the son of

Jonas: for ^k flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven.

18 ^{*} And I say also unto thee, that thou art ¹ Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church: and the ^m gates of hell shall not overcome it.

19 ^{} And I ^{} will give unto thee the ⁿ keyes of the kingdome of heaven, and whatsoever thou shalt ^o bind upon earth, shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth, shall bee loosed in heaven.

20 ⁷ Then he charged his disciples, that they should tell no man that he was Jesus that Christ.

21 ¶ ⁸ From that time forth Jesus began to shew unto his disciples, that he must go unto Hierusalem, and suffer many things of the ^p Elders, and of the high Priests, and Scribes, and be slaine, and be raised againe the third day.

22 Then Peter ⁹ tooke him aside, and began to rebuke him, saying, Master, pitty thy selfe: this shall not bee unto thee.

23 ⁹ Then he turned back, and said unto Peter, Get thee behind mee ^{*} Satan: thou art an offence unto me, because thou ¹ understandest not the things that are of God, but the things that are of men.

24 ¹⁰ Jesus then said to his disciples, ^{*} If any man will follow mee, let him forsake himselfe, and take up his crosse, and follow mee.

25 For ^{} whosoever will save his life, shall loose it: and whosoever shall loose his life for my sake, shall ^{} find it.

26 ^{*} For what shall it profit a man though hee should win the whole world, if hee lose his owne soule? or what shall a man give for recompence of his soule?

27 For the Son of man shall come ^v in the glory of his Father, with his Angels, and ^{*} then shall hee give to every man according to his deeds.

28 ^{} Verily I say unto you, There bee some of them that stand here, which shall not tast of death, till they have seene the Son of man come in his ^{} kingdome.

^k By this kind of speech is meant mans naturall procreation upon the earth, the creature not being destroyed, which was made, but deformed through sin: so then this is the meaning: this was not revealed to thee by any understanding of man, but God revealed it thee from heaven. ^l That is true faith, which con-felleth Christ, the vertue whereof is invincible.

^m John 1. 42. ⁿ Christ spake in the Syrian tongue and therefore used not this descending betwixt Petrus, which signifieth Peter, and Petrus, which signifieth a Rock, but in both places used this word Cepha: but his mind was that Petrus in Greece, by the divers termination to make a difference betwixt Peter which is a piece of the building, and Christ the Petra, that is, the rock, and foundation: or else he gave his name Peter, because of the confession of his faith which is the Char-ches as well as his, as the old fathers witness, for so saith, Timothy. That confession which thou hast made, shall bee the foundation of the believers.

^o The enemies of the Church are compared to a strong kingdome, and therefore by Gates, are meant cities which are made strong with counsell and fortresses, and this is the meaning, whosoever Satan can doe by counsell or strength, so doth Paul. 2. Cor. 10. 4. call them strong holds.

^p The authority of the Church is from God. ^q John 20. 21. ^r A Metaphore taken of swordes which carry the keyes, and here is set forth the power of the ministers of the word, as Esa. 22. 22. and that power is common to all ministers, as Chap. 18. 18. and therefore the ministry of the Gospel, may rightly bee called the key of the kingdome of heaven.

^s They are bound whose sins are retained, heaven is shut against them, because they receive not Christ by faith: on the other side, how happy are they, to whom heaven is open, which embrace Christ, and are delivered by him, and become fellow heires with him? ^t Men must first learne, and then reach. ^u The minds of men are in time to bee prepared, and made ready against the stumbling block of perfection. ^v It was a name of dignity, and not of age: and it is put for them which were the Judges, which the Hebrewes call Sanhedrim. ^w Tooke him by the hand, and led him aside, as they use to doe, which meane to talke familiarly with one. ^x Against preposterous zeale. ^y The Hebrewes call him Satan, that is to say an adversary, whom the Grecians call diabolos, that is to say, slanderer or tempter: but it is spoken of them, that either of malice, as Iudas, John 6. 70. or of lightnesse and pride, resist the will of God. ^z By this word wee are taught, that Peter sinned through a false persuasion of himselfe. ^{aa} No men do worse provide for themselves, then they that love themselves more then God. ^{ab} Chap. 10. 38. 3 And behold, there appeared unto them, Moses, and Elias, talking with 4 Then answered Peter, and said to Jesus, Master, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three Tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

5 While he yet spake, behold, a bright cloud shadowed them: and behold, there came a voice out of the cloud, saying, *This

6 And when the disciples heard that, they^d fell on their faces, and were sore afraid.

and said, Arise, and be not afraid.

8 And when they lifted up their eyes, they saw no man, save Jesus onely.

them, Certainly Elias must first come, and restore all things.

12 But I say unto you, that Elias is come already, and they knew him not, but have done unto him whatsoever they would: likewise shall also the Son of man he spake unto them of Iohn Baptist.

and they could not heale him.

6 But whosoever shall offend one of these little ones which beleve in mee, it were better for him, that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that hee were drowned in the depth of the sea.

7 Wo be unto the world because of offences: for it must needs be that offences shall come, but wo be to that man, by whom the offence cometh.

8 Wherefore, if thy hand or thy foot cause thee to offend, cut them off, and cast them from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life, halt, or maymed, then having two hands, or two feet, to be cast into everlasting fire.

9 And if thine eye cause thee to offend, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life with one eye, then having two eyes to be cast into hell fire.

10 See that yee despise not one of these little ones: for I say unto you, that in heaven their Angels alwayes behold the face of my Father which is in heaven.

11 For the Son of man is come to save that which was lost.

12 How thinke yee? If a man have an hundred sheep, and one of them bee gone astray, doth hee not leave ninety and nine, and go into the mountaines, and seeke that which is gone astray?

13 And if so be that hee find it, verily I say unto you, hee rejoyceth more of that sheep, then of the ninety and nine which went not astray:

14 So it is not the will of your Father which is in heaven, that one of these little ones should perish.

15 Moreover, if thy brother trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault betweene thee and him alone: if he heare thee, thou hast wonne thy brother:

16 But if hee heare thee not, take yet with thee one or two, that by the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may bee confirmed.

17 And if hee refuse to heare them, tell it unto the Church: and if hee refuse to heare the Church also, let him be unto thee as an heathen man, and a Publicane.

18 Verily I say unto you, Whatsoever ye bind on earth, shall bee bound in heaven: and whatsoever ye loose on earth, shall bee loosed in heaven.

19 Againe, verily I say unto you, that if two of you shall agree in earth upon any things whatsoever they shall desire, it shall be given them of my Father which is in heaven.

20 For where two or three are gathered together in my Name, there am I in the mids of them.

21 Then came Peter to him, and said, Master, how oft shall my brother sin against mee, and I shall forgive him? unto seven times?

22 Jesus said unto him, I say not unto thee, unto seven times, but, unto seventy times seven times:

23 Therefore is the kingdome of heaven likened unto a certaine King, which would take an account of his servants:

24 And when he had begun to reckon, one was brought unto him, which owed him ten thousand talents.

25 And because hee had nothing to pay, his lord commanded him to be sold, and his wife, and his children, and all that he had, and the debt to be payed.

26 The servant therefore fell downe, and worshipped him, saying, Lord, refrain thine anger toward mee, and I will pay thee all.

27 Then that servants Lord had compassion, and loosed him, and forgave him the debt.

28 But when the servant was departed, hee found one of his fellow servants, which owed him an hundred pence, and hee laid hands on him, and thratled him, saying, Pay mee that thou owest.

29 Then his fellow servant fell downe at his feet, and besought him, saying, Refraine thine anger towards mee, and I will pay thee all.

30 Yet hee would not, but went, and cast him into prison, till hee should pay the debt.

31 And when his other fellow servants saw what was done, they were very sorry, and came, and declared unto their Lord all that was done.

32 Then his Lord called him unto him, and said to him, O evill servant, I forgave thee all that debt, because thou prayedst mee:

33 Oughtest thou not also to have had pity on thy fellow servant, even as I had pity on thee?

34 So his Lord was wroth, and delivered him to the tormentours, till he should pay all that was due unto him.

35 So likewise shall mine heavenly Father do unto you, except yee forgive from your hearts, each one to his brother their trespasses.

2 And great multitudes followed him, and he healed them there.

3 ¶ Then came unto him the Pharisees, tempting him, and saying to him, Is it lawfull for a man ^b to put away his wife upon every occasion.

4 And he answered and said unto them, Have yee not read, ^a that he which made them at the beginning, made them male and female,

5 And said, ^a For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and ^c cleave unto his wife, and they which were ^d two shall bee one flesh,

6 Wherefore they are no more twaine, but one flesh. Let not man therefore put asunder that, which God hath ^e coupled together.

7 ^a They said to him, Why did then ^a Moses command to give a bill of divorcement, and to put her away?

8 He said unto them, Moses, ^b because of the hardnesse of your heart, ^c suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so.

9 I say therefore unto you, ^a that whosoever shall put away his wife, except ^b it be ^c for whoredome, and marry another, committeth adultery: and whosoever marrieth her which is divorced, doth commit adultery.

10 Then said his disciples to him, If the ^a matter be so betweene man and wife, it is not good to marry.

11 ^a But he said unto them, All men cannot ^b receive this thing, save they to whom it is given.

12 For there are some ^c Eunuches, which were so born of ^d their mothers belly: and there be some Eunuches which be gelded by men: and there bee some Eunuches, which have ^e gelded themselves for the kingdome of heaven. Hee that is able to receive ^f this, let him receive it.

13 ¶ Then were brought unto him little children, that he should put ^a his hands on them, & pray: & his disciples rebuked the.

14 But Jesus said, Suffer little children, and forbid them not to come to me: for of such is the kingdome of heaven.

15 And when he had put his hands on them, he departed thence.

16 ¶ Then came and said unto him, Good Master, what good thing shall I doe, that I may have eternall life?

17 And hee said unto him, why callest thou mee good? there is none good but one, even God: but if thou wilt enter into life keepe the commandements.

18 He said unto him, Which? And Jesus said, ^a These, Thou shalt not kill: Thou shalt not commit adultery: Thou shalt not steal: Thou shalt not beare false witnesse:

19 Honour thy father and mother: and, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thy selfe.

20 The young man said unto him, I have observed all these things from my youth: what lack I yet?

21 Jesus said unto him, If ^a thou wilt bee perfect, go sell that thou hast, and give it to the poore, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven, and come, and follow mee.

22 And when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowfull: for he had great possessions.

23 ^a Then Jesus said unto his disciples, Verily I say unto you, that a rich man shall hardly enter into kingdome of heaven.

24 And againe, I say unto you, It is ^b easier for a ^c Camel to go thorow the eye of an needle, then for a rich man to enter into the kingdome of God.

25 And when his disciples heard it, they were exceedingly amazed, saying, Who then can be saved?

26 And Jesus beheld them, and said unto them, With men this is impossible, but with God all things are possible.

27 ¶ Then answered Peter, and said to him, Behold, we have forsaken all, & followed thee: what therefore shall we have?

28 ^a And Jesus said unto them, Verily I say unto you, that when the Son of man shall sit in the throne of his majesty, yee which followed me in the ^b regeneration, ^c shall sit also upon twelve thrones, and judge the twelve tribes of Israel.

29 And whosoever shall forsake houses, or brethren, or sister, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my Name sake, hee shall receive an hundred fold more, and shall inherit everlasting life.

30 ^a But many that are first, shall bee last, and the last shall be first.

For the kingdome of heaven is like unto a certaine ^a housholder, which went out at the dawning of the day to hire labourers into his vineyard.

2 And hee ^a agreed with the labourers for a penny a day, and sent them into his vineyard.

3 And he went out about the third hour, and saw other standing idle in the market place,

4 And said unto them, Go yee also into my vineyard, and whatsoever is right, I will give it you: and they went their way.

5 Againe hee went out about the sixth and ninth houre, and did likewise.

6 And he went about the ^b eleventh houre and found other standing idle, and said

^a Word for word, sell in time: it is a kind of speech taken from song.

^b The last hour for the day was twelve houres long, and the first hour, began at the sun-rising.

ſaid unto them, Why ſtand ye heere all the day idle?

7 They ſaid unto him, Becauſe no man hath hired us. He ſaid unto them, Goe ye alſo into my vineyard, and whatſoever is right, that ſhall yee receive.

8 ¶ And when even was come, the maſter of the vineyard ſaid unto his ſteward, Call the labourers, & give them their hire, beginning at the laſt, till thou come to the firſt.

9 And they which were hired about the eleventh houre, came and received every man a penny.

10 Now when the firſt came, they ſuppoſed that they ſhould receive more, but they likewiſe received every man a penny.

11 And when they had received it, they murmured againſt the maſter of the houſe, 12 Saying, Theſe laſt have wrought but one houre, and thou haſt made them equal unto us, which have borne the burden and heate of the day.

13 And hee answered one of them, ſaying, Friend, I do thee no wrong: didſt thou not agree with mee for a penny?

14 Take that which is thine owne, and goe thy way: I will give unto this laſt as much as to thee.

15 Is it not lawfull for mee to doe as I will with mine owne? Is thine eye evill, becauſe I am good?

16 ¶ So the laſt ſhall be firſt, and the firſt laſt: for many are called, but few choſen.

17 ¶ And Jeſus went up to Hieruſalem, and tooke the twelve diſciples apart in the way, and ſaid unto them,

18 Behold, we goe up to Hieruſalem, and the Son of man ſhall be delivered unto the chiefe Priests, and unto the Scribes, and they ſhall condemne him to death.

19 ¶ And ſhall deliver him to the Gentiles, to mock, and to ſcourge, & to crucifie him, but the third day he ſhall riſe againe.

20 ¶ Then came to him the mother of Zebedeus children with her ſons, worſhipping him, and deſiring a certaine thing of him.

21 And he ſaid unto her, What wouldeſt thou? She ſaid to him, Grant that theſe my two ſons may ſit, the one at thy right hand, and the other at thy left hand in thy kingdome.

22 And Jeſus answered & ſaid, Ye know not what ye ask. Are ye able to drink of the cup that I ſhal drink of, and to be baptized with the baptiſme that I ſhal be baptized with? They ſaid to him, We are able.

23 And he ſaid unto them, Ye ſhall drink indeed of my cup, & ſhal be baptized with the baptiſme that I am baptized with, but to ſit at my right hand, and at my left hand, is not mine to give: but it ſhall be given to them for whom it is prepared of my Father.

24 ¶ And when the other ten heard this, they diſdained at the two brethren.

25 Therefore Jeſus called them unto him, and ſaid, Yee know that the Lords of the Gentiles have domination over them, and they that are great, exerciſe authority over them:

26 But it ſhall not be ſo among you: but whoſoever will be great among you, let him be your ſervant.

27 And whoſoever will bee chiefe among you, let him bee your ſervant.

28 ¶ Even as the Son of man came not to be ſerved, but to ſerve, and to give his life for the ranſome of many.

29 ¶ And as they departed from Jericho, a great multitude followed him.

30 And behold, two blind men ſitting by the way ſide, when they heard that Jeſus paſſed by, cryed, ſaying, O Lord, the Son of David, have mercy on us.

31 And the multitude rebuked them, becauſe they ſhould hold their peace: but they cryed the more, ſaying, O Lord, the Son of David have mercy on us.

32 Then Jeſus ſtood ſtill, and called them, and ſaid, What wilt yee that I ſhould doe to you?

33 They ſaid to him, Lord, that our eyes may bee opened.

34 And Jeſus moved with compaſſion, touched their eyes, and immediately their eyes received ſight, and they followed him.

and put on them their clothes, and set him thereon.

8 And a great multitude spread their garments in the way: and other cut down branches from the trees, and strewed them in the way.

9 Moreover, the people that went before, and they also that followed, cried, saying, * Hosanna to the Son of David, * Blessed be he that commeth in the name of the Lord, Hosanna thou which art in the highst heavens.

10 * And when he was come into Hierusalem, all the city was moved, saying, Who is this?

11 And the people said, This is Jesus that Prophet of Nazareth in Galile.

12 ¶ And Jesus went into the Temple of God, and cast out all them * that sold and bought in the Temple, and overthrew the tables of the money changers, and the seats of them that sold doves, 13 And said to them, It is written, * My house shall be called the house of prayer: but * yee have made it a den of thieves.

14 * Then the blind and the halt came to him in the Temple, and he healed them.

15 * But when the chiefe Priests and Scribes saw the marveiles that he did, and the children crying in the Temple, and saying, Hosanna to the Son of David, they did disdain, 16 And said unto him, Hearest thou what these say? And Jesus said unto them, Yea: read yee never, * By the mouth of babes and sucklings thou hast made perfect the praise?

17 ¶ So hee left them, and went out of the city into Bethania, and lodged there.

18 * And in the morning, as he returned into the city, he was hungry,

19 And seeing a fig tree in the way, he came to it, and found nothing thereon, but leaves only, and said to it, Never fruit grow on thee henceforwards. And anon the fig tree withered.

20 And when his disciples saw it, they marvelled, saying, How soon is the fig tree withered?

21 * And Jesus answered and said unto them, * Verily I say unto you, if yee have faith, and * doubt not, ye shall not only do that, which I have done to the fig tree, but also if ye say unto this mountaine, Take thy selfe away, and cast thy selfe into the sea, it shall be done.

22 * And whatsoever yee shall aske in prayer, if yee belevee, yee shall receive it.

23 ¶ * And when he was come into the Temple, the chiefe Priests, and the Elders of the people came unto him, as hee was teaching, and said, By what * authority doest thou these things? and who gave thee this authority?

24 Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, I also will aske of you a certaine thing, which if you tell mee, I likewise will tell you by what authority I do these things.

25 The ^m baptisme of John, whence was it? from ^a heaven, or of men? Then they ^o reasoned among themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven, hee will say unto us, Why did ye not then belevee him?

26 And if we say, Of men, we feare the multitude, * for all hold John as a Prophet.

27 Then they answered Jesus, and said, We cannot tell. And he said unto them, Neither tell I you by what authority I do these things.

28 ¶ But what think ye? A certaine man had two sons, and came to the elder, and said, Son goe and worke to day in my vineyard.

29 But hee answered, and said, I will not: yet afterward hee repented himselfe, and went.

30 Then came hee to the second, and said likewise. And he answered, and said, I will, Sir: yet hee went not.

31 Whether of them twaine did the will of the father? They said unto him, The first. Jesus said unto them, Verily I say unto you, that the Publicanes and the harlots ^a goe before you into the kingdome of God.

32 For John came unto you in the way of righteounesse, and yee beleved him not: but the Publicanes, and the harlots beleved him, and ye, though yee saw it, were not moved with repentance afterward, that yee might belevee him.

33 ¶ Heare another parable, There was a certaine housholder, * which planted a vineyard, and hedged it round about, and made a wine presse therein, and built a towre, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into a strange countrey.

34 And when the time of the fruit drew neere, hee sent his servants to the husbandmen to receive the fruits thereof.

35 And the husbandmen rooke his servants, and beat one, and killed another, and stoned another.

36 Again he sent other servants, more then the first: and they did the like unto them.

37 But last of all hee sent unto them his owne son, saying, They will reverence my sonne.

38 But when the husbandmen saw the son, they said among themselves, * This is the heire: come, let us kill him, and let us take his inheritance.

39 So they rooke him, and cast him out of the vineyard, and slew him.

Then * 1 Jesus answered, and spake unto them againe in parables, saying,

2 The kingdom of heaven is like unto a certaine King which married his son,

3 And sent forth his servants, to call them that were bid to the wedding, but they would not come.

4 Again he sent forth other servants, saying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold, I have prepared my dinner: mine oxen and my farlings are killed, and all things are ready: come unto the marriage.

5 But they made light of it, and went their wayes, one to his farme, and another about his merchandise.

6 And the remnant tooke his servants, & intreated them sharply, and slew them.

7 * But when the King heard it, he was wroth, and sent forth his warriours, and destroyed those murtherers, and burnt up their city.

8 Then said hee to his servants, Truly the wedding is prepared: but they which were bidden, were not worthy.

9 * Go ye therefore out into the high wayes, and as many as yee find, bid them to the marriage.

10 So these servants went out into the high wayes, and gathered together all that ever they found, both good and bad: so the wedding was furnished with guests.

11 * Then the King came in to see the guests, and saw there a man which had not on a wedding garment.

12 And he said unto him, Friend, how camest thou in hither, and hast not on a wedding garment? And he was speechles.

13 Then said the King to the servants, Bind him hand and foot: take him away, and cast him into utter darknesse: there shall hee be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

14 * For many are called, but few chosen.

15 ¶ * Then went the Pharisees and tooke counsell how they might tangle him in talke.

16 And they sent unto him their disciples with the Herodians, saying, Master, wee know that thou art true, and reachest the way of God truly, neither carest thou for any man: for thou considerest not the person of men.

17 Tell us therefore, how thinkest thou? Is it lawfull to give tribute unto Cesar, or not?

18 But Jesus perceived their wickednesse, and said, Why tempt ye mee, ye hypocrites?

19 Shew mee the tribute money, And they brought him a penny.

20 And hee said unto them, Whose is this image and superscription?

21 And they said unto him, Cæsars. Then said he unto them, * Give therefore to Cesar, the things which are Cæsars, and give unto God, those things which are Gods.

22 And when they heard it, they marvelled, and left him, and went their way.

23 ¶ * The same day the Sadducees came to him (which say that there is no resurrection) and asked him,

24 Saying, Master, * Moses said, If a man die, having no children, his brother shall marry his wife by the right of alliance, and raise up seed unto his brother.

25 Now there were with us seven brethren, and the first married a wife, and deceased: and having no issue, left his wife unto his brother.

26 Likewise also the second, and the third, unto the seventh.

27 And last of all the woman died also.

28 Therefore in the resurrection, whose wife shall shee bee of the seven? for all had her.

29 Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, Ye are deceived, not knowing the Scriptures, nor the power of God.

j The Christians must obey their Magistrates, although they be wicked, and extortioners, but so farre forth as the authority that God hath over us may remain safe unto him, and his honour not be diminished.

k The word that is used here, signifieth a valuing and rating of mens substance, according to the proportion whereof they payed tribute in those provinces which were subject to tribute, and it is here taken for the tribute it selfe.

l Before, Chap. 17. 24, there is mention made of a drachme, and here of a penny, whereas a drachme is more by the seventh part then a penny: so that there seemeth to be a error in these two places: but they may easily bee accorded thus: The penny was payed to the Romans for tribute, according to the proportion they were rated at, the drachme was paid of every one to the temple, which also the Romans took to themselves, when they had subdued India.

9 But the wise answered, saying, Not so, lest there will not be enough for us and you: but go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for your selves.

10 And while they went to buy, the Bridegome came: and they that were ready, went in with him to the wedding, and the gate was shut.

12 But he answered, and said, Verily I say unto you, I know you not.

15 And unto one he gave five talents, and to another two, and to another one, to every man after his own ability, and straightway went from home.

16 Then he that had received the five talents, went and occupied with them, and gained other five talents.

17 Likewise also, he that received two, he also gained other two.

18 But he that received that one, went and digged it in the earth, and hid his masters money.

19 But after a long season, the master of those servants came, and reckoned with them.

20 Then came he that had received five talents, and brought other five talents, saying, Master, thou deliveredst unto me five talents: behold, I have gained with them other five talents.

21 Then his master said unto him, It is well done good servant, and faithfull, Thou hast been faithfull in little, I will make thee ruler over much: enter into thy masters joy.

22 Also he that had received two talents, came, and said, Master, thou deliverest unto me, two talents: behold, I have gained two other talents more.

23 His master said unto him, It is well done good servant, and faithfull, Thou hast been faithfull in little, I will make thee ruler over much: enter into thy masters joy.

24 Then he which had received the one talent, came, and said, Master, I knew that thou wast an hard man, which reapest where thou sowedst not, and gatherest where thou strawedst not:

25 I was therefore afraid, and went, and hid thy talent in the earth: behold, thou hast thine own.

26 And his master answered, and said unto him, Thou evil servant, and slothfull, thou knewest that I reape where I sowed not, and gather where I strawed not.

27 Thou oughtest therefore to have put my money to the exchangers, and then at my coming should I have received mine own with vantage.

28 Take therefore the talent from him, and give it unto him which hath ten talents.

29 * For unto every man that hath, it shall be given, and he shall have abundance, and from him that hath not, even that he hath, shall be taken away.

30 Cast therefore that unprofitable servant into utter darknesse: there shall be weeping, and gnashing of teeth.

31 ¶ And when the Sonne of man cometh in his glory, and all the holy Angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory.

32 And before him shall be gathered all nations, and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd separateth the sheep from the goats.

CHAP. XXVI.

3 The consultation of the Priests against Christ. 6 His feet are appointed. 15 Judas selleth him. 26 The institution of the Supper. 34 And 36 Peters denieth. 38 Christ is heaved. 47 He is betrayed with a kisse. 57 He is lead to Caiaphas. 64 He confesseth himself to be Christ. 67 They spit at him.

And * it came to passe, when Jesus had finished all these sayings, he said unto his disciples,

2 Ye know that after two dayes is the Passeover, and the Son of man shall be delivered to be crucified.

3 * Then assembled together the chief Priests, and the Scribes, and the elders of the people into the hall of the high Priest called Caiaphas,

4 And consulted together that they might take Jesus by subtiltie, and kill him.

5 But they said, Not on the * feast day, lest any uproare be among the people.

6 ¶ * 3 And when Jesus was in Bethania, in the house of Simon the leper,

7 There came unto him a woman, which had a box of very costly ointment, & poured it on his head, as he sat at the table.

8 And when his disciples saw it, they had indignation, saying, What needeth this waste?

9 For this ointment might have been sold for much, and been givē to the poore.

10 And Jesus knowing it, said unto them, Why trouble ye the woman? for she hath wrought a good work upon me.

11 * For ye have the poore alwayes with you, but me shall ye not have alwayes.

12 For in that she poured this ointment on my body, she did it to bury me.

13 Verily I say unto you, Where soever this Gospel shall be preached throughout all the world, there shall also this that she hath done, be spoken of for a memoriall of her.

14 ¶ Then one of the twelve, called Judas Iscariot, went unto the chief Priests, 15 And said, What will ye give me, and I will deliver him unto you? And they appointed unto him thirtie pieces of silver.

16 And from that time he sought opportunity to betray him.

17 ¶ * Now on the first day of the feast of unleavened bread, the disciples came to Jesus, saying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the Passeover?

18 And he said, Go ye into the citie to such a man, and say to him, The Master saith, My time is at hand: I will keep the Passeover at thine house with my disciples.

19 And the disciples did as Jesus had given them charge, and made ready the Passeover.

20 * So when the even was come, he sat down with the twelve.

21 And as they did eat, he said, * Verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me.

22 And they were exceeding sorrowfull, and began every one of them to say unto him, Is it I, Master?

23 And he answered, and said, * He that dippeth his hand with me in the dish, he shall betray me.

24 Surely the Sonne of man goeth his way, as it is written of him: but wo be to that man, by whom the Son of man is betrayed: it had been good for that man, if he had never been born.

25 Then Judas * which betrayed him, answered and said, Is it I, Master? He said unto him, Thou hast said it.

26 ¶ * And as they did eat, Jesus took the bread, and when he had blessed, he brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat: * This is my body.

27 Also he took the cup, and when he had given thanks, he gave it to them, saying, Drink ye * all of it.

28 * For this is my blood of the new Testament, that is shed for many, for the remission of sinnes.

29 I say unto you, that I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine untill that day, when I shall drink it new with you in my Fathers kingdom.

30 And when they had sung a Psalm, they went out into the mount of Olives.

31 ¶ * Then said Jesus unto them, All ye shall be offended by me this night: for it is written, I * will smite the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered.

32 But * after I am risen again, I will go before you into Galilee.

5 This was the fourteenth day of the first month: and the first day of unleavened bread should have been the thirtieth, but because the dayes evening (which after the manner of the Jews, was referred to the day before) did belong to the day following, therefore it is called the first day of unleavened bread.

8 Because the Law appointed them to be food, and have their slaves in their hands, as though they were in haste, thereby it was to be gathered, that they were not to be gathered, but to be gathered, for otherwise when they went to meat, they put of their shoes: therefore he speaketh here in this place, not of the Passeover, but of the Supper which was celebrated after that the Passeover was solemnly done.

¶ Mar. 14. 27. Had given thanks: and therefore blessing is not a consecrating, with a conjuring kind of murmuring and force of words, and yet the bread and the wine are changed, not in nature, but in quality, for they become sanctified tokens of the body and blood of Christ, not of their own nature or force of words, but by Christ's institution, which must be received, and lastly, that which may be said to be the sign and sacrament of his body, and yet not without meaning, it is a figurative speech, which is called to lay hold on, both in the word and in the element. ¶ This is a figurative speech, which is called to lay hold on, that is to say, the putting of one name for another: so calling the bread his body, which is the sign and sacrament of his body: and yet not without meaning, it is a figurative speech, which is called to lay hold on, that the faithful do receive Christ in deeds with all his gifts (though by a spiritual means) and become one with him. ¶ Therefore they which took away the cup from the people, did against Christ his institution. ¶ To wit, This cup or wine, is my blood sacramentally: as Luke 22. 20. ¶ By this word Feast, is meant the whole feast of unleavened bread: the first and eight day whereof, were so holy, that they might do no manner of work therein, though the whole company of the Sanhedrin determined otherwise: And yet it came to passe, through Gods providence, that Christ suffered at that time, to the end that all the people of Israel might be witnesses of his glorifying sacrifice.

33 But Peter answered, and said unto him, Though that all men should be offended by thee, yet will I never be offended.

34 * Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, that this night, before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice.

35 Peter said unto him, Though I should die with thee, I will in no case deny thee. Likewise also said all the disciples.

36 ¶ * Then went Jesus with them into a place which is called Gethsemane, and said unto his disciples, Sit ye here, while I go, and pray yonder.

37 And he took unto him Peter, and the two sonnes of Zebedeus, and began to waxe sorrowfull, and grievously troubled.

38 ¹⁰ Then said Jesus unto them, My soul is very heavie, even unto the death: tarie ye here, and watch with me.

39 So he went a little further, and fell on his face, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup passe from me: neverthelesse, not as I will, but as thou wilt.

40 ¹¹ After, he came unto the disciples, and found them asleep, and said to Peter, What? could ye not watch with me one houre?

41 Watch, and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit indeed is ready, but the flesh is weak.

42 Again he went away the second time, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if this cup cannot passe away from me, but that I must drink it, thy will be done.

43 And he came, and found them asleep again, for their eyes were heavie.

44 So he left them, and went away again, and prayed the third time, saying the same words.

45 Then came he to his disciples, and said unto them, Sleep henceforth, and take your rest: behold, the houre is at hand, and the Sonne of man is given into the hands of sinners.

46 ¹² Rise, let us go: behold, he is at hand that betrayeth me.

47 * And while he yet spake, lo, Judas one of the twelve came, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, from the high Priests and Elders of the people.

48 Now he that betrayed him, had given them a token, saying, Whomsoever I shall kisse, that is he, lay hold on him.

49 And forthwith he came to Jesus, and said, God save thee, Master, and kissed him.

50 ¹³ Then Jesus said unto him, * Friend, wherefore art thou come? Then came they and laid hands on Jesus, and took him.

51 And behold, one of them which were with Jesus, stretched out his hand, and drew his sword, and stroke a servant of the high Priest, and smote off his eare.

52 ¹⁴ Then said Jesus unto him, Put up thy sword into his place: * for all that take the sword, shall perish with the sword.

53 ¹⁵ Either thinkest thou, that I cannot now pray to my Father, and he will give me more then twelve legions of Angels?

54 * How then should the * Scriptures be fulfilled, which say, that it must be so?

55 The same houre said Jesus to the multitude, Ye be come out as it were against a thiefe, with swords and staves to take me: I sat daily teaching in the Temple among you, and ye took me not.

56 But all this was done, that the Scriptures of the Prophets might be fulfilled.

* Then all the disciples forsooke him and fled.

57 ¶ * ¹⁶ And they took Jesus, and led him to * Caiaphas the high Priest, where the Scribes and the Elders were assembled.

58 And Peter followed him afarre off unto the high Priests hall, and went in, and sate with the servants to see the end.

59 Now * the chief Priests and the Elders, and all the whole Councel sought false witness against Jesus, to put him to death.

60 But they found none, and though many false witnesses came, yet found they none: but at the last came two false witnesses,

61 And said, This man said, * I can destroy the Temple of God, and build it in three dayes.

62 Then the chief Priests arose, and said to him, Answerest thou nothing? * What is the matter that these men witness against thee?

63 But Jesus held his peace. Then the chief Priest answered, and said to him, I charge thee sweare unto us by the living God, to tell us, If thou be that Christ the Sonne of God, or no.

64 * Jesus said to him, Thou hast said it: neverthelesse I say unto you, * hereafter shall ye see the Sonne of man, sitting * at the right hand of the power of God, and come in the cloudes of the heaven.

65 Then the high Priest rent his cloths, saying, He hath blasphemed, what have we any more neede of witnesses? behold, now ye have heard his blasphemie.

66 What think ye? They answered, and said, He is guilty of death.

67 * Then spat they in his face, and buffeted him, and other smote him with rods, 68 Saying, Prophecie to us, O Christ, Who is he that smote thee?

30 Christ a true man going about to suffer the punishment which was due unto us, for forsaking of God, is forsaken of his own: he hath a terrible conflict with the honor and feare of God: out of which he escapeth, as congeatour, causeth us not to be any more afraid of death.

72 And again he denied with an oath, saying, I know not the man.

73 So after a while, came unto him they that stood by, and said unto Peter, Surely thou art also one of them : for even thy speech bewrayeth thee.

74 Then began he to curse himself, and to sweare, saying, I know not the man. And immediately the cock crew.

75 Then Peter remembred the words of Jesus, which had said unto him, Before the cock crow thou shalt deny me thrice. So he went out, and wept bitterly.

C H A P. XXVII.

3 He is delivered bound to Pilate. 5 Judas hangeth himself. 19 Pilates wife. 20 Barabbas is asked. 24 Pilate washeth his hands. 29 Christ is crowned with thorns. 34 He is crucified. 40 Reviled. 50 He giveth up the ghost. 57 He is buried. 62 The souldiers watch him.

W H E N * the morning was come, all the chief Priests, and the Elders of the people took counsell against Jesus, to put him to death.

2 And ledde him away bound, and delivered him unto Pontius Pilate the governour.

3 ¶ Then when Judas which betrayed him, saw that he was condemned, he repented himself, and brought again the thirtie pieces of silver to the chief Priests and Elders,

4 Saying, I have sinned, betraying the innocent blood. But they said, What is that to us ? see thou to it.

5 And when he had cast down the silver pieces, in the Temple, he departed, and went, * and hanged himself.

6 And the chief Priests took the silver pieces, and said, It is not lawfull for us to put them into the^btreasurie, because it is the price^c of blood.

7 And they took counsel, and bought with them a potters field, for the buriall of^d strangers.

8 Wherefore that field is called, * The field of blood, unto this day.

9 (Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by^e Jeremias the Prophet, saying, * And they took thirtie silver pieces, the price of him that was valued, whom they of the children of Israel valued.

10 And they gave them for the Potters field, as the Lord appointed me.)

11 ¶ And Jesus stood before the governour, and the governour asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jewes? Jesus said unto him, Thou sayest it.

12 And when he was accused of the chief Priests and Elders, he answered nothing.

13 Then said Pilate unto him, Hearest thou not how many things they lay against thee?

14 But he answered him not to one word, in so much that the governour marvelled greatly.

15 Now at the feast, the governour was wont to deliver unto the people a prisoner whom they would.

16 And they had then a notable prisoner, called Barabbas.

17 When they were then gathered together, Pilate said unto them, Whether will ye that I let loose unto you Barabbas, or Jesus which is called Christ?

18 (For he knew well that for envie they had delivered him.)

19 Also when he was set down upon the judgement seate, his wife sent to him, saying, Have thou nothing to do with that just man : for I have suffered many things this day in a dreame by reason of him.)

20 * But the chief Priests and the Elders had perswaded the people that they should ask Barabbas, and should destroy Jesus.

21 Then the governour answered, and said unto them, Whether of the twain will ye that I let loose unto you? And they said, Barabbas.

22 Pilate said unto them, What shall I doe then with Jesus, which is called Christ? They all said to him, Let him be crucified.

23 Then said the governour, But what evill hath he done? Then they cried the more, saying, Let him be crucified.

24 * When Pilate saw that he availed nothing, but that more tumult was made, he took water and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the^b blood of this just man : look you to it.

25 Then answered all the people, and said, His blood be on us, & on our children.

26 Thus let he Barabbas loose unto them, and scourged Jesus, and delivered him to be crucified.

27 ¶ Then the souldiers of the governour took Jesus into the common hall, and gathered about him the whole band,

28 And they stripped him, and put about him a skarlet robe,

29 And platted a crown of thorns, and put it upon his head, and a reed in his right hand, and bowed their knees before him, and

10 John and Mark make mention of a purple robe, which is also a very pleasant red. But these prophets and apostles sawe, souldiers did Jesus in this way to mock him, & to make him a true King.

and mocked him, saying, God save the king of the Jewes,

30 And spitted upon him, and took a reed, and smote him on the head.

33 * And when they came unto the place called Golgotha, (that is to say, the place of dead mens sculles)

35 ¶ And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, and did cast lots, that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the Prophet, * They divided my garments among them, and upon my vesture they did cast lots.

36 And they sat, and watched him there.

37 ¶ They set up also over his head, his cause written, THIS IS JESUS THE KING OF THE JEWES.

38 ¶ And there were two thieves crucified with him, one on the right hand, and another on the left.

39 And they that passed by, reviled him, wagging their heads,

40 And saying, * Thou that destroyest the Temple, and buildest it in three dayes, save thy self: if thou be the Sonne of God, come down from the crosse.

41 Likewise also the high Priests mocking him, with the Scribes, and Elders, and Pharises, said, 42 He saved others, but he cannot save himself: if he be the King of Israel, let him now come down from the crosse, and we will belevee in him.

43 * He trusted in God, let him deliver him now, if he will have him: for he said, I am the Sonne of God.

44 The selfsame thing also the thieves which were crucified with him, cast in his teeth.

45 Now from the sixth houre was there darknesse over all the land, unto the ninth houre.

46 And about the ninth houre Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, * Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani? that is, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

47 And some of them that stood there, when they heard it, said, This man calleth Elias.

48 And straightway one of them ranne, and took a sponge, and filled it with vineger, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink.

49 Other said, Let be: let us see, if Elias will come and save him.

50 Then Jesus cried again with a loud voice, and yeelded up the ghost.

51 And behold, the vaile of the Temple was rent in twain, from the top to the bottom, and the earth did quake, and the stones were cloven,

52 And the graves did open themselves, and many bodies of the Saints, which slept, arose, 53 And came out of the graves after his resurrection, and went into the holy cite, and appeared unto many.

54 When the Centurion, and they that were with him watching Jesus, saw the earthquake, and the things that were done, they feared greatly, saying, Truly this was the Sonne of God.

55 And many women were there; beholding him afarre off, which had followed Jesus from Galilee, ministring unto him.

56 Among whom was Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Joses, and the mother of Zebedeus sonnes.

57 ¶ And when the even was come, there came a rich man of Arimathea, named Joseph, who had also himself been Jesus disciple.

58 He went to Pilate, and asked the body of Jesus. Then Pilate commanded the body to be delivered.

59 So Joseph took the body, and wrapped it in a clean linnen cloth.

60 And put it in his new tombe, which he had hewn out in a rock, and rolled a great stone to the doore of the sepulchre, and departed.

61 And there was Mary Magdalene, and the other Mary sitting over against the sepulchre.

62 ¶ Now the next day that followed the Preparation of the Sabbath, the high Priests and Pharises assembled to Pilate, 63 And said, Sir, we remember that that deceiver said, while he was yet alive, Within three dayes I will rise.

64 Command therefore, that the sepulchre be made sure untill the third day, lest his disciples come by night, and steale him away, and say unto the People, He is risen from the dead: so shall the last error be worse then the first.

65 Then Pilate said unto them, Ye have a watch: go, and make it sure as ye know.

66 And they went, and made the sepulchre sure with the watch, and sealed the stone.

e. Christ appeareth himself after his resurrection, and sending the women to his disciples, sheweth that he hath not forgotten them.

Now * in the end of the Sabbath, when the first day of the week began to dawn, Mary Magdalene, and the other Mary came to see the sepulchre.

2 And behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the doore, and sat upon it.

3 And his countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow.

4 And for feare of him the keepers were astonished, and became as dead men.

5 But the Angel answered, and said to the women, Feare ye not: for I know that ye seek Jesus which was crucified,

6 He is not here, for he is risen, as he said: come, see the place where the Lord was laid,

7 And go quickly, and tell his disciples, that he is risen from the dead: and behold, he goeth before you into Galilee: there ye shall see him, lo, I have told you.

8 So they departed quickly from the sepulchre, with feare and great joy, and did runne to bring his disciples word.

9 * And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, Jesus also met them, saying, God save you. And they came, and took him by the feet, and worshipped him.

10 Then said Jesus unto them, Be not afraid. Go, and tell my brethren, that they goe into Galile, and there shall they see me.

11 ¶ Now when they were gone, behold, some of the watch came into the city, and shewed unto the high Priests all the things that were done.

12 And they gathered them together with the Elders, and they took counsell, and gave large money unto the souldiers, 13 Saying, Say, His disciples came by night and stole him away while we slept.

14 And if this matter come before the governour to be heard, we will perswade him, and so use the matter that you shall not need to care.

15 So they took the money, and did as they were taught: and this saying is noyed among the Jewes unto this day.

16 ¶ Then the eleven disciples went into Galilee, into a mountain where Jesus had appointed them.

17 And when they saw him, they worshipped him: but some doubted.

18 And Jesus came, and spake unto them, saying, * All power is given unto me, in heaven and in earth.

19 * Go therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the Name of the Father, and the Sonne, and the holy Ghost,

8 Truth it is, I have ^f baptized you with water: but he will baptize you with the holy Ghost.

9 ¶ * And it came to passe in those dayes, that Jesus came from Nazareth, a citie of Galilee, and was baptized of John in Jordan.

10 And as soon as ^g he was come out of the water, John saw the heavens cloven in twain, and the holy Ghost descending upon him like a dove.

11 Then there was a voice from heaven, saying, Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am ^h well pleased.

12 * And immediately the spirit ⁱ dri- veth him into the wilderness.

13 And he was there in the wilderness fourtie dayes, and was tempted of Satan: he was also with the wilde beasts, and the Angels ministred unto him.

14 ¶ * Now after that John was com- mitted to prison, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the Gospel of the kingdome of God,

15 And saying, The time is fulfilled, and the kingdome of God is at hand: repent and beleeve the Gospel.

16 ¶ * And as he walked by the sea of Galilee, he saw Simon, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea, (for they were fishers,)

17 Then Jesus said unto them, Fol- low me, and I will make you to be fishers of men.

18 And straightway they forsook their nets, and followed him.

19 And when he had gone a little fur- ther thence, he saw James the sonne of Ze- bedeus, and John his brother, as they were in the ship, mending their nets.

20 And anon he called them: and they left their father Zebedeus in the ship with his hired servants, and went their way after him.

21 ¶ So * they entred into ^k Caperna- um, and straightway on the Sabbath day he entred into the Synagogue, and taught.

22 And they were astonished at his do- ctrine, * for he taught them, as one that had authoritie, and not as the Scribes.

23 ¶ ^l And there was in their Syna- gogue, a man ⁱ in whom was an unclean spirit, and he cried out, 24 Saying, Ah, what have we to do with thee, O ^m Jesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destroy us? I know thee what thou art, even that ⁿ Holy one of God.

25 And Jesus rebuked him, saying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him.

26 And the unclean spirit ^o tare him, and cried with a loud voice, and came out of him.

27 And they were all amazed, so that they demanded one ^p of another, saying, What thing is this? what new doctrine is this? for he ^q commandeth even the foule spirits with authoritie, and they obey him.

28 And immediately his fame spread a- broad throughout all the region bordering on Galilee.

29 ¶ ^r And as soon as they were come out of the Synagogue, they entred into the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John.

30 And Simons wives mother lay sick of a fever, and anon they told him of her.

31 And he came & took her by the hand, and lifted her up, and the fever forsook her by and by, and he ministred unto them.

32 And when even was come, at what time the sun setteth, they brought unto him all that were diseased, and them that were possessed with devils.

33 And the whole citie was gathered to- gether at the doore.

34 And he healed many that were sick of divers diseases: and he cast out many devils, and ^s suffered not the devils to say that they knew him.

35 And in the morning very early be- fore day, Jesus arose and went out into a so- litarie place, and there prayed.

36 And Simon, and they that were with him, followed carefully after him.

37 And when they had found him, they said unto him, All men seek for thee.

38 Then he said unto them, Let us go into the ^t next townes, that I may preach there also: for I came out for that purpose.

39 And he preached in their Syna- gogues throughout all Galilee, and cast the devils out.

40 ¶ ^u And there came a leper to him, beseeching him, and kneeled down unto him, & said to him, If thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.

41 And Jesus had compassion, and put forth his hand, and touched him, and said to him, I will: be thou clean.

42 And as soon as he had spoken, imme- diately the leprosie departed from him, and he was made clean.

43 And after he had given him a strait commandement, he sent him away forth- with,

44 ^v And said unto him, See thou say nothing to any man, but get thee hence, & shew thy self to the ^w Priest, and offer for thy cleansing those things, which Moses commanded for a testimoniall unto them.

45 But when he was departed, ^x he be- gan to tell many things, and to publish the matter: so that Jesus could no more open- ly enter into the citie, but was without in desert places: and they came to him from every quarter.

AFTER * a few daies, he entred into Capernaum again, and it was noised that he was in the house.

2 And anon, many gathered together, in so much that the places about the doore could not receive any more: and he preached the word unto them.

3 And there came unto him, that brought one sick of the palsey, born of foure men.

4 And because they could not come neare unto him for the multitude, they uncovered the roof of the house where he was: and when they had broken it open, they let down the bed, wherein the sick of the palsey lay.

5 Now when Jesus saw their faith, he said to the sick of the palsey, Sonne, thy sins are forgiven thee.

6 And there were certain of the Scribes sitting there, and reasoning in their hearts,

7 Why doth this man speak such blasphemies? * Who can forgive sins, but God onely?

8 And immediately when Jesus perceived in his spirit, that thus they reasoned with themselves, he said unto them, Why reason ye these things in your hearts?

9 Whether is it easier to say to the sick of the Palsey, thy finnes are forgiven thee? or to say, Arise, take up thy bed, and walk?

10 But that ye may know, that the Son of man hath authority in earth to forgive finnes, (he said unto the sick of the palsey)

11 I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy bed, and get thee hence into thine own house.

12 And by and by he arose, and took up his bed, and went forth before them all, in so much that they were all amazed, and glorified God, saying, We never saw such a thing.

13 ¶ Then he went forth again toward the sea, and all the people resorted unto him, and he taught them.

14 * And as Jesus passed by, he saw Levi the sonne of Alphaeus sit at the receipt of custome, and said unto him, Follow me. And he arose and followed him.

15 ¶ And it came to passe, as Jesus sate at table in his house, many Publicanes and sinners sate at table also with Jesus, and his Disciples: for there were many that followed him.

16 And when the Scribes and Pharisees saw him eat with the Publicanes and sinners, they said unto his Disciples, How is it that he eateth and drinketh with Publicanes and sinners?

17 Now when Jesus heard it, he said unto them, The whole have no need of a Physician, but the sick. * I came not to call the righteous, but the sinners to repentance.

18 * And the Disciples of John, and the Pharisees did fast, and came and said unto him, Why do the Disciples of John, and of the Pharisees fast, and thy disciples fast not?

19 And Jesus said unto them, Can the children of the marriage chamber fast, whiles the bridegrome is with them? as long as they have the bridegrome with them: they cannot fast.

20 But the dayes will come, when the bridegrome shall be taken from them, and then shall they fast in those dayes.

21 Also no man soweth a piece of new cloth in an old garment: for else the new piece that filled it up, taketh away somewhat from the old, and the breach is worse.

22 Likewise no man putteth new wine into old vessels: for els the new wine breaketh the vessels, and the wine runneth out, and the vessels are lost: but new wine must be put into new vessels.

23 ¶ * And it came to passe as he went through the corn on the Sabbath day, that his Disciples, as they went on their way, began to pluck the eares of corn.

24 And the Pharisees said unto him, Behold, why do they on the Sabbath day, that which is not lawfull?

25 And he said to them, Have ye never read what David did when he had need, and was an hungred, both he, and they that were with him?

26 How he went into the house of God, in the dayes of Abiathar the high Priest, and did eat the shew-bread, which was not lawfull to eat, but for the Priests, and gave also to them which were with him?

27 And he said to them, The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath.

28 Wherefore the Son of man is Lord, even of the Sabbath.

^c The self same doctrine of the Gospel is sowed every where, but it hath not like success, indeed, through the fault of men, but yet by the just judgement of God.

and the thornes grew up, and choked it, so that it gave no fruit.

8 Some again fell in good ground, and did yeeld fruit that sprung up, and it grew, and it brought forth, some thirtie fold, some sixtie fold, and some an hundred fold.

9 Then he said unto them, He that hath eares to heare, let him heare.

10 And when he was ^c alone, they that were ^d about him with the twelve, asked him of the parable.

11 And he said unto them, To you it is given to know the mysterie of the kingdome of God: but unto them that are ^e without, all things be done in parables, 12 * That they seeing, may see, and not discern: and they hearing, may heare, and not understand, lest at any time they should turne, and their sinnes should be forgiven them.

13 Again he said unto them, Perceive ye not this parable? how then should ye understand all other parables?

14 The sower soweth the word.

15 And these are they that receive the seed by the wayes side, in whom the word is sown: but when they have heard it, Satan cometh immediately, and taketh away the word that was sown in their hearts.

16 And likewise they that receive the seed in stonie ground, are they, which when they have heard the word, straightwayes receive it with gladnesse, 17 Yet have they no root in themselves, and endure but a time: for when trouble and persecution ariseth for the word, immediately they be offended.

18 Also they that receive the seed among the thornes, are such as heare the word:

19 But the cares ^f of this world, and the * deceitfulnesse of riches, and the lusts of other things enter in, and choak the word, and it is unfruitfull.

20 But they that have received seed in good ground, are they that heare the word, and receive it, and bring forth fruit: one corn thirtie, another sixtie, and some an hundred.

21 ¶ Also he said unto them, * Cometh the candle in, to be put under a bushell, or under the bed, and not to be put on a candlestick?

22 * For there is nothing hid, that shall not be opened: neither is there a secret, but that it shall come to light.

23 If any man have eares to heare, let him heare.

24 ³ And he said unto them, Take heed what ye heare, * With what measure you mete, it shall be measured unto you: and unto you that heare, shall more be given.

25 * For unto him that hath, shall it be given, and from him that hath not, shall be taken away, even that he hath.

26 ¶ Also he said, So is the kingdome of God, as if a man should cast seed in the ground, 27 And should sleep, and rise up night and day, and the seed should spring and grow up, ^h he not knowing how.

28 For the earth bringeth forth ⁱ fruit of it self, first the blade, then the eares, after that, full corn in the eares.

29 And as soon as the fruit sheweth it self, anon he putteth in the sickle, because the harvest is come.

30 ¶ He said moreover, Whereunto shall we liken the kingdome of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it?

31 It is like a grain of mustard seed, which when it is sown in the earth, is the least of all seeds that be in the earth:

32 But after that it is sown, it groweth up, and is greatest of all herbes, and beareth great branches, so that the fowles of the heaven may build under the shadow of it.

33 And * with many such parables he preached the word unto them, ^k as they were able to heare it.

34 And without parables spake he nothing unto them: but he ^l expounded all things to his Disciples apart.

35 ¶ Now the same day when even was come, he said unto them, Let us passe over unto the other side.

36 And they left the multitude, and took him as he was in the ship, and there were also with him other little ships.

37 * And there arose a great storm of winde, and the waves dashed into the ship, so that it was now full.

38 And he was in the sterne asleep on a pillow: and they awoke him, and said to him, Master, carest thou not that we perish?

39 And he arose up, and rebuked the winde, and said unto the sea, Peace, and be still. So the winde ceased, and it was a great calm.

40 Then he said unto them, ^m Why are ye so fearfull? how is it that ye have no faith?

41 And they feared exceedingly, and said one to another, Who is this, that both the winde and the sea obey him?

5 And alwaies both night and day he cried in the mountains, and in the graves, and strook himself with stones.

6 And when he saw Jesus as farre off, he ran, and worshipped him,

7 And cried with a loud voice, and said, What have I to do with thee, Jesus the Sonne of the most high God? I ^c will that thou sweare to me by God, that thou torment me not.

8 (For he said unto him, Come out of the man, thou unclean spirit.)

9 And he asked him, What is thy name? and he answered, saying, My name is Legion: for we are many.

10 And he ^d prayed him instantly, that he would not send them away out of the countrey.

11 Now there was there in the ^e mountains, a great herd of swine, feeding.

12 And all the devils besought him, saying, Send us into the swine, that we may enter into them.

13 And incontinently Jesus gave them leave. Then the unclean spirits went out, & entred into the swine, and the herd ranne headlong from the high banck into the ^f sea, (& there were about two thousand swine) and they were choaked up in the sea.

14 And the swineherds fled, and told it in the citie, and in the countrey, and they came out to see what it was that was done.

15 And they came to Jesus, and saw him that had been possessed with the devil, and had the Legion, sit both clothed, and in his right minde: and they were afraid.

16 And they that saw it, told them, what was done to him that was possessed with the devill, and concerning the swine.

17 Then they began to pray him, that he would depart from their coasts.

18 And when he was come into the ship, he that had been possessed with the devill, prayed him that he might be with him.

19 Howbeit, Jesus would not suffer him, but said unto him, Go thy way home to thy friends, and shew them what great things the Lord hath done unto thee, and how he hath had compassion on thee.

20 So he departed, and began to publish in Decapolis, what great things Jesus had done unto him: and all men did marvell.

21 ¶ And when Jesus was come over again by ship unto the other side, a great

22 * And ^g behold, there came one of the rulers of the Synagogue, whose name was Jairus: and when he saw him, he fell down at his feet,

23 And besought him instantly, saying, My little daughter lieth at point of death: I pray thee that thou wouldest come and lay thine hands on her, that she may be healed and live.

24 Then he went with him, and a great multitude followed him, and thronged him.

25 (2 And there was a certain woman, which was diseased with an issue of blood twelve yeares, 28 For she said, If I may but touch his clothes, I shall be whole.

29 And straightway the course of her blood was dried up, and she felt in her body, that she was healed of that plague.

30 And immediately when Jesus did know in himself the vertue that went out of him, he turned him round about in the preasse, and said, Who hath touched my clothes?

31 And his disciples said unto him, Thou seest the multitude throng thee, and sayest thou, Who did touch me?

32 And he looked round about to see her that had done that.

33 And the woman feared and trembled: for she knew what was done in her, and she came and fell down before him; and told him the whole truth.

34 And he said to her; Daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole: go in peace, and be whole of thy plague.)

35 While he yet spake, there came from the ^h same ruler of the Synagogues house, certain which said, Thy daughter is dead: why diseasest thou the Master any further?

36 * As soon as Jesus heard that word spoken, he said unto the ruler of the Synagogue, Be not afraid: onely beleve.

37 And he suffered no man to follow him, save Peter and James, and John the brother of James:

38 So he came unto the house of the ruler of the Synagogue, and saw the tumult, and them that wept and wailed greatly.

39 And he went in, and said unto them, Why make ye this trouble, and weep? the child is not dead, but sleepeth.

19 Therefore Herodias m laid wait against him, and would have killed him, but she could not:

20 For Herod feared John, knowing that he was a just man, and an holy, and revered him, and when he heard him, he did many things, and heard him gladly.

26 Then the king was very sorry: yet for his oathes sake, and for their sakes which sat at table with him, he would not refuse her.

32 * So they went by ship out of the way into a desert place.

33 But the people saw them when they departed, & many knew him, and ranne a-foot thither out of all cities, and came thither before them, and assembled unto him.

34 * Then Jesus went out, and saw a great multitude, and had compassion on them, because they were like sheep which had no shepherd: * and he began to teach them many things.

36 Let them depart, that they may go into the countrey and townes about, and buy them bread: for they have nothing to eat.

37 But he answered, and said unto them, Give ye them to eat. And they said unto him, Shall we go and buy two hundred penie worth of bread, and give them to eat?

38 * Then he said unto them, How many loaves have ye? go & look. And when they knew it, they said, Five, and two fishes.

39 So he commanded them to make them all sit down by companies upon the green grasse.

40 Then they sat down by rows, by hundreds, and by fifties.

41 And he took the five loaves, and the two fishes, & looked up to heaven, & gave thanks, and brake the loaves, and gave them to his disciples to set before them, and the two fishes he divided among them all.

42 So they did all eat, and were satisfied.

43 And they took up twelve baskets full of the fragments, and of the fishes.

44 And they that had eaten, were about five thousand men.

45 ¶ And straightway he caused his disciples to go into the ship, and to go before unto the other side unto Bethsaida, while he sent away the people.

46 Then as soone as he had sent them away, he departed into a mountain to pray.

47 * And when even was come, the ship was in the middes of the sea, and he alone on the land.

48 And he saw them troubled in rowing, (for the winde was contrary unto them) and about the fourth watch of the night, he came unto them walking upon the sea, and would have passed by them.

49 And when they saw him walking upon the sea, they supposed it had been a spirit, and cried out.

50 For they all saw him, and were fore afraid: but anon he talked with them, and said unto them, Be ye of good comfort: it is I, be not afraid.

51 Then he went up unto them into the ship, and the winde ceased, and they were much more amazed in themselves, and marvelled.

52 For they had not considered the matter of the loaves, because their hearts were hardened.

53 ¶ And they came over, and went into the land of Gennefaret, and arrived.

54 * So when they were come out of the ship, straightway they knew him,

12 So ye suffer him no more to doe any thing for his father, or his mother, 13 Making the word of God of none authoritie, by your tradition which ye have ordained: & ye doe many such like things.

14^{*} Then he called the whole multitude unto him, and said unto them, Hearken you all unto me, and understand.

15 There is nothing without a man, that can defile him, when it entreteth into him: but the things which proceed out of him, are they which defile the man.

16 If any have eares to heare, let him heare.

17 And when he came into an house, away from the people, his disciples asked him concerning the parable.

18 And he said unto them, What are ye without understanding also? Doe ye not know that whatsoever thing from without entreteth into a man, cannot defile him, 19 Because it entreteth not into his heart, but into the belly, and goeth out into the draught, which is the^h purging of all meats?

20 Then he said, That which commeth out of man, that defileth man.

21^{*} For from within, even out of the heart of men proceed evill thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murthers, 22 Thefts, ⁱ covetousnesse, wickednesse, deceit, uncleannesse, a^k wicked eye, backbiting, pride, foolishnesse.

23 All these evill things come from within, and defile a man.

24 ¶⁶ And from thence he arose, and went into the borders of Tyrus and Sidon, and entred into an house, and would that no man should have knowne: but he could not be hid.

25 For a certain woman, whose little daughter had an unclean spirit, heard of him, and came, and fell at his feet, 26 (And the woman was a^m Greeke, aⁿ Sirophenissian by nation) and she besought him that he would cast out the devill out of her daughter.

27 But Jesus said unto her, Let the children first be fedde: for it is not good to take the childrens bread, and to cast it unto^o whelps.

28 Then she answered, and said unto him, ^p Truth Lord: yet indeede the whelps eate under the table of the childrens crummes.

29 Then he said unto her, For this saying, goe thy way: the devill is gone out of thy daughter.

30 And when she was come home to her house, she found the devill departed, and her daughter lying on the bed.

31 ¶ And he departed againe from the coasts of Tyrus and Sidon, and came unto the sea of Galilee, through the midds of the coasts of^q Decapolis.

32 And they brought unto him one that was deafe, and stammered in his speech, and prayed him to put his hand upon him.

33 Then he tooke him aside from the multitude, and put his fingers in his eares, and did spit, and touched his tongue.

34 And looking up to heaven, he sighed, and said unto him, Ephphatha, that is, Be opened.

35 And straightway his eares were opened, and the string of his tongue was loosed: and he spake plain.

36 And he commanded them that they should tell no man: but how much soever he forbade them, the more a great deale they published it,

37 And were beyond measure astonied, saying, * He hath done all things well: he maketh both the deafe to heare, and the dumbe to speake.

6 Then he commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground: and he took the seven loaves, and gave thanks, brake them, and gave to his Disciples to set before them, and they did set them before the people.

7 They had also a few small fishes: and when he had given thanks, he commanded them also to be set before them.

8 So they did eat, and were sufficed, and they took up of the broken meat that was left, seven baskets full.

10 ¶ And anon he entred into a ship with his Disciples, and came into the parts of Dalmanutha.

11 ¶ And the Pharisees^b came forth, and began to dispute with him, seeking of him a signe from heaven, & tempting him.

12 Then he^c sighed deeply in his spirit, and said, Why doeth this generation seek a signe? Verily I say unto you, ^dA signe shall not be given unto this generation.

13 ¶ So he left them, and went into the ship again, and departed to the other side.

14 ¶ And they had forgotten to take bread, neither had they in the ship with them, but one loafe.

15 ^eAnd he charged them, saying, Take heed, and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and of the leaven of Herod.

16 ¶ And they reasoned among themselves, saying, It is, because we have no bread.

28 And they answered, Some say, John Baptist: and some, Elias: and some, one of the Prophets.

29 And he said unto them, But whom say ye that I am? Then Peter answered, and said unto him, Thou art that Christ.

30 ¶ And he sharply charged them, that concerning him they should tell no man.

31 ¶ Then he began to teach them, that the Sonne of man must suffer many things, and should be reproved of the Elders, and of the high Priests, and of the Scribes, and be slain, and within three dayes rise again.

32 ¶ And he spake that thing boldly. Then Peter took him aside, and began to rebuke him.

33 Then he turned back, and looked on his Disciples, and rebuked Peter, saying, Get thee behinde me, Satan: for thouⁱ understandest not the things that are of God, but the things that are of men.

3 And his raiment did ^b shine, and was very white as snow, so white as no fuller can make upon the earth.

4 And there appeared unto them Elias with Moses, and they were talking with Jesus.

5 Then Peter answered, and said to Jesus, Master, it is good for us to be here: let us make also three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

6 Yet he knew not what he said, for they were ^c afraid.

7 And there was a cloud that shadowed them, and a voice came out of the cloud, saying, ^{*} This is my beloved Sonne: heare him.

8 And suddenly they looked round about, and saw no more any man save Jesus onely with them.

9 ^{* 2} And as they came down from the mountain, he charged them that they should tell no man what they had seen, save when the Sonne of man were risen from the dead again.

10 So they ^d kept that matter to themselves, and ^e demanded one of another, what the rising from the dead again should mean.

11 ³ Also they asked him, saying, Why say the Scribes, that ^{*} Elias must first come?

12 And he answered, and said unto them, Elias verily shall first come, and restore all things: and ^{*} as it is written of the Son of man, he must suffer many things, and be set at nought.

13 But I say unto you, that Elias is come, (and they have done unto him whatsoever they would) as it is written of him.

14 [¶] And when he came to his Disciples, he saw a great multitude about them, and the Scribes disputing with them.

15 And straightway all the people, when they beheld him, were amazed, and ran to him, and saluted him.

16 Then he asked the Scribes, What dispute you among your selves?

17 And one of the company answered, and said, Master, I have brought my sonne unto thee, which hath a dumbe spirit:

18 And wheresoever he taketh him, he ^f teareth him, and he someth, and gnatheth his teeth, and pineth away: and I spake to thy Disciples, that they should cast him out, and they could not.

19 Then he answered him, and said, O faithlesse generation, how long now shall

I be with you! how long now shall I suffer you! Bring him unto me.

20 So they brought him unto him: and as soon as the spirit ^g saw him, he tare him, and he fell down on the ground, wallowing and foming.

21 Then he asked his father, How long time is it since he hath been thus? And he said, Of a childe.

22 And oft times he casteth him into the fire, and into the water to destroy him: but if thou canst do any thing, help us, and have compassion upon us.

23 And Jesus said unto him, If thou canst beleeve it, ^h all things are possible to him that beleeveith.

24 And straightway the father of the childe crying with teares, said, Lord, I beleeve, help my unbelief.

25 When Jesus saw that the people came running together, he rebuked the unclean spirit, saying unto him, Thou dumbe and deafe spirit, I charge thee, come out of him, and enter no more into him.

26 ⁵ Then the spirit cryed, and rent him fore, and came out, and he was as one dead, inso much that many said, He is dead.

27 But Jesus took his hand, and lift him up, and he arose.

28 And when he was come into the house, his disciples asked him secretly, why could not we cast him out?

29 And he said unto them, This kinde can by no other meanes come forth, but by prayer and fasting.

30 [¶] And they departed thence, and went together through Galilee, and he would not that any should have known it.

31 ⁷ For he taught his disciples, and said unto them, The Son of man shall be delivered into the hands of men, and they shall kill him, but after that he is killed, he shall rise againe the third day.

32 But they understood not that saying, and were afraid to ask him.

33 ^{*} After, he came to Capernaum: and when he was in the house, he asked them, What was it that ye disputed among you by the way?

32 And they held their peace: for by the way they reasoned among themselves, who should be the chiefe.

35 And he sat down, and called the twelve, and said to them, If any man desire to be first, the same shall be last of all, and servant unto all.

36 And he took a little childe, and set him in the mids of them, and took him in his armes, and said unto them, 37 Whosoever shall receive one of such little children in my Name, receiveth me: and whosoever receiveth me, receiveth not ¹ me, but him that sent me.

2 Then the Pharisees came and asked him, if it were lawfull for a man to put away his wife, and tempted him.

3 And he answered, and said unto them,
 What did * Moses command you?

4 And they said, Moses suffered to write a bill of divorcement, and to put her away.

5 * Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, For the hardnesse of your heart he wrote this^b precept unto you.

6 But at the beginning of the creation
 * God made them male and female:

7 * For this cause shall man leave his father and mother, and cleave unto his wife,

8 And they twain shall be one flesh: so that they are no more twain, but one flesh.

9 * Therefore, what God hath coupled together, let not man separate.

10 And in the house his Disciples asked him again of that matter.

11 And he said unto them, * Whosoever shall put away his wife and marrie another, committeth adultery^c against her.

12 And if a woman put away her husband, and be married to another, she com-mitteth adultery.

13 ¶ * Then they brought little children to him, that he should touch them, and 14 But when Jesus saw it, he was dis-children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdome of God.

15 Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdome of God^d as 16 And he took them up in his arms, and put his hands upon them, and blessed them.

17 ¶ * And when he was gone out on the way, there came one^e running, and kneeled to him, and asked him, Good ma-

18 Jesus said to him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, even God.

19 Thou knowest the commandments,
 * Thou shalt not commit adultery. Thou shalt not kill. Thou shalt not steal. Thou shalt not beare false witness. Thou shalt hurt no man. Honour thy father & mother.

20 Then he answered, and said to him, Master, all these things have I observed from my youth.

21 And Jesus looked upon him, and loved him, and said unto him, One thing is lacking unto thee. Go and sell all that thou hast, and give to the poore, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven, and come, follow me, and take up the cross.

22 But he was sad at that saying, and went away sorrowfull: for he had great possessions.

23 And Jesus looked round about, and said unto his Disciples, How hardly do they that have riches enter into the kingdome of God!

 words. But Jesus answered again, and 28 ¶ * Then Peter began to say unto him, Lo, we have forsaken all, and have followed thee.

29 Jesus answered, and said, Verily I say unto you, there is no man that hath forsaken house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my sake and the Gospels, 30 But he shall receive an ^e hundred fold, now at this present, houses, and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and children, and lands ^f with persecutions, and in the world to come eternall life.

31 * But many ^{that are} first, shall be last; and the last, first.

32 ¶ * And they were in the way, going up to Jerusalem, and Jesus went before them, and they were troubled, and as they followed, they were afraid, and Jesus took the twelve again, and began to tell them what things should come unto him,

33 ^{Saying}, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem, and the Son of man shall be delivered unto the high Priests, and to the Scribes, and they shall condemne him to death, and shall deliver him to the Gentiles:

35 ¶ * Then James and John the sons of Zebedeus came unto him, saying, Master, ^{we} would that thou shouldest do for us that we desire.

36 And he said unto them, What would ye that I should do for you?

37 And they said unto him, Grant unto us, that we may sit, one at thy right hand, and the other at thy left hand in thy glory.

38 But Jesus said unto them, Ye know not what ye ask: Can ye drink of the cup that I shall drink of, and be baptized with the baptisme that I shall be baptized with?

39 And they said unto him, We can. But Jesus said unto them, Ye shall drink indeed of the cup that I shall drink of, and be baptized with the baptisme wherewith I shall be baptized:

40 But to sit at my right hand and at my left, is not mine to give, but ^{it shall be given} to them for whom it is prepared.

41 And when the ten heard that, they began to disdain at James and John.

42 * But Jesus called them unto him, and said to them, * Ye know that ^h they which are princes among the Gentiles, have domination over them, and they that be great among them, exercise authoritie over them.

44 And whosoever will be chief of you, shall be the servant of all.

45 For even the Son of man came not to be served, but to serve, and to give his life for the ranfome of many.

46 ¶ * Then they came to Jericho: and as he went out of Jericho with his Disciples, and a great multitude, Bartimeus the sonne of Timeus, a blinde man, sat by the wayes side, begging.

47 And when hee heard that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he began to cry, and to say, Jesus the Sonne of David, have mercie on me.

48 And many rebuked him, because he should hold his peace: but he cried much more, O Son of David, have mercie on me.

49 Then Jesus stood still, and commanded him to be called, and they called the blinde, saying unto him, Be of good comfort: arise, he calleth thee.

50 So he threw away his cloak, and arose, and came to Jesus.

51 And Jesus answered, and said unto him, What wilt thou that I do unto thee? And the blinde said unto him, Lord, that I may receive sight.

52 Then Jesus said unto him, Go thy way: thy faith hath saved thee. And by and by he received ^{his} sight, and followed Jesus in the way.

3 And if any man say unto you, Why do ye this? Say that the Lord hath need of him, and straightway he will send him hence.

4 And

4 And they went their way, and found a colt tied by the doore without, in a place where two wayes met, & they loosed him.

5 Then certain of them that stood there, said unto them, What do ye loosing the colt?

6 And they said unto them, as Jesus had commanded them: so they let them go.

7 ¶ And they brought the colt to Jesus, and cast their garments on him, and he sate upon him.

8 And many spread their garments in the way: other cut down branches off the trees, and strawed them in the way.

9 And they that went before, and they that followed, cried, saying, Hosanna: * blessed be he that commeth in the Name of the Lord:

10 ^b Blessed be the kingdome that cometh in the Name of the Lord of our father David: Hosanna; O thou which art in the highest heavens.

11 * So Jesus entred into Hierusalem, and into the Temple: and when he had looked about on all things, and now it was evening, he went forth unto Bethania with the twelve.

12 * And on the morrow when they were come out from Bethania, he was hungry.

13 ^a And seeing a figge tree asfarre off, that had leaves; he went rosee if he might finde any thing thereon: but when he came unto it, he found nothing but leaves: for the time of figs was not yet.

14 Then Jesus answered, and said to it, Never man eat fruit of thee hereafter while the world standeth: and his disciples heard it.

15 ¶ And they came to Hierusalem, and Jesus went into the Temple, and began to cast out them that sold and bought in the Temple, and overthrew the tables of the money changers, and the seats of them that sold Doves.

16 Neither would he suffer that any man should carie a ^c vessel through the Temple.

17 And he taught, saying unto them, Is it not written, * Mine house shall be ^d called the house of prayer unto all nations? * but you have made it a den of theeves.

18 And the Scribes and high Priests heard it, and sought how to destroy him: for they feared him, because the whole multitude was astonied at his doctrine.

19 But when even was come, Jesus went out of the city.

20 ¶ * And in the morning as they journeyed together, they saw the fig tree dried up from the roots.

21 Then Peter remembred, and said unto him, Master, behold, the figge tree which thou cursedst, is withered.

22 And Jesus answered, and said unto them, Have ^e the faith of God.

23 For verily I say unto you, that whosoever shall say unto this mountain, Be thou taken away, and cast into the sea, and shall not waver in his heart, but shall beleve that those things which he saith shall come to passe, whatsoever he saith, shall be done to him.

24 * Therefore I say unto you, Whatsoever ye desire when ye pray, beleve that ye shall have it, & it shall be done unto you.

25 * But when ye shall stand, and pray, forgive, if ye have any thing against any man; that your Father also which is in heaven, may forgive you your trespasses.

26 For if ye will not forgive, your Father, which is in heaven, will not pardon you your trespasses.

27 ¶ * Then they came again to Hierusalem: and as he walked in the Temple, there came to him the high Priests, and the Scribes, and the Elders,

28 And said unto him, By what authoritie dost thou these things? and who gave thee this authoritie, that thou shouldest do these things?

29 Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, I will also ask of you a certain thing; and answer ye me; and I will tell you by what authoritie I do these things:

30 The baptisme of John, was it from heaven, or of men? answer me.

31 And they thought with themselves, saying, If we shall say, from heaven, he will say, Why then did ye not beleve him?

32 * But if we say, Of men, we feare the people: for all men counted John, that he was a Prophet indeed.

33 Then they answered, and said unto Jesus, We cannot tell. And Jesus answered, and said unto them, Neither will I tell you by what authoritie I do these things.

6 Yet had he one sonne, his deare beloved: him also he sent the last unto them, saying, They will reverence my sonne.

7 But the husbandmen said among themselves, This is the heire: come, let us kill him, and the inheritance shall be ours.

8 So they took him, and killed him, and cast him out of the vineyard.

9 What shall then the Lord of the vineyard do? He will come and destroy these husbandmen, and give the vineyard to others.

10 Have ye not read so much as this Scripture? * The stone which the builders did refuse, is made the head of the corner.

11 This was done of the Lord, and it is marvellous in our eyes.

12 Then they went about to take him, but they feared the people: for they perceived that he spake that parable against them: therefore they left him, and went their way.

13 ¶ And they sent unto him certain of the Pharises, and of the Herodians that they might take him in his talk.

14 And when they came, they said unto him, Master, we know that thou art true, and carest for no man: for thou considerest not the person of men, but teachest the way of God truly, Is it lawfull to give tribute to Cesar, or not?

15 Should we give it, or should we not give it? but he knew their hypocrisie, and said unto them, Why tempt ye me? Bring me a peny, that I may see it.

16 So they brought it, and he said unto them, Whose is this image and superscription? and they said unto him, Cessars.

17 Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, Give unto Cesar the things that are Cessars, and to God, those that are Gods: and they marvelled at him.

18 ¶ Then came the Sadduces unto him, (which say there is no resurrection) and they asked him, saying,

19 Master, * Moses wrote unto us, If any mans brother die, and leave his wife, and leave no children, that his brother should take his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.

20 There were seven brethren, and the first took a wife, and when he died, left no issue.

21 Then the second took her, and he died, neither did he yet leave issue, and the third likewise:

22 So those seven had her, and left no issue: last of all the wife died also.

23 In the resurrection then, when they shall rise again, whose wife shall she be of them? for seven had her to wife.

24 Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, Are ye not therefore deceived, because ye know not the Scriptures, neither the power of God?

25 For when they shall rise again from the dead, neither men marrie, nor wives are married, but are as the Angels which are in heaven.

26 And as touching the dead, that they shall rise again, have ye not read in the book of Moses, how in the bush God spake unto him, saying, I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob?

27 God is not the God of the dead, but the God of the living. Ye are therefore greatly deceived.

28 ¶ Then came one of the Scribes that had heard them disputing together, and preceiving that he had answered them well, he asked him, Which is the first commandment of all?

29 Jesus answered him, The first of all the Commandments is, * Heare, Israel, The Lord our God is the onely Lord.

30 Thou shalt therefore love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, & with all thy soul, & with all thy minde, and with all thy strength: this is the first commandment.

31 And the second is like, that is, * Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thy self. There is none other commandment greater then these.

32 Then that Scribe said unto him, Well, Master, thou hast said the truth, that there is one God, and there is none but he.

33 And to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbour as himself, is more then all the whole burnt-offerings and sacrifices.

34 Then when Jesus saw that he answered discretely, he said unto him, Thou art not farre from the kingdom of God. And no man after that durst ask him any question.

35 ¶ And Jesus answered and said, teaching in the Temple, How say the Scribes that Christ is the Son of David?

36 For David himself said by the holy Ghost, * The Lord said to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footstool.

37 Then David himself calleth him Lord: by what meanes is he then his son? and much people heard him gladly.

CHAP. XIII.

Of the destruction of Ierusalem. 9 Persecution for the Gospel. 19 The Gospel must be preached to all nations. 26 Of Christs coming to judgement. 33 We must watch and pray.

And as he went out of the Temple, one of his disciples said unto him, Master, see what manner stones, and what manner bulidings are heere.

2 Then Iesus answered and said unto him, Seest thou these great buildings? there shall not be left one stone upon a stone, that shall not be throwen down.

3 And as he sat on the mount of Olives, over against the Temple, Peter, and James, and John, and Andrew asked him secretly,

4 Tell us, when shall these things be? and what shall be the signe when all these things shall be fulfilled?

5 And Iesus answered them, & began to say, Take heed lest any man deceive you.

6 For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ, and shall deceive many.

7 Furthermore, when ye shall heare of warres, and rumours of warres, be ye not troubled: for such things must needs be: but the end shall not be yet.

8 For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdome against kingdome, and there shall be earthquakes in diuers quarters, and there shall be famine and troubles: these are the beginnings of sorowes.

9 But take ye heed to your selves: for they shall deliver you up to the Councels, and to the Synagogues: ye shall be beaten, and brought before rulers and kings for my sake, for a testimoniall unto them.

10 And the Gospel must first be published among all nations.

11 But when they lead you, and deliver you up, be not carefull before hand, neither studie what ye shall say: but what is given you at the same time, that speake: for, it is not ye that speake, but the holy Ghost.

12 Yea, and the brother shall deliver the brother to death, and the father the sonne, and the children shall rise against their parents, and shall cause them to die,

13 And ye shall be hated of all men for my Names sake: but whosoever shall endure to the end, he shall be saved.

14 Moreover, when ye shall see the abomination of the desolation (spoken of by Daniel the Prophet) set where it ought not, (let him that readeth, consider it) then let them that be in Judea, flee into the mountaines;

15 And let him that is upon the house, not come down into the house, neither enter therein, to fetch any thing out of his house.

16 And let him that is in the field, not turn back again to take his garment.

17 Then wo shall be to them that are with childe, and to them that give suck in those dayes.

18 Pray therefore that your flight be not in the winter.

19 For in those dayes shall be such tribulation, as was not from the beginning of the creation which God created unto this time, neither shall be.

20 And except that the Lord had shortened those dayes, no flesh should be saved: but for the elects sake, which he hath chosen, he hath shortened those dayes.

21 Then if any man say to you, Lo here is Christ, or lo, he is there, beleve it not.

22 For false Christs shall rise, & false prophets, and shall shew signes and wonders, to deceive, if it were possible, the very elect.

23 But take ye heed: behold, I have shewed you all things before.

24 Moreover in those dayes, after that tribulation, the sunne shall wax darke, and the moon shall not give her light,

25 And the starres of heaven shall fall, and the powers which are in heaven, shall shake.

26 And then shall they see the Sonne of man coming in the cloudes, with great power and glory.

27 And he shall then send his Angels, and shall gather together his elect from the four windes, and from the utmost part of the earth to the utmost part of heaven.

28 Now learn a parable of the fig tree, When her bough is yet tender, and it bringeth forth leaves, ye know that summer is neere.

29 So in like manner, when ye see these things come to passe, know that the kingdome of God is neere, even at the doores.

30 Verily I say unto you, that this generation shall not passe, till all these things be done.

And * two dayes after followed the feast of the Pasche, and of unleavened bread: and the high Priests, and Scribes sought how they might take him by craft, and put him to death.

2 But they said, Not in the feast day, lest there be any tumult among the people.

3 And when he was in Bethania, in the house of Simon the leper, as he sat at table, there came a woman having a box of ointment of spikenard, very costly, and she brake the box, and powred it on his head.

4 Therefore some disdained among themselves, and said, To what end is this wast of ointment?

5 For it might have been sold for more then * three hundred pence, and been given unto the poore, and they murmured against her.

6 But Jesus said, Let her alone: why trouble ye her? she hath wrought a good worke on me.

7 For ye have the poore with you alwayes, and when ye will ye may do them good, but me ye shall not have alwayes.

8 She hath done that she could: she came aforehead to anoint my body to the burying.

9 Verily I say unto you, wheresoever this Gospel shall be preached throughout the whole world, this also that she hath done, shall be spoken of in remembrance of her.

10 ¶ Then Judas Iscariot, one of the twelve, went away unto the high Priests, to betray him unto them.

11 And when they heard it, they were glad, and promised that they would give him money: therefore he sought how hee might conveniently betray him.

12 ¶ Now the first day of unleavened bread, when they sacrificed the Pasche, his Disciples said unto him, Where wilt thou that we goe and prepare, that thou mayest eate the Pasche?

13 Then he sent forth two of his disciples, and said unto them, Goe ye into the city, and there shall a man meet you, bearing a pitcher of water: follow him.

14 And whithersoever he goeth in, say ye to the goodman of the house, the Master saith, Where is the lodging where I shall eat the Pasche with my Disciples?

15 And hee will shew you an upper chamber which is large, trimmed and prepared, there make it ready for us.

16 So his disciples went forth, and came to the city, and found as he had said unto them, and made ready the Pasche.

17 ¶ And at Even he came with the twelve.

18 And as they sat at table and did eat, Jesus said, Verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray mee, which eateth with mee.

19 Then they began to be sorrowfull, and to say to him one by one, Is it I? and another, Is it I?

20 And hee answered and said unto them, It is one of the twelve that dippeth with mee in the platter.

21 Truly the Son of man goeth his way, as it is written of him: but wo be to that man, by whom the Son of man is betrayed: it had beene good for that man, if hee had never beene borne.

22 And as they did eate, Jesus tooke the bread, and when he had given thanks, he brake it, and gave it to them, and said, Take, eat, this is my body.

23 Also he tooke the cup, and when he had given thanks, gave it to them: and they all dranke of it.

24 And hee said unto them, This is my blood of that new Testament, which is shed for many.

25 Verily I say unto you, I will drinke no more of the fruit of the vine untill that day, that I drinke it new in the Kingdome of God.

26 And when they had sung a Psalme, they went out to the mount of Olives.

27 ¶ Then Jesus said unto them, All ye shall be offended by me this night: for it is written, * I will smite the Shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered.

28 But after that I am risen, I will goe into Galilee before you.

9 Here is set forth in an excellent person, a most sorrowfull example of mans rathnesse and weakness.

all men should be offended at thee; yet would not I.

30 Then Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, this day, even in this night before the Cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice.

31 But he said ⁸ more earnestly, If I should die with thee, I will not deny thee: likewise also said they all.

32 ¶ ¹⁰ After, they came into a place named Gethsemane: then he said to his Disciples, Sit ye here, till I have prayed.

33 And he took with him Peter, and James, and John, and he began to be troubled, and in great heaviness.

34 And said unto them, My soul is very heavie, even unto the death: tary here, and watch.

35 So he went forward a little, and fell down on the ground, and prayed, that if it were possible, that houre might passe from him.

36 And he said, ¹¹ Abba, Father, all things are possible unto thee: take away this cup from me: neverthelesse not that I will, but that thou wilt be done.

37 Then he came, and found them sleeping, and said to Peter, Simon, sleepest thou? couldest not thou watch one houre?

38 ¶ Watch ye, and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit indeed is ready, but the flesh is weak.

39 And againe he went away, and prayed, and spake the same words.

40 And he returned, and found them asleep again: for their eyes were heavy: neither knew they what they should answer him.

41 And he came the third time, and said unto them, Sleep henceforth, and take your rest: it is enough: the houre is come: Behold, the Son of man is delivered into the hands of sinners.

42 Rise up: let us go: lo, he that betrayeth me, is at hand.

43 ¹² And immediately while he yet spake, came Judas that was one of the twelve, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves from the high Priests, and Scribes, and Elders.

44 And he that betrayed him, had given them a token, saying, Whomsoever I shall kisse, he it is: take him and leade him away ¹ safely.

45 And as soon as he was come, he went straightway to him, and said, Hail Master, and kissed him.

46 Then they laid their hands on him, and took him.

47 And ¹³ one of them that stood by, drew out a sword, and smote a servant of the high Priest, and cut off his eare.

48 And Jesus answered and said to them,

Ye be come out as against a thief with swords and with staves, to take me.

49 I was daily with you teaching in the Temple, and ye took me not: but this is done that the Scriptures should be fulfilled.

50 Then they ¹⁴ all forsook him, and fled.

51 ¹⁵ And there followed him a certain young man, clothed in ¹⁶ linnen upon his bare body, and the young men caught him.

52 But he left his linnen cloth, and fled from them naked.

53 ¹⁷ So they led Jesus away to the high Priest, and to him came ¹⁸ together all the high Priests, and the Elders, & the Scribes.

54 And Peter followed him afarre off, even unto the hall of the high Priest, and sate with the servants, and warmed himself at the fire.

55 ¹⁹ And the ²⁰ high Priests, and all the Councill sought for witnesse against Jesus, to put him to death, but found none.

56 For many bare false witnesse against him, but their witnesse agreed not together.

57 Then there arose certaine, and bare false witnesse against him, saying,

58 We heard him say, ²¹ I will destroy this Temple made with hands, and within three dayes I will build another, made without hands.

59 But their witnesse yet agreed not together.

60 Then the high Priest stood up amongst them, and asked Jesus, saying, Answerest thou nothing? What is the matter that these beare witnesse against thee?

61 But he held his peace, and answered nothing. Again the high Priest asked him, and said unto him, Art thou that Christ the Sonne of the ²² Blessed?

62 And Jesus said, I am he, ²³ and ye shall see the Sonne of man sit at the right hand of the power of God, and come in the clouds of heaven.

63 Then the high Priest rent his clothes, and said, What have we any more need of witnesses?

64 Ye have heard the blasphemie: what think ye? And they all condemned him to be worthy of death.

65 ²⁴ And some began to spit at him, and to cover his face, and to beate him with fists, and to say unto him, Prophecie. And the sergeants smote him with their rods.

66 ²⁵ And as Peter was beneath in the hall, there came one of the maides of the high Priest.

67 And when she saw Peter warming himself, she looked on him, and said, Thou wast also with Jesus of Nazareth.

68 But he denied it, saying, I know him not, neither wote I what thou sayest. Then he went out into the porch, and the Cock crew.

1 Of the things that Christ suffered under Pilate. 11 Barabbas is preferred before Christ. 15 Pilate delivereth Christ to be crucified. 17 Hee is crowned with thrones. 19 They spit on him and mocke him. 21 Simon of Cyrene carrieth Christs crosse. 27 Christ is crucified betweene two theeves. 29 He is railed at. 37 He giveth up the ghost. 43 Ioseph burieth him.

* Matth. 27. 1. Luke 22. 66. Iohn 18. 19.
1 Christ being bound before the judgement seat of an earthly Iudge, in open assembly is condemned as guiltie unto the death of y crosse, not for his owne finnes, (as appeareth by the Iudges own words) but for all ours, that wee most guilty creatures being delivered from the guiltinesse of our finnes, might be quitted before the judgement seat of God, even in open assembly of the Angels.
a It was not lawfull for them to put any man to death, for all causes of life and death were taken away from them, first by Herod the great, & afterward by the Romanes, about forty yeares before the destruction of the Temple, and therefore they deliver Jesus to Pilate.
* Matth. 27. 12.
Luke 23. 3. Iohn 18. 35.
b Vnto deliver.

And * anon in the dawning, the high Priests held a Councill with the Elders, and the Scribes, and the whole Councill, and bound Jesus, and led him away, and delivered him to Pilate.

2 Then Pilate asked him, Art thou the King of the Iewes? And he answered, and said unto him, Thou sayest it.

3 And the high Priests accused him of many things.

4 * Wherefore Pilate asked him againe, saying, Answerest thou nothing? behold how many things they witnes against thee.

5 But Jesus answered no more at all, so that Pilate marvelled.

6 Now at the feast, Pilate did deliver a prisoner unto them, whomsoever they would desire.

7 Then there was one named Barabbas, which was bound with his fellowes, that had made insurrection, who in the insurrection had committed murder.

8 And the people cried aloud, and began to desire that he would doe as he had ever done unto them.

9 Then Pilate answered them, and said, Will ye that I let loose unto you the King of the Jewes?

10 For hee knew that the high Priests had delivered him of envie.

11 But the high Priests had moved the people to desire that he would rather deliver Barabbas unto them.

12 And Pilate answered, and said againe unto them, What will ye then that I doe with him, whom ye call the King of the Jewes?

13 And they cried againe, Crucifie him.

14 Then Pilate said unto them, But what evil hath he done? and they cried the more fervently, Crucifie him.

15 So Pilate willing to content the people, loosed them Barabbas, and delivered Jesus, when he had scourged him, that hee might be crucified.

16 Then the souldiers led him away into the hall, which is the common hall, and called together the whole band, 17 * And clad him with purple, and platted a crowne of thornes, and put it about his head.

18 And began to salute him, saying, Haile, King of the Jewes.

19 And they smote him on the head with a reede, and spat upon him, and bowed the knees, and did him reverence.

20 And when they had mocked him, they tooke the purple off him, and put his owne clothes on him, and ledde him out to crucifie him.

21 * And they compelled one that passed by, called Simon of Cyrene (which came out of the cuntry, and was father of Alexander and Rufus) to beare his crosse.

22 * And they brought him to a place named Golgotha, which is by interpretation, the place of dead mens sculles.

23 And they gave him to drinke wine mingled with mirrhe: but he received it not.

24 * And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, casting lots for them what every man should have.

25 And it was the third houre, when they crucified him.

26 And the title of his cause was written above, THAT KING OF THE JEWES.

27 They crucified also with him two theeves, the one on his right hand, and the other on his left.

28 Thus the Scripture was fulfilled, which saith, * And hee was counted among the wicked,

29 And they that went by, railed on him, wagging their heads, and saying, * Hey, thou that destroyest the Temple, and buildest it in three dayes;

30 Save thy selfe, and come downe from the crosse.

31 Likewise also even the high Priests mocking, said among themselves with the Scribes, He saved other men, himselfe hee cannot save,

32 Let Christ the King of Israel now come downe from the Crosse, that we may see and beleeye. They also that were crucified with him, reviled him.

33 ¶ Now when the sixth houre was come, * darkenesse arose over all the land untill the ninth houre.

34 And at the seventh houre, Jesus cried

yet he riddeth himselfe, crying with a mighty voyce: and notwithstanding the wound which he received of death, in that he died, yet by smiling, both things above, and things beneath, by renting of the vail of the Temple, and by the Testimony wrung out of them which murdered him, he sheweth evidently unto the rest of his enemies which are as yet obstinate and mocke at him, that hee shall bee knowne out of hand to be conquerour and Lord of all.

2 Christ going about to take away the finnes of men, who went about to usurpe the throne of God himselfe, is condemned as one that hunted after the kingdom, & mocked with a false shew of a kingdom, that we on the other side, who shall indeed be eternal Kings, might receive the crowne of glory at Gods owne hand.

ⁿ Exod. 30. 7.

^o The Temple was one, and the court another, for Zacharias went out of the court, or outward room, where all the people were, and therefore are said to be without, unto the Temple.

Orasmuch as many have taken in hand to set forth the story of those things, whereof we are fully perswaded,

² As they have delivered them unto us, which from the beginning saw them their selves, & were ministers of the word,

³ It seemed good also to me (most noble Theophilus) as soon as I had searched out perfectly all things from the beginning, to write unto thee thereof from point to point,

⁴ That thou mightest acknowledge the certaintie of those things whereof thou hast been instructed.

⁵ IN the time of Herod King of Judea, there was a certain Priest named Zacharias, of the course of Abia, and his wife was of the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elizabeth.

⁶ Both were just before God, and walked in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord, without reproof.

⁷ And they had no childe, because that Elizabeth was barren: and both were well stricken in age.

⁸ And it came to passe, as he executed the Priests office before God, as his course came in order,

⁹ According to the custome of the Priests office, his lot was to burn incense, when he went into the Temple of the Lord.

¹⁰ And the whole multitude of the people were without in prayer, while the incense was burning.

¹¹ Then appeared unto him an Angel of the Lord, standing at the right side of the altar of incense.

¹² And when Zacharias saw him, he was troubled, and fear fell upon him.

¹⁴ And thou shalt have joy and gladnesse, and many shall rejoyce at his birth.

¹⁵ For he shall be great in the sight of the Lord, and shall neither drink wine, nor strong drink: and he shall be filled with the holy Ghost, even from his mothers wombe.

¹⁶ And many of the children of Israel shall he turn to the Lord their God.

¹⁸ Then Zacharias said unto the Angel, Whereby shall I know this? for I am an old man, and my wife is of a great age.

¹⁹ And the Angel answered, and said unto him, I am Gabriel that stand in the presence of God, and am sent to speak unto thee, & to shew thee these good tidings.

²⁰ And behold, thou shalt be dumbe, and not be able to speak, untill the day that these things be done, because thou believedst not my words, which shall be fulfilled in their season.

²¹ Now the people waited for Zacharias, and marvelled that he taried so long in the Temple.

²² And when he came out, he could not speak unto them: then they perceived that he had seen a vision in the Temple: for he made signes unto them, and remained dumbe.

²³ And it came to passe, when the dayes of his office were fulfilled, that he departed to his owne house.

²⁴ And after those dayes, his wife Elizabeth conceived, and hid her self five moneths, saying,

26 ¶ And in the sixt moneth, the Angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a citie of Galilee, named Nazareth, 27 * To a virgin affianced to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David, and the virgins name was Mary.

28 And the Angel went in unto her, and said, Haile thou that art freely beloved: the Lord is with thee: a blessed art thou among women.

29 And when she saw him, she was troubled at his saying, and thought what manner of salutation that should be.

30 Then the Angel said unto her, Feare not, Marie: for thou hast found favour with God.

31 * For loe, thou shalt conceive in thy wombe, and beare a sonne, * and shalt call his name Jesus.

32 He shall be great, and shall be called the Sonne of the most High, and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David.

33 * And he shall reigne over the house of Jacob for ever, and of his kingdome shall be none end.

34 Then said Mary unto the Angel, How shall this be, seeing I know not man?

35 And the Angel answered, and said unto her, The holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the most High shall overshadow thee: therefore also that holy thing which shall be borne of thee, shall be called the Sonne of God.

36 And behold, thy cousin Elizabeth, she hath also conceived a sonne in her olde age: and this is her sixt moneth, which was called barren.

37 For with God shall nothing be impossible.

38 Then Mary said, Behold the servant of the Lord: be it unto me according to thy word. So the Angel departed from her.

39 ¶ And Mary arose in those dayes, and went into the hill country with haste to a citie of Juda.

40 And entered into the house of Zacharias, and saluted Elizabeth.

41 And it came to passe, as Elizabeth heard the salutation of Mary, the babe sprang in her belly, and Elizabeth was filled with the holy Ghost.

42 And she cried with a loud voyce, and said, Blessed art thou among women, because the fruit of thy wombe is blessed.

43 And whence cometh this to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me?

44 For loe, as soone as the voice of thy salutation sounded in mine eares, the babe sprang in my belly for joy.

45 And blessed is she that beleeveth: for those things shall be performed, which were told her from the Lord.

46 Then Mary said, My soule magnifieth the Lord,

47 And my spirit rejoiceth in God my Saviour.

48 For he hath looked on the poore degree of his servant: for behold, from henceforth shall all ages call me blessed,

49 Because he that is mighty hath done for me great things, and holy is his Name.

50 And his mercie is from generation to generation on them that feare him.

51 * He hath shewed strength with his arme: he hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts.

52 * He hath put downe the mighty from their seates, and exalted them of low degree.

53 * He hath filled the hungry with good things, and sent away the rich empty.

54 * He hath uphelden Israel his servant, to be mindfull of his mercie;

55 * As he hath spoken to our fathers, to wit, to Abraham and his seed, for ever.

56 ¶ And Mary abode with her about three moneths: after, she returned to her owne house.

57 ¶ Now Elizabeths time was fulfilled, that she should be delivered, and she brought forth a sonne.

58 And her neighbours and cousins heard tell how the Lord had shewed his great mercie upon her, and they rejoiced with her.

59 And it was so that on the eight day they came to circumcise the babe, & called him Zacharias after the name of his father.

60 But his mother answered, and said, Not so, but he shall be called John.

61 And they said unto her, There is none of thy kinred, that is named with this name.

62 Then they made signes to his father, how he would have him called.

63 So he asked for writing tables, and wrote, saying, His name is John; and they marvelled all.

64 And his mouth was opened immediately, and his tongue, and he spake and praised God.

65 Then feare came on all them that dwelt neere unto them, and all these words were noised abroad throughout all the hill country of Judea.

66 And all they that heard them, layd them up in their hearts, saying, What manner

CHAP. II.

1 Augustus Cesar taxeth all the world. 2 Christ is born. 3 The Angels song. 4 Christ is circumcised. 5 Mary purified. 6 Simeon taketh Christ in his armes. 7 His song. 8 Anna the Prophetesse. 9 The child Christ. 10 Jesus disputeth with the doctors.

And it came to passe in those dayes, that there came a decree from Augustus Cesar, that all the world should be taxed.

(This first taxing was made when Cyrenius was governour of Syria.)

Therefore went all to be taxed, every man to his own citie.

4 And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of a citie called Nazareth into Judea, unto the citie of David, which is called Beth-lehem (because he was of the house and linage of David.)

5 To be taxed with Mary that was given him to wife, which was with childe.

¶ And so it was, that while they were there, the dayes were accomplished that she should be delivered.

7 And she brought forth her first begotten sonne, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a cratch, because there was no roome for them in the Inne.

8 ¶ And there were in the same country shepherds, abiding in the field, and keeping watch by night over their flock.

9 And lo, the Angel of the Lord came upon them, & the glory of the Lord shone about them, and they were sore afraid.

10 Then the Angel said unto them, Be not afraid: for behold, I bring you glad tidings of great joy, that shall be to all people, 11 That is, that unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

12 And this shall be a signe unto you, Ye shall find the babe swaddled, and laid in a cratch.

13 And straightway there was with the Angel a multitude of heavenly souldiers, praying God, and saying,

14 Glory be to God in the high heavens, and peace in earth, and towards men of good will.

15 And it came to passe, when the Angels were gone away from them into heaven, that the shepherds said one to another, Let us go then unto Beth-leem, and see this thing that is come to passe, which the Lord hath shewed unto us.

16 So they came with haste, and found both Mary and Joseph, and the babe laid in the cratch.

17 And when they had seen it, they published abroad the thing that was told them of that childe.

18 And all that heard it, wondered at the things that were told them of the shepherds.

19 But Mary kept all those sayings, and pondered them in her heart.

20 And the shepherds returned glorifying and praying God, for all that they had heard and seen, as it was spoken unto them.

¶ And when the eight dayes were accomplished, that they should circumcise the childe, his name was called Jesus, which was named of the Angel, before he was conceived in the wombe.

24 And to give an oblation, * as it is commanded in the Law of the Lord, a paire of turtle doves, or two young pigeons.

25 And behold, there was a man in Hierusalem, whose name was Simeon: this man was just, and feared God, and waited for the consolation of Israel, and the holy Ghost was upon him.

26 And it was declared to him from God by the holy Ghost, that he should not see death, before he had seen that Anointed of the Lord.

27 And he came by the motion of the Spirit into the Temple, and when the parents brought in the babe Jesus, to do for him after the custome of the Law,

28 Then he took him in his armes, and praised God; and said,

29 Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word,

30 For mine eyes have seen thy salvation,

31 Which thou hast prepared before the face of all people,

32 Alight to be revealed to the Gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel.

33 And Joseph and his mother marvelled at those things, which were spoken touching him.

34 And Simeon blessed them, and said unto Mary his mother, Behold, this childe is appointed for the * fall and rising again of many in Israel, and for a signe which shall be spoken against,

35 (Yea, and a sword shall pierce through thy soul) that the thoughts of many hearts may be opened.

36 And there was a Prophetesse, one Anna the daughter of Phanuel, of the Tribe of Aser, which was of a great age, after she had lived with an husband seven yeares from her virginitie:

37 And she was widow about fourscore and foure yeares, and went not out of the Temple, but served God with fastings and prayers night and day.

38 She then comming at the same instant upon them, confessed likewise the Lord, and spake of him to all that looked for redemption in Jerusalem.

39 And when they had performed all things according to the Law of the Lord, they returned into Galile to their own citie Nazareth.

40 And the child grew, & waxed strong in Spirit, and was filled with wisdom, and the grace of God was with him.

41 Now his parents went to Jerusalem every year * at the feast of the Passover.

42 And when he was twelve yeare old, and they were come up to Jerusalem, after the custome of the feast, 43 And had finished the dayes thereof, as they returned, the child Jesus remained in Jerusalem, and Joseph knew not, nor his mother.

44 But they supposing that he had been in the company, went a dayes journey, and sought him among their kinsfolke, and acquaintance.

45 And when they found him not, they turned back to Jerusalem, and sought him.

46 And it came to passe three dayes after, that they found him in the temple, sitting in the middes of the doctours, both hearing them, and asking them questions.

47 And all that heard him, were astonished at his understanding and answers.

48 So when they saw him, they were amazed, and his mother said unto him, Sonne, why hast thou thus dealt with us? behold, thy father and I have sought thee with very heaue hearts.

49 Then said he unto them, How is it that ye sought me? knew ye not that I must goe about my fathers businesse?

50 But they understood not the word that he spake unto them.

51 Then he went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was subject to them: and his mother kept all these sayings in her heart.

52 And Jesus increased in wisdom, and stature, and in favour with God and man.

19 But when Herod the Tetrarch was rebuked of him, for Herodias his brother Philips wife, and for all the evils which Herod had done, 20 He added yet this above all, that he shut up John in prison.

3 Our Baptisme is sanctified in the head of y^e Church, and Christ also is pronounced, by y^e voice of y^e Father, to be our everlasting King, Priest and Prophet.

21 Now it came to passe, as all the people were baptized, & that Jesus was baptized, and did pray, that the heaven was opened:

22 And the holy Ghost came down in a bodily shape like a dove upon him, and there was a voice from heaven, saying, Thou art my beloved sonne: in thee I am well pleased.

CHAP. IV.

1 Of Christs temptation, and fasting. 26 He teacheth in Nazareth to the great admiration of all. 24 A Prophet that teacheth in his own countrey is contemned. 33 One possessed of the devill is cured. 38 Peters mother in law healed. 40 and driven: sick persons are restored to health. 41 The devils acknowledge Christ.

And Jesus full of the holy Ghost returned from Jordan, and was

1 Christ being carried away (as it were out of the world) into the desert, after the fast of forty dayes, and the overcoming of Satan thrice, coming as it were suddenly from heaven, beginneth his office.

led by that Spirit into the wilderness,

2 * And was there forty dayes tempted of the devill, and in those dayes he did eat nothing: but when they were ended, he afterwards was hungry.

3 * Then the devill said unto him, If thou be the sonne of God, command this stone that it be made bread.

4 But Jesus answered him, saying, It is written, * That man shall not live by bread only, but by every word of God.

5 Then the devill took him up into an high mountain, and shewed him all the kingdomes of the world, in the twinkling of an eye.

6 And the devill said unto him, All this * power will I give thee, and the glory of those kingdoms: for that is delivered unto me, and to whomsoever I will, I give it.

7 If thou therefore wilt worship me, they shall be all * thine.

8 But Jesus answered him, and said, Hence from me, Satan: for it is written, * Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him alone thou shalt serve.

9 Then he brought him to Jerusalem, and set him on a pinnacle of the Temple, and said unto him, If thou bee the Sonne of God, cast thy self down from hence,

10 For it is written, * That he will give his Angels charge over thee to keep thee:

11 And with their hands they shall lift thee up, lest at any time thou shouldest dash thy foot against a stone.

12 And Jesus answered, and said unto him, It is said, * Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God.

13 And when the devill had ended all the temptation, he departed from him for a little season.

14 ¶ And Jesus returned by the power of the Spirit into Galilee: and there went a fame of him throughout all the region round about.

15 For he taught in their Synagogues, and was honoured of all men.

16 * And he came to Nazareth where he had been brought up, and (as his custom was) went into the Synagogue on the Sabbath day, and stood up to read.

17 And there was delivered unto him the book of the Prophet Esaias: and when he had opened the book, hee found the place, where it was written,

18 * The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because hee hath anointed mee, that I should preach the Gospel to the poore: he hath sent me, that I should heale the broken hearted, that I should preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, that I should set at liberty them that are bruised:

19 And that I should preach the acceptable yeare of the Lord.

20 And he closed the book, and gave it again to the minister, and sat down: and the eyes of all that were in the Synagogue were fastened on him.

21 Then hee began to say unto them, This day is the Scripture fulfilled in your eares.

22 * And all * bare him witnesse, and wondered at the * gracious words, which proceeded out of his mouth, and said, Is not this Josephs sonne?

23 Then he said unto them, Yee will surely say unto me this proverb, Physician, heale thy self: whatsoever we have heard done in Capernaum, doe it here likewise in thine own countrey.

24 And he said, Verily I say unto you, * No Prophet is accepted in his owne countrey.

25 But I tell you of a truth, many widows were in Israel in the dayes of * Elias, when heaven was shut three yeares and six moneths, when great famine was throughout all the * land:

26 But unto none of them was Elias sent, save into Sarepta, a city of Sidon, unto a certain widow.

27 Also many lepers were in Israel, in the time of * Elizeus the Prophet: yet none of them was made cleane, saving Naaman the Syrian.

28 Then all that were in the Synagogue, when they heard it, were filled with wrath, 29 And rose up, and thrust him out of the city, and led him unto the edge of the hill, whereon their city was built, to cast him down headlong.

30 But he passed through the middes of them, and went his way.

31 ¶ * And came down into Capernaum a city of Galilee, and there taught them on the Sabbath dayes, 32 * And they were astonished at his doctrine: for his word was with authority.

33 * And in the Synagogue there was a man which had a spirit of an unclean devill, which cryed with a loud voice, 34 * Saying, Oh, what have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth? art thou come to destroy us? I know who thou art, even the holy One of God.

35 And Jesus rebuked him, saying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him. Then the devill throwing him in the middes of them, came out of him, and hurt him nothing at all.

36 So feare came on them all, and they spake among themselves, saying, What thing is this? for with authority and power he commandeth the foule spirits, and they come out?

44 And he preached in the Synagogues of Galile.

C H A P. V.

1 Christ teacheth out of the shippes. 6 Of the draught of fish. 12 The Leper. 16 Christ prayeth in the desert. 18 One sick of the palfie. 27 Levi the Publican. 34 The fastings and afflictions of the Apostles after Christs ascension. 36, 37, 38. Faint hearted and weak disciples are likened to old bottles and worme garments.

1 Christ advertiseth the foure disciples, which he had taken unto him of the office of the Apostleship, which should hereafter be committed unto them.

Then ¶ it came to passe, as the people pressed upon him to heare the word of God, that he stood by the lake of Genesaret,

* Matth. 4. 18.
Marke 1. 16.
 a Did, as it were, lie upon him, so desirous they were both to see him and hear him, and therefore he taught them out of a ship.

2 And saw two shippes stand by the lakes side, but the fishermen were gone out of them, and were washing their nets.

3 And hee entred into one of the shippes, which was Simons, and required him that he would thrust off a little from the land: and he sat down, and taught the people out of the ship.

4 ¶ Now when he had left speaking, he said unto Simon. Launch out into the deep, and let down your nets to make a draught.

6 The word signifieth him that hath rule over any thing.

5 Then Simon answered, and said unto him, Master, we have traveled fore all night, and have taken nothing: nevertheless at thy word I will let down the net.

6 And when they had so done, they enclosed a great multitude of fishes, so that their net brake.

7 And they beckned to their partners, which were in the other ship, that they should come & help them, who came then, and filled both the shippes, that they did sink.

8 Now when Simon Peter saw it, he fell down at Jesus knees, saying, Lord, goe from me: for I am a sinfull man.

9 For he was utterly astonied, and all that were with him, for the draught of fishes which they took.

10 And so was also James and John the sons of Zebedeus, which were companions with Simon. Then Jesus said unto Simon, Feare not, from henceforth thou shalt catch men.

11 And when they had brought the ships to land, they forlook all, and followed him.

12 ¶ Now it came to passe, as he was in a certaine city, behold, there was a man full of leprosie, and when he saw Jesus, he fell on his face, and besought him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt thou canst make me clean.

* Matth. 8. 2.
Marke 1. 40.
 2 Christ by healing the leper with his onely touch, and sending him to the Priest, witnesseth that it is he, thorow whom, and by whom, apprehended by faith, all wee which are unclean, according to the Law, by the witness of God himselfe, are pronounced to be pure and clean.

13 So he stretched forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will, be thou clean. And immediatly the leprosie departed from him.

14 And he commanded him that hee should tell it no man: but goe, saith he, and shew thy selfe to the Priest, and offer for thy cleansing, as Moses hath commanded, for a witnesse unto them.

* Levit. 14. 4.

15 But so much more went there a fame abroad of him, and great multitudes came together to heare, and to be healed of him of their infirmities.

3 Christ had rather to be famous by his doctrine, then by miracles, and therefore hee departeth from them that seeke him as a Physician of the body, and not as the author of salvation.

16 But he kept himself apart in the wilderness, and prayed.

17 ¶ And it came to passe on a certaine day, as he was teaching, that the Pharises and doctors of the Law sate by, which were come out of every town of Galile, and Judea, and Hierusalem, and the power of the Lord was in him to heale them.

4 Christ in healing him that was sick of the palfie, sheweth the cause of all diseases, and the remedy.

18 ¶ Then behold, men brought a man lying in a bed, which was taken with a palfie, and they sought meanes to bring him in, and to lay him before him.

c The mighty power of Christs Godhead, sheweth it selfe him at that time.
 * Matth. 9. 2.
Marke 2. 3.

19 And when they could not finde by what way they might bring him in, because of the preasse, they went up on the house, and let him down through the tiling, bed and all, in the mids before Jesus.

20 And when he saw their faith, he said unto him, Man, thy sins are forgiven thee.

21 Then the Scribes and the Pharises began to reason, saying, Who is this that speaketh blasphemies? who can forgive sins, but God onely?

22 But when Jesus perceived their reasoning, he answered, and said unto them, What reason ye in your hearts?

23 Whether is easier to say, Thy sins are forgiven thee, or to say, Rise and walk?

24 But that ye may know that the Sonne of man hath authority to forgive sinnes in earth, (he said unto the sick of the palfie) I say to thee, Arise: take up thy bed and go to thine house.

25 And immediately he arose up before them, and took up his bed whereon he lay, & departed.

departed to his owne house, praising God.

26 And they were all Amazed, and praised God, and were filled with feare, saying, Doublesse, we have seene strange things to day.

27 ¶ And after that, he went forth and saw a Publicane named Levi, sitting at the receipt of custome, and said unto him, follow me.

28 And he left all, rose up, and followed him.

29 Then Levi made him a great feast in his owne house, where there was a great company of Publicanes, and of others that fate at table with them.

30 But they that were Scribes and Pharises among them, murmured against his disciples, saying, Why eate ye and drinke ye with Publicanes and sinners?

31 Then Jesus answered, and sayd unto them, They that are whole, neede not the Physician, but they that are sick.

32 * I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.

33 ¶ Then they said unto him, Why doe the disciples of Iohn fast often, and pray, and the disciples of the Pharises also, but thine eate and drink?

34 And he said unto them, Can ye make the children of the wedding chamber to fast, as long as the bridegroom is with them?

35 But the dayes will come, even when the bridegrome shall be taken away from them: then shall they fast in those dayes.

36 Againe he spake also unto them a parable, No man putteth a piece of a new garment into an old vesture: for then the new renteth it, and the piece taken out of the new, agreeth not with the old.

37 Also no man powreth new wine into old vessels: for then the new wine will breake the vessels, and it will runne out, and the vessels will perish:

38 But new wine must be powred into new vessels: so both are preserved.

39 Also no man that drinketh olde wine, straight way desireth new: for he saith, The old is more profitable.

CHAP. VI.

* The Disciples pull the eares of corne on the Sabbath. 6 Of him that had a withered hand. 13 The election of the Apostles. 20 The blessings and curses. 27 We must love our enemies. 46 With what fruit the word of God is to be heard.

AND * it came to passe on a second solemne Sabbath, that he went thorow the corne fields, and his Disciples^a plucked the eares of corne, and did eate and rubbe them in their hands.

2 And certaine of the Pharises said unto them, Why doe ye that which is not lawfull to doe on the Sabbath dayes?

3 Then Jesus answered them, and said, * Have ye not read this, what David did when he himselfe was an hungred, and they which were with him,

4 How he went into the house of God, and took, and ate the Shewbread, and gave also to them which were with him, which was not lawfull to eate, but for the * Priests onely?

5 And he said unto them, The Sonne of man is Lord also of the Sabbath day.

6 ¶ It came to passe also on another Sabbath, that he entred into the Synagogue, and taught, and there was a man, whose right hand was dried up.

7 And the Scribes and Pharises watched him, whether he would heale on the Sabbath day, that they might finde an accusation against him.

8 But he knew their thoughts, and said to the man which had the withered hand, Arise, and stand up in the middes. And he arose, and stood up.

9 Then said Jesus unto them, I will aske you a question, Whether is it lawfull on the Sabbath dayes to doe good, or to doe evil? to save life, or to destroy it?

10 And he beheld them all in compasse, and said unto the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he did so, and his hand was restored againe as whole as the other.

11 Then they were filled full of madness, and communed one with another, what they might doe to Jesus.

12 ¶ And it came to passe in those dayes, that he went into a mountaine to pray, and spent the night in prayer to God.

13 And when it was day, * he called his Disciples, and of them he chose twelve, which also he called Apostles:

14 (Simon whom he named also Peter, and Andrew his brother, James and Iohn, Philip and Bartlemew

15 Matthew and Thomas: James the son of Alpheus, and Simon called Zelous:

16 Judas James brother, and Judas Hcariot, which also was the traitour.)

17 Then he came downe with them and stood in a plain place with the companie of his Disciples, and a great multitude of people out of all Judea, and Hierusalem, and from the Sea coast of Tirus and Sidon, which came to heare him, and to be healed of their diseases:

18 And they that were vexed with foule spirits, and they were healed.

19 And the whole multitude sought to touch him: for there went vertue out of him, and healed them all.

20 ¶ And he lifted up his eyes upon his Disciples, and said, Blessed be ye poore:

10 Affliction doth at the length discern true godlinesse from false and fained.

46 ¶ *But why call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not the things that I speak?

47 ¶ *Whosoever cometh to me, and heareth my words, and doth the same, I will shew you to whom he is like:

48 He is like a man which built an house, and digged deep, and laid the foundation on a rock: and when the waters arose, the flood bear upon that house, and could not shake it: for it was grounded upon a rock.

49 But he that heareth and doth not, is like a man that built a house upon the earth without foundation, against which the flood did beat, and it fell by and by: and the fall of that house was great.

CHAP. VII.

W^HEN *he had ended all his sayings in the audience of the people, he entred into Capernaum.

*Matth. 8. 9.
1 Christ admonisheth the Jewes, by setting before them the example of the Centurion, that for their obstinacie and rebellion, he wil go to the Gentiles.

2 And a certain Centurions servent was sick and ready to die, which was deay unto him.

3 And when he heard of Iesus, he sent unto him the Elders of the Jewes, beseeching him that he would come, and heal his servent.

4 So they came to Iesus, and besought him instantly, saying, that he was worthy that he should doe this for him:

5 For he loveth, said they, our nation, and he hath built us a Synagogue.

6 Then Iesus went with them: but when when he was now not farre from the house, the Centurion sent friends to him, saying unto him, Lord, trouble not thy self: for I am not worthy that thou shouldst enter under my roof:

7 Wherefore I thought not my self worthy to come unto thee: but say the word, and my servant shall be whole:

8 For I likewise am a man set under authoritie, and have under me souldiers, and I say unto one, Go, and he goeth: and to another, Come, and he cometh, and to my servant, Do this, and he doth it.

9 When Iesus heard these things, he marvelled at him, and turned him, and said to the people that followed him, I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no not in Israel.

10 And when they that were sent, turned back to the house, they found the servant that was sick, whole.

11 ² And it came to passe the day after, that he went into a city called ^a Naim, and many of his disciples went with him, and a great multitude.

12 Now when he came neere to the gate of the citie, behold there was a dead man carried out, who was the onely begotten sonne of his mother, which was a widow, and much people of the citie was with her:

13 And when the Lord saw her, he had compassion on her, and said unto her, weep not.

14 And he went and touched the coffin (and they that bare him, stood still) and he said, Young man, I say unto thee, Arise.

15 And he that was dead, sat up, and began to speake, and he delivered him to his mother.

16 Then there came a feare on them all, and they glorified God, saying, A great Prophet is risen among us, and God hath visited his people.

17 And this rumor of him went forth throughout all Judea, and throughout all the region round about.

18 ³ And the disciples of Iohn shewed him of all these things.

19 So Iohn called unto him two certain men of his disciples, and sent them to Iesus, saying, Art thou he that should come, or shall we wait for another?

20 And when the men where come unto him, they said, Iohn Baptist hath sent us unto thee, saying, Art thou he that should come, or shall we wait for another?

21 And ^b at that time he cured many of their sicknesses, and plagues; and of evil spirits, and unto many blinde men he gave sight freely.

22 And Iesus answered, and said unto them, Go your wayes, and shew Iohn what things ye have seen and heard: that the blind see, the halt go, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf heare, the dead are raised, and the poore receive the Gospel.

23 And blessed is he, that shall not be offended in me.

24 ⁴ And when the messengers of Iohn were departed, he began to speake unto the people, of Iohn, What went ye out into the wilderness to see? A reed shaken with the winde?

25 But what went ye out to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? behold, they which are gorgeously appavelled, and live delicately, are in kings courts.

26 But what went ye forth to see? A Prophet? yea, I say to you, and greater then a Prophet.

27 This is he of whom it is written, ^{*} Behold: I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee,

28 For I say unto you, there is no greater Prophet then Iohn, among them that are begotten of women: neverthelesse, he that is least in kingdome of God, is greater then he.

29 Then all the people that heard him, and the Publicanes ^e justified God, being baptized with the baptisme of Iohn.

30 But the Pharises and the expounders of the Law despised the counsell of God ^d against themselves, and were not baptized of him.

31 ^{*} And the Lord said, Whereunto shall I liken the men of this generation? and what thing are they like unto?

32 They are like unto little children sitting in the market place, and crying one to another, and saying, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced: we have mourned to you, and ye have not wept.

33 For Iohn Baptist came neither eating bread, nor drinking wine: and ye say, He hath a devill.

34 The Sonne of man is come, and eateth and drinketh: and ye say, Behold, a man which is a glutton, and a drinker of wine, a friend of Publicanes and sinners:

35 But wisdom is justified of all her children.

36 [¶] And one of the Pharises desired him that he would eat with him: and he went into the Pharises house, and sat down at table.

37 And behold, a woman in the citie, which was a sinner, when she knew that Iesus sat at table in the Pharises house, she brought a box of oyntment:

38 ^{*} And she stood at his feet behind him weeping, and began to wash his feet with teares, and did wipe them with the haire of her head, and kissed his feet, and anointed them with the oyntment.

7 Hathnesse is the fellow of pride.

39 Now when the Pharise which bade him, saw it, he spake within himselfe, saying, if this man were a Prophet, he would surely have knowen who, and what manner of woman this is which toucheth him, for she is a sinner.

40 And Jesus answered, and said unto him, Simon, I have somewhat to say unto thee. And he said, Master, say on.

41 There was a certain lender which had two debtors: the one ought five hundred pence, and the other fifty:

42 When they had nothing to pay, he forgave them both: Which of them therefore, tell me, will love him most?

43 Simon answered, and said, I suppose that he, to whom he forgave most. And he said unto him, Thou hast truly judged.

44 Then he turned to the woman, and said unto Simon, Seest thou this woman? I entred into thine house, and thou gavest me no water to my feet: but she hath washed my feet with teares, and wiped them with the haire of her head.

45 Thou gavest me no kisse: but she, since the time I came in, hath not ceased to kisse my feet.

46 Mine head with oyle thou didst not anoint: but she hath anointed my feet with ointment.

47 Wherefore I say unto thee, Many finnes are forgiven her: for she loved much. To whom a little is forgiven, he doth love a little.

48 And he said unto her, Thy finnes are forgiven thee.

49 And they that sate at table with him, began to say within themselves, Who is this that even forgiveth finnes?

50 And he said to the woman, Thy faith hath saved thee: go in peace.

CHAP. VIII.

2 Women that minister unto Christ of their substance. 4 The Parable of the sower. 16 The candle. 19 Christs mother and brethren. 22 He rebuketh the winds. 26 Of Legion. 37 The Gadarens reject Christ. 41 Jairus daughter healed. 43 The woman delivered from the issue of blood. 52 Weeping for the dead.

And it came to passe afterward, that he himself went through every city and town, preaching and publishing the kingdom of God, & the twelve were with him,

2 And certain women, which were healed of evill spirits, and infirmities, as Marie which was called Magdalene, out of whom went seven devils.

3 And Ioanna the wife of Chuza, Herods steward, and Susanna, and many others which ministred unto him of their substance.

4 Now when much people were gathered together, and were come unto him out of all cities, he spake by a parable:

5 A sower went out to sow his seed, and as he sowed, some fell by the wayes side, and it was troden under feet, and the fowles of heaven devoured it up.

6 And some fell on the stones, and when it was sprung up, it withered away, because it lacked moistnesse.

7 And some fell among thornes, and the thornes sprang up with it, and choked it.

8 And some fell on good ground, and sprang up, and bare fruit, an hundred fold. And as he said these things, he cryed, He that hath eares to heare, let him heare.

9 Then his disciples asked him, demanding what parable that was.

10 And he said, Unto you it is given to know the secrets of the kingdom of God, but to others in parables, that when they see, they should not see, and when they heare, they should not understand.

11 The parable is this, The seed is the word of God.

12 And they that are beside the way, are they that heare: afterward cometh the devill, and taketh away the word out of their hearts, lest they should beleve, and be saved.

13 But they that are on the stones are they which when they have heard, receive the word with joy, but they have no roots: which for a while beleve, but in the time of temptation go away.

14 And that which fell among thornes, are they which have heard, and after their departure are choaked with cares, and with riches, and voluptuous living, and bring forth no fruit.

15 But that which fell in good ground, are they which with an honest and good heart heare the word, and keep it, and bring forth fruit with patience.

16 ¶ No man when he hath lighted a candle covereth it under a vessel, neither putteth it under the bedde, but setteth it on a candlestick, that they that enter in, may see the light.

17 For nothing is secret, that shall not be evident: neither any thing hid, that shall not be known, and come to light.

18 Take heed therefore how ye heare: for whosoever hath, to him shall be given: and whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken even that which it seemeth that he hath.

19 ¶ Then came to him his Mother and his brethren, and could not come neere to him for the preasse.

20 And it was told him by certain which said, Thy mother and thy brethren stand without, and would see thee.

21 But he answered, and said unto them, My mother and my brethren are these which heare the word of God and do it.

22 ¶ And

a The Pharise respects the Law, which holdeth them defiled that touch the defiled.
3 To love Christ, is a rare and perpetual witness of remission of sins.

f That is, with Theophylact, she hath loved her faith abundantly: & Basil in his Sermon of Baptisme saith, He that loveth much, hath much forgiven him, that he may love much more: and therefore Christ saying it so plain by the singlitude, that it is a wonder to see the enemies of the truth, draw and rack this place so fondly, to establish their meritorious works: for the greater summe a man hath forgiven him, the more he loveth him that hath been, so gracious to him: And this woman sheweth by duties of love, how great the benefit was she had received: and therefore the charity that is here spoken of, is not to be taken for the cause, but as a signe: for Christ saith not as the Pharisee did, that she was a sinner, but beareth her witness that the finnes of her life past are forgiven her.
g He confirmeth the benefit which he had bestowed, with a blessing.

a Those things are called secrets, which may not be uttered, for the word used here, is as much as we say in our tongue, to hold a mans peace.

22 ¶ * And it came to passe on a certain day, that he went into a ship with his disciples, and he said unto them, Let us go over unto the other side of the lake. And they launched forth.

23 And as they sailed, he fell asleep, and there came down a storm of wind on the lake, and they were filled with water, and were in jeopardy.

24 Then they went to him, and awoke him, saying, Master, Master, wee perish.
And he aroise, and rebuked the wind, and the waves of water: and they ceased, and it was calme.

25 Then he said unto them, Where is your faith? and they feared, and wondered among themselves, saying, Who is this that commandeth both the windes and water, and they obey him!

26 ¶ * So they sailed unto the region of the Gadarens, which is over against Galilee.

27 ¶ And as hee went out to land, there met him a certain man out of the city, which had devils long time, and hee ware no garment, neither abode in house, but in the graves.

28 And when he saw Jesus, he cried out, and fell down before him, and with a loud voice said, What have I to doe with thee, Jesus the Sonne of God the most High? I beseech thee torment me not.

29 For he commanded the foul spirit to come out of the man: (for oft times he had caught him: therefore he was bound with chains, and kept in fetters: but he brake the bands, * and was carried of the devill into the wilderness.)

30 Then Jesus asked him, saying, What is thy name? and he said, Legion, because many devils were entred into him.

31 And they besought him, that hee would not command them to go out into the deep.

32 And there was there by an herd of many swine feeding on an hill: & the devils besought him, that he would suffer them to enter into them, So he suffered them,

33 Then went the devils out of the man, and entred into the swine: and the herd was carried with violence from a steep down place into the lake, & were choked.

34 When the herdmen saw what was done, they fled: & when they were departed,
they told it in the city, and in the countrey.

35 Then they came out to see what was done, and came to Jesus, and found the man out of whom the devils were departed, sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed, and in his right minde: and they were afraid.

36 They also which saw it, told them by what meanes he that was possessed with the devill was healed.

37 Then the whole multitude of the countrey about the Gadarens, besought him that he would depart from them: for they were taken with a great fear: and he went into the ship, and returned.

38 Then the man out of whom the devils were departed, besought him that he might be with him: but Jesus sent him away, saying,

39 Return to thine own house, and shew what great things God hath done to thee. So he went his way, and preached throughout all the city, what great things
Jesus had done unto him.

40 ¶ And it came to passe, when Jesus was come againe, that the people received him: for they all waited for him.

41 ¶ And behold, there came a man named Jairus, and he was the ruler of the Synagogue, who fell down at Jesus feet, and besought him, that he would come into his house.

42 For he had but a daughter onely, about twelve years of age, & she lay a dying (and as he went, the people thronged him.

43 And a woman having an issue of blood twelve years long, which had spent all her substance upon physicians, and could not be helped of any:

44 When she came behinde him, shee touched the hemme of his garment, and immediately her issue of blood stanchd.

45 Then Jesus said, Who is it that hath touched me? When every man denied, Peter said, & they that were with him, Master, the multitude thrust thee, & tread on thee,
and sayest thou, Who hath touched me?

46 And Jesus said, Some one hath touched me: for I perceive that vertue is gone out of me.

47 When the woman saw that she was not hid, she came trembling, and fell down before him, and told him before all the people, for what cause she had touched him, and how she was healed immediatly.

48 And he said unto her, Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath saved thee;
go in peace.)

49 While he yet spake, there came one from the ruler of the Synagogues house, which said to him, Thy daughter is dead:
disease not the Master.

50 When Jesus heard it, he answered him, saying, Feare not: beleve onely, and she shall be saved.

51 And when he went into the house, he suffered no man to goe in with him, save Peter, and James, and John, and the father and mother of the maid.

52 And all wept, and sorrowed for her: but he said, Weep not: for she is not dead, but sleepeth.

53 And they laughd him to scorn, knowing that she was dead.

Then ¹ called he his twelve disciples together, and gave them power and authority over all devils, and to heale diseases.

2 * And he sent them forth to preach the kingdome of God, and to cure the sick.

3 And hee said to them, * Take nothing to your journey, neither staves nor scrip, neither bread, nor silver, neither have two coats a peece.

4 And whatsoever house yee enter into, there abide, and thence depart.

5 And how many soever will not receive you, when yee goe out of that city, shake off the very dust from your feet for a testimony against them.

6 And they went out, and went through every town preaching the Gospel, and healing every where.

7 ¶ * Now Herod the Tetrarch heard of all that was done by him: and he doubted because that it was said of some, that John was risen again from the dead:

8 And of some, that Elias had appeared: and of some, that one of the old Prophets was risen again.

9 Then Herod said, John, have I beheaded: who then is this of whom I hear such things? and he desired to see him.

10 ¶ * And when the Apostles returned, they told him what great things they had done. * Then he tooke them to him, and went aside into a solitary place, neere to the city called Bethsaida.

11 But when the people knew it, they followed him: and he received them, and spake unto them of the kingdome of God, & healed them that had need to be healed.

12 * And when the day began to wear away, the twelve came, and said unto him, Send the people away, that they may goe into the townes and villages round about, and lodge, and get meat: for we are here in a desert place.

13 But he said unto them, Give ye them to eat. And they said, We have no more but five loaves and two fishes, except we should goe and buy meat for all this people.

14 For they were about five thousand men. Then he said to his disciples, Cause them to sit down by fifties in a company.

15 And they did so, and caused all to sit down.

16 Then he took the five loaves, and the two fishes, and looked up to heaven, and blessed them, and brake, and gave to the disciples, to set before the people.

17 So they did all eate, and were satisfied: and there was taken up of that remained to them, twelve baskets full of broken meat.

18 ¶ * And it came to passe, as he was alone praying, his disciples were with him: and he asked them, saying, Whom say the people that I am?

19 They answered, and said, John Baptist: and others say, Elias: and some say, that one of the old Prophets is risen again.

20 And he said unto them, But whom say ye that I am? Peter answered, and said, That Christ of God.

21 And hee warned and commanded them, that they should tell that to no man, 22 * Saying, * The Sonne of man must suffer many things, and be reproved of the Elders, and of the high Priests and Scribes, and be slaine, and the third day rise againe.

23 ¶ * And he said to them all, If any man will come after me, let him deny himselfe, and take up his crosse daily, and follow me.

24 * For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it.

25 * For what advantageth it a man, if he winne the whole world, and destroy himselfe, or lose himself?

26 * For whosoever shall be ashamed of me, and of my words, of him shall the Sonne of man be ashamed, when he shall come in his glory, and in the glory of the Father, and of the holy Angels:

27 * And I tell you of a suretie, there be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they have seene the kingdome of God.

28 * And it came to passe about an eight dayes after those words, that he took Peter, and John, and James, and went up into a mountain to pray.

plish at Hierusalem.

32 But Peter and they that were with him, were heavy with sleepe: and when they awoke, they saw his glory, and the two men standing with him.

33 And it came to passe, as they departed from him, Peter said unto Jesus, Master, it is good for us to bee here: let us therefore make three Tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias, and wist not what he said.

34 Whiles he thus spake, there came a cloud and overshadowed them, and they feared when they were entering into the cloud.

32. Ps. 1. 17.

35 And there came a voice out of the cloud, saying, This is that my beloved Son, heare him.

Will Christ was seen againe from the dead.

36 And when the voice was past, Jesus was found alone: and they kept it close, and told no man in those dayes any of those things which they had seene.

Christ is offended with nothing so much as with incredulity: although hee beare with it for a time.
* Matth. 17. 14.
* Marke 9. 17.

37 And it came to passe on the next day, as they came downe from the mountaine, much people meet him.

38 And behold, a man of the company cried out, saying, Master, I beseech thee, behold my son: for he is all that I have.

It is farreth in refusing sickness.

39 And loe, a spirit taketh him, and suddenly he crieth, and hee teareth him, that he fometh, and hardly departeth from him, when he hath bruised him.

40 Now I have besought thy Disciples to cast him out, but they could not.

41 Then Jesus answered, and said, O generation faithlesse, and crooked, how long now shall I bee with you, and suffer you? Bring thy son hither.

42 And whiles he was yet comming, the devill rent him, and tare him: and Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, and healed the child, and delivered him to his father.

We have no
easie to promise ourselves rest and quietnesse, in this world, seeing that they themselves which seemed to fawn upon Christ,
doe shortly after crucifie him.
Give diligent care unto them, and when you have once heard them, see that you keepe them.
* Matth. 17. 22.
* Marke 9. 31.

43 And they were all amased at the mighty power of God: and while they all wondred at all things, which Jesus did,
hee said unto his disciples,

44 Marke these words diligently: for it shall come to passe, that the Son of man shall be delivered into the hands of men.

45 But they understood not that word:
for it was hid from them, so that they could not perceive it: and they feared to aske him of that word.

* Matth. 18. 1.
* Marke. 9. 35.
The end of ambition is ignominy: but the end of modest obedience is glory.

46 Then there arose a disputation among them, which of them should bee the greatest.

47 When Jesus saw the thoughts of their hearts, he tooke a little child, and set him by him,

48 And said unto them, Whosoever receiveth this little child in my Name, receive th me: and whosoever shall receive me, receiveth him that sent mee: for he that is least among you all, he shall be great.

49 And John answered and said, Master, wee saw one casting out devils in thy Name, and wee forbade him, because he followeth thee not with us.

* Marke 9. 38.
10 Extraordinary things are neither rashly to be allowed, nor condemned.

50 Then Jesus said unto him, Forbid ye him not: for hee that is not against us, is with us.

51 And it came to passe, when the dayes were accomplished, that he should be received up, hee settled himselfe fully to goe to Hierusalem,

11 Christ goodly willingly to death.

52 And sent messengers before him, and they went and entred into a towne of the Samaritans, to prepare him lodging.

12 Word for word,
he hardened his face:
that is, hee refused
with himselfe to die, and therefore was tured upon his journey, and cast away
all feare of death, and went on.

53 But they would not receive him, because his behaviour was as though hee would goe to Hierusalem.

54 And when his disciples, James and John saw it, they said, Lord, wilt thou that we command, that fire come downe from heaven, and consume them, even as Elias did?

13 Wee must take heed of the im-moderatenesse of zeale and fond imitation, even in good causes: that whatsoever wee doe, wee doe it to Gods glory, and the profit of our neighbour.
* 2 Kings 1. 10.
12, 13.

55 But Jesus turned about, and rebuked them, and said, Yee know not of what spirit yee are.

56 For the Son of man is not come to destroy mens lives, but to save them.
Then they went to another towne.

14 So speake the Ho-breuses, that is, you know not what will come, and: euenfell
you are of: so the gifts of God are called the spirit, because they are given, of Gods Spirit, and so are they that are contrary to them, which praised of the wicked spirit, as the spirit of covetousnes, of pride, and madness.
15 Such as follow
Christ must prepare themselves to suffer all discom-modities.

57 And it came to passe, that as they went in the way, a certaine man said unto him, I will follow thee, Lord, whithersoever thou goest.

58 And Jesus said unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the heaven nests, but the Son of man hath not whereon to lay his head.

59 But he said unto another, Follow me. And the same said, Lord, suffer me first to goe and bury my father.

* Matth. 8. 19.
14 The calling of God ought to bee preferred, without all controversie, before all duties that wee owe to men.

60 And Jesus said unto him, Let the dead bury their dead: but goe thou, and preach the kingdome of God.

61 Then another said, I will follow thee, Lord: but let mee first goe bid them farewell, which are at mine house.

16 Who notwithstanding that they live in the frailtye life of man, you are removers from the true life, which is everlasting and heavenly.
17 Such as follow
Christ, must at once renounce all worldly cares.

62 And Jesus said unto him, No man that putterh his hand to the plough, and looketh back, is apt to the kingdome of God.

27 And he answered, and said, * Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soule, and with all thy strength, and with all thy thought, * and thy neighbour as thy selfe.

28 Then he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this doe, and thou shalt live.

29 * But hee willing ^k to justifie himselfe, said unto Jesus, Who is then my neighbour?

30 And Jesus answered, and said, A certaine man went down from Hierusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, and they robbed him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him halfe dead.

31 Now so it fell out, that there came downe a certaine Priest that same way, and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side.

32 And likewise also a Levite, when he was come neere to the place, went & looked on him, & passed by on the other side.

33 Then a certaine Samaritane, as hee journeyed, came neer unto him, and when he saw him, he had compassion on him.

34 And went to him, and bound up his wounds, and powred in oyl and wine, and put him on his owne beast, and brought him to an Inne, & made provision for him.

35 And on the morow when he departed, he took out two pence, & gave them to the host, & said unto him, Take care of him, and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I wil recompense thee.

37 And he said, He that shewed mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, Go, and doe thou likewise.

1 Hee teacheth his Apostles to pray. 14 The dumbe devill driven out. 27 A woman of the company lifteth up her voice. 29 The lawes require signes. 37 Hee being feasted of the Pharisee, reproveth the outward shew of holinesse.

And so it was, that as he was praying in a certain place, whē he ceased, one of his disciples said unto him, Lord, teach us to pray, as John also taught his disciples.

2 * And he said unto them, When yee pray, say, ¹ Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed bee thy Name: Thy kingdome come: Let thy will be done, even in earth, as it is in heaven:

3 Our dayly bread give us ⁴ for the day:

4 And forgive us our sins: for even we forgive every man that is indebted to us: And lead us not in temptation: but deliver us from evill.

5 ¶ ² Moreover hee said unto them, Which of you shall have a friend, and shall goe to him at midnight, and say unto him, Friend, lend mee three loaves?

6 For a friend of mine is come out of the way to mee, and I have nothing to set before him:

7 And hee within should answer, and say, Trouble mee not: the doore is now shut, and my children are with me in bed: I cannot rise and give them to thee.

8 I say unto you, Though hee would not rise and give him, because he is his friend, yet doubtlesse because of his ³ importunity, he would rise and give him as many as hee needed.

9 * And I say unto you, Ask, and it shall be given you: seeke, and yee shall find: knock, and it shall be opened unto you.

10 * For every one that asketh, receiveth: and he that seeketh, findeth: and to him that knocketh, it shall be opened.

11 * If a son shall ask bread of any of you that is a father, will hee give him a stone? or if he aske a fish, will hee for a fish give him a serpent?

12 Or if hee aske an egge, will hee give him a scorpion?

13 If ye then which are evill, can give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your heavenly Father give the holy Ghost to them that desire him?

14 ¶ ¹ Then he cast out a devill which was dumb: and when the devill was gone out, the dumb spake, and the people wondered.

15 ³ But some of them said, * He casteth out devils through Beelzebub the chiefe of the devils.

16 And others tempted him, seeking of him a signe from heaven.

17 * But hee knew their thoughts, and said unto them, * Every kingdome divided against it selfe, shall bee desolate, and an house divided against an house, falleth.

18 So if Satan also bee divided against himselfe, how shall his kingdome stand, because yee say that I cast out devils ^c through Beelzebub?

19 If I through Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your children cast them out? Therefore shall they be your judges.

20 But if I by the ^d finger of God cast out devils, doubtlesse the kingdome of God is come unto you.

21 When a strong man armed keepeth his ^e palace, the things that he possesseth, are in peace.

22 But when a stronger then he cometh upon him, and overcometh him: he taketh from him all his armour wherein he trusted, and divideth his spoiles.

25 And when he cometh, he findeth it swept and garnished.

26 Then goeth he, and taketh to him seven other spirits worse then himselfe: & they enter in, and dwell there: ^{so} the last state of that man is worse then the first.

27 ¶ ⁷ And it came to passe as he said these things, a certain woman of the company lifted up her voice, and said unto him, Blessed is the womb that bare thee, and the paps which thou hast sucked.

35 Take heed therefore, that the light which is in thee, be not darknesse.

36 If therefore thy whole body shall bee light, having no part darke, then shall all be light, even as when a candle doth light thee with the brightnesse.

37 ¶ * And as he spake, a certaine Pharisee besought him to dine with him : and he went in, and sate downe at the table.

38 And when the Pharisee saw it, he marvelled that he had not first washed before dinner.

40 Yee fooles, did not he that made that which is without, make that which is within also ?

44 ¶ Wo be to you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites : * for yee are as graves which appeare not, and the men that walk over them, perceive not.

45 ¶ Then answered one of the Lawyers, and said unto him, Master, thus saying, thou puttest us to rebuke also.

46 And he said, Wo be to you also, yee Lawyers : * for ye lade men with burdens grievous to be borne, and yee your selves rouse not the burdens with one of your fingers.

47 ¶ Wo be to you : * for yee build the sepulchres of the Prophets, and your fathers killed them.

48 Truly * yee beare witness, and allow the deeds of your fathers : for they killed them, and yee build their sepulchres.

13 And one of the company said unto him, Master, bid my brother devide the inheritance with mee.

14 And hee said unto him, Man, who made mee a judge, or a divider over you?

15 Wherefore he said unto them, Take heed, and beware of covetousnesse: for though a man have abundance, yet his life standeth not in his riches.

16 And hee put forth a parable unto them, saying, The ground of a certaine rich man brought forth fruits plenteously.

17 Therefore he thought with himself, saying, What shall I do, because I have no roome, where I may lay up my fruits?

18 And hee said, This will I doe, I will pull downe my barnes, and build greater, and therein will I gather all my fruits, and my goods.

19 And I will say to my soule, Soule, thou hast much goods laid up for many yeares: live at ease, eate, drink, and take thy pastime.

20 But God said unto him, O foole, this night will they fetch away thy soule from thee: then whose shall those things be which thou hast provided?

21 So is he that gathereth riches to himselfe, and is not rich in God.

22 And hee spake unto his disciples, Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what yee shall eate: neither for your body, what yee shall put on.

23 The life is more then meat: and the body more then the raiment.

24 Consider the ravens: for they neither sow nor reap: which neither have storhouse nor barne, and yet God feedeth them: how much more are yee better then fowles:

25 And which of you with taking thought can adde to his stature one cubite?

26 If yee then be not able to doe the least thing, why take yee thought for the remnant?

28 If then God so cloath the grasse which is to day in the field, and to morrow is cast into the oven, how much more will he cloath you, O yee of little faith?

29 Therefore aske not what yee shall eat, or what yee shall drink, neither hang you in suspence.

It is a great and had conflict to confesse the truth, yet he that can do all things, and is almighty, will not be wanting to the weakest, which strive and contend in his appointed time.

Christ would not for three causes be a judge to divide an inheritance. First, for he would not foster up and cherish the filthy opinion that the Jews had of Messias: Secondly, for that he would distinguish the civil government, from the Ecclesiastical: Thirdly, to teach us to beware of them which abuse the shew of the Gospell, and also the name of ministers, to their own private commodities.

Covetousnesse is meant that greedy desire to get, commonly used either now or then.

1 Wee must not rejoyce at the just punishment of others, but rather be instructed thereby to repentance.

There were certain men present at the same season, that shewed him of the Galileans, whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices.

2 And Jesus answered, and said unto the, Suppose ye, that these Galileans were greater sinners then all the other Galileans, because they have suffered such things?

3 I tell you, nay: but except yee amend your lives, yee shall all likewise perish.

a Pontius Pilate was governor of Iudea almost ten years, and about the fourth year of his government, which might be about the fifteenth year of Tiberius reign. Christ finished the worke of our redemption, by his death.

4 Or thinke you that those eightene, upon whom the tower in Siloam fell, and slew them, were sinners above all men that dwell in Jerusalem?

b To wit, in the place, or river: for Siloam was a small river, from whence the conduits of the city came, wherof John 9. 7. and 8. 12. 13. and therefore it was a tower or castle, built upon the conduit side, which fell down suddenly, and killed some. 2 A Great and long suffering is the patience of God, but yet so that at length he executeth judgement.

5 I tell you, nay: but except yee amend your lives, yee shall all likewise perish.

6 ¶ He spake also this parable, A certaine man had a fig tree, planted in his vineyard: and hee came and sought fruit thereon, and found none.

7 Then said hee to the dresser of his vineyard, Behold, these three yeares have I come and sought fruit of this fig tree, and find none: cut it downe: why keepeth it also the ground barren?

c Although the ground barren in that part which otherwise were good for vines.

8 And he answered, and said unto him, Lord, let it alone this yeare also, till I dig round about it, and dung it.

9 And if it beare fruit, well: if not, then after thou shalt cut it downe.

10 ¶ And he taught in one of the Synagogues on the Sabbath day.

3 Christ came to deliver us from the bands of Satan.

11 And behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eightene yeares, and was bowed together, and could not lift up her selfe in any wise.

d Troubled with a disease which Satan brought.

12 When Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said to her, Woman, thou art loosed from thy disease.

e For Satan had the woman bound, as if she had been in chains: in so much that for eightene yeares space, she could not hold up her head.

13 And he laid his hands on her, and immediatly she was made straight againe, and glorified God.

14 ¶ And the ruler of the Synagogue answered with indignation, because that Jesus healed on the Sabbath day, and said unto the people, There are six dayes in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the Sabbath day.

4 A lively image of hypocrisie, & reward thereof. f One of the rulers of the Synagogue, for it appeareth by Marke 5. 22. and Acts 13. 15. that there were many rulers of the Synagogue.

15 Then answered him the Lord, and said, Hipocrite, doth not each one of you on the Sabbath day loose his ox or his asse from the stall, and lead him away to the water?

16 And ought not this daughter of Abraham, whom Satan had bound, loe, eighteen yeares, be loosed from this bound on the Sabbath day?

33 ¶ Nevertheless, I must walk to day, and to morrow, and the day following: for it cannot bee that a Prophet should perish out of Jerusalem.

And it came to passe that when hee was entred into the house of one of the chiefe Pharisees on the Sabbath day, to eat bread, they watched him.

2 And behold, there was a certaine man before him, which had the dropie.

3 Then Jesus answering, spake unto the Lawyers and Pharisees, saying, Is it lawfull to heale on the Sabbath day?

4 And they held their peace. Then he took him, and healed him, and let him go;

5 And answered them, saying, Which of you shall have an asse, or an oxe fallen into a pit, and will not straight way pull him out on the Sabbath day?

6 And they could not answer him againe to those things.

7 ¶ Hee spake also a parable to the guests, when he marked how they chose out the chiefe roomes, and said unto them,

8 When thou shalt bee bidden of any man to a wedding, set not thy selfe downe in the chiefe place, lest a more honourable man then thou be bidden of him:

9 And he that bade both him and thee, come, and say to thee, Give this man room, and thou then begin with shame to take the lowest room.

10 * But when thou art bidden, go and sit downe in the lowest room, that when he that bade thee, cometh, he may say unto thee, Friend, sit up higher: then shalt thou have worship in the presence of them that sit at table with thee.

11 * For whosoever exalteth himself, shall be brought low; and he that humbleth himself, shall be exalted.

12 ¶ Then said hee also to him that had bidden him, * When thou makest a dinner, or a supper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, neither thy kinsmen, nor the rich neighbours, lest they also bid thee againe, and a recompense be made thee.

13 But when thou makest a feast, call the poore, the maimed, the lame, and the blind,

14 And thou shalt bee blessed, because they cannot recompense thee: for thou shalt bee recompensed at the resurrection of the iust.

15 ¶ Now when one of them that sat at table heard those things, hee said unto him, Blessed is he that eateth bread in the kingdome of God.

5 And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders with joy.

7 I say unto you, that likewise joy shall bee in heaven for one sinner that converteth, more then for ninty & nine just men, which need none amendment of life.

8 Either what woman having ten groats, if she lose one groat, doth not light a candle, and sweep the house, and seeke diligently till she find it?

9 And when she hath found it, she calleth her friends, and neighbours, saying, Rejoyce with mee: for I have found the groat which I had lost.

10 Likewise I say unto you, there is joy in the presence of the Angels of God, for one sinner that converteth.

11 ¶ ² He said moreover, A certaine man had two sons,

12 And the younger of them said to his father, Father, give me the portion of the goods that falleth to mee. So he divided unto them ^{his} substance.

13 So not many dayes after, when the younger son had gathered all together, he tooke his journey into a far country, and there he wasted his goods with riotous living.

14 Now when hee had spent all, there arose a great dearth throughout that land, and he began to be in necessity.

15 Then he went and clave to a citizen of that country, and he sent him to his farme, to feed swine.

16 And he would faine have filled his belly with the husks that the swine ate: but no man gave ^{them} him.

17 ³ Then he came to himself, and said, How many hired servants at my fathers have bread enough, and I die for hunger?

18 I will rise and go to my father, and say unto him, Father, I have sinned against ^b heaven, and before thee, 19 And am no more worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants.

20 So he arose and came to his father, and when he was yet a great way off, his father,

[†] Or, drew neere. ¹ We must not despair of them, which have gone out of the way, but according to the example of Christ, we must take great pains about them. ² Some Publicanes and sinners came to Christ from all quarters. ³ Matth. 18. 12.

² Men by their voluntary falling from God, having spoiled themselves of the benefits which they received of him, call themselves headlong into infinite calamities: but God of his singular goodnes, offering himself freely to them whom he calleth to repentance, through the greatness of their misery, wherewith they were tamed, doth not only gently receive them, but also enricheth them with far greater gifts, and blesteth them with the choicest blessing.

³ The beginning of repentance is the acknowledging of the mercy of God, which stirreth us to hope well. ^b Against God, because hee is said to dwell in heaven.

Father ſaw him, and had compaſſion, and ran and fell on his neck, and kiſſed him.

21 * And the ſon ſaid unto him, Father, I have ſinned againſt heaven; and before thee; and am no more worthy to be called thy ſonne.

22 Then the father ſaid to his ſervants, Bring forth the beſt robe, and put it on him, and put a ring on his hand, and ſhoes on his feet, 23 And bring the fat calfe, and kill him, and let us eat, and be merry.

24 For this my ſonne was dead, and is alive againe: and he was loſt, but he is found. And they began to be merry.

25 * Now the elder brother was in the field, and when he came and drew neerto the houſe, he heard melody and dancing.

26 And called one of his ſervants, and asked what thoſe things meant.

27 And he ſaid unto him, Thy brother is come, and thy father hath killed the fat Calfe, becauſe he hath received him ſafe and found.

28 Then he was angry, and would not goe in: therefore came his father out, and intreated him.

29 But he answered, and ſaid to his father, Loe, theſe many yeares have I done thee ſervice, neither brake I at any time thy commandement, and yet thou never gaveſt me a Kidde, that I might make merry with my friends.

30 But when this thy ſonne was come, which hath devoured thy goods with harlots, thou haſt for his ſake killed the fat calfe.

31 And he ſaid unto him, Sonne, thou art ever with me, and all that I have is thine. It was meet that we ſhould make merrie, and be glad: for this thy brother was dead, and is alive againe: and he was loſt, but he is found.

CHAP. XVI.

1 The parable of the ſteward accuſed to his maſter. 13 To ſerue two maſters. 16 The Law and the Prophets. 19 Of Diuor and Lazarus.

And he ſaid alſo unto his Diſciples, There was a certain rich man, which had a ſteward, and he was accuſed unto him, that he waſted his goods.

2 And he called him, and ſaid unto him, How is it that I hear this of thee? Give an account of thy ſtewardſhip: for thou mayeſt be no longer ſteward.

3 Then the ſteward ſaid within himſelfe, What ſhall I doe? for my maſter taketh away from me the ſtewardſhip: I cannot dig, and to beg I am aſhamed.

4 I know what I will doe, that when I am put out of the ſtewardſhip, they may receive me into their houſes.

5 Then called he unto him every one of his maſters debtors, and ſaid unto the firſt,

How much oweſt thou unto my maſter?

6 And he ſaid, An hundreth meaſures of oyle. And he ſaid unto him, Take thy writing, and ſit down quickly, and write fifty.

7 Then ſaid he to another, How much oweſt thou? and he ſaid, An hundred meaſures of wheat. Then he ſaid to him, Take thy writing, and write fourſcore.

8 And the Lord commended the uniuſt ſteward, becauſe he had done wiſely. Wherefore the children of this world are in their generation wiſer then the children of light.

9 And I ſay unto you, Make you friends with the riches of iniquitie, that when ye ſhall want, they may receive you into everlaſting habitations.

10 * He that is faithfull in the leaſt, he is alſo faithfull in much: and he that is uniuſt in the leaſt, is uniuſt alſo in much.

11 If then ye have not been faithfull in the wicked riches, who will truſt you in the true treaſure?

12 And if ye have not been faithfull in another mans goods, who ſhall give you that which is yours?

13 * No ſervant can ſerue two maſters: for either he ſhall hate the one, and love the other: or elſe he ſhall leane to the one, and deſpiſe the other. Ye cannot ſerue God and riches.

14 All theſe things heard the Pharifees alſo, which were covetous, & they ſcoffed at him.

15 * Then he ſaid unto them, Ye are they which juſtifie your ſelves before men: but God knoweth your hearts: for that which is highly eſteemed among men, is abomination in the ſight of God.

16 * The Law and the Prophets endured untill John: and ſince that time the kingdome of God is preached, and every man preaſſeth into it.

17 * Now it is more eaſie that heaven and earth ſhould paſſe away, then that one tittle of the Law ſhould fall.

18 ¶ * Whoſoever putteth away his wife, and marrieth another, committeth adultery: and whoſoever marrieth her that is put away from her husband, committeth adultery.

19 ¶ * There was a certain rich man, which was clothed in purple and fine linnen, and fared wel and delicately everyday.

20 Alſo there was a certaine begger named Lazarus, which was laid at his gate full of ſores, 21 And deſired to be reſreſhed with the crumbeſ that fell from the rich mans table: yea, and the dogs came and licked his ſores.

22 And it was ſo that the begger died, and was carried by the Angels into Abra-

^a This parable doth not approve the ſtewards naughty dealing, for it was very ſhort: but parables are ſet forth, to ſhew a thing ſecretly, and as it were, under a figure to repreſent the truth, though it agree not thoroughly with the matter it ſelfe: ſo that Chriſt meaneth by this parable, to teach us, that worldly men are more heedie in the affairs of this world, than the children of God are careful for everlaſting life.

^b Men that are given to this preſent life, contrary to whom the children of light are ſet: ſ. Paul calleth theſe ſpiritual, and the other carnall.

^c This is not ſpoken of goods that are evil gotten, for God will have our benevolence to the poor, proceed and come from a good fountain: but be cauſeth theſe riches of iniquity, which men uſe naughtily.

^f Wee ought to take heed, that for abuſing our earthly function and duty we be not deprived of heavenly gifts: for how can they uſe ſpiritual gifts aright, who abuſe worldly things?

^q The end of the poverty and miſery of the gaily ſhall be everlaſting joy: as the end of the riotuſneſſe and cruell pride of the rich ſhall be everlaſting miſery, without all hope of mercy.

Heavenly and spiritual things are expressed and set forth under colours, and resemblances fit for our senses.

23 And being in hell in torments, he lift up his eyes, and saw Abraham a farre off, and Lazarus in his bosome.

24 Then he cryed, and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus that he may dip the tip of his finger in water and cool my tongue, for I am tormented in this flame.

25 But Abraham said, Sonne, remember that thou in thy life time receivdest thy pleasures, and likewise Lazarus pains: now therefore he is comforted, and thou art tormented.

26 Besides all this, between you and us there is a great gulf set, so that they which would go from hence to you, cannot, neither can they come from thence to us.

7 Seeing that we have a most sure rule to live by, laid forth unto us in the word of God, rashly and vainly do men seek for other revelations.

27 Then he said, I pray thee therefore father, that thou wouldest send him to my fathers house, 28 (For I have five brethren) that he may testifie unto them, lest they also come into this place of torment.

29 Abraham said unto him, They have Moses and the Prophets, let them heare them.

30 And he said, Nay, father Abraham: but if one come to them from the dead, they will amend their lives.

31 Then he said unto him, If they heare not Moses and the Prophets, neither will they be perswaded, though one rise from the dead again.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Offences. 3 We must forgive him that trespasseth against us. 10 Wee are vnprofitable seruaunts. 11 Of the ten lepers. 20 Of the coming of the kingdom of heauen. 33 False Christs. 36 After what manner Christs coming shall be.

 Matth. 18. 7. Mark 9. 42. 1 The Church is of necessitie subiect to offences, but the Lord will not suffer them unpunished, if any of the least be offended.*

Then said he to his disciples, It cannot be avoided, but that offences will come, but woe be to him by whom they come.

*2 Our reprehensions, must be iust, & proceed of love and charity. * Matth. 18. 21. 3 God will never be utterly lacking to the godly (although he be not so perfectly with them, as they would) even in those difficulties, which cannot be overcome by mans reason. * Matth. 17. 20. 4 If you had no more faith, but the quantity of the graine of mustard seed. 4 Seeing that God may challenge unto himself of right, both us and all that is ours, he can be debtor unto us for nothing, although we labour manfully even unto death.*

2 It is better for him that a great millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were cast into the sea, then that he should offend one of these little ones.

3 ¶ Take heed to your selves: if thy brother trespass against thee, rebuke him: and if he repent, forgive him.

4 * And though he sinne against thee seven times in a day, and seven times in a day turn again to thee, saying, It repenteth me, thou shalt forgive him.

5 ¶ And the Apostles said unto the Lord, Increase our faith.

6 And the Lord said, * If ye had faith, as much as is a grain of mustard seed, and should say unto this mulberry tree, Pluck thy self up by the roots, and plant thy self in the sea, it should even obey you.

7 ¶ Who is it also of you, that having a servant plowing, or feeding cattell, would say unto him by and by, when he were come from the field, Goe, and sit down at table?

8 And would not rather say to him, Dresse wherewith I may sup, and gird thy selfe, and serve me, till I have eaten and drunken, and afterward eat thou, and drink thou.

9 Doth he thank that servant, because he did that which was commanded unto him? I trow not.

10 So likewise ye, when ye have done all those things which are commanded you, say, We are vnprofitable seruaunts: we have done that which was our duty to do.

7 The most perfect keeping of the Law which we can performe, deserueth no reward.

¶ And so it was when he went to Jerusalem, that he passed thorow the mids of Samaria, and Galilee.

6 Christ doth well even unto such as will be unthankfull, but the benefites of God profit them onely to saluation, which are thankfull.

12 And as he entred into a certain town, there met him ten men that were lepers, which stood a far off:

13 And they lift up their voyces, and said, Jesus, Master, have mercy on us.

14 And when he saw them, he said unto them, * Go, shew your selves unto the Priests. And it came to passe, that as they went, they were cleansed.

15 Then one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voyce praised God,

16 And fell down on his face at his feet, and gave him thanks: and he was a Samaritan.

17 And Jesus answered, and said, Are there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine?

18 There is none found that returned to give God praise, save this stranger.

19 And he said unto him, Arise, go thy way, thy faith hath saved thee.

20 ¶ And when he was demanded of the Pharisees, when the kingdom of God should come, he answered them, and said, The kingdom of God commeth not with observation.

21 Neither shall men say, Lo here, or lo there: for behold, the Kingdom of God is within you.

22 * And he said unto the disciples, The dayes will come, when ye shall desire to see one of the dayes of the Son of man, and ye shall not see it.

23 * Then they shall say to you, Behold here, or behold there: but go not thither, neither follow them.

24 For as the lightning that lightneth out of the one part under heaven, shineth unto the other part under heaven: so shall the Son of man be in his day.

25 But first must he suffer many things, and be reprov'd of this generation.

26 * And as it was in the dayes of Noah;

 Levit. 14. 2. 7 The kingdom of God is not marked of many, although it be most present before their eyes: because they fondly perswade themselves, that it is joynd with outward pompe.*

b With any outward pompe and shew of majesty, to be knowne by: for there were otherwise many plain and evident tokens whereby men might have understood, that (Christ) was the Messiah, whose kingdom was so long looked for: but hee speaketh in this place of those signes which the Pharisees dreamed of, which looked for an earthly kingdom of Messiah.

c You look about Messias, as though he were absent, but he is amongst you in the midst of you. 8 We oftentimes neglect those things when they be present, which we afterward desire when they are gone, but in vain. d The time will come, that you shall see for the Son of man with great power of heere, and shall not find him.

 Matth. 24. 23. Mark 13. 31. 9 Christ forevermore, that false Christs shall come, and that his glory shall suddenly be spread forth and wide, though the world, after that the ignominie of the crosse is put out, and extinguished.*

 Gen. 7. 5. Matth. 24. 38. 10 The world shall be taken unawares with the sudden judgement of God: & therefore the faithfull ought to watch continually.*

Noah, so shall it be in the dayes of the Son of man.

27 They are, they dranke, they married wives, and gave in marriage unto the day that Noah went into the Ark: and the flood came, and destroyed them all.

28 * Likewise also, as it was in the dayes of Lot, they ate, they dranke, they bought, they sold, they planted, they built.

29 But in the day that Lot went out of Sodome, it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all.

30 After these ensamples shall it bee in the day when the Son of man is revealed.

31 * At that day he that is upon the house, and his stuffe in the house, let him not come down to take it out: and he that is in the field likewise, let him not turn back to that he left behind.

32 * Remember Lots wife.

33 * Whosoever will seek to save his soule, shall lose it: and whosoever shall lose it, shall * get it life, 34 * I tell you, in that night there shall be two in one bed: the one shall be receiued, and the other shall be left.

35 Two women shall be grinding together, the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left.

36 Two shall be in the field: one shall be received, and another shall be left.

37 * And they answered, and said unto him, Where, Lord? And he said unto them, * Wheresoever the body is, thither shall also the Eagles be gathered together.

CHAP. XVIII.

2 The parable of the unrighteous Judge and the widow. 10 Of the Pharise and the Publicane. 15 Children are of the Kingdom of heaven. 22 To sell all and give to the poor. 28 The Apostles forsake all. 31 Christ foretelleth his death. 35 The blind man receiveth sight.

And he spake also a parable unto them, Ato this end, that they * ought alwayes to pray, and not to * wax faint,

2 * Saying, There was a Judge in a certain city, which feared not God, neither revered man.

3 And there was a widow in that city, which came unto him, saying, Do me justice against mine adversary.

4 And he would not of a long time: but afterward he said with himselfe, Though I fear not God, nor reverence man,

5 Yet because this widow troubleth me, I will do her right, lest at the last she come and * make me weary.

6 And the Lord said, Heare what the unrighteous Judge saith.

7 Now shall not God avenge his Elect, which cry day and night unto him, yea, though he * suffer long for them?

8 I tell you he will avenge them quickly: but when the Sonne of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?

9 ¶ He spake also this parable unto certaine which trusted in themselves that they were just, and despised others.

10 Two men went up into the Temple to pray: the one a Pharise, and the other a Publicane:

11 * The Pharise stood and prayed thus with himselfe, O God, I thank thee that I am not as other men, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this Publicane.

12 I fast twise in the weeke: I give tithes of all that ever I possesse.

13 But the Publicane standing * as farre off, would not lift up so much as his eyes to heaven, but smote his breast, saying, O God, be mercifull to me a sinner.

14 I tell you, this man departed to his house, justified rather than the other: * for every man that exalteth himselfe shall be brought low, and he that humbleth himselfe shall be exalted.

15 ¶ * They brought unto him also babes that he should touch them. * And when his disciples saw it, they rebuked them.

16 * But Jesus * called them unto him, and said, suffer the babes to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

17 * Verily I say unto you, whosoever receiveth not the Kingdom of God as a babe, he shall not enter therein.

18 * Then a certain Ruler asked him, saying, Good Master, what ought I to do, to inherit eternall life?

19 And Jesus said unto him, Why callest thou me good? none is good, save one, even God.

20 Thou knowest the commandments, * Thou shalt not commit adultery: Thou shalt not kill: Thou shalt not steale: Thou shalt not beare false witness: Honour thy father and thy mother.

21 * And he said, All these have I kept from my youth.

22 Now when Jesus heard that, he said unto him, Yet lackest thou one thing, Sell all that ever thou hast, and distribute unto the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven, and come follow me.

23 But when he heard those things, he was very heavy: for he was marvellous rich.

24 * And when Jesus saw him very sorrowfull, he said; With what difficulty shall they that have riches enter into the Kingdom of God!

25 Surely it is easier for a Camell to goe through a needles eye, then for a rich man to enter into the Kingdom of God.

26 Then said they that heard it, And who then can be saved?

twelve, and said unto them, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem, and all things shall be fulfilled to the Sonne of man, that are written by the Prophets.

32 For he shall be delivered unto the Gentiles, and shall be mocked, and shall be 33 And when they have scourged him, they will put him to death: but the third day he shall rise again.

34 But they understood ^b none of these things, and this saying was hid from them, neither perceived they the things, which were spoken.

35 ¶ *¹¹ And it came to passe, that as he was come near unto Jericho, a certaine blind man sate by the way side, begging.

36 And when he heard the people passe by, he asked what it meant.

37 And they said unto him, that Jesus of Nazareth passeth by.

38 Then he cryed, saying, Jesus the Son of David, have mercy on me.

39 ¹² And they which went before, rebuked him that he should hold his peace, but he cryed much more, O Son of David,
have mercy on me.

40 And Jesus stood still, and commanded him to be brought unto him. And when he was come neer, he asked him,

41 Saying, what wilt thou that I do unto thee? And he said, Lord, that I may re-

42 And Jesus said unto him, Receive thy sight: thy faith hath saved thee.

43 Then immediately he received his sight, and followed him, praising God: and

2 Zaccheus the publicane. 13 Ten pieces of money delivered to servants to occupy withall. 29 Jesus entrath into Jerusalem.

41 He foretelleth the destruction of the City with temes, 45 He casteth the sellers out of the temple.

NOW * when Jesus entred and passed thorow Jericho,

2 Behold, there was a man named Zac-cheus, which was the ^a chief receiver of the tribute, and he was rich.

3 And he sought to see Jesus, who he should be, and could not for the preasse, because he was of a low stature.

4 Wherefore he ran before, and climbed up into a wild figg-tree, that he might see him: for he should come that way.

5 And when Jesus came to the place, he looked up, and saw him, and said unto him, Zaccheus, come down at once: for to day I must abide at thine house.

6 Then he came down hastily, and received him joyfully.

7 * And when they all saw it, they murmured, saying, that he was gone in to lodge with a sinfull man.

8 * And Zaccheus stood forth, and said unto the Lord, Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poore: and if I have taken from any man by ^b forged cavil-lation, I restore him four fold.

9 Then Jesus said to him, This day is salvation come unto this house, forasmuch as he is also become the ^c son of Abraham.

10 * For the Son of man is come to seek,
and to save that which was lost.

11 * And whiles they heard these things, he continued and spake a parable, because he was neer to Jerusalem, and because also they thought that the Kingdome of God should shortly appear.

12 He said therefore, * A certain Noble man went into a farre countrey, to receive for himselfe a kingdome, and so to come again.

13 * And he called his ten servants, and delivered them ten pieces of money, and said unto them, Occupy till I come.

14 Now his cittizens hated him, and sent an ambassage after him, saying, We will not have this man to reign over us.

15 And it came to passe, when he was come again, and had received his kingdom, that he commanded the servants to be called to him, to whom he gave his money, that he might know what every man had gained

16 Then came the first, saying, Lord, ^d thy piece hath increased ten pieces.

17 And he said unto him, Well, good servant: because thou hast been faithfull in a very little thing, take thou authoritie over ten cities.

18 And the second came, saying, Lord, thy piece hath increased five pieces.

19 And to the same he said, Be thou also Ruler over five cities.

20 * So the other came, and said, Lord, behold thy piece, which I have laid up in anapkin:

21 For I feared thee, because thou art a strict man: thou takest up, that thou laiest not down, and reapest that thou didst not sow.

22 Then he said unto him, Of thine own mouth will I judge thee, O evill servant,

there together: for the Publicans were divided into companies: as we may gather by many places of Cicero his Orations.

Thou knewest that I am a strict man, taking up that I layed not down, and reaping that I did not sow.

23 Wherefore then gavest not thou my money into the banck, that at my coming I might have required it with vantage?

24 And he said to them that stood by, Take from him that piece, and give it to him that hath ten pieces.

25 And they said unto him, Lord, he hath ten pieces.

26 * For I say unto you, that unto all them that have, it shall be given; and from him that hath not, even that he hath shall be taken from him.

27 Moreover, those mine enemies, which would not that I should reign over them, bring hither, and slay them before me.

28 ¶ And when he had thus spoken, he went forth before, ascending up to Jerusalem.

29 * And it came to passe, when he was come neer to Bethphage, and Bethania, besides the mount which is called the mount of Olives, he sent two of his disciples,

30 Saying, Goe ye to the town which is before you, wherein, as soon as ye are come, ye shall find a colt tied, whereon never man sate: loose him, and bring him hither.

31 And if any man ask you, why ye loose him, thus shall ye say unto him, Because the Lord hath need of him.

32 So they that were sent, went their way, and found it as he had said unto them.

33 And as they were loosing the colt, the owners thereof said unto them, Why loose ye the colt?

34 And they said, The Lord hath need of him.

35 ¶ * So they brought him to Jesus, and they cast their garments on the colt, and set Jesus thereon.

36 And as he went, they spread their clothes in the way.

37 And when he was now come neer to the going down of the mount of Olives, the whole multitude of the disciples began to rejoyce, and to praise God with a loud voice, for all the great works that they had seen, 38 Saying, Blessed be the king that cometh in the Name of the Lord: peace in heaven, and glory in the highest places.

39 * Then some of the Pharisees of the company said unto him, Master, rebuke thy disciples.

40 But he answered, and said unto them, I tell you, that if these should hold their peace, the stones would crie.

41 ¶ * And when he was come neer, he beheld the city, and wept for it,

42 * Saying, O if thou haddest even known at the least in this thy day those things, which belong unto thy peace! but now they are hid from thine eyes.

43 For the dayes shall come upon thee, that thine enemies shall cast a trench about thee, and compass thee round, and keep thee in on every side, 44 And shall make thee even with the ground, and thy children which are in thee, and they shall not leave in thee a stone upon a stone, because thou knewest not that season of thy visitation.

45 ¶ * He went also into the Temple, and began to cast out them that sold therein, and them that bought.

46 Saying unto them, It is written, * Mine house is the house of prayer, * but ye have made it a den of thieves.

47 And he taught daily in the Temple. And the high Priests and the Scribes, and the chief of the people sought to destroy him.

48 But they could not find what they might do to him: for all the people hanged upon him when they heard him.

CHAP. XX.

From whence Johns Baptisme was. 9 The wickedness of the Priests is noted by the parable of the vineyard and the husbandmen. 21 To give tribute to Cesar. 27 He convinceth the Sadduces denying the resurrection. 41 How Christ is the Son of David.

And * it came to passe, that on one of those dayes, as he taught the people in the Temple, and preached the Gospel, the high Priests and the Scribes came upon him with the Elders,

2 And spake unto him, saying, Tell us, by what authority thou doest these things, or who is he that hath given thee this authoritie?

3 And he answered, and said unto them, I also will aske you one thing: tell me therefore:

4 The Baptisme of John, was it from heaven, or of men?

5 And they reasoned within themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven, he will say, Why then beleeveth ye him not?

6 But if we shall say, of men, all the people will stone us: for they be perswaded that John was a Prophet.

7 Therefore they answered, that they could not tell whence it was.

8 Then Jesus said unto them, Neither tell I you, by what authoritie I do these things.

9 ¶ * Then began he to speak to the people this parable; A certain man planted a vineyard, and let it forth to husbandmen: and went into a strange country, for a great time.

10 And at the time convenient, he sent a servant to the husbandmen, that they should give him of the fruit of the vineyard: but the husbandmen did beat him, and sent him away empty.

11 Againe he sent yet another servant: and they did beat him, and foully intreated him, and sent him away empty.

12 Moreover he sent the third, and him they wounded, and cast out.

13 Then said the Lord of the vineyard, What shall I do? I will send my beloved sonne: it may be that they will do reverence when they see him.

14 But when the husbandmen saw him, they reasoned with themselves, saying, This is the heire: come, let us kill him, that the inheritance may be ours.

15 So they cast him out of the vineyard, and killed him. What shall the Lord of the vineyard therefore do unto them?

16 He will come and destroy these husbandmen, and will give out his vineyard to others. But when they heard it, they said, God forbid.

17 ¶ And he beheld them, and said, What meaneth this then that is written, * The stone that the builders refused, that is made the head of the corner?

18 Whosoever shall fall upon that stone, shall be broken: and on whomsoever it shall fall, it will grinde him to powder.

19 Then the high Priests, and the Scribes the same hour went about to lay hands on him: (but they feared the people) for they perceived that he had spoken this parable against them.

20 * And they * watched him, and sent forth ^b spies, which should faine themselves just men, ^c to take him in his talk, and to deliver him unto the power and ^d authority of the governour.

21 And they asked him, saying, Master, we know that thou sayest, and teachest right, neither dost thou accept ^e mans person, but teachest the way of God truly.

22 Is it lawfull for us to give Cesar tribute or no?

23 But he perceived their ^f craftinesse, and said unto them, Why tempt ye me?

24 Shew me a peny. Whose image and superscription hath it? They answered, and said, Cefars.

25 Then he said unto them, * Give then unto Cesar the things which are Cefars, and to God those which are Gods.

26 And they could not reprove his saying before the people: but they marvelled at his answer, and held their peace.

27 * Then came to him certain of the Sadduces (which deny that there is any resurrection) and they asked him,

28 Saying, Master, * Moses wrote unto us, If any mans brother die having a wife, and he die without children, that his brother should take his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.

29 Now there were seven brethren, and the first took a wife, and he died without children.

30 And the second took the wife, and he died childlesse.

31 Then the third took her: and so likewise the seventh died, and left no children.

32 And last of all the woman died also.

33 Therefore at the resurrection, whose wife of them shall she be? for seven had her to wife.

34 Then Jesus answered, and said unto them, The ^g children of this world marry wives, and are married.

35 But they which shall be counted worthy to enjoy that world, and the resurrection from the dead, neither marry wives, neither are married.

36 For they can die no more, forasmuch as they are equall unto the Angels, and are the sons of God, since they are the ^h children of the resurrection.

37 And that the dead shall rise again, even * Moses shewed it besides the bulh, when he said, The Lord ⁱ the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, & the God of Jacob.

38 For he is not the God of the dead, but of them which live: for all ^j live unto him.

39 Then certain of the Scribes answered, and said, Master, thou hast well said.

40 And after that, durst they not aske him any thing at all.

41 * Then said he unto them, How say they that Christ is Davids son?

42 And David himself saith in the book of the Psalmes, * The Lord said unto my Lord, Sit at my right hand, 43 Till I shall make thine enemies thy footstool.

44 Seeing David called him Lord, how is he then his son?

45 ¶ Then in the audience of all the people, he said unto his disciples,

46 * Beware of the Scribes, which willingly go in long robes, and love salutations in the markets, and the highest seats in the assemblies, and the chiefe roomes at Feasts:

47 Which devoure widowes ^k houses, and in shew make long prayers: these shall receive greater damnation.

5 * 2 Now as some spake of the Temple, how it was garnished with goodly stones, and with a consecrate things, he said,

6 Are these the things that ye look upon? the dayes will come wherein a stone shall not be left upon a stone, that shall not be thrown down.

7 Then they asked him, saying, Master, but when shall these things be? and what signe shall there be when these things shall come to passe?

8 * And he said, Take heed, that ye be not deceived: for many will come^b in my Name, saying, I am Christ, & the time draweth neer: follow ye not them therefore.

26 5 And mens hearts shall fail them for feare, and for looking after those things which shall come on the world: for the powers of heaven shall be shaken.

NOW * the¹ feaſt of unleavened bread drew neere, which is called the Paſſeover.

2 And the high Priests and Scribes fought how they might kill him: for they feared the people.

3 * * Then entred Satan into Judas who was called Iſcariot, and was of the number of the twelve.

4 And he went his way, and communed with the high Priests and * captains, how he might betray him to them.

5 So they were glad, and agreed to give him money.

6 And he conſented, and ſought opportunity to betray him unto them, when the people were^b away.

7 ¶ * * Then came the day of unleavened bread, when the Paſſeover * muſt be ſacrificed.

8 And he ſent Peter and John, ſaying, Go and prepare us the^d Paſſeover, that we may eat it.

9 And they ſaid unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare it?

10 Then he ſaid unto them, Behold, when ye be entred into the city, there ſhall a man meet you, bearing a pitcher of water: follow him into the houſe that he entreth in.

11 And ſay unto the good man of the houſe, The Maſter ſaith unto thee, where is the lodging where I ſhall eat my Paſſeover with my diſciples?

12 Then he ſhall ſhew you a great high chamber trimmed: there make it ready.

13 So they went, and found as he had ſaid unto them, and made ready the Paſſeover.

14 * * And when the^e hour was come, he ſat down, and the twelve Apoſtles with
 him.

15 Then he ſaid unto them, I have ear-neſtly deſired to eat this Paſſeover with you, before I^f ſuffer.

16 For I ſay unto you, Henceforth I will not eat of it any more, untill it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God.

17 And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and ſaid, Take this, and divide it among you.

18 For I ſay unto you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, untill the kingdom of God be come.

19 * * And he took bread, and when he had given thanks, he brake it, and gave to them, ſaying, This is my body, which is given for you: do this in remembrance of me

20 Likewise alſo after ſupper he took the cup, ſaying, This^g cup is^h that new Teſta-ment in my blood, which is ſhed for you.

21 * * Yet behold, theⁱ hand of him that betrayeth me, is with me at the table.

22 7 And truly the Son of man goeth as it is appointed: but woe be to that man by whom he is betrayed.

23 Then they began to enquire among themſelves, which of them it ſhould be,
 that ſhould do that.

24 ¶ * * And there aroſe alſo a ſtrife among them, which of them ſhould ſeem to be the greateſt.

25 But he ſaid unto them, The Kings of the Gentiles reign over them, and they that beare rule over them, are called^k bounti-full.

26 But ye ſhall not be ſo: but let the greateſt among you be as the leaſt: and the chiefeſt as he that ſerveth.

27 For who is greater, he that ſitteth at table, or he that ſerveth? Is not he that ſitteth at table? And I am among you as he that ſerveth.

28 9 And ye are they which have continued with me in my temptations.

29 Therefore I appoint unto you a kingdome, as my father hath appointed unto me,

30 * That ye may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, and ſit on ſeats, and judge the twelve tribes of Iſrael.

31 ¶ 10 And the Lord ſaid, Simon, Simon, behold, * Satan hath deſired you, to winnow you as wheat.

32 11 But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith faile not: therefore when thou art converted, ſtrengthen thy brethren.

33 * 12 And he ſaid unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with thee into priſon, and to death.

34 But he ſaid, I tell thee, Peter, the cock ſhall not crow this day, before thou haſt thrice denied that thou kneweſt me.

35 ¶ And he ſaid unto them, * When I ſent you without bag, and ſcrip, and ſhoes, lacked ye any thing? And they ſaid, Nothing.

36 13 Then he ſaid to them, But now he that hath a bag, let him take it, and like-wiſe a ſcrip: and he that hath none, let him ſell his coat, and buy a ſword.

37 For I ſay unto you, That yet the ſame which is written, muſt be performed in me, * Even with the wicked was he num-bred: for doubtleſſe thoſe things which are written of me, have an end.

38 And they ſaid, Lord, behold, here are two ſwords. And he ſaid unto them, It is enough.

39 ¶ * And he came out, and went (as he was wont) to the mount of Olives: and his diſciples alſo followed him.

40 * 13 And when he came to the place, he ſaid to them, Pray, Leſt ye enter into temptation.

them about a stones cast, and kneeled downe, and prayed,

42 Saying, Father, if thou wilt, take away this cup from mee: neverthelesse, not my will, but thine be done.

43 And there appeared an Angel unto him from heaven, comforting him.

44 But being in an ^aagony, he prayed more earnestly: and his sweat was like drops of blood, trickling downe to the ground.

45 ¹⁵ And he rose up from prayer, and came to his disciples, and found them sleeping for heavinesse.

46 And hee said unto them, Why sleepe yee? rise and pray, lest yee enter into temptation.

47 ¶ ¹⁶ And while hee yet spake, behold, a company, & he that was called Judas one of the twelve, went before them, and came neare unto Jesus to kisse him.

48 And Jesus said unto him, Judas, betrayest thou the Son of man with a kisse?

49 ¹⁷ Now when they which were about him, saw what would follow, they said unto him, Lord, shall wee smite with the sword?

50 And one of them smote a servant of the high Priest, and strooke off his right ear.

51 Then Jesus answered, and said, Suffer them thus far: and he touched his eare, and healed him.

52 ¹⁸ Then Jesus said unto the high Priests, and captaines of the Temple, and the Elders which were come to him, Bee yee come out as unto a thiefe with swords and staves?

53 When I was dayly with you in the Temple, yee stretched not forth the hands against mee: but this is your very houre, and the ^p Power of darknesse.

54 ¶ ¹⁹ Then tooke they him, and led him, and brought him to the high Priests house. ¹⁹ And Peter followed a far off.

55 ²⁰ And when they had kindled a fire in the mids of the hall, and were set down together, Peter also sat down among them.

56 And a certaine maid beheld him as he sate by the fire, and having well looked on him, said, This man was also with him.

57 But he denied him, saying, Woman, I know him not.

58 And after a little while, another man saw him, and said, Thou art also of them. But Peter said, Man, I am not.

59 And about the space of an houre after, a certaine other affirmed, saying, Verily, even this man was with him: for he is also a Galilean.

60 And Peter said, Man, I know not what thou sayest. And immediatly while hee yet spake, the cock crew.

61 Then the Lord turned back, and looked upon Peter: and Peter remembred the word of the Lord, how he had said unto him, ^{*} before the cock crow, thou shalt deny mee thrice.

62 And Peter went out, and wept bitterly.

63 ¶ ²⁰ And the men that held Jesus, mocked him, and strooke him:

64 And when they had blindfolded him, they smote him on the face, and asked him, saying, Prophecie who it is that smote thee.

65 And many other things blasphemously spake they against him.

66 ²¹ And as soone as it was day, the Elders of the people, and the high Priests, and the Scribes came together, and led him into their councell, 67 Saying, Art thou that Christ? tell us. And he said unto them, If I tell you, yee will not belevee it.

68 And if also I aske you, yee will not answer mee, nor let mee goe.

69 Hereafter shall the Son of man sit at the right hand of the power of God.

70 Then said they all, Art thou then the Son of God? And he said unto them; yee say, that I am.

71 Then said they, What need we any further witnesse? for wee our selves have heard it of his owne mouth.

CHAP. XXIII.

¹ Hee is accused before Pilate. ⁷ He is sent to Herod. ¹¹ Hee is mocked. ²⁴ Pilate yeldeth him up to the Iewes request. ²⁷ The women bewaile him. ³³ He is crucified. ³⁹ One of the thieves revileth him. ³⁴ The other is saved by faith. ⁴⁵ He dieth. ⁵³ He is buried.

Then the whole multitude of them arose, and led him unto Pilate.

2 And they began to accuse him, saying, We have found this man ^{} perverting the nation, ^{} and forbidding to pay tribute to Cesar, saying, That he is Christ, a King.

3 ^{*} And Pilate asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jewes? And hee answered him, and said, Thou sayest it.

4 Then said Pilate to the high Priests, & to the people, I find no fault in this man.

5 But they were the more fierce, saying, Hee moveth the people, teaching throughout all Judea, beginning at Galilee, even to this place.

6 ^{*} Now when Pilate heard of Galilee, he asked whether the man were a Galilean.

7 And when he knew that hee was of Herods jurisdiction, he sent him to Herod, who was also at Jerusalem in those days.

8 And when Herod saw Jesus, hee was exceedingly glad: for he was desirous to see him of a long season, because hee had heard many things of him, and trusted to have seene some signe done by him.

9 Then questioned he with him of many things: but he answered him nothing.

² Christ is a laughing stock to Princes, but to their great smart.

^b This was Herod Antipas the Tetrarch, in the time of whose governance, which was almost the space of 22. yeares, Iohn the Baptist preached and was put to death, and Jesus Christ also died and rose againe, and the Apostles began to preach, and divers things were done at Jerusalem almost seven yeares after Christs death. This Herod was sent into banishment to Lyons, about the second year of Caius Caesar.

^a This agony sheweth that Christ strove much, and was in great distress: for Christ strove not only with the feares of death as other men doe, but for many Martyrs might have more constant then Christ, but with the fearefull indignement of his angry Father, which is the sorest thing in the world: and the matter was for that hee bore the burden of all our sins upon himselfe.

^b These doe not onely shew that Christ was true man, but other things also which the gossell have to consider of, wherein the force of the redemption of all mankind is contained in the Son of God his deposing himselfe to the state of a servant, such things, as no man can sufficiently declare.

10 The high Priests also and the Scribes stood forth, and accused him vehemently.

11 And Herod with his ^c men of war, despised him, and mocked him, and arrayed him in white, and sent him again to Pilate.

12 ³ And the same day Pilate and Herod were made friends together: for before they were enemies one to another.

13 ¶ Then Pilate called together the high Priests, and the ^d rulers, & the people,

14 * And said unto them, Yee have brought this man unto mee, as one that perverted the people: and behold, I have examined him before you, and have found no fault in this man, of those things whereof yee accuse him:

15 No, nor yet Herod: for I sent you to him: and loe, nothing worthy of death is done of him.

16 ⁵ I will therefore chastise him, and let him loose.

17 (For of necessity hee must have let one loose unto them at the feast)

18 Then all the multitude cried at once, saying, Away with him, and deliver unto us Barabbas:

19 Which for a certaine insurrection made in the city, and murther, was cast into prison.

20 Then Pilate spake againe to them, willing to let Jesus loose.

21 But they cried, saying, Crucifie, crucifie him.

22 ⁶ And hee said unto them the third time, But what evill hath he done? I find no cause of death in him: I will therefore chastise him, and let him loose.

23 But they were instant with loud voices, and required that he might be crucified: and the voices of them, and of the high Priests prevailed.

24 So Pilate gave sentence, that it should be as they required.

25 And he let loose unto them him that for insurrection and murther was cast into prison, whom they desired, and delivered Jesus to doe with him what they would.

26 ¶ ⁷ And as they led him away, they caught one Simon of Cyrene, coming out of the field, and on him they laid the crosse, to beare it after Jesus.

27 ⁸ And there followed him a great multitude of people, and of women, which women bewailed and lamented him.

28 But Jesus turned back unto them, and said, Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for mee, but weep for your selves, and for your children.

29 For behold, the dayes will come, when men shall say, Blessed are the barren, and the wombe that never bare, and the paps that never gave suck.

30 Then shall they begin to say to the mountaines, * Fall on us, and to the hills, Cover us.

31 * For if they doe these things to a green tree, what shall be done to the dry?

32 * And there were two others, which were evill doers, led with him to be slaine.

33 ⁹ And when they were come to the place, which is called Calvarie, there they crucified him, and the evill doers: one at the right hand, and the other at the left.

34 ¹⁰ Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them: for they know not what they doe. And they parted his raiment, and cast lots.

35 And the people stood, and beheld: and the rulers mocked him with them, saying, He saved others: let him save himselfe, if he be that Christ, the ^f Chosen of God.

36 The souldiers also mocked him, and came and offered him vineger, 37 And said, if thou be the King of the Jewes, save thy selfe.

38 ¹¹ And a superscription also was written over him, in Greeke letters, and in Latine, and in Ebrew, THIS IS THAT KING OF THE JEWES.

39 ¶ ¹² And ¹³ one of the evill doers, which were hanged, railed on him, saying, If thou be that Christ, save thy self and us.

40 But the other answered, and rebuked him, saying, Fearest thou not God, seeing thou art in the same condemnation?

41 We are indeed righteously here: for we receive things worthy of that we have done: but this man hath done nothing ^h amisse.

42 And hee said unto Jesus, Lord, remember mee, when thou comest into thy kingdome.

43 Then Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, to day shalt thou be with me in ⁱ Paradise.

44 ¶ ¹⁴ And it was about the sixth hour: and there was a darknes over all the land, untill the ninth hour.

45 ¹⁵ And the Sun was darkened, and the vaile of the Temple rent thorow the mids.

46 And Jesus cried with a loud voice, and said, * Father, into thine hands I commend my spirit. And when hee thus had said, he gave up the ghost.

47 ¶ ¹⁶ Now when the Centurion saw what was done, he glorified God, saying, Of a surety this man was just.

48 And all the people that came together to that sight, beholding the things which were done, smote their breasts, & returned.

52 He went unto Pilate, and asked the body of Jesus,

53 And tooke it downe, and wrapped it in a linnen cloth, and laid it in a tombe hewen out of a rock, wherein was never man yet laid.

54 And that day was the Preparation, and the Sabbath^k drew on.

55¹⁸ And the women also that followed after, which came with him from Galilee, beheld the sepulchre, and how his body was laid.

56 And they returned, and prepared odours, and oyntments, and rested the Sabbath day according to the commandement.

CHAP. XXIV.

¹ The women came to the sepulchre. ⁹ They report that which they heard of the Angels unto the Apostles. ¹³ Christ doth accompany two going to Emmaus. ²⁷ He expoundeth the Scriptures unto them. ³⁹ He offereth himselfe to his Apostles to be handled. ⁴⁹ He promiseth the holy Ghost. ⁵¹ He is carried up into heaven.

NOW the ^{*} first day of the weeke, early in the morning, they came to the sepulchre, and brought the odours which they had prepared, and certaine women with them.

2 And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre;

3 And went in, but found not the body of the Lord Jesus.

4 And it came to passe, that as they were amazed thereat, behold, two men suddenly stood by them in shining vestures.

5 And as they were afraid, and bowed downe their faces to the earth, they said to them, Why seeke yee him that liveth among the dead?

6 He is not heere, but is risen: remember^{*} how he spake unto you, when he was yet in Galilee,

7 Saying, that the Son of man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise againe.

8 And they remembered his words,

9² And returned from the Sepulchre, and told all these things unto the Eleven, and to all the remnant.

10 Now it was Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and other women with them, which told these things unto the Apostles.

11 But their words seemed unto them as a fained thing, neither beleeveth they them.

12³ Then arose Peter, and ran unto the Sepulchre, and^b looked in, and saw the linnen clothes laid by themselves, and departed wondring in himselfe at that which was come to passe.

13⁴ And behold, two of them went that same day to a towne which was from Jerusalem about threescore furlongs, called Emmaus.

14 And they talked together of all these things that were done.

15 And it came to passe as they communed together, and reasoned, that Jesus himselfe drew neer, and went with them:

16⁵ But their eyes were holden, that they could not know him.

17 And he said unto them, What manner of communications are these that yee have one to another, as ye walk, & are sad?

18 And⁶ the one (named Cleopas) answered, and said unto him, Art thou onely a stranger in Jerusalem, and hast not known the things which are come to passe there in these dayes?

19 And he said unto them, What things? And they said unto him, Of Jesus of Nazareth, which was a Prophet mighty in deed and in word before God, & all the people:

20⁷ And how the high Priests, and our rulers delivered him to be condemned to death, and have crucified him.

21 But we trusted that it had beene he that should have delivered Israel: and as touching all these things, to day is the third day, that they were done.

22 Yea, and certaine women among us made us astonied; which came early unto the sepulchre;

23 And when they found not his body, they came, saying, that they had also seen a vision of Angels, which said, that he was alive.

24 Therefore certaine of them which were with us, went to the sepulchre, and found it even so as the women had said, but him they saw not.

25 Then he said unto them, O fooles, and slow of heart to belevee all that the Prophets have spoken.

26 Ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and to enter into his glory?

27 And he began at Moses, and at all the Prophets, and interpreted unto them in all the Scriptures the things which were written of him.

28 And they drew neere unto the towne which they went to, but he made as though he would have gone further.

29 But they constrained him, saying, Abide with us; for it is towards night, and the day is far spent. So he went in to tarry with them.

30 And it came to passe, as he sat at table with them, he tooke the bread, and blessed, and brake it, and gave it to them.

31 Then their eyes were opened, and they

32 And they said between themselves, Did not our hearts burn within us, while he talked with us by the way, and when he opened to us the Scriptures?

33 And they rose up the same houre, and returned to Jerusalem, and found the eleven gathered together, and them that were with them, 34 Which said, The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared to Simon.

35 Then they told what things were done in the way, and how he was knowne of them in breaking of bread.

36 ¶ And as they spake these things, Jesus himselfe stood in the mids of them, and said unto them, Peace be to you.

37 But they were abashed and afraid, supposing that they had seene a spirit.

38 Then hee said unto them, Why are yee troubled? and wherefore doe doubts arise in your hearts?

39 Behold mine hands and my feet: for it is I my selfe, handle mee, and see: for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as yee see mee have.

40 And when he had thus spoken, hee shewed them his hands and feet.

41 And while they yet beleevd not for joy, and wondered, he said unto them, Have yee here any meat?

42 And they gave him a piece of broiled fish, and of an hony combe.

43 And he tooke it, and did eat before them.

44 And he said unto them, These are the words, which I spake unto you, while I was yet with you, that all must be fulfilled which are written of me in the Law of Moses, & in the Prophets, & in the Psalms.

45 Then opened he their understanding, that they might understand the Scriptures,

46 And said unto them, Thus it is written, and thus it behoved Christ to suffer, & to rise againe from the dead the third day, 47 And that repentance, and remission of sins should be preached in his Name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem.

48 Now ye are witnesses of these things.

49 And behold, I do send the promise of my Father upon you: but tarry yee in the city of Jerusalem, untill ye be endued with the power from on high.

50 Afterward he led them out into Bethania; and lift up his hands, and blessed them.

51 And it came to passe, that as he blessed them, he departed from them; and was caried up into heaven.

52 And they worshipped him, and returned to Jerusalem with great joy, 53 And were continually in the Temple, praising, and lauding God, Amen.

7 The preaching of the Gospell, which was promised to the Prophets, and performed in his time, is committed unto the Apostles; the sum whereof is, Repentance, and remission of sins.

THE HOLY GOSPEL OF JESVS CHRIST, ACCOR- DING TO St. JOHN.

CHAP. I.

1 That Word begotten of God before all worlds, 2 And which was ever with the Father, 14 Is made man. 6. 7 For what end Iohn was sent from God. 16 His preaching of Christs office. 19. 20 The record that hee bare given out unto the Priests. 40 The calling of Andrew, 42 of Peter, 43 Philip, 45 and Nathanael.

In the beginning was that Word, and that Word was with God, and that Word was God.

2 This same was in the beginning with God.

3 All things were made by it, and without it was made nothing that was made.

4 In it was life, and that life was the light of men.

5 And that light shineth in the darknesse, and the darknesse comprehended it not.

6 There was a man sent from God, whose name was Iohn.

7 This same came for a witnesse, to beare witnesse of that light, that all men through him might beleeve.

8 Hee was not that light, but was sent to beare witnesse of that light.

9 This was that true light, which lighteth every man that commeth into the world.

10 Hee was in the world, and the world was made by him: and the world knew him not.

11 Hee came unto his owne, and his owne received him not.

12 But as many as received him, to them he gave prerogative to be the sons of God, even to them that beleeve in his Name:

13 Which are born not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God.

14 And that Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we saw the glory thereof, as the glory of the onely begotten Son of the Father) full of grace and truth.

15 John bare witnesse of him, and cried, saying, This was he of whom I said, He that commeth after mee, was before mee: for hee was better then I.

16 And of his fulnesse have all wee received, and grace for grace:

17 For the Law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Iesus Christ.

18 No man hath seene God at any time: that onely begotten Son, which is in the bosome of the Father, hee hath declared him.

19 Then this is the record of John, when the Jewes sent Priests and Levites from Hierusalem, to aske him, Who art thou?

20 And hee confessed and denied not, and said plainly, I am not that Christ.

21 And they asked him, What then? Art thou Elias? And he said, I am not. Art thou that Prophet? And he answered, No.

22 Then said they unto him, Who art thou, that we may give an answer to them that sent us? What sayest thou of thy selfe?

betoken a lightnesse, but the truth of the matter, for his meaning is this, that wee saw such a glory, as becometh and was meet for the true and onely begotten Son of God, who is Lord and King over all the whole world. 8 Iohn is a faithfull witnesse of the excellency of Christ. 9 That is, Hee before whom I am sent to prepare him the way: so that these words are referred to the time of his calling, and not of his age, for Iohn was six moneths elder then hee. 10 This sentence hath in it a turning of the reason, as we call it, as who should say, a setting of that first, which should be last, and that last which should be first: for in plaine speech this is, Hee that commeth after mee, is better then I am, for hee was before mee. The like kind of turning the reason we find in Luke 7. 47. Many sins are forgiven her, because shee loved much, which is thus much to say, Shee loved much, because many sins are forgiven her. 11 Christ is the most plentifull fontaine of all goodnesse, but then hee powred out his gifts most bountifully, when as hee exhibited and shewed himselfe to the world. 12 That is, grace upon grace, as a man would say, graces beared one upon another. 13 The true knowledge of God proceedeth onely from Iesus Christ. 14 Iohn 4. 12. Who is nearest to his father, not onely in respect of his love towards him, but by the bond of nature, and for that union or oneness that is betwene them, whereby the Father and the Son are one. 15 Revealed him and shewed him unto us, whereas before hee was hid under the shadowes of the Law, so that the quicknesse of the sight of our minds was not able to perceive him: for who before seeth him, seeth the Father also. 16 Iohn is neither the Messias, nor like to any of the other Prophets, but is the herault of Christ who is now present. 17 Hee did acknowledge him, and spake of him plainly and openly. 18 This rehearsing of the one and the selfe same thing, though in diverse words, it used much of the Hebrewes, and it hath great force, for they use to speak one thing twice, to set it out more certainly and plainly. 19 All 13. 25. The Jewes thought that Elias should come againe before the dayes of Messias, and they took the ground of that their opinion out of Malac. 4. 5. which place is to be understood of Iohn, Matthe. 11. 14. And yet Iohn denieth that he is Elias, answering them indeed according as they meant. 20 They enquire of some great Prophet, and not of Christ, for Iohn denieth before that he is Christ, for they thought that some great Prophet should be sent like unto Moses, wresting to that purpose that place of Deut. 18. 15. which is to be understood of all the company of the Prophets and ministers, which have bene, and shall be to the end, and especially of Christ who is the head of all Prophets.

* Esai. 40. 3.
Matth. 3. 3.
Lu. 3. 4.

12 Christ is the author of baptisme, and not John: and therefore the force thereof consisteth not in John, who is the minister, but wholly in Christ the Lord.

1 Hereby wee may prove that the Jewes knew there should be some change in religion under Messiah, in Whom all the world seeth, and even amongst you.

* Matth. 3. 11.
Marke 1. 7. Luke 3. 16. Mat. 1. 1. and 11. 10. and 19. 4.
13 The body and truth of all the sacrifices of the Law to make satisfaction for the sinne of the world is in Christ.

14 This word (that) which is added, hath great force in it, not onely to set forth the worthinesse of Christ, & so to separate him from the Lambe, which was a figure of him, and from all other sacrifices of the Law: but also to bring into our minds the Prophecies of Esai and others;

15 This word of the present time, signifies a continuall act, for the Lambe hath his vertue proper unto him, & for ever to take away the sinnes of the world.

16 That is, that root of sinnes, to wit, our corruption, and so consequently the fruits of sinnes, which are commonly called in the plurall number, sinnes.

17 I never knew him by face before.

18 Christ is proved to be the Son of God, by the comming downe of the holy Ghost, by the Fathers voice, & by Johns testimonie.

* Matth. 3. 16.
Marke 1. 10.
Luke 3. 22.

19 This word (That) pointeth out unto us some excellent thing, and maketh a difference betweene Christ and others, whom Moses & the Prophets commonly call the sinners of God, or the sinners of the most High.

20 John gathereth disciples not to himselfe, but to Christ.

21 Christ is set before us to follow, not as a vaine shadow, but as our Mediatour.

22 In this first gathering of the disciples, we have shewed unto us, that the beginning of salvation is from God, who calleth us unto his Sonne by the ministerie of his servants: whom (so preventing us) wee must also heare, and follow him home, that being instructed by him, we may also instruct others.

23 Where is thy lodging? The night grew on, That is, evening, and being after the manner of the Jewish people.

23 He said, I am * the voice of him that crieth in the wildernesse, Make straight the way of the Lord, as said the Prophet Esaias.

24 Now they which were sent, were of the Pharisees.

25 And they asked him, and said unto him, Why baptizest thou then, if thou be not that Christ, neither Elias, nor that Prophet?

26 John answered them, saying, I baptize with water: but there is one among you, whom yee know not:

27 He it is that commeth after mee, which was before me, whose shoole latchet I am not worthy to unloose.

28 These things were done in Bethabara beyond Jordan, where John did Baptize.

29 ¶ The next day John seeth Jesus comming unto him, and saith, Behold * that Lambe of God, which taketh away the sinne of the world.

30 This is he of whom I said, After mee commeth a man, which was before mee: for he was better then I.

31 And I knew him not: but because he should be declared to Israel, therefore am I come, baptizing with water.

32 So John bare record, saying, I beheld * that Spirit come downe from heaven, like a dove, and it abode upon him, 33 And I knew him not: but he that sent mee to baptize with water, he said unto mee, upon whom thou shalt see the Spirit come downe, and tary still on him, that is he which baptizeth with the holy Ghost.

34 And I saw, and bare record that this is * that Son of God.

35 ¶ The next day John stood againe, and two of his disciples:

36 And he beheld Jesus walking by, and said, Behold that Lambe of God.

37 And the two disciples heard him speake, and followed Jesus.

38 Then Jesus turned about, and saw them follow, and said unto them, What seeke yee? And they said unto him, Rabbi, (which is to say by interpretation, Master) where dwellest thou?

39 He said unto them, Come, and see. They came and saw where he dwelt, and abode with him that day: for it was about the tenth houre.

40 Andrew, Simon Peters brother, was one of the two which had heard it of John, and that followed him.

41 The same found his brother Simon first, and said unto him, We have found that Messias, which is by interpretation, that Christ.

42 And he brought him to Jesus. And Jesus beheld him, and said, Thou art Simon the son of Jona: thou shalt be called Cephas, which is by interpretation, a stone.

Jesus beheld him, and said, Thou art Simon the son of Jona: thou shalt be called Cephas, which is by interpretation, a stone.

43 ¶ The day following, Jesus would goe into Galilee, and found Philip, and said unto him, Follow mee.

44 Now Philip was of Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter.

45 Philip found Nathanael, and said unto him, We have found him of whom * Moses did write in the Law, and the * Prophets, Jesus that son of Joseph, that was of Nazareth.

46 Then Nathanael said unto him, Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth? Philip said to him, Come and see.

47 Jesus saw Nathanael comming to him, and said of him, Behold indeed an Israelite, in whom is no guile.

48 Nathanael said unto him, Whence knewest thou mee? Jesus answered, and said unto him, Before that Philip called thee, when thou wast under the fig tree, I saw thee.

49 Nathanael answered, and said unto him, Rabbi, thou art that Son of God: thou art that King of Israel.

50 Jesus answered and said unto him, Because I said unto thee, I saw thee under the fig tree, beleevest thou? thou shalt see greater things then these.

51 And he said unto him, Verily, verily I say unto you, hereafter shall yee see heaven open, and the Angels of God * ascending, and descending upon that Son of man:

1 Christ turneth water into wine. 11 Which was the beginning of his miracles. 12 Hee goeth downe to Capernaum. 13 From thence hee goeth up to Hierusalem. 15 And casteth the merchandise out of the temple. 19 Hee foretelleth that the Temple, that is, his body shall be destroyed of the Jewes. 23 Many beleve in him, seeing the miracles which hee did.

And the third day, was there a marriage in Cana a towne of Galilee, and the mother of Jesus was there.

2 And Jesus was called also, and his disciples unto the marriage.

3 Now when the wine failed, the mother of Jesus said unto him, They have no wine.

4 Jesus said unto her, Woman, what have I to doe with thee? mine houre is not yet come.

5 His mother said unto the servants, Whatsoever he saith unto you, doe it.

6 And there were set there, six waterpots of stone, after the manner of the purifying of the Jewes, containing two or three firkins a piece.

18 By these words, the power of God is signified, which should appeare in his ministry by the Angels serving him as the head of the Church.

21. But he that ¹ doth truth, cometh to the light, that his deeds might be made manifest, that they are wrought ¹ according to God.

22. ¶ After these things, came Jesus and his disciples into the land of Judea, and there tarried with them, and ¹ baptized.

23. And John also baptized in Enon besides Salim, because there was much water there: and they came, and were baptized.

24. For John was not yet cast into prison.

25. * Then there arose a question betweene Johns disciples and the Jewes, about purifying.

CHAP. IV.

⁶ Jesus being weary, asketh drinke of the woman of Samaria. ²¹ Hee teacheth the true worship. ²⁶ He confesseth that he is the Messias. ³² His meat. ³⁹ The Samaritanes beleeve in him. ⁴⁶ He bealeth the Rulers son.

NOW when the Lord knew, how the Pharisees had heard, that Jesus made ¹ and baptized more disciples then John, ² (Though Jesus himselfe baptized not, but his disciples)

3. He left Judea, and departed againe into Galile.

4. And he must needs goe thorow Samaria.

5. ² Then came he to a city of Samaria called Sychar, neere unto the possession that ¹ Jacob gave to his son Joseph.

6. And there was Jacobs Well. Jesus then wearied in the journey, sate ¹ thus on the Well: it was about the ¹ sixth houre.

7. There came a woman of Samaria to draw water. Jesus said unto her, Give mee drinke.

8. For his disciples were gone away into the city, to buy meat.

9. Then said the woman of Samaria unto him, How is it, that thou being a Jew, askest drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria? for the Jewes ¹ meddle not with the Samaritanes.

10. Jesus answered and said unto her, If thou knewest that ¹ gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give mee drinke, thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee ¹ water of life.

11. The woman said unto him, Sir, thou hast nothing to draw with, and the Well is deep: from whence then hast thou that water of life?

12. Art thou greater then our father Jacob, which gave us the Well; & he himselfe drank thereof, and his sons, and his cattell?

13. Jesus answered, and said unto her, Whosoever drinketh of this water, shall thirst againe.

14. But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him, shall never be more a thirst: but the water that I shall give him, shall bee in him a well of water, springing up into everlasting life.

15. The woman said unto him, Sir, give mee ¹ of that water, that I may not thirst, neither come hither to draw.

16. Jesus said unto her, Goe, call thine husband, and come hither.

17. The woman answered, and said, I have no husband. Jesus said unto her, Thou hast well said, I have no husband.

18. For thou hast had five husbands, and

2 Christ leaving the proud Pharisees, communicateth the treasures of everlasting life with a poor sinfull woman and stranger, refelling the grosse errors of the Samaritanes, and defending the true service of God, which was delivered to the Jewes, but yet, that hee calleth both of them back to himselfe, as one, whom only all the Fathers, & also all the ceremonies of the Law, did regard, and had respect unto.

3 Even as hee was weary, or because he was weary.

4 It was almost noon.

5 There is no familiarity nor friendship betweene the Jewes and the Samaritanes.

6 By this word, that we are given to understand, that Christ speaketh of some excellent gift, that is to say, even of himselfe, whom his Father offered to the woman.

7 This everlasting water, that is for the ascending love of God, is called living, or of life, to make a difference between it, and the water that should bee drawn out of a well: and these metaphores are very much used of the Jewes, Jer. 2. 13. Isai. 3. 14. Zach. 13. 11.

he whom thou now hast, is not thine husband: that saidst thou truly.

19 The woman said unto him, Sir, I see that thou art a Prophet.

20 Our fathers worshipped in this mountain, and ye say, that in ^{*}Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship.

21 Jesus said unto her, Woman, beleeve me, the houre commeth, when yee shall neither in this mountain, nor at Hierusalem worship the Father.

22 Yee worship that which ye ^{*}know not: we worship that which we know: for salvation is of the Jewes.

23 But the houre commeth, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in ^{*}spirit, and truth: for the Father requireth even such to worship him.

24 ^{*}God is a spirit, and they that worship him, must worship him in spirit and truth.

25 The woman said unto him, I know well that Messias shall come, which is called Christ: when he is come, he will tell us all things.

26 Jesus said unto her, I am he, that speake unto thee.

27 ¶ And upon that, came his Disciples, and marvelled that he talked with a woman: yet no man said unto him, What askest thou? or why talkest thou with her?

28 The woman then left her water-pot, and went her way into the city, and said to the men, 29 Come, see a man, which hath told me all things that ever I did: is not he that Christ?

30 Then they went out of the city, and came unto him.

31 ¶ In the mean while, the Disciples prayed him, saying, Master, eat.

32 But he said unto them, I have meat to eat that ye know not of.

33 Then said the Disciples between themselves, Hath any man brought him meat?

34 Jesus said unto them, My meat is, that I may doe the will of him that sent me, and finish his work.

35 Say not ye, There are yet foure months, and then commeth harvest? Behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the regions: for they are white already unto harvest.

36 And he that reapeth, receiveth reward, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal, that both he that soweth, and he that reapeth, might rejoyce together.

37 For herein is the saying true, that one soweth, and another reapeth.

38 I sent you to reap that whereon ye bestowed no labour: other men laboured, and ye are entred into their labours.

39 Now many of the Samaritanes of that city beleeved in him, for the saying of the woman which testified: He hath told me all things that ever I did.

40 Then when the Samaritanes were come unto him, they besought him, that he would tarry with them: and he abode there two dayes.

41 And many more beleeved because of his own word.

42 And they said unto the woman, Now we beleeve, not because of thy saying: for we have heard him our selves, and know that this is in deed that Christ the Saviour of the world.

43 ¶ So two dayes after he departed thence, and went into ^{*}Galile.

44 For Jesus himselfe had ^{*}testified, that a Prophet hath none honour in his own country.

45 Then when he was come into Galile, the Galileans received him, which had seen all the things that he did at Hierusalem at the feast: for they went also unto the feast.

46 And Jesus came againe into ^{*}Cana a town of Galile, where he had made of water, wine. And there was a certaine ruler, whose sonne was sick at Capernaum.

47 When he heard that Jesus was come out of Judea into Galile, he went unto him, and besought him that hee would goe down, and heal his sonne: for he was even ready to die.

48 Then said Jesus unto him, Except ye see signes and wonders, ye wil not beleeve.

49 The ruler said unto him, Sir, goe down before my sonne die.

50 Jesus said unto him, Go thy way, thy son liveth: and the man beleeved the word that Jesus had spoken unto him, and went his way.

51 And as he was now going down, his servants met him, saying, Thy sonne liveth.

52 Then inquired he of them the houre when hee began to amend. And they said unto him, Yesterday the seventh houre the fever left him.

53 Then the father knew that it was the same houre, in the which Jesus had said unto him, Thy sonne liveth. And he beleeved, and all his household.

54 The second miracle did Jesus again, after he was come out of Judea into Galile.

CHAP. VI.

5 Five thousand are fed with five loaves and two Fishes.
11 Christ goeth apart from the people. 17 As his disciples were rowing, 19 He commeth to them walking on the water.
26 He reasoneth of the true, 27 And everlasting 35 Bread of life. 41 52 The Jewes murmure, 60 And many of the disciples 66 Depart from him. 69 The Apostles confesse him to be the Sonne of God.

After these things, Jesus went his way A over the sea of Galile, which is Tiberias.

2 And a great multitude followed him, because they saw his miracles, which he did on them that were diseased.

3 Then Jesus went up into a mountain, and there he sate with his disciples.

4 Now the Paschevet, a * feast of the Jews was neer.

5 * Then Jesus lift up his eyes, and seeing that a great multitude came unto him, he said unto Philip, Whence shall we buy bread, that these might eat?

6 (And this he said to proove him: for he himselfe knew what he would do.)

7 Philip answered him, two hundreddeniworth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little.

8 Then said unto him one of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peters brother, 9 There is a little boy here, which hath five barley loaves, and two fishes: but what are they among so many?

10 And Jesus said, Make the people sit down. (Now there was much grasse in that place.) Then the men sate downe, in number about five thousand.

11 And Jesus took the bread, and gave thanks, and gave to the disciples, & the disciples to them that were set down: and likewise of the fishes as much as they would.

12 And when they were satisfied, he said unto his disciples, Gather up the broken meat which remaineth, that nothing be lost.

13 Then they gathered it together, and filled twelve baskets with the broken meat of the five barley loaves, which remained unto them that had eaten.

14 Then the men, when they had seen the miracle that Jesus did, said, This is of a truth that Prophet that should come into the world.

15 2 When Jesus therefore perceived that they would come, and take him to make him a King, he departed againe into a mountain himselfe alone.

16 ¶ 3 When Even was now come, his disciples went down unto the sea,

17 * And entred into a ship, and went over the sea ^b towards Capernaum: and now it was dark, and Jesus was not come to them.

18 And the Sea arose with a great wind that blew.

19 And when they had rowed about five and twenty, or thirty furlongs, they saw Jesus walking on the sea, and drawing neer unto the ship: so they were afraid.

20 But he said unto them, It is I: be not afraid.

21 Then * willingly they received him into the ship, and the ship was by and by at the land whither they went.

22 ¶ The day following, the people which stood on the other side of the Sea, saw that there was none other ship there, save that one, whereinto his disciples were entred, and that Jesus went not with his disciples in the ship, but that his disciples were gone alone,

23 And that there came other ships from Tiberias neer unto the place where they ate the bread, after the Lord had given thanks.

24 Now when the people saw that Jesus was not there, neither his disciples, they also took shipping, and came to Capernaum, seeking for Jesus.

25 And when they had found him on the other side of the sea, they said unto him, Rabbi, when camest thou hither?

26 * Jesus answered them, and said, Verily, verily I say unto you, Ye seek me, not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye ate of the loaves, and were filled.

27 4 Labour not for the meat which perisheth, but for the meat that endureth unto everlasting life, which the Sonne of man shall give unto you: for him hath * God the Father sealed.

28 Then said they unto him, What shall we doe, that we might work the works of God?

29 Jesus answered, and said unto them,

2 Christ is not only not delighted, but also greatly offended with a preposterous worship.

ye beleeve in him, whom he hath sent.

30 6 They said therefore unto him, What sign shewest thou then, that we may see it, and beleeve thee? what dost thou work?

31 Our fathers did eat Manna in the desert, as it is * written, He gave them bread from heaven to eat.

32 7 Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily I say unto you, Moses gave you not that bread from Heaven, but my Father giveth you that true bread from Heaven.

33 For the bread of God is he which commeth down from Heaven, and giveth life unto the world.

34 Then they said unto him, Lord, evermore give us this bread.

35 And Jesus said unto them, I am that bread of life: he that commeth to me, shall not hunger, and he that beleeveeth in me, shall never thirst.

36 But I said unto you, that ye also have seen me, and beleeve not.

37 * All that the father giveth me, shall come to me: and him that commeth to me,
I cast not away.

38 For I came down from Heaven, not to do mine * own will, but his will which hath sent me.

39 And this is the Fathers will which hath sent me, that of all which he hath given me, I should loose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day.

40 And this is the will of him that sent me, that every man which ¹ seeth the Son, and believeth in him, should have everlasting life: and I will raise him up at the last day.

41 9 The Jews then murmured at him, because he said, I am that bread, which is come down from Heaven.

42 And they said, * Is not this Jesus that son of Joseph, whose father and mother we know? how then saith he, I came down from Heaven?

43 Jesus then answered, and said unto them, Murmure not among your selves.

44 No man can come to me, except the Father which hath sent me, draw him: and I will raise him up at the last day.

45 It is written in the * ^m Prophets,
And they shall be all ^a taught of God.
Every man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, commeth unto me,

46 * Not that any man hath seen the Father, * save he which is of God, he hath seen the Father.

44 Verily, verily I say unto you, He that believeth in me, hath everlasting life.

in any power of man. * Mat. 11. 17. o If the Sonne onely hath seen the father, then it is he onely

48 ¹⁰ I am that bread of life.

49 * Your Fathers did eat Manna in the wilderneffe, and are dead,

50 ^p This is that bread, which commeth down from Heaven, that he which eateth of it, should not die.

51 ¹¹ I am that ^q living bread, which came down from Heaven: if any man ^r eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and the bread that I will give, is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world.

52 ¹² Then the Jewes strove among themselves, saying, How can this man give us ^{his} flesh to eat?

53 Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily I say unto you, Except ye eat the flesh of the Sonne of man, and drink his bloud, ye have ^t no life in you.

54 Whosoever ^{*} eateth my flesh, and drinketh my bloud, hath eternall life, and I will raise him up at the last day.

55 For my flesh is meat indeed, and my bloud is drink indeed.

56 He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh
my bloud, dwelleth in me, and I in him.

57 As ^u that living Father hath sent me, so live I by the ^v Father, and he that eateth me, even he shall live by me.

58 This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers have eaten Manna, and are dead. He that eateth of this bread, shall live for ever.

59 These things spake he in the Synagogue, as he taught in Capernaum.

60 ¹³ Many therefore of his Disciples (when they heard this) said, This is an hard saying: who can hear it?

his disciples murmured at this, said unto them, doth this offend you?

ning, which they were that beleeved not,
and who should betray him.

65 And he said, Therefore said I unto you, that no man can come unto me, except it be given unto him of my Father.

66 ¹⁵ From that time, many of his disciples went backe, and walked no more

CHAP. VII.

2 Christ, after his cousins were gone up to the feaſt of Tabernacles, 10 Goeth thither privily. 12 The peoples ſundry opinions of him, 14 He teacheth in the Temple. 32 The Priests command to take him. 41 Strife among the multitude about him, 47 And between the Pharisees and the officers that were ſent to take him, 50 And Nicodemus.

After theſe things, Jeſus walked in Galilee, and would not walke in Judea: for the Jewes ſought to kill him.

2 Now the Jewes * a feaſt of Tabernacles was at hand.

3 ¹ His brethren therefore ſaid unto him, Depart hence, and goe into Judea, that thy diſciples may ſee the works that thou doeſt.

4 For there is no man that doeth any thing ſecretly, and he himſelfe ſeeketh to be famous. If thou doeſt theſe things, ſhew thy ſelfe to the world.

5 For as yet his ^b brethren beleevd not in him.

6 ² Then Jeſus ſaid unto them, My time is not yet come: but your time is alway ready.

7 The world cannot hate you: but me it hateth, becauſe I teſtifie of it, that the works thereof are evill.

8 Go ye up unto this feaſt: I will not goe up yet unto this feaſt: * for my time is not yet fulfilled.

9 ¶ Theſe things he ſaid unto them, and abode ſtill in Galilee.

10 ³ But aſſoone as his brethren were gone up, then went he alſo up unto the feaſt, not openly, but as it were privily.

11 Then the Jewes ſought him at the feaſt, and ſaid, Where is he?

12 And much murmuring was there of him among the people. Some ſaid, He is a good man: others ſaid, Nay: but he deceiveth the people.

13 Howbeit no man ſpake ^c openly of him for fear of the Jewes.

14 ⁴ Now when ^d halfe of the feaſt was done, Jeſus went up into the Temple and taught.

15 And the Jewes marvelled, ſaying, How knoweth this man the Scriptures, ſeeing that he never learned?

16 ⁵ Jeſus answered them, and ſaid, My ^e doctrine is not mine, but his that ſent me.

17 If any man will do his will, he ſhall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I ſpeak of my ſelf.

18 ⁶ He that ſpeaketh of himſelfe, ſeeketh his own glory: but he that ſeeketh his glory that ſent him, the ſame is true, and no unrighteouſneſſe is in him.

19 ⁷ Did not Moſes give you a Law, and yet none of you keepeth the Law? * Why go ye about to kill me?

20 The people answered and ſaid, Thou haſt a devill: who goeth about to kill thee?

21 ⁸ Jeſus answered, and ſaid unto them, I have done one work, and ye all marvel.

22 ⁹ Moſes therefore gave unto you circumciſion, (not becauſe it is of Moſes, but of the * fathers) and ye on the Sabbath day circumciſe a man.

23 If a man on the Sabbath receive circumciſion, that the ^f Law of Moſes ſhould not be broken, be ye angry with me, becauſe I have made a man every whit whole on the Sabbath day?

24 ¹⁰ Judge not ^g according to the appearance, but judge righteous judgement.

25 ¶ ¹¹ Then ſaid ſome of them of Hieruſalem, Is not this he whom they goe about to kill?

26 And behold, he ſpeaketh openly, and they ſay nothing to him: do the rulers know indeed, that this is indeed that Chriſt?

27 ¹² Howbeit wee know this man whence he is: but when that Chriſt cometh, no man ſhall know whence he is.

28 ¶ ¹³ Then cryed Jeſus in the Temple as he taught, ſaying, Ye both know me, and know whence I am: yet I am not come of my ſelfe, but he that ſent me is true, whom ye know not.

29 But I know him: for I am of him, and he hath ſent me.

30 ¹⁴ Then they ſought to take him, but no man laid hands on him, becauſe his houre was not yet come.

31 Now many of the people beleevd him, and ſaid, When that Chriſt cometh, will he doe moe miracles then this man hath done?

32 ¹⁵ The Pharifees heard that the people murmured theſe things of him, and the Pharifees, and high Priests ſent officers to take him.

33 Then ſaid Jeſus unto them, Yet am I a little while with you, and then go I unto him that ſent me.

34 ¹⁶ Ye ſhall ſeeke me, and ſhall not find me, and where I am, can ye not come.

35 Then ſaid the Jewes among themſelves, Whither will he go, that we ſhall not find him? Will he go unto them that are ^h diſperſed among the Grecians, and teach the Grecians?

6 The true doctrine of ſalvation differeth from the falſe in this, that the ſame ſetteth forth the glory of God, and this by putting up of men, darkneth the glory of God.

7 None doe more confidently boaſt themſelves to be the defenders of the Law of God, then they that doe moſt impudently breake it.

8 The Sabbath day (which is here ſet before us for a rule of all ceremonies) was not appointed to hinder, but to further and praſtiſe Gods worke, amongſt which the love of our neighbour is the chief.

9 That is to ſay, if the Law of circumciſion which Moſes gave, be of ſo great account amongſt you, that you doe not to circumciſe upon the Sabbath, doe you rightly reprove mee for healing a man thoroughly?

10 We muſt judge according to the truth of things, leſt the perſons of men doe turne us and carry us away. By the ſenſe that I make, for I ſeeme to be but an abſent and raſſall of Galilee, and a carpenters ſonne, whom no man maketh account of: but marke the matter it ſelfe well, and judge the tree by the fruit.

11 Many do marvel that the endeavours of the enemies of God have no ſucceſſe: yet in the meane ſeaſon they doe not acknowledge the verſe and power of God.

12 Men are very wiſe to procure ſtoppes and ſtaves to themſelves.

13 The truth of Chriſt doeth not hang upon judgement of man.

14 The wicked cannot doe what they liſt, but what God hath appointed.

15 As the Kingdome of God increaſeth, ſo increaſeth the rage of his enemies, till at the length they in vaine ſeek for thoſe bleſſings abſent, which they deſpiſed when they were preſent.

Some alſo that know him, condemn him raſhly: a very few think well of him, and that in ſecret.

20 Or, boldly and freely for the claſſe of the Jewes ſought nothing ſo much, as to ſee him ſame and name.

21 Chriſt ſtriveth with goodneſſe againſt the wickedneſſe of the world: in the meane ſeaſon the moſt part of men take occaſion of offence given by that ſame, whereby they might to have bene ſtirred up to embrace Chriſt.

15 There are two principles of our salvation: the one to bee thoroughly touched with a true feeling of our extreme poverty: the other, to seeke in Christ only (whom we catch hold on by faith) the abundance of all good things.

* Ios. 2. 28.

Acts 2. 17.

l What is meant by the holy Ghost, he expressed awhile before, speaking of the Spirit which they that believed in him should receive. So that by the name of holy Ghost, are meant the virtues and mighty workings of the holy Ghost.

m That is, those things were not yet seen and perceived, which were to shew and set forth the glory of the only begotten.

16 There is contention even in the Church is false about the chiefe point of Religion: neither hath Christ any more cruell enemies than those that occupie the seat of truth: yet cannot they do what they would.

* Deut. 17. 8. and 19. 15.

n What hee hath committed, who is accused.

19 There is no counsell against the Lord.

36 What saying is this that he said, Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me? and where I am, can ye not come?

37 Now in the last and great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cryed, saying, If any man thirst, let him come unto me, and drinke.

38 He that beleeveth in me, as saith the Scripture, out of his belly shall flow rivers of water of life.

39 This spake he of the Spirit, which they that beleeveth in him, should receive: for the holy Ghost was not yet given, because that Jesus was not yet glorified.)

40 So many of the people, when they heard this saying, said, Of a truth this is that Prophet.

41 Other said, This is that Christ: and some said, But shall that Christ come out of Galile?

42 Sayeth not the Scripture, that that Christ shall come of the seed of David, and out of the town of Beth-leem, where David was?

43 So was there dissension among the people for him.

44 And some of them would have taken him, but no man laid hands on him.

45 Then came the officers to the high Priests and Pharises, and they said unto them, Why have ye not brought him?

46 The officers answered, Never man spake like this man.

47 Then answered them the Pharises, Are ye also deceived?

48 Doth any of the Rulers, or of the Pharises beleve in him?

49 But this people, which know not the Law, are cursed.

50 Nicodemus said unto them, (* he that came to Jesus by night, and was one of them.)

51 Doeth our Law judge a man before it heare him, and know what he hath done?

52 They answered, and said unto him, Art thou also of Galile? Search and look: for out of Galile ariseth no Prophet.

53 And every man went unto his own house.

CHAP. VIII.

3 The woman taken in adultery. 11 Hath her sinnes forgiven her, 12 Christ is the light of the world. 19 The Pharises aske where his Father is. 39 The sons of Abraham. 42 The sons of God. 44 The devill the father of lying. 56 Abraham saw Christs day.

And Jesus went unto the mount of Olives.

2 And early in the morning came againe into the temple, and all the people came unto him, and he saide downe and taught them.

3 Then the Scribes and the Pharises brought unto him a woman taken in adultery, and set her in the mids,

4 And said unto him, Master, we found this woman committing adultery, even in the very act.

5 Now Moses in our Law commanded, that such should be stoned: what sayest thou therefore?

6 And this they said to tempt him, that they might have whereof to accuse him. But Jesus stouped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground.

7 And while they continued asking him, he lift himself up, and said unto them, Let him that is among you without sinne, cast the first stone at her.

8 And againe he stouped downe, and wrot on the ground.

9 And when they heard it, being accused by their own conscience, they went out one by one, beginning at the eldest, even to the last: so Jesus was left alone, and the woman standing in the mids.

10 When Jesus had lift up himselfe again, and saw no man, but the woman, he said unto her, Woman, where are those thine accusers? hath no man condemned thee?

11 She said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said, Neither do I condemne thee: go and sin no more.

12 Then spake Jesus againe unto them, saying, I am that light of the world: he that followeth me, shall not walke in darkness, but shall have that light of life.

13 The Pharises therefore said unto him, Thou bearest record of thy self: thy record is not true.

14 Jesus answered, and said unto them, Though I bear record of my selfe, yet my record is true: for I know whence I came, & whither I go: but ye cannot tell whence I come, and whither I go.

15 Ye judge after the flesh: I judge no man.

16 And if I also judge, my judgement is true: for I am not alone, but I, and the Father, that sent me.

17 And it is also written in your Law * that the testimony of two men is true.

18 I am one that beare witness of my selfe, and the father that sent me, beareth witness of me.

19 Then said they unto him, Where is that Father of thine? Jesus answered, Ye neither know me, nor that Father of mine. If ye had knowne me, ye should have known that Father of mine also.

20 These words spake Jesus in the treasury, as he taught in the Temple, and no man laid hands on him: for his hour was not yet come.

21 Then said Jesus againe unto them, this one thing remaineth that we go forward constantly in our vocation. Because that men do naturally abhor heavenly things, no man can be a fit disciple of Christ, unless the Spirit of God frame him: in the meane season notwithstanding, the world must of necessity perish, because it refused the life that is offered unto it.

* Levit. 20. 10.

2 Against hypocrites which are very severe judges against other men, and flatter themselves in their own sins.

* Deut. 17. 7.

3 Christ would not take upon him the civill Magistrates office: he contented himselfe to bring sinners to faith and repentance.

4 The world which is blind in it selfe, cannot come to have any light but in Christ only.

* Chap. 1. 5. & 9. 5.

5 Christ is without all exception, the best witness of the truth, for he was sent by his Father for that purpose, and was by him approved to the world by infinite miracles.

6 Thus beareth witness of thy selfe, which thing by all mens opinions is naught: and for a man to commend himself is very dishonourable.

* Chap. 5. 31.

7 That which he demanded afore, Chap. 1. 31. must be taken by a manner of speaking for in that place he framed himselfe somewhat to the humor of his hearers which acknowledged nothing in Christ but his humanity, and therefore hee was content they should say he by his owne witness, unless it were otherwise confirmed. But in this place hee sheweth for the maintenance of his Godhead, and praefeth his Father, who is his witness, and agreeth with him.

8 I do now only teach you: I condemne no man: but yet if I lift to doe it, I might lawfully doe it, for I am not alone, but my Father is with me.

* Deut. 17. 6. and 19. 15. Mat. 18. 16. 2. Cor. 13. 1.

9 The Godhead is plainly distinguished from the manhood: else there were not two witnesses: for the party accused is not taken for a witness.

10 No man can know God, but in Christ only.

11 This was some place appointed for the gathering of the offerings.

12 We live and die at the pleasure of God, and not of men: therefore

1. Whiles the wicked goes about to make a snare for good men, they make a snare for themselves.

goe my way, and yee shall seeke me, and shall die in your sinnes. Whither I go, can ye not come.

22 Then said the Jewes, will he kill himself, because he saith, Whither I go, can ye not come?

23 And he said unto them, Ye are from beneath, I am from above: yee are of this world, I am not of this world.

24 I said therefore unto you, that ye shall die in your sinnes: for except ye belevee, that I am he, ye shall die in your sinnes.

25 Then said they unto him, Who art thou? And Jesus said unto them, Even the same thing that I said unto you from the beginning.

26 I have many things to say, and to judge of you: but he that sent me, is true, and the things that I have heard of him, those speak I to the world.

27 They understood not that he spake to them of the Father.

28 Then said Jesus unto them, When ye have lift up the Son of man, then shall ye know that I am he, and that I do nothing of my self, but as my Father hath taught me, so I speak these things.

29 For he that sent me, is with me: the Father hath not left me alone, because I do alwayes those things that please him.

30 As he spake these things, many beleevd in him.

31 Then said Jesus to the Jewes, which beleevd in him, If ye continue in my word, ye are verily my disciples.

32 And shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.

33 They answered him, We be Abrahams seed, and were never bond to any man: why saiest thou then, Ye shall be made free?

34 Jesus answered them, Verily, verily I say unto you, that whosoever committeth sin, is the servant of sin.

35 And the servant abideth not in the house for ever: but the Son abideth for ever.

36 If that Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed.

37 I know that ye are Abrahams seed, but ye seek to kill me, because my word hath no place in you.

38 I speak that which I have seen with my Father: and ye do that which yee have seen with your Father.

39 They answered, and said unto him, Abraham is our Father. Jesus said unto them, If ye were Abrahams children, yee would doe the works of Abraham.

40 But now ye go about to kill me, a man that have told you the truth, which I have heard of God: this did not Abraham.

41 Ye do the works of your father. Then said they to him, We are not born of fornication: we have one Father, which is God.

42 Therefore Jesus said unto them, If God were your Father, then would yee love me: for I proceeded forth, and came from God, neither came I of my self, but he sent me.

43 Why doe yee not understand my talk? because ye cannot heare my word.

44 Ye are of your father the devill, and the lusts of your father ye will doe: he hath been a murtherer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, then speaketh he of his own: for he is a liar, and the father thereof.

45 And because I tell you the truth, ye beleve me not.

46 Which of you can rebuke me of sin? and if I say the truth, why do ye not beleve me?

47 He that is of God, heareth Gods words: ye therefore heare them not, because ye are not of God.

48 Then answered the Jewes, and said unto him, Say we not well that thou art a Samaritane, and hast a devill?

49 Jesus answered, I have not a devill, but I honour my Father, and ye have dishonoured me.

50 And I seek not mine own praise: but there is one that seeketh it, and judgeth.

51 Verily, verily I say unto you, If a man keep my word, he shall never see death.

52 Then said the Jewes to him, Now know we that thou hast a devill. Abraham is dead, and the Prophets: and thou sayest, If a man keep my word, he shall never taste of death.

53 Art thou greater then our father Abraham, which is dead? and the Prophets are dead: whom makest thou thy self?

54 Jesus answered, If I honour my selfe, mine honour is nothing worth: it is my Father that honoureth me, whom ye say, that he is your God.

55 Yet ye have not known him: but I know him, and if I should say, I know him not, I should be a liar like unto you: but I know him, and keep his word.

56 Your father Abraham rejoyced to see my day, and he saw it, and was glad.

57 Then said the Jewes unto him, Thou art not yet fifty year old, and hast thou seen Abraham?

58 Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily I say unto you, Before Abraham was, I am.

59 Then took they up stones to cast at him, but Jesus hid himself, and went out of the Temple: And he passed thorow the mids of them, and so went his way.

60 The Jews then which were gathered about him, said, We will stone thee, because thou sayest, Thou art God.

61 Jesus answered them, saying, It is written, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God: I have said unto you, that I am God's Son, and ye say, We will stone thee, because thou sayest, Thou art God's Son: is it not for this cause that I say unto you, that I am God's Son?

62 The Jews then which were gathered about him, said, We will stone thee, because thou sayest, Thou art God's Son: is it not for this cause that I say unto you, that I am God's Son?

63 Jesus answered them, saying, It is written, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God: I have said unto you, that I am God's Son, and ye say, We will stone thee, because thou sayest, Thou art God's Son: is it not for this cause that I say unto you, that I am God's Son?

64 The Jews then which were gathered about him, said, We will stone thee, because thou sayest, Thou art God's Son: is it not for this cause that I say unto you, that I am God's Son?

65 Jesus answered them, saying, It is written, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God: I have said unto you, that I am God's Son, and ye say, We will stone thee, because thou sayest, Thou art God's Son: is it not for this cause that I say unto you, that I am God's Son?

66 The Jews then which were gathered about him, said, We will stone thee, because thou sayest, Thou art God's Son: is it not for this cause that I say unto you, that I am God's Son?

67 Jesus answered them, saying, It is written, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God: I have said unto you, that I am God's Son, and ye say, We will stone thee, because thou sayest, Thou art God's Son: is it not for this cause that I say unto you, that I am God's Son?

68 The Jews then which were gathered about him, said, We will stone thee, because thou sayest, Thou art God's Son: is it not for this cause that I say unto you, that I am God's Son?

69 Jesus answered them, saying, It is written, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God: I have said unto you, that I am God's Son, and ye say, We will stone thee, because thou sayest, Thou art God's Son: is it not for this cause that I say unto you, that I am God's Son?

46 Christ did thoroughly execute the office that his Father enjoyned him.

47 1 John 4.6. The enemies of Christ make their bravery for a while, but the Father will appear at his time to revenge the reproch that is done unto him in the person of his Son.

48 That is, that will revenge both your despising of me, and of him.

49 The only doctrine of the Gospel apprehended by faith, is a sure remedy against death.

50 That is, he shall not stand in the night of death, the faithful shall live.

51 Against them which abuse the glory of the Saints, to darken Christs glory.

52 There is nothing further off from all ambition than Christ, but his Father hath set him above all things.

53 This is spoken by manner of a grant, as if he had said, He is so, let this report which I give of my selfe, be as an earnest that there is another that glorifieth me, that is, that honoureth my Name.

54 There is no right knowledge of God, without Christs witness, right knowledge of Christ without his word.

17 John 6.20.

18 Our wicked fathers declare, that we are plainly born of a devilish race. But we are changed, and made of the household of God according to the covenant which he made with Abraham by Christ only, apprehended and laid hold on by faith: which faith is known by a godly and honest life.

CHAP. IX.

1 Christ giveth sight on the Sabbath day to him that was borne blind: 13 Whom after he had long reasoned against the Pharisees, 22. 35. and was cast out of the Synagogue. 36. Christ endueth with the knowledge of everlasting light.

1 Sin is the beginning even of all bodily diseases. & yet doth it not follow, that God always respecteth therein whom he most sharply punisheth.

2 Christ reasoneth here, as his disciples thought, which presupposeth that there comes no disease but for sin only: whereupon he answereth, that there was another cause of this man's blindness, and that was, that God his work might be seen.

3 The works of Christ are as it were light, which lighten the darkness of the world: 6 By (day) is meant the light, that is, the light of the doctrine of the heavenly truth: and by night is meant the darkness which cometh by the blindness of the same doctrine.

4 Chap. 1. 9. and 8. 12. and 12. 35.

5 Christ healing the man borne blind, by taking the signe of clay, and afterward the signe of the fountain of Siloam, (which signifieth, Sent) sheweth that as he in the beginning made many to doth he again restore both his body and soul: and yet so, that he himself cometh first of his own accord to heal us.

6 As the image of all men, who are they are of nature blind, do neither themselves receive the light, nor that is offered unto them, nor suffer it in other and yet make a great ado among themselves.

7 This man borne blind, who is said to have been born blind, doth not receive any light, and therefore they are said to have their eyes opened, which of blind men and made to see.

18 Religion is not, as is said, by any means more, than by necessity, of religion: but the more it is pressed down, the more it is lifted up.

And as Jesus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth.

And his disciples asked him, saying, Master, who did sin, this man, or his parents, that he was born blind?

Jesus answered, Neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents, but that the works of God should be shewed on him.

I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh when no man can work.

As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world.

As soon as he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and annointed the eyes of the blind with the clay.

And said unto him, Go wash in the pool of Siloam (which is by interpretation, Sent) He went his way therefore, and washed, and came again seeing.

Now the neighbours and they that had seen him before, when he was blind, said, Is not this he that sate and begged?

Some said, This is he: and other said, He is like him: but he himself said, I am he.

Therefore they said unto him, How were thine eyes opened?

He answered, and said, The man that is called Jesus, made clay, and annointed mine eyes, and said unto me, Go to the pool of Siloam, and wash: so I went and washed, and received sight.

Then they said unto him, Where is he? He said, I cannot tell.

They brought to the Pharisees him that was once blind.

And it was the Sabbath day, when Jesus made the clay, and opened his eyes.

Then again the Pharisees also asked him, how he had received sight. And he said unto them, He laid clay upon mine eyes, and I washed, and do see.

Then said some of the Pharisees, This man is not of God, because he keepeth not the Sabbath. Others said, How can a man that is a sinner, do such miracles, and there was a dissension among them.

Then spake they unto the blind again, What sayest thou of him, because he hath opened thine eyes? And he said, He is a Prophet.

Then the Jews did not believe him, (that he had been blind, and received his sight) untill they had called the parents of him that had received sight.

And they asked them, saying, Is this your son, whom ye say was born blind? How doth he now see then?

His parents answered them, and said, We know that this is our son, and that he was born blind.

But by what means he now seeth, we know not: or who hath opened his eyes, can we not tell: he is old enough, aske him: he shall answer for himself.

These words spake his parents, because they feared the Jews: for the Jews had ordained already, that if any man did confesse that he was, Christ, he should be excommunicate out of the Synagogue.

Therefore said his parents, He is old enough: aske him.

Then again called they the man that had been blind, and said unto him, Give glory unto God: we know that this man is a sinner.

Then he answered, and said, Whether he be a sinner or no, I cannot tell: one thing I know, that I was blind, and now I see.

Then said they to him again, What did he to thee? how opened he thine eyes?

He answered them, I have told you already, and ye have not heard it: wherefore would ye heare it again? will ye also be his disciples?

Then reviled they him, and said, Be thou his disciple: we be Moses disciples.

We know that God spake with Moses: but this man we know not from whence he is.

The man answered, and said unto them, Doubtlesse, this is a marvellous thing, that ye know not whence he is, and yet he hath opened mine eyes.

Now we know that God heareth not sinners: but if any man be a worshipper of God, and doth his will, him heareth he.

Since the world began, was it not heard, that any man opened the eyes of one that was born blind?

If this man were not of God, he could have done nothing.

They answered, and said unto him, Thou art altogether born in sins, and dost thou teach us? so they cast him out.

Jesus heard that they had cast him out: and when he had found him, he said unto him, Dost thou believe in the Son of God?

He answered, and said, Who is he, Lord, that I might believe in him?

And Jesus said unto him, Both thou hast seen him, and he is that talketh with thee.

Then he said, Lord, I believe, and worshipped him.

And Jesus said, I am come unto judgement into this world, that they which

CHAP. XI.

Christ to show that hee is 25 the life and the resurrection, 14 cometh to Lazarus being dead, 17. 34 and buried, 43 and raise him up. 47 As the Priests were consulting together, 49 Caiaphas 50 propheseth that one must die for the people. 56, 57. They command to seek Christ out, and to take him.

And a certaine man was sick, named Lazarus of Bethania, the^a towne of Mary, and her sister Martha.

2 (And it was that * Mary which anointed the Lord with oyntment, and wiped his feet with her haire, whose brother Lazarus was sick.)

3 Therefore his sisters sent unto him, saying, Lord, behold, he whom thou lo-vest, is sick.

4 When Jesus heard it, hee said, This sicknesse is not unto^b death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God might be glorified thereby.

5 ¶ Now Jesus loved Martha and her sister, and Lazarus.

6 And after he had heard that he was sick, yet abode he two dayes still in the same place where hee was.

7 Then after that, said he to his disciples, Let us goe into Judea againe.

8 The disciples said unto him, Master, the Jewes lately sought to * stone thee, and doest thou goe thither againe?

9 Jesus answered, Are there not twelve houres in the day? If a man walke in the day, hee stumbleth not, because he seeth
the light of this world.

10 But if a man walke in the night, he stumbleth, because there is no light in him.

11 These things spake he, and after, he said unto them, Our friend Lazarus^d sleep-eth: but I goe to wake him up.

12 Then said his disciples, Lord, if hee sleeps, he shall be safe.

13 Howbeit, Jesus spake of his death :
but they thought that he had spoken of the naturall sleep.

14 Then said Jesus unto them plainly,
Lazarus is dead.

15 And I am glad for your sakes, that I was not there, that yee may beleve : but let us goe unto him.

16 Then said Thomas (which is called Didymus) unto his fellow disciples, Let us also goe, that we may die with him.

17 ¶ Then came Jesus, and found that hee had lien in the grave foure dayes already.

18 (Now Bethania was near unto Jerusalem, about fifteen furlongs off.)

19 And many of the Jewes were come to Martha and Mary to comfort them for their brother.

20 Then Martha, when she heard that Jesus was coming, went to meet him : but Mary sate still in the house.

21 Then said Martha unto Jesus, Lord, if thou hadst beene here, my brother had not beene dead.

22 But now I know also, that whatsoever thou askest of God, God will give it thee.

23 Jesus said unto her, Thy brother shall^e rise againe.

24 Martha said unto him, I know that hee shall rise againe * in the resurrection at the last day.

25 Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection and the life : * he that beleeveth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live.

26 And whosoever liveth, & beleeveth in me, shall never die : beleevest thou this?

27 She said unto him, Yea, Lord, I be-leeve that thou art that Christ that Son of God, which should come into the world.

28 ¶ And when she had so said, she went her way and called Mary her sister secretly, saying, the Master is come, and calleth for thee.

29 And when she heard it, she arose quickly, and came unto him.

30 For Jesus was not yet come into the towne, but was in the place where Martha met him.

31 The Jewes then which were with her in the house, and comforted her, when they saw Mary that she rose up hastily, and went out, followed her, saying, She goeth unto the grave to weep there.

32 Then when Mary was come where Jesus was, & saw him, she fell down at his feet, saying unto him, Lord, if thou hadst beene here, my brother had not bin dead.

33 When Jesus therefore saw her weep, and the Jewes also weep which came with her, he^f groaned in the spirit, and was troubled in himselfe,

34 And said, Where have ye laid him?
They said unto him, Lord, come and see.

35 And Jesus wept.

36 Then said the Jewes, Behold, how he loved him.

37 And some of them said, * Could not hee which opened the eyes of the blind, have made also, that this man should not have died?

38 Jesus therefore againe groaned in himselfe, and came to the grave. And it was a cave, and a stone was laid upon it.

39 Jesus said, Take ye away the stone.
Martha the sister of him that was dead, said unto him, Lord, he stinketh already: for he hath beene dead foure dayes.

40 Jesus said unto her, Said I not unto thee, that if thou didst beleeye, thou shouldst see the glory of God?

41 Then they took away the stone from the place where the dead was laid. And Jesus lift up his eyes, and said, Father, I thank thee, because thou hast heard mee.

42 I know that thou hearest mee alwayes, but because of the people that stand by, I said it, that they may beleeye, that thou hast sent mee.

43 As he had spoken these things, he cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth.

44 Then he that was dead, came forth, bound hand and foot with bands, and his face was bound with a napkin. Jesus said unto them, Loose him, and let him goe.

45 ¶ Then many of the Jewes, which came to Mary, and had seene the things which Jesus did, beleved in him.

46 * But some of them went their way to the Pharisees, and told them what things Jesus had done.

47 Then gathered the high Priests, and the Pharisees a * councill, and said, What shall wee doe? For this man doth many miracles.

48 If we let him thus alone, all men will beleeye in him, and the Romanes will come and ^h take away both our place, and the nation.

49 ¶ Then one of them named Caiaphas, which was the high Priest that same year, said unto them, Ye perceive nothing at all,

50 * Nor yet do you consider that it is expedient for us, that one man die for the people, & that the whole nation perish not.

51 ¶ This spake he not of himself: but being high Priest that same year, he prophesied that Jesus should die for that nation:

52 And not for that nation onely, but that he should gather together in one, the children of God which ⁱ were scattered.

53 Then from that day forth, they consulted together to put him to death.

54 ¶ Jesus therefore walked no more openly among the Jewes, but went thence unto a countrey neere to the wildernesse, into a city called Ephraim, and there continued with his disciples.

55 ¶ And the Jewes Pascheover was at hand, and many went out of the country up to Jerusalem before the Pascheover, to purifie themselves.

56 Then sought they for Jesus, and spake among themselves, as they stood in the Temple, What thinke yet that he cometh not to the feast?

57 Now both the high Priests and the Pharisees had given a commandment, that if any man knew where he were, he should shew it, that they might take him:

C H A P. XII.

2 As Christ is at supper with Lazarus. 3 Mary anointeth his feet. 5 Judas findeth fault with her. 7 Christ defendeth her. 10 The Priests would put Lazarus to death. 12 As Christ cometh to Jerusalem. 14 The people met him. 20 The Grecians desire to see him. 42 The chiefe Rulers that beleue in him, but for feare doe not confesse him. 44 He exhorteth to faith.

Then * Jesus, six dayes before the Pascheover, came to Bethania, where Lazarus was, who died, whom he had raised from the dead.

2 There they made him a supper, and Martha served: but Lazarus was one of them that sat at the table with him.

3 Then tooke Mary a pound of oyntment of Spiknard very costely, and anointed Jesus feet, and wiped his feet with her haire, and the house was filled with the favour of the oyntment.

4 Then said one of his disciples, even Judas Iscariot Simons son, which should betray him:

5 ¶ Why was not this oyntment sold for three hundred pence, and given to the poore?

6 Now he said this, not that he cared for the poore, but because he was a thiefe, and * had the bag, and bare that which was given.

7 ¶ Then said Jesus, Let her alone: against the day of my burying she kept it.

8 For the poore alwayes ye have with you, but mee ye shall not have alwayes.

9 ¶ Then much people of the Jewes knew that hee was there, and they came, not for Jesus sake onely, but that they might see Lazarus also, whom he had raised from the dead.

10 The high Priests therefore consulted, that they might put Lazarus to death also,

11 Because that for his sake many of the Jewes went away, and beleved in Jesus.

12 ¶ On the morrow a great multitude that were come to the feast, when they heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem, 13 Took branches of Palm-trees, and went forth to meet him, and cried, Hosanna, Blessed is the King of Israel that cometh in the Name of the Lord.

14 And Jesus found a young asse, and sat thereon, as it is written:

15 * Fear not, daughter of Sion: behold, thy King cometh, sitting on an asses colt.

16 But his disciples understood not these things at the first: but when Jesus was glorified, then remembred they, that these things were written of him, and that they had done these things unto him.

17 The people therefore that was with him, bare witnes that he called Lazarus out of the grave, & raised him from the dead.

18 Therefore met him the people also, because because they heard that he had done this miracle.

19 * And the Pharisees said among themselves, Perceive yee how yee prevail nothing? Behold, the world goeth after him.

20 ¶ Now there were certain Greeks among them that came up to worship at the feast.

21 And they came to Philip, which was of Bethsaida in Galilee, and desired him, saying, Sir, we would see that Jesus.

22 Philip came and told Andrew: and againe Andrew and Philip told Jesus.

23 And Jesus answered them, saying, The houre is come, that the Son of man must be glorified.

24 Verily, verily I say unto you, except the wheat corn fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone: but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit.

25 * He that loveth his life, shall lose it, and he that hateth his life in this world, shall keepe it unto life eternall.

26 * If any man serve mee, let him follow mee: for where I am, there shall also my servant bee: and if any man serve mee, him will my Father honour.

27 * Now is my soule troubled: and what shall I say? Father, save me from this houre: but therefore came I unto this houre.

28 Father, glorifie thy Name. Then came there a voice from heaven, saying, I have both glorified it, and will glorifie it againe.

29 Then said the people, that stood by, and heard, that it was a thunder: other said, An Angel spake to him.

30 * Jesus answered, and said, This voice came not because of mee, but for your sakes.

31 Now is the judgement of this world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out, 32 * And I, if I were lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto mee.

33 Now this said hee, signifying what death he should die.

34 The people answered him, We have heard out of the Law, that that Christ biddeth for ever: and how sayst thou, that that Son of man must be lifted up? Who is that Son of man?

35 * Then Jesus said unto them, Yet a little while is the light with you: walke while yee have that light, lest the darknes come upon you: for he that walketh in the darke, knoweth not whither he goeth.

36 While yee have that light, beleeve in that light, that yee may be the children of the light. These things spake Jesus, and departed, and hid himselfe from them.

37 ¶ And though he had done so many miracles before them, yet beleeveth they not on him, 38 That the saying of Esaia the Prophet might be fulfilled, that he said, * Lord, who beleeveth our report? and to whom is the arme of the Lord revealed?

39 Therefore could they not beleeve, because that Esaia said againe, 40 * He hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their heart, that they should not see with their eyes, nor understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heale them.

41 These things said Esaia when hee saw his glory, and spake of him.

42 Nevertheless, even among the chiefe rulers, many beleeveth in him: but because of the Pharisees they did not confesse him, lest they should be cast out of the Synagogue.

43 * For they loved the praise of men, more then the praise of God.

44 ¶ And Jesus cried, and said, He that beleeveeth in mee, beleeveeth not in mee, but in him that sent mee.

45 And he that seeth mee, seeth him that sent mee.

46 * I am come a light into the world, that whosoever beleeveeth in mee, should not abide in darknesse.

47 * And if any man hear my words, & beleeve not, I judg him not: for I came not to judge the world, but to save the world.

48 He that refuseth mee, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: the word that I have spoken, it shall judge him in the last day.

49 For I have not spoken of my selfe: but the Father which sent mee, hee gave mee a commandement what I should say, and what I should speake.

50 And I know that his commandement is life everlasting: the things therefore that I speake, I speak them so as the Father said unto mee.

1 Christ no little certaine of the victory, then of the combat which was at hand, using the figure of walking the feet, doeth partly, thereby give an example of singular modesty, and his great love toward his Apostles in this notable act, being like, very shortly to depart from them, and partly, witnesseth unto them, that it is he onely, which washeth away the filth of his people, and that by little and little in their time and season.

6 Into his power.

he

he was come forth from God, and went to God.

4 He^c riseth from supper, and layeth aside his upper garments, and tooke a towell, and girded himselfe.

5 After that, he powred water into a bason, and began to wash the disciples feet, and to wipe them with the towell, wherewith he was girded.

6 Then came he to Simon Peter, who said to him, Lord, dost thou wash my feet?

7 Jesus answered, and said unto him, What I doe, thou knowest not now: but thou shalt know it hereafter.

8 Peter said unto him, Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus answered him, If I wash thee not, thou shalt have no part with mee.

9 Simon Peter said unto him, Lord, not my feet onely, but also the hands and the head.

10 Jesus said unto him, He that is washed, needeth not, save to wash his feet, but is cleane every whit: and ye are^{*} cleane, but not all.

11 For hee knew who should betray him: therefore said he, Ye are not all cleane.

12 ¶ So after he had washed their feet, and had taken his garments, and was set down againe, he said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you?

13 Yee call mee Master, and Lord, and yee say well: for so am I.

14 If I then your Lord, & Master, have washed your feet, yee also ought to wash one anothers feet.

15 For I have given you an example, that yee should doe, even as I have done to you.

16 Verily, verily I say unto you, ^{*} The servant is not greater then his master, neither the ambassadour greater then he that sent him.

17 If yee know these things, blessed are yee if yee doe them.

18 ¶ I speake not of you all: I know whom I have chosen: but it is that the Scripture might be fulfilled, ^{*} He that eateth bread with mee, hath lift up his heel against mee.

19 From henceforth tell I you before it come, that when it is come to passe, yee might beleve that I am hee.

20 ^{*} Verily, verily I say unto you, If I send any, he that receiveth him, receiveth mee, and he that receiveth mee, receiveth him that sent mee.

21 When Jesus had said these things, he was troubled in the Spirit, and^{*} testified, and said, Verily, verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray mee.

22 ^{*} Then the disciples looked one on another, doubting of whom he spake.

23 Now there was one of his disciples, which^{*} leaned on Jesus bosome, whom Jesus loved,

24 To him beckned therefore Simon Peter, that he should aske who it was of whom he spake.

25 Hee then as hee leaned on Jesus breast, said unto him, Lord, who is it?

26 Jesus answered, He it is, to whom I shall give a sop, when I have dipt it: and he wet a sop, and gave it to Judas Iscariot, Simons son.

27 And after the sop, Satan entred into him. Then said Jesus unto him, That thou doest, doe quickly.

28 But none of them that were at table, knew, for what cause he spake it unto him.

29 For some of them thought because Judas had the bag, that Jesus had said unto him, Buy those things that we have need of against the feast: or that he should give some thing to the poore.

30 As soone then as he had received the sop, he went immediately out, and it was night.

31 ¶ When he was gone out, Jesus said, ^{*} Now is the Son of man glorified, and God is glorified in him.

32 If God be glorified in him, God shall also glorifie him in himselfe, and shall straightway glorifie him.

33 ^{} Little children, yet a little while am I with you: yee shall seeke mee, but as I said unto the^{} Jewes, Whither I go, can yee not come: also to you say I now, 34 ^{*} A new Commandement give I unto you, that ye love one another: as I have loved you, that yee also love one another.

35 By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if yee have love one to another.

36 Simon Peter said unto him, Lord, whither goest thou? Jesus answered him, Whither I goe, thou canst not follow me now: but thou shalt follow me afterwards.

37 Peter said unto him, Lord, why can I not follow thee now? I will lay downe my life for thy sake.

38 Jesus answered him, While thou layest downe thy life for my sake, Verily, verily I say unto thee, The cock shall not crow, till thou have denied mee thrise.

¶ He comforteth his disciples, 20 promising the Comforter, 27 even the holy Spirit, 28 whose office he setteth out. 29 He putteth his peace.

Let not your heart be troubled: ye beleieve in God, beleieve also in mee.

2 In my Fathers house are many dwelling places: if it were not so, I would have told you: I go to^b prepare a place for you,

¶ were place enough not onely for mee, but for you also, in my Fathers house. I would not thus leave you with a vaine hope, but I would have told you so plainly. 6 All this is sayd by the Son of man, who by the Lord comforteth his owne, declaring to them his departure, and his heavenly kingdom, and his reign there alone, but to you before and prepare a place for them.

2 Christ went not away from us; to the end to forsake us, but rather that he might at length take us up with him into heaven.

3 These words are to be referred to the whole Church, and therefore the Angel said to the disciples when they were astonished, What stand ye gazing up into heaven? This Jesus shall so come as you saw him go up. Act. 1. 11. and in all places of the Scripture, the full comfort of the Church is referred to that day when God shall be all in all, and is therefore called the day of redemption.

3 Christ only is the way to true & everlasting life, for hee it is in whom the Father hath revealed himselfe.

4 This saying, sheweth unto us both the nature, the will, and office of Christ.

5 It is plain by this place, that to know God, and to see God, is all one: Now when he said before that no man saw God at any time, that is to be understood thus,

6 neither Christ, or man, is not through Christ, no man could ever see him face to face, as the Son is a very fair and easily seen forth of the Father: nature unto us.

7 The majesty of God sheweth in vaine, most evidently, both in Christ's doctrine and deeds.

8 The knowing of the verie of Christ is not included with his own person, but it is to be had through the body of his whole Church.

9 That is, we only do them, but I can also give other men power to do greater.

13 John 1. 7.

14 He loveth Christ

15 right which obeyeth his commandments: and because the same is accompanied with an infinite sort of miseries, although he be absent in body, yet doth he comfort him, with the present verue of the holy Ghost, whom the world despiseth, because it knoweth him not.

16 The holy Ghost is called the Spirit of truth, of the effect which he worketh, because he inspirith the truth into us, whereas otherwise both truth is hidden, and we are in worldly ways.

17 The Son is in the Father, as the Father is in the Son, for that he is of one substance with the Father, but he is in his disciples in a certain respect, as an aid and helper of them. I will shew my selfe to him, and he knoweth of him, as if he saw mee with his eyes: but this shewing of himselfe is not bodily, but spirittuall, yet so plain, as men can be sure.

3 And if I goe to prepare a place for you, I will come againe, and receive you unto my selfe, that where I am, there may yee be also.

4 And whither I goe, ye know, and the way yee know.

5 Thomas said unto him, Lord, wee know not whither thou goest: how can we then know the way?

6 Jesus said unto him, I am that way, and that truth, and that life. No man cometh unto the Father, but by mee.

7 If ye had known me, ye should have knowne my Father also: and from henceforth yee know him, and have seene him.

8 Philip said unto him, Lord, shew us thy Father, and it sufficeth us.

9 Jesus said unto him, have I bene so long time with you, and hast thou not knowne mee, Philip? he that hath seene me, hath seene my Father: how then sayest thou, Shew us thy Father?

10 Beleevest thou not, that I am in the Father, and the Father is in mee? The words that I speake unto you, I speake not of my selfe: but the Father that dwelleth in mee, he doth the workes.

11 Beleeve mee, that I am in the Father, and the Father is in mee: at the least, beleeve mee for the very workes sake.

12 Verily, verily I say unto you, Hee that beleeveeth in me, the workes that I do, he shall doe also, and greater then these shall he doe: for I goe unto my Father.

13 And whatsoever yee aske in my name, that will I doe, that the Father may be glorified in the Son.

14 If yee shall aske any thing in my name, I will doe it.

15 If yee love mee, keepe my commandments.

16 And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever;

17 Even the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but yee know him: for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you.

18 I will not leave you fatherlesse: but I will come to you.

19 Yet a little while, and the world shall see mee no more, but yee shall see mee: because I live, yee shall live also.

20 At that day shall ye know that I am in my Father, & you in me, and I in you.

21 He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, is he that loveth mee: and he that loveth mee, shall be loved of my Father: and I will love him, and will shew mine owne selfe to him.

22 Judas said unto him (not Iscariot) Lord, what is the cause that thou wilt shew thy selfe unto us, and not unto the world?

23 Jesus answered, and said unto him, If any man love mee, he will keepe my word, and my Father will love him, and hee will come unto him, and will dwell with him.

24 He that loveth me not, keepeth not my words, and the word which ye hear, is not mine, but the Fathers which sent me.

25 These things have I spoken unto you, being present with you.

26 But the Comforter, which is the holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, which I have told you.

27 Peace I leave with you: my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your hearts be troubled, nor feare.

28 Yee have heard how I said unto you, I goe away, and will come unto you. If ye loved me, yee would verily rejoyce, because I said, I goe unto the Father: for the Father is greater then I.

29 And now have I spoken unto you, before it come, that when it is come to passe, yee might beleeve.

30 Hereafter will I not speak many things unto you: for the prince of this world cometh, and hath nought in me.

31 But it is that the world may know that I love my Father: and as the Father hath commanded mee, so I doe. Arise, let us goe hence.

CHAP. XV.

1 By the parable of the vine, 2 And the branches, 3. 6 He declareth how the disciples may beare fruit. 12. 17 He commendeth mutual love. 18. He exhorteth them to beare afflictions patiently, 20 By his owne example.

I Am that true Vine, and my Father is I that husbandman.

2 Every branch that beareth not fruit in mee, he taketh away: and every one that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit.

3 Now are yee cleane through the word, which I have spoken unto you.

4 Abide in mee, and I in you: as the branch cannot bear fruit of it selfe, except it abide in the vine, no more can yee, except yee abide in mee.

5 I am that vine: yee are the branches: he that abideth in mee, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without mee, can yee doe nothing.

6 If a man abide not in mee, he is cast forth as a branch, and withereth: and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they burn.

7 If yee abide in mee, and my words abide

7 We must not ask why the Gospell is revealed to some rather then to other, but wee must rather take heed that we embrace Christ, who is offered unto us, and that we truly love him: that is to say, that we give our selves wholly to his obedience.

8 It is the office of the holy Ghost to imprint in the minds of the elect, in their times and seasons that which Christ once spake.

9 All true felicity cometh to us by Christ alone.

10 So farre is it that we should be sorry for the departing of Christ from us, according to the flesh, that we should rather rejoyce for it, seeing that all the blessing of the members dependeth upon the glorifying of the head.

11 This is spoken in that, that he is Mediator: for so the Father is greater then he, in as much as the person to whom request is made, is greater then he that maketh the request.

12 Christ goeth to death not unwillingly, but willingly, not as yielding to the devil, but obeying his Fathers decree.

13 As who would say, Satan will by and by set upon mee with all the might he can, but he hath no power over mee, neither shall hee find in my such thing as mee, as hee thinketh hee shall.

14 We are of nature dry and fit for nothing, but the first Therefore that we may live and be fruitful, wee must first be grafted into Christ.

15 It were into a vine, by the Fathers hand: and then be daily shewed with a continual meditation of the word, and the crosse: otherwise it shall not avails any man at all to have been grafted, unless he cleave fast unto the vine, and to draw juice out of it.

abide in you, ask what ye will, and it shall be done to you.

8 * Herein is my Father glorified, that yee beare much fruit, and be made my disciples.

9 * As the father hath loved me, so have I loved you: * continue in that my love.

10 If yee shall keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love, as I have kept my Fathers commandments, and abide in his love.

11 These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remaine in you, and that your joy might be full.

12 * This is my commandment, that yee love one another, as I have loved you.

13 Greater love then this hath no man, when any man bestoweth his life for his friends.

14 Yee are my friends, if ye doe, whatsoever I command you.

15 * Henceforth call I you not servants: for the servant knoweth not what his master doth: but I have called you friends: for all things that I have heard of my Father, have I made knowne unto you:

16 * Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, * that ye go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit remain, that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my Name, he may give it you.

17 These things command I you, that yee love one another.

18 * If the world hate you, yee know that it hated mee before you.

19 If yee were of the world, the world would love his own: but because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you.

20 Remember the word that I said unto you, * The servant is not greater then his master. * If they have persecuted mee, they will persecute you also: if they have kept my word, they will also keep yours.

21 * But * all these things will they do unto you for my names sake, because they have not knowne him that sent mee.

22 * If I had not come and spoken unto them, they should not have had sin: but now have they no cloke for their sin.

23 He that hateth mee, hateth my Father also.

24 If I had not done works among them which none other man did, they had not had sin: but now have they both seen, and have hated both mee, and my Father.

25 But it is that the word might be fulfilled, that is written in their * Law, * They hated mee without a cause.

26 * But when that Comforter shall come, * whom I will send unto you from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, which proceedeth of the Father, he shall testifie of mee.

27 And yee shall witnesse also, because ye have bin with me from the beginning.

CHAP. XVI.

1 He foretelleth the disciples of persecution. 7 He promisseth the Comforter, and declareth his office. 21. He compareth the afflictions of his to a woman that travaileth with child.

These things have I said unto you, that yee should not be offended.

2 They shall excommunicate you: yea, the time shall come, that whosoever killeth you, will think that he doth God service.

3 And these things will they doe unto you, because they have not knowne the Father, nor mee.

4 * But these things have I told you, that when the houre shall come, ye might remember, that I told you them. And these things said I not unto you, from the beginning, because I was with you.

5 But now I goe my way to him that sent me, and none of you asketh me, Whither goest thou?

6 But because I have said these things unto you, your hearts are full of sorrow.

7 * Yet I tell you the truth, It is expedient for you that I goe away: for if I goe not away, that Comforter will not come unto you: but if I depart, I will send him unto you.

8 * And when he is come, he will * reprove the * world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgement.

9 Of sin, because they beleevd not in me:

10 Of * righteousness, because I go to my Father, and ye shall see mee no more.

11 Of * judgement, because the prince of this world is judged.

12 * I have yet many things to say unto you, but yee cannot beare them now.

13 Howbeit when he is come which is the Spirit of truth, he will lead you into all truth: for he shall not speake of himselfe, but whatsoever he shall hear, shall he speake, and he will shew you the things to come.

14 * He shall glorifie mee: For he shall receive of mine, & shall shew it unto you.

15 All things that the Father hath, are mine: therefore said I, that he shall take of mine, and shew it unto you.

16 * A * little while, and ye shall not see mee: and againe a little while, and yee shall see mee: for I goe to the Father.

17 Then said some of his disciples among themselves, What is this that he saith unto us, A little while, and yee shall not see mee, and againe, a little while, and yee shall see mee, and, For I goe to the Father.

1 The ministers of the Gospell must looke for all manner of reproche, not only of them which are open enemies, but even of them also which seeme to be of the same household, & the very pillars of the Church.

* Chap. 15. 21.

2 The absence of Christ according to the flesh, is profitable to the Church, that we may wholly depend upon his spiritual power.

3 The Spirit of God worketh so mightily by the preaching of the word, that he constraineth the world, will it, nill it, to confesse its own unrighteousnesse, and Christs righteousness, and almightinesse.

4 He will reprove the world, that the worldlings shall be able to beare affliction, when all good sayers were manifestly reprov'd through the power of the holy Ghost upon the Church: so that the very enemies of Christ were reprov'd of sin, in that they were constrained to confesse that they were deceived, in that they believed not, and therefore they said to Christ, Alas, Alas, and brethren, when shall we see thee?

5 Of Christ himselfe, for when the world shall see, that Christ is gone, they shall be constrained to confesse that I was right, and was not condemned of my Father, when I went out of this world.

6 Of that authority and power which I have had in heaven and earth.

7 That is, because they shall then understand and know indeed, that I have overcome the devils, do govern the world, when all men shall see that they see themselves against you as vanities, I will arme you with that heavenly power, whereby you may destroy every thing which is lifted up against the knowledge of Gods will.

8 The doctrine of the Apostles proceeded from the holy Ghost, and is most perfect, which was uttered by Christs owne mouth, and imprinted in our minds.

9 The grace of the holy Ghost is a most lively glasse, wherein Christ is truly beheld with the most sharp sighted eyes of faith, and not with the beared eyes of the flesh: whereby wee feel a continual joy even in the midst of tribulations, for in a little time is once past: for I passe to everlast glory, in that I shall be much more present with you then I was before: for then you shall see without doubt, that I am, and what I say also to doe.

10. 12. 1. and yet

Aske and yee shall receive. John Christ prayeth for his Apostles.

18 They said therefore, What is this that he saith, A little while? we know not what he saith.

19 Now Jesus knew that they would aske him, and said unto them, Doe yee enquire among your selves, of that I said, A little while, and yee shall not see mee: and againe, a little while, and yee shall see mee?

20 Verily, verily I say unto you, that yee shall weepe and lament, and the world shall rejoyce: and yee shall sorrow, but your sorrow shall bee turned to joy.

21 A woman when she travaileth, hath sorrow, because her houre is come: but as soone as she is delivered of the childe, she remembreth no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the world.

22 And yee now therefore are in sorrow: but I will see you againe, and your hearts shall rejoyce, and your joy shall no man take from you.

23 And in that day shall yee aske mee nothing. Verily, verily I say unto you, Whatsoever yee shall aske the Father in my Name, he will give it you.

24 Hitherto have yee asked nothing in my Name: aske, and yee shall receive, that your joy may be full.

25 These things have I spoken unto you in parables: but the time will come, when I shall no more speak to you in parables: but I shall shew you plainly of the Father.

26 At that day shall yee aske in my Name, and I say not unto you, that I will pray unto the Father for you:

27 For the Father himselfe loveth you, because yee have loved mee, and have believed that I came out from God.

28 I am come out from the Father, and came into the world: againe, I leave the world, and goe to the Father.

29 His disciples said unto him, Loe, now speakest thou plainly, and thou speakest no parable.

30 Now know wee, that thou knowest all things, and needest not that any man should aske thee. By this we beleeve that thou art come out from God.

31 Jesus answered them, Doe you beleeve now?

32 Behold, the houre cometh, and is already come, that yee shall be scattered every man into his owne, and shall leave mee alone: but I am not alone: for the Father is with mee.

33 These things have I spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace: in the world yee shall have affliction, but bee of good confort: I have overcome the world.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Christ prayeth that his glory, together with his Fathers, may be made manifest. 9 He prayeth for his Apostles, 20 And for all believers.

These things spake Jesus, and lift up his eyes to heaven, and said, Father, that houre is come: glorifie thy Son, that thy Son may also glorifie thee:

2 As thou hast given him power over all flesh, that he should give eternall life to all them thou hast given him.

3 And this is life eternall, that they know thee to be the only very God, and whom thou hast sent, Jesus Christ.

4 I have glorified thee on the earth: I have finished the worke which thou gavest mee to doe.

5 And now glorifie mee, thou Father, with thine own self, with the glory which I had with thee before the world was.

6 I have declared thy name unto the men which thou gavest mee out of the world: thine they were, and thou gavest them mee, and they have kept thy word.

7 Now they know that all things whatsoever thou hast given mee, are of thee.

8 For I have given unto them the words which thou gavest mee, and they have received them, and have knowne surely that I came out from thee, and have beleeved that thou hast sent mee.

9 I pray for them: I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given mee: for they are thine,

10 And all mine are thine, and thine are mine, and I am glorified in them.

11 And now am I no more in the world, but these are in the world; and I come to thee. Holy Father, keepe them in thy Name, even them whom thou hast given mee, that they may be one as wee are.

12 While I was with them in the world, I kept them in thy Name: those that thou gavest mee, have I kept, and none of them is lost, but the childe of perdition, that the Scripture might be fulfilled.

13 And now come I to thee, and these things speake I in the world, that they might have my joy fulfilled in themselves.

14 I have given them thy word, and the world hath hated them, because they are not of the world, as I am not of the world.

15 I pray not that thou shouldest take them out of the world, but that thou keep them from all evill.

16 They are not of the world, as I am not of the world.

17 Sanctifie them with thy truth: thy word is truth.

18 As thou diddest send mee into the world, so have I sent them into the world.

1 Jesus Christ the everlasting high Priest, being ready straight wayes to offer up himselfe, cloth by tolemne prayers consecrate himselfe to God the Father, as a sacrifice, and us together with himselfe. Therefore this prayer was from the beginning, is, and shall be to the end of the world, the foundation and ground of the Church of God. 2 Hee first dedicateth, that as hee came into the world to the end that the Father might shew in him, being apprehended by Iust, his glory, in saving his elect, so hee appeareth himselfe to that only: and therefore confesse of the Father, that hee would blest the worke which hee had finished. * Math. 28. 18. 3 Over all men. 4 Hee calleth the Father the only very God, to be his agonist, false gods, and not to put out himselfe and the holy Ghost, for straight wayes hee signifies knowledge of the Father, and the knowledge of himselfe together, and according to his accustomed manner (interfering) the whole Godhead in the person of the Father: so is the Father alone said to be King, immortal, wise, and dwelling in light which no man can see: Rom. 16. 27. 1 Tim. 1. 17. 3 First of all, hee prayeth for those his disciples, by whom hee would have the rest to be gathered together, and comendeth them unto the Father, having once rejected the whole company of the reprobate, because hee received them of him, into his custody, and for that they embracing his doctrine shall have so many and so mighty enemies, that there is no way for them to be in safety, but by his help only. 4 Hee sheweth hereby that everlasting election and chaste, which was hidden in the good will, and pleasure of God, which is the groundwork of our salvation. 5 Hee sheweth how that everlasting and hidden purpose of God is declared in Christ, by whom wee are justified and sanctified, if wee lay hold on him by faith, that at length we may come to the glory of the election. * Chap. 16. 27. 6 Hee prayeth that his people may peaceably agree and be united together in one, that as the Godhead is one so they may be of one mind, and one consent together. * Psal. 109. 7. 4 He sheweth what manner of deliverance he meaneth, not that they should be in no danger, but that they being preserved from all, might prove by experience that the doctrine of salvation is truth, which they received at his mouth to deliver to other. 7 That is, make them holy: and that is said, to be holy, which is dedicated and made proper to God only. 8 He addeth moreover, that the Apostles have a vocation common with them, and therefore that they must be holden up by the self same vertue to give up themselves wholly to God, whereby he being full, did consecrate himselfe to the Father.

19 And

The holy Ghost, which was poured upon the Apostles after the Ascension of Christ. Instructed both in the chiefest mysteries and secrets of our salvation, and also by them the Church, and will also instruct to the end of the world.

The sum of the worship of God is the invocation of the Father, in the Name of the Son the Mediator, who is already heard for us, for whom he both assisted himselfe, and is now also glorified. * Chap. 17. 8. 9 Faith and foolish security differ very much.

* Math. 26. 31. Mark. 14. 27. 10 Neither the wickedness of the world, neither the weakness of his own can diminish any thing of the virtue of Christ.

11 The surety and stay of the Church dependeth onely upon the victory of Christ.

12 That in mee you might bee thoroughly quieted. For by peace, it is meant in this place, that quietness of mind which is contrary to dissension, and contention.

19 And for their sakes sanctifie I my selfe, that they also may be sanctified through the ⁸ truth.

20 ⁶ I pray not for these alone, but for them also which shall beleve in me, through their word, 21 That they all may be one, as thou, O Father, art in me, and I in thee: even that they may be also one in us, that the world may beleve that thou hast sent me.

22 And the glory that thou gavest me, I have given them, that they may be one, as we are one.

23 I in them, and thou in me, that they may be made perfite in one, and that the world may know that thou hast sent me, & hast loved them, as thou hast loved me.

24 * Father, I will that they which thou hast given me, be with me, even where I am, that they may behold that my glory, which thou hast given me: for thou lovedst me before the foundation of the world.

25 O righteous Father, the world also hath not known thee, But I have known thee, and these have known, that thou hast sent me.

26 ⁷ And I have declared unto them thy Name, and will declare it, that the love wherewith thou hast loved me, may be in them, and I in them.

CHAP. XVIII.

¹ By Christs power, whom Judas betrayeth. ⁶ The soldiers are cast down to the ground. ¹³ Christ is led to Annas, and from him to Cajaphas. ²³ His answer to the officer that smote him with a rod. ²⁸ Being delivered to Pilate. ³⁶ Hee declareth his kingdom.

When Jesus had spoken these things, he went forth with his disciples over the brooke * Cedron, where was a garden, into the which he entred, and his disciples.

2 And Judas which betrayed him, knew also the place: for Jesus oft times resorted thither with his disciples.

3 * Judas then, after he had received a band of men, and officers of the high Priests, and of the Pharisees, came thither with lanterns, and torches, and weapons.

4 ³ Then Jesus, knowing all things that should come unto him, went forth and said unto them, Whom seek yee?

5 They answered him, Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus said unto them, I am he. Now Judas also which betrayed him, stood with them.

6 As soone then as he had said unto them, I am he, they went away backwards, and fell to the ground.

7 Then he asked them againe, Whom seekeye? And they said, Jesus of Nazareth.

8 * Jesus answered, I said unto you, that I am he: therefore if ye seeke me, let these goe their way.

9 This was that the word might be fulfilled which he spake, * Of them which thou gavest me, have I lost none.

10 ⁵ Then Simon Peter having a sword, drew it, and smote the high Priests servant, and cut off his right eare. Now the servants name was Malchus.

11 Then said Jesus unto Peter, Put up thy sword into the sheath: shall I not drink of the cup which my Father hath given me?

12 Then the band, and the captaine, and the officers of the Jewes took Jesus, and bound him,

13 ⁶ And led him away to * Annas first (for he was father in law to Cajaphas, which was the high Priest that same ycare.)

14 * And Cajaphas was he, that gave counsell to the Jewes, that it was expedient that one man should die for the people.

15 ¶ ⁷ * Now Simon Peter followed Jesus, and another disciple, and that disciple was known of the high Priest: therefore he went in with Jesus into the hall of the high Priest:

16 But Peter stood at the doore without. Then went out the other disciple which was known unto the high Priest, and spake to her that kept the doore, and brought in Peter.

17 Then said the maid that kept the doore, unto Peter, Art not thou also one of this mans disciples? He said, I am not.

18 And the servants and officers stood there, which had made a fire of coales: for it was cold, and they warmed themselves. And Peter also stood among them, and warmed himselfe.

19 ¶ (* The high Priest then asked Jesus of his disciples, and of his doctrine.

20 Jesus answered him, I spake openly to the world: I ever taught in the Synagogue, and in the Temple, whither the Jewes resort continually, and in secret have I said nothing.

21 Why askest thou me? aske them which heard me what I said unto them: behold, they know what I said.

22 When he had spoken these things, one of the officers which stood by, smote Jesus with his rod, saying, Answerest thou the high Priest so?

23 Jesus answered him, If I have evill spoken, beare witnesse of the evill: but if I have well spoken, why smitest thou me?

24 ¶ * Now Annas had sent him bound unto Cajaphas the high Priest.)

25 * And Simon Peter stood and warmed himselfe, and they said unto him, Art not thou also of his disciples? He denied it, and said, I am not.

26 One of the servants of the high Priest, his cousin whose eare Peter smote off, said, did not I see thee in the garden with him?

27 Peter

¹ The true and substantiall sanctification of Christ, is first against the outward sinning.
⁶ Secondly, he offereth to God the Father all his, that is, how many ever shall beleve in him by the doctrine of the Apostles: that as he cleaveth unto the Father, receiving from him all fulnesse, so they being joyued with him, may receive life from him, and at length being together beloved in him, may also with him enjoy everlasting glory.

phas into the common hall. Now it was morning, and they themselves went not into the common hall, lest they should be
* defiled, but that they might eate the Paschever.

29 Pilate then went out unto them, and said, What accusation bring yee against this man?

30 They answered, and said unto him, If he were not an evill doer, we would not have delivered him unto thee.

31 Then said Pilate unto them, Take ye him, and judge him after your own Law.
Then the Jewes said unto him, ^b It is not lawfull for us to put any man to death.

32 It was that the word of Jesus * might be fulfilled which he spake, ^c signifying what death he should die.

33 * So Pilate entred into the common hall againe, and called Jesus, and said unto him, Art thou the King of the Jewes?

34 Jesus answered him, Sayest thou that of thy selfe, or did other tell it thee of me?

35 Pilate answered, Am I a Jew? Thine own nation, and the high Priests have delivered thee unto mee. What hast thou done?

36 ¶ Jesus answered, my kingdome is not of this world: if my kingdome were of this world, my servants would surely fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jewes: but now is my kingdome not from hence.

37 Pilate then said unto him, Art thou a King then? Jesus answered, Thou sayest that I am a King: for this cause am I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should beare witness unto the trueth: every one that is of the trueth, heareth my voice.

38 ¶ Pilate said unto him, ^d What is trueth? And when he had said that, he went out againe unto the Jewes, and said unto them, I finde in him no cause at all.

39 * But you have a custome, that I should deliver you one loofe at the Pasche-over: will ye then that I loofe unto you the King of the Jewes?

40 * Then * cried they all againe, saying, Nor him, but Barabbas: now this Barabbas was a murtherer.

C H A P. XIX.

1 Pilate when Christ was scourged, 2 and crowned with thornes, 4 was desirous to let him loofe, 8 but being overcome with the outrage of the Jewes, 16 He delivereth him to be crucified. 26 Jesus committeth his mother to the disciple. 30 Having tasted vinegar, he dieth. 34 And being dead, his side is pierced with a speare. 40 He is buried.

¶ Then * Pilate tooke Jesus and * scourged him.

2 And the souldiers platted a crown of thornes, and put it on his head, and they put on him a purple garment,

3 And said, Haile King of the Jewes.
And they smote him with their rods.

4 * Then Pilate went forth againe, and said unto them, Behold, I bring him forth to you, that ye may know, that I finde no fault in him at all.

5 Then came Jesus forth wearing a crown of thornes, and a purple garment.
And Pilate said unto them, Behold the man.

6 Then when the high Priests and officers saw him, they cried, saying, * Crucifie, cru-cifie him. Pilate said unto them, Take ye him and crucifie him: for I finde no fault in him.

7 The Jewes answered him, We have a law, and by our law he ought to die, because he made himselfe the Sonne of God.

8 ¶ When Pilate then heard that word, he was the more afraid,

9 And went againe into the common hall, and said unto Jesus, Whence art thou?
But Jesus gave him none answer.

10 Then said Pilate unto him, Speakest thou not unto me? Knowest thou not that I have power to crucifie thee, and have power to loofe thee?

11 Jesus answered, Thou couldest have no power at all against me, except it were given thee from above: therefore he that delivered me unto thee, hath the greater sin.

12 From thenceforth Pilate sought to loofe him, but the Jewes cried, saying, If thou deliver him, thou art not Cefars friend: for whosoever maketh himselfe a King, speaketh against Cefar.

13 ¶ When Pilate heard this word, he brought Jesus forth, and sate down in the iudgement seate, in a place called, The Pavement, and in Ebrew, ^b Gabbatha.

14 And it was the preparation of the Paschever, and about the sixt houre: and he said unto the Jewes, Behold your King.

15 But they cried, Away with him, away with him, crucifie him. Pilate said unto them, Shall I crucifie your King? The high Priests answered, We have no King but Cefar.

16 ¶ Then delivered he him unto them, to be crucified. And they tooke Jesus, and led him away.

17 ¶ And he bare his own crosse, and came into a place named of dead mens skulls, which is called in Hebrew, Golgotha:

18 Where they crucified him, and two other with him, on either side one, and Jesus in the middes.

19 ¶ And Pilate wrote also a title, and put it on the Crosse, and it was written,
JESUS OF NAZARETH THE KING OF THE JEWES.

20 This title then read many of the Jewes:

¶ Christ is again

demned.

Jewes: for the place where Jesus was crucified, was neere to the citie: and it was written in Hebrew, Greeke, and Latine.

21 Then said the high Priests of the Jewes, to Pilate, Write not, The king of the Jewes, but that he said, I am the king of Jewes.

22 Pilate answered, What I have written, I have written.

23 ¶ Then the * souldiers, when they had crucified Jesus, took his garments (and made foure parts, to every souldier a part) and his coat, and the coat was without seame woven from the top throughout.

24 Therefore they sayd one to another, Let us not divide it, but cast lots for it, whose it shal be. This was that the Scripture might be fulfilled, which sayth, * They parted my garments among them, and on my coat did cast lots. So the souldiers did these things in deed.

25 ¶ Then stood by the crosse of Jesus his mother, and his mothers sister, Mary the wife of Cleopas, and Mary Magdalene.

26 And when Jesus saw his mother, and the discipule standing by, whom he loved, he said unto his mother, Woman, behold thy sonne.

27 Then said he to the discipule, Behold thy mother: and from that houre that discipule tooke her home unto him.

28 ¶ After, when Jesus knew that all things were performed, that the * Scripture might be fulfilled, he said, I thirst.

29 And there was set a * vessell full of vinegar: and they filled a sponge with vinegar, and put it about an Hyssope stalke, and put it to his mouth.

30 Now when Jesus had received of the vinegar, he said, It is finished, and bowed his head, and gave up the ghost.

31 ¶ The Jewes then (because it was the Preparation, that the bodies should not remaine upon the crosse on the Sabbath day: for the Sabbath was an high day) besought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken down.

32 Then came the souldiers and brake the legs of the first, and of the other which was crucified with Jesus.

33 But when they came to Jesus, and saw that he was dead already, they brake not his legs.

34 ¶ But one of the souldiers with a speare^d pierced his side, and forthwith came thereout blood and water.

35 And he that saw it, bare record, and his record is true: and he knoweth that he saith true, that ye might belevee it.

36 For these things were done, that the Scripture should be fulfilled, * Not a bone of him shall be broken.

37 And againe another Scripture sayth, * They shal see him whom they have thrust through.

38 ¶ And after these things, Joseph of Arimathea (who was a discipule of Jesus, but secretly for feare of the Jewes) besought Pilate that he might take down the bodie of Jesus. And Pilate gave him licence. He came then and tooke Jesus bodie.

39 And there came * also Nicodemus (which first came to Jesus by night) and brought of myrrhe and aloes mingled together about an hundred pound.

40 Then tooke they the bodie of Jesus, and wrapped it in linnen clothes with the odours, as the maner of the Jewes is to burie.

41 And in the place where Jesus was crucified, was a garden, and in the garden a new sepulchre: whercin was * never man yet laid.

42 There then layd they Jesus, because of the Jewes preparation day, for the sepulchre was neere.

3 Peter therefore went forth, and the other discipule, and they came unto the sepulchre.

4 So they ranne both together, but the other discipule did outrunne Peter, and came first to the sepulchre.

Christ being dead upon the crosse witnesseth by a double signe, that he onely is the true sacrifice, and the true withing for the believers. This wound was a most manifest witness of the death of Christ: for the water that issued out of this wound gave us plainly to understand, that the weapon pierced the very fountaine that supplieth the heart, which is the vessel that containeth that water, and that being once wounded, that creature which is so pierced, and stricken, cannot close but die.

 3 Jesus witnesseth by his presence, that he is truly risen.

4 Christ which is risen, is not to be sought in this world, according to the flesh, but in heaven by faith, whither he is gone before us, d By his brethren he meaneth his disciples: for in the next verse following, it is said, that Mary told his Disciples.
 e He calleth God his Father, because he is his Father naturally in the Godhead, and he saith, your Father, because he is our Father, by grace, through the adoption of the Sonnes of God: that is, by taking us of his free grace to be his sonnes. Epiphanius.

* Mat. 28. 18.

6 The publishing of the forgiveness of sins, by faith in Christ, and the setting forth and denouncing the wrath of God in retaining the sins of the unbelievers, is the summe of the preaching of the Gospel.

7 Christ draweth out of the unbelief: of Thomas a certaine and sure testimonie of his resurrection.

12 And saw two Angels in white, sitting, the one at the head, & the other at the feet, where the bodie of Jesus had layen.

13 And they said unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? She said unto them, They have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him.

14 When she had thus said, she turned her selfe backe, and saw Jesus standing, and knew not that it was Jesus.

15 Jesus sayth unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? whom seekest thou? She supposing that he had beene the gardiner, said unto him, Sir, if thou hast borne him hence, tell me where thou hast laid him, and I will take him away.

16 Jesus sayth unto her, Marie. She turned her selfe, and said unto him, Rabboni, which is to say, Master.

17 Jesus sayth unto her, touch me not: for I am not yet ascended to my Father: but goe to my brethren, and say unto them, I ascend unto my Father, and to your Father, and to my God, & your God.

18 Mary Magdelene came and told the disciples that she had seen the Lord, and that he had spoken these things unto her.

19 ¶ The same day then at night which was the first day of the weeke, and when the doores were shut where the Disciples were assembled for feare of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in the mids, and said to them, Peace be unto you.

20 And when he had so said, he shewed unto them his hands, and his side. Then were the Disciples glad when they had seene the Lord.

21 Then said Jesus to them againe, Peace be unto you: as my Father sent me, so send I you.

22 And when he had said that, he breathed on them, and said unto them, Receive the holy Ghost.

23 Whosoever finnes ye remit, they are remitted unto them: and whosoever finnes ye retaine, they are retained.

24 ¶ But Thomas one of the twelve, called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came.

25 The other Disciples therefore said unto him, We have seene the Lord, but he said unto them, Except I see in his hands the print of the nailes, and put my finger into the print of the nailes, and put my hand into his side, I will not beleeeve it.

26 ¶ And eight dayes after, againe his disciples were within, and Thomas with them. Then came Jesus, when the doores were shut, and stood in the mids, and said, Peace be unto you.

27 After said he to Thomas, Put thy finger here, and see mine hands, and put forth thine hand, and put it into my side, and be not faithlesse, but faithfull.

28 Then Thomas answered and said unto him, Thou art my Lord, and my God, 29 Jesus said unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seene me, thou beleevest: blessed are they that have not seene, and have beleevd.

30 ¶ And many other signes also did Jesus in the presence of his Disciples, which are not written in this booke.

31 But these things are written, that ye might beleeeve, that Jesus is that Christ that Sonne of God, and that in beleeving ye might have life through his Name.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Jesus appeareth to his Disciples as they were a fishing: 6, 7 whom they know by a miraculous draught of Fishes. 25 He committeth the charge of the Sheepe to Peter, 18 and foretelleth him of the manner of his death.

After these things, Jesus shewed himselfe againe to his Disciples at the sea of Tiberias: and thus shewed he himselfe:

2 There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas, which is called Didymus, and Nathanael of Cana in Galile, and the sonnes of Zebedeus, and two other of his disciples.

3 Simon Peter said unto them, I goe a fishing. They said unto him, We also will goe with thee. They went their way and entred into a ship straightway, and that night caught they nothing.

4 But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore: nevertheless the disciples knew not that it was Jesus.

5 Jesus then said unto them, Sirs, have ye any meat? They answered him, No.

16 Then he said unto them, Cast out the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shal find. So they cast out, & they were not able at all to draw it, for the multitude of fishes.

7 Therefore said the disciple whom Jesus loved, unto Peter, It is the Lord. When Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he girded his coat to him (for he was naked) and cast himselfe into the sea.

8 But the other disciples came by ship (for they were not farre from land, but about two hundreth cubits) and they drew the net with fishes.

9 Assoone then as they were come to land, they saw hot coales, and fish laid thereon, and bread.

10 Jesus said unto him, Bring of the fishes which ye have now caught.

11 Simon Peter stepped forth and drew the net to land, full of great fishes, an hundred, fiftie and three: and albeir there were so many, yet was not the net broken.

12 Jesus said unto them, Come, and dine. And none of the Disciples durst aske him, Who art thou? seeing they knew that he was the Lord.

8 True faith dependeth upon the mouth of God, and not upon fleshly eyes.

* Chap. 21. 25.
 9 To beleeeve in Christ the Sonne of God, and our only Saviour, is the end of the doctrine of the Gospel, and especially of the history of the resurrection.

1 In that, that Christ here is not onely present but also eateth with his Disciples, he giveth a most full assurance of his Resurrection.

a It was a linen garment, which could not let him swimme.

^a Peter by this triple confession is reformed into his former degree from whence he fell by his triple denial: and there-
^b shall be adverted, that he is indeed a pastor, which sheweth his love to Christ, in feeding his sheep.
^c It was meet that he that had denied Christ should be reformed by the same means.
^d Peter might have doubt of his forgiveness of his grievous sin, nor of his referring to the office of the Apostle.
^e The violent death of Peter is foretold.
^f They that took for garments, especially in the East country, & in these places where the people used long garments, had need to be guarded, and trusted up.
^g He meant that kind of girding which is used toward captives, when they are bound fast with cards and chains, as who would say, Now thou girdest thyself as thou thinkest best, to go whither thou wilt, but the time will be, when thou shalt not gird thee with a girdle, but another shall bind thee with chains, and carry thee whither thou wilt not.

13 Jesus then came and tooke bread and gave them, and fish likewise.

14 This is now the third time that Jesus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen again from the dead.

15 ¶ ² So when they had dined, Jesus said to Simon Peter, Simon the son of Jona, lovest thou me more then these? He said unto him, Yea Lord, thou knowest that I love thee. He said unto him, Feed my lambes.

16 He said to him again the second time, Simon the son of Jona, lovest thou me? He said unto him, Yea Lord, thou knowest that I love thee. He said unto him, Feed my sheep.

17 He said unto him the ^b third time, Simon the son of Jona, lovest thou me? Peter was forrie, because he said to him the third time, Lovest thou me? and said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things: thou knowest that I love thee. Jesus said unto him, Feed my sheep.

18 ³ Verily, verily I say unto thee, When thou wast yong, thou ^c girdest thy self, and walkedst whither thou wouldst: but when thou shalt be old, thou shalt stretch forth thine hands, and another shall ^d gird thee, and lead thee whither thou wouldst * not.

19 And this spake he, signifying by ^e what death he should glorifie God. And when he had said this, he said to him, Follow me.

20 ⁴ Then Peter turned about and saw the disciple whom Jesus loved, following, which had also ^f leaned on his brest at supper, and had said, Lord, which is he that betrayeth thee?

21 When Peter therefore saw him, he said to Jesus, Lord, what shall this man doe?

22 Jesus said unto him, If I will that he tarrie till I come, what is it to thee? follow thou me.

23 Then went this word abroad among the brethren, that this Disciple should not die. Yet Jesus said not to him, He shall not die: but if I will that he tarie till I come, what is it to thee?

24 ⁵ This is that disciple, which testifieth of these things, and wrote these things, and we know that his testimonie is true.

25 ^{*} Now there are also many other things which Iesus did, the which if they should be written every one, I suppose the world could not contain the bookes that should be written, Amen.

^a Not that Peter suffered ought for the truth offered against his will, for we read that he came with joy, and gladness, when he returned from the Council, where he was whipped: but because that his conversion was from the flesh, but from that gift of the Spirit which is given us from above, therefore he should be a certain striving and conflict, or repugnance, which also is in us in all our sufferances, as touching the flesh.
^b That is, that Peter should die by a violent death.
^c We must take heed, that whilst we cast our eyes upon other, we neglect not that which is injoynead us.
^d Chap. 13. 23.
^e The historie of Christ is true and warily written: not for curiositie of men, but for the salvation of the godly.

THE ACTES OF THE HOLY.

Apostles, written by LUKE the Evangelist.

CHAP. I.

1 Luke with this history to his Gospel, 9 Christ being taken into heaven, 10 the Apostles 11 being warned by the Angels, 12 returns, 14 and gives themselves to prayer, 15 By Peter's motion, 18 into Judas the traitors place, Matthias is chosen.

1 Appaling over from the history of the Gospel, it is from the history of the sayings and doings of Christ, into the Acts of the Apostles.

2 The acts of Jesus are the miracles and things which served his Godhead, and his most perfect holiness and examples of his doctrine.

3 Christ did not straightway ascend into heaven after his resurrection, because he would throughly prove his resurrection, and with his presence confirm his Apostles in the doctrine which they had heard.

4 He calls these infallible tokens, which are otherwise termed not fiery: now in that, that Christ speaks, and walked, and ate, and was felt of many, these are sure signs and tokens that he truly rose again.

Have made the former treatise, O Theophilus, of all that Jesus began to do and teach.

2 Untill the day that hee was taken up, after that he through the holy Ghost had given commandements unto the Apostles, whom he had chosen:

3 To whom also he presented himself alive after that he had suffered, by many infallible tokens, being seen of them by the space of fortie dayes, and speaking of those things which appertain to the kingdome of God.

4 And when he had gathered them together, he commanded them that they should not depart from Hierusalem, but to wait for the promise of the Father, which said he, ye have heard of me.

5 For John indeed baptized with water, but ye shall be baptized with the holy Ghost within these few dayes.

6 When they therefore were come together, they asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time restore the kingdom to Israel?

7 And he said unto them, It is not for you to know the times, or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power,

8 But ye shall receive power of the holy Ghost, when he shall come on you, and ye

² After that Christ had promised the holy Ghost, where he would govern his Church, though he should be absent in body, he took up his body from us into the heavenly tabernacles, here to continue until the latter day of judgement, as the Angels witness.
³ That is, out of your sight.
⁴ About two miles.
⁵ Ecclesiastical assemblies to leave the common prayer, were first instituted & kept in private houses by the Apostles.
⁶ They went into the house, which the Church had chosen at that time to be a residence for the whole assembly.
⁷ The Greek word prophetai signifies an invincible confidence, and boldness.
⁸ It is to good purpose, that this command is mentioned: for these prayers are most acceptable to God, which are made with agreeing minds and souls.
⁹ The disciples prayed for the sending of the holy Ghost, and also to be delivered from present dangers, whereunto they were beset.
¹⁰ It was believeable, to have the witness confirmed, who were afterwards to be partakers of the dangers with their husbands.
¹¹ With his kindred.
¹² Peter is made the mouth and interpreter of the whole company of the Apostles, either by secret revelation of the holy Ghost, or by express judgement of the congregation.
¹³ Because men are commonly killed and murthered by their names.
¹⁴ Peter preventeth the offence that might be taken of the falling away of Judas, a betrayer, shewing, that all things which came unto him, were foretold by God.

¹⁶ Iam. 13. 27.
¹⁷ Luke considered not Judas his party, but that that seemed of it, and so was to say, that a man had procured himselfe harme, not that he will & purpose was so, but in respect of that which seemed.

shall be witnesses unto me both in Hierusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.

9 * And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up: for a cloud took him up out of their sight.

10 And while they looked stedfastly toward heaven, as he went, behold two men stood by them in white apparell.

11 Which also said, ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing into heaven? This Jesus which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come, as ye have seen him go into heaven.

12 ¶ Then returned they unto Hierusalem from the mount that is called the mount of Olives, which is neere to Hierusalem, being from it a Sabbath^h dayes journey.

13 And when they were come in, they went up into an upper chamber, where abode both Peter, and James, and Iohn, and Andrew, Philip, and Thomas, Bartlemew, and Matthew, James the son of Alphaeus, and Simon Zelotes, and Judas James brother.

14 These all continued with one accord in prayer, and supplication with the women, and Marie the mother of Jesus, and with his brethren.

15 ¶ And in those dayes Peter stood up in the midst of the Disciples, and said (now the number of names that were in one place were about an hundred & twentie.)

16 Ye men and brethren, this Scripture must needs have been fulfilled, which the holy Ghost by the mouth of David spake before of Judas, which was guide to them that tooke Jesus.

17 For he was numbred with us, & had obtained fellowship in this ministration.

18 He therefore hath purchased a field with the reward of iniquitie: and when he had thrown down himselfe headlong, he brast aunder in the midst, and all his bowels gushed out.

19 And it is known unto all the inhabitants of Hierusalem, in so much, that that field is called in their own language, Acel-dama, that is, The field of blood.

20 For it is written in the booke of Psalms, * Let his habitation be void, and let no man dwell therein: * also, Let another take his charge.

21 Wherefore of these men which have companied with us, all the time that the Lord Jesus was conversant among us,

22 Beginning from the Baptisme of John unto the day that he was taken up from us, must one of them be made a witness with us of his resurrection.

23 And they presented two, Joseph called Barabas, whose surname was Justus, and Matthias.

24 And they prayed, saying, Thou Lord, which knowest the hearts of all men, shew whether of these two thou hast chosen.

25 That he may take the roome of this ministration and Apostleship, from which Judas hath gone astray, to go to his own place.

26 Then they gave forth their lots, and the lot fell on Matthias, and he was by a common consent counted with the eleven Apostles.

CHAP. II.

The Apostles. 4 filled with the holy Ghost, 8 speake with divers tongues: 13 They are thought to be drunk, 15 but Peter disproveth that. 34 He teacheth that Christ is the Messiah. 37 And seeing the hearers astonished, 38 he exhorteth them to repentance.

And when the day of Pentecost was come, they were all with one accord in one place.

2 And suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a rushing and mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they sat.

3 And there appeared unto them cloven tongues, like fire, and it sat upon each of them.

4 And they were all filled with the holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance.

5 And there were dwelling at Hierusalem Jewes, men that feared God, of every nation under heaven.

6 Now when this was noised, the multitude came together, and were astonished, because that every man heard them speake his own language.

7 And they wondred all, and marvelled, saying among themselves, Behold, are not all these which speake, of Galilee?

8 How then heare we every man our own language, wherein we were borne?

9 Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and the inhabitants of Mesopotamia, and of Judea, & of Cappadocia, of Pontus, and Asia,

10 And of Phrygia, and Pamphylia, of Egypt, and of the parts of Libya, which is beside Cyrene, and strangers of Rome, and Jewes, and Proselytes, 11 Cretes, and Arabians: we heard them speake in our own tongues the wonderfull workes of God.

12 They were all then amazed, and doubted, saying, one to another, what may this be?

13 And others mocked, and said, They are full of new wine.

¶ Not that they spoke with one voice, and many languages were heard, but that the Apostles spoke with strange tongues: for also the miracle had rather been in the hearers, also, in hearing it in the hearers, Nazianzen in his oration of Whitsunday, f. By Iam the vocations them were both Jewes by birth, and Jewes by profession of religion, though they were borne in other places: and they were Proselytes, which were Gentiles borne, and embraced the Jewish religion. 2 Gods word penceeth some so that driveth them to seek out the truth, and it doeth so choke other, that it forceth them to be witnesses of their own impudencie. 3 The word which he useth here, signifieth such a kind of mocking which is reproachfull and contumelious. And by this reproachfull mocking we see, that there is no miracle so great and excellent, which the wickedness of man dareth not speake evil of.

9 The Apostles must be chose immediately from God, and therefore after prayer, Matthias is chosen by lot, which is as it were, Gods own voice.
x Openly, and by the voices of all the whole company.
y That he may be fellow and partaker of his ministerie.
z Departed from, or fallen from: And it is a Metaphor taken from the way: For callings are signified by the name of wayes, with the Hebrews.

1 The Apostles being gathered together on a most solemn feast day in one place, that it might evidently appear to all the world, that they had all one office, one Spirit, one faith, are by a double figure from heaven authorized and anointed with all the most excellent gifts of the holy Ghost, and especially with an extraordinary and necessary gift of tongues.
¶ Word for word, was fulfilled: that is, as was begun, Mat. 28. 21. For the Hebrews say, that a day or a year is fulfilled or ended, when the former dayes or years are ended, and the other begun. Jer. 25. 12. And it shall come to pass, that when severie years are fulfilled, I will visit, &c. For the Lord did not bring home his people, after the sevenieth year was ended, but in the sevenieth year: Now the day of Pentecost, was the fiftieth day after the feast of the Passover.
¶ The twelve Apostles, which were to be the Patriarches of a new Church, as he calleth them other tongues, which were not the same which the Apostles used commonly, and Marke calleth them new tongues.
¶ Hereby we may stand, that the Apostles used not one tongue, and then as it were by hap, heard & saw adunthre or at least off call men use so day, but with good consideration of their hearers: and to be sure, that they spoke nothing but as the holy Ghost gave.

14 ¶ But Peter standing with the Eleven, ^b lift up his voice, and said unto them.
Ye men of Judea, and ye all that inhabite Hierusalem, be this known unto you, and hearken unto my words.

15 For these are not drunken, as ye suppose, since it is but the third^b hour of the day

16 But this is that, which was spoken by the ^k Prophet ^{*} Joel,

17 ³ And it shall be in the last dayes, saith
God, I will powre out of my spirit upon ¹ all^m flesh, and your sons, and your daughters shall prophesie, and your yong men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams.

18 And on my servants, and on mine handmaids I will powre out of my spirit in those dayes, and they shall prophesie.

19 And I will shew wonders in heaven above, and tokens in the earth beneath, bloud, and fire, and vapour of smoke.

20 The Sun shall be turned into dark-nesse, and the Moon into blood, before that great and notable day of the Lord come.

21 ⁺ And it shall be, that whosoever shall ⁿ call on the Name of the Lord, shall be saved.

22 ³ Ye men of Israel, heare these words, Jesus of Nazareth, a man ^o approved of God among you with great works, and wonders, and signes, which God did by him in the mids of you, as ye your selves also know;

23 Him, I say, being delivered by the de-terminate counsell, and ^p foreknowledge of God, after you had taken with wicked
^q hands, you have crucified and ^r slaine:

24 ⁶ Whom God hath raised up, and loosed the ^s sorrows of death, because it was unpossible that he should be holden of it.

25 For David said concerning him, ^{*} I beheld the Lord alwayes before me: for he is at my right hand, that I should not be shaken.

26 Therefore did mine heart rejoyce, and my tongue was glad, and moreover also my flesh shall rest in hope,

27 Because thou wilt not ^t leave my soule in grave, neither wilt suffer thine holy
One to see corruption.

28 Thou hast ^u shewed me the wayes of life, and shalt make me full of joy with thy countenance.

29 Men & brethren, I may boldly speak unto you of the Patriark David, ^{*} that he is both dead and buried, and his sepulchre remaineth with us unto this day.

30 Therefore, seeing he was a Prophet, and knew that God had ^{*} ^v sworn with an oath to him, that of the fruit of his loynes he would raise up Christ concerning the flesh, to set him upon his throne,

13 He knowing this before, spake of the resurrection of Christ, that ^{*} his soul should not be left in grave, neither his flesh should see corruption.

32 ⁷ This Jesus hath God raised up, whereof we are all witneses.

33 Since then that he by the right^v hand of God hath been exalted, and hath received of his Farther the promise of the holy Ghost, he hath shed forth this which ye now see and heare.

34 For David is not ascended into heaven, but he saith, ^{*} The Lord said to my Lord, Sit at my right hand,

35 Untill I make thine enemies thy foot-stool.

36 Therefore, let all the house of Israel know for a surerie, that God hath ^{*} made him both Lord, and Christ, this Jesus, I say, whom ye have crucified.

37 Now when they heard it, they were pricked in their hearts, and said unto Peter, and the other Apostles, Men and brethren,
what shall we doe?

38 ^{*} Then Peter said unto them, Amend your lives, and be baptized every one of you in the Name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins: and ye shall receive the gift of the holy Ghost.

39 For the ^{*} promise is made unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afarre off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call.

40 ⁺ And with many other words he besought and exhorted them, saying, save your selves from this froward generation.

41 ¹⁰ Then they that gladly received his word, were baptized: and the same day there were added to the Church about three thousand soules.

42 ¹¹ And they continued in the Apostles doctrine, and ^b fellowship, and ^c breaking of bread, and prayers.

43 [¶] And feare came upon every soule, and many wonders and signes were done by the Apostles.

44 ¹² And all that beleaved, were in one place, and had all things common.

45 And they sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all men, as every one had need.

46 ¹⁴ And they continued daily with one accord in the Temple, and breaking bread at home, did eate their meat together with gladnesse, and singlenesse of heart,

47 Praising God, and had favour with all the people: and the Lord added unto the Church from day to day, such as should be saved.

13 So oft as the Lord thinketh it expedient, he bridleth the rage of strangers, that the Church may be planted, and have some refreshing. 13 Charitie maketh all things common concerning the use, according as peccatorie requireth. 14 The faithful came together at the beginning with great fruit, not only to the hearing of the word, but also to meat.

them, they asked, By what power, or in what Name have ye done this?

8 Then Peter full of the holy Ghost, said unto them, Ye Rulers of the people, and Elders of Israel,

9 For as much as we this day are examined of the good deed done to the impotent man, to wit, by what means he is made whole,

10 Be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, that by the Name of IESVS CHRIST of Nazareth, whom ye have crucified, whom God raised againe from the dead, even by him doeth this man stand here before you, whole.

11 This is the stone cast aside of you builders, which is become the head of the corner.

12 Neither is there salvation in any other: for among men there is given none other Name under heaven, whereby we must be saved.

13 Now when they saw the boldnesse of Peter and Iohn, and understood that they were unlearned men and without knowledge, they marvelled, and knew them, that they had beene with Iesus:

14 And beholding also the man which was healed standing with them, they had nothing to say against it.

15 Then they commanded them to goe aside out of the Council, and conferred among themselves,

16 Saying, What shall we doe to these men: for surely a manifest signe is done by them, and it is openly known to all them that dwell in Hierusalem, and we cannot denie it.

17 But that it be noised no further among the people, let us threaten and charge them, that they speak henceforth to no man in this Name.

18 So they called them, and commanded them that in no wise they should speak or teach in the Name of Iesus.

19 But Peter and Iohn answered unto them, and said, Whether it be right in the sight of God, to obey you rather then God, judge ye.

20 For we cannot but speak the things which we have seene and heard.

21 So they threatened them, and let them go, and found nothing how to punish them, because of the people: for all men praised God for that which was done.

22 For the man was above fourtie yeares olde, on whom this miracle of healing was shewed.

23 Then also one as they were let go, they came to their fellows, and shewed all that the high Priests and Elders had said unto them.

24 And when they heard it, they lift up their voices to God with one accord, & said, O Lord, thou art the God which hast made the heaven, and the earth, the sea, and all things that are in them.

25 Which by the mouth of thy servant David hast said, * Why did the Gentiles rage, and the people imagine vaine things?

26 The Kings of the earth assembled, and the rulers came together against the Lord, and against his Christ.

27 For doubtlesse, against thine holy Sonne Iesus, whom thou haddest anointed, both Herod and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles, and the people of Israel gathered themselves together, 28 To doe whatsoever thine hand, and thy counsell had determined before to be done.

29 And now, O Lord, behold their threatnings, and graunt unto thy servants with all boldnes to speake thy word, 30 So that thou stretch forth thine hand, that healing, and signes, and wonders may be done by the Name of thine holy Sonne Iesus.

31 And when as they had prayed, the place was shaken where they were assembled together, and they were all filled with the holy Ghost, and they spake the word of God boldly.

32 And the multitude of them that believed, were of one heart, and of one soule: neither any of them said, that any thing of that which he possessed, was his owne, but they had all things common.

33 And with great power gave the Apostles witness of the resurrection of the Lord Iesus: and great grace was upon them all.

34 Neither was there any among them, that lacked: for as many as were possessours of lands, or houses, sold them, and brought the price of the things that were sold,

35 And laid it downe at the Apostles feet, and it was distributed unto every man, according as he had need.

36 Also Ioses which was called of the Apostles, Barnabas, (that is by interpretation the sonne of consolation) being a Leuite, and of the countrey of Cyprus, 37 Whereas he had land, sold it, and brought the money, and laid it down at the Apostles feet.

38 And the multitude increased more and more, in Hierusalem: and the multitude of the Levites, and of the daughters of Israel, and of the strangers, and of the proselytes, were added unto them.

39 And the multitude of the Levites, and of the daughters of Israel, and of the strangers, and of the proselytes, were added unto them.

52 And the multitude of the Levites, and of the daughters of Israel, and of the strangers, and of the proselytes, were added unto them.

10 We ought not to be afraid of the threatnings of our enemies, neither yet foolishly contemne their rage & madness against us: but we have to set against their force and malice, an earnest thinking upon the power and good will of God (both which we doe manifestly behold in Christ) and so flee to the aide and succour of our Father.

* Psal. 2.1. 1. Although the people of Israel were but one people, yet the pharisees number in here used, not so much for the twelve tribes, every one of which made a people, as for the great multitude of them, as though many nations had assembled themselves together: as Judges 5. 14.

no The wicked execute Gods counsell, though they think nothing of it, but they are not therefore without fault.

1 Craftily took

2 And^a kept away part of the price, his wife also being of counsell, and brought a certain part, and laid it down at the Apostles feet.

1 Fully possessed.

3 Then said Peter, Ananias, why hath Satan^b filled thine heart, that thou shouldst lie unto the holy Ghost, and keep away part of the price of this possession?

1 For when they had appointed that farm of possession for the Church, they stuck at it to keep away a part of the price, as though they had to do with men, and not with God. & therefore he saith afterwards that they tempted God. & hereby is declared an adulterous and purblind deceit, and the fault in the man in admitting the devils suggestion.

4 Whiles it remained, appertained it not unto thee? and after it was sold, was it not in thine own power? how is it that thou hast^d conceived this thing in thine heart? thou hast not lied unto men, but unto God.

5 Now when Ananias heard these words, he fell down, and gave up the ghost. Then great feare came on all them that heard these things.

6 And the young men rose up, and took him up, and carryed him out, and buried him.

7 And it came to passe about the space of three houres after, that his wife came in, ignorant of that which was done.

8 And Peter said unto her, Tell me, Sold ye the land for so much? And she said, Yea, for so much.

9 Then Peter said unto her, Why have ye agreed together to tempt the Spirit of the Lord? behold, the feet of them which have buried thine husband, are at the^e door, and shall carry thee out.

1 Look how oft men do things with an evil conscience, so oft they from hence sentence against themselves, and as much as in them lieth, provoke God to anger, as if for purpose, making to try whether he be just and almighty or no. 2 As at hand.

10 Then she fell down straightway at his feet, and yielded up the ghost: and the young men came in, and found her dead, and carried her out, and buried her by her husband.

11^a And great feare came on all the church, & on as many as heard these things.

12 Thus by the hands of the Apostles were many signes and wonders shewed among the people (and they were all with one accord in Solomons porch.

1 The Lord by his marvellous vertue bridleth those, that they may not hurt the Church: otherwise hee keepeth in his awe and fear: and otherwise he allureth unto him. 2 Highly praised them.

13 And of the other durst no man joyn himself to them: neverthelesse, the people *mag*nified them.

14 Also the number of them that beleev-ed in the Lord, both of men and women, grew more and more)

3 The more that the Church increaseth, the more increaseth the rage of Satan, & therefore they proceed from threatenings to imprisoning. 4 The word which is used here, is heresie, which signifieth a choice, and so is taken for a right forme of learning, or faction, or study, and course of life, which the Latines call, a sect: but the first that word was indifferently used, but at length it came to be taken only in evil part, whereupon came the name of Heresie, which is taken for one that goeth astray from sound and wholesome doctrine, after such sort, that hee setteth light by the judgement of God and his Church, and maintaineth in his opinion, and breaketh the peace of the Church.

15 Insomuch that they brought the sick into the streets, and laid them on beds and couches, that at the least way, the shadow of Peter, when he came by, might shadow some of them.

16 There came also a multitude out of the Cities round about unto Jerusalem, bringing sick folks, and them which were vexed with unclean spirits, who were all healed.

17 ¶³ Then the chiefe Priest rose up, and all they that were with him (which was the^b sect of the Sadduces) and were full of indignation, 18 And laid hands on the Apostles, and put them in the common prison.

19⁴ But the Angel of the Lord, by night opened the prison doores, and brought them forth, and said,

4 Angels are made servants of the servants of God.

20⁵ Go your way, and stand in the Temple, and speake to the people, all the words of this life.

5 God doth therefore deliver his, that they may more thonly provoke his enemies. 1 Word, whereby the way unto life is shewed.

21⁶ So when they heard it, they entred into the Temple early in the morning, and taught. And the chief Priest came, and they that were with him, and called the Councill together, and all the Elders of the children of Israel, and sent to the Prison, to cause them to be brought.

6 God mocketh his enemies attempts from above.

22 But when the Officers came, and found them not in the prison, they returned, and told it,

23 Saying, Certainly we found the prison shut as sure as was possible, and the Keepers standing without, before the doores: but when we had opened, we found no man within.

24 Then when the chief Priest, and the captain of the Temple, and the high Priests heard these things, they doubted of them whereunto this would grow.

25⁷ Then came one and shewed them, saying, Behold, the men that ye put in prison, are standing in the Temple, and teach the people.

7 The more openly that Christs verue sheweth it self, the more increaseth the madnesse of his enemies, which conspire against him.

26⁸ Then went the captain with the officers, and brought them without violence (for they feared the people, lest they should have been stoned.)

8 Tyrants which fear not God, are constrained to fear his servants.

27 And when they had brought them, they set them before the Councill, and the chief Priest asked them,

9 It is the propriety of tyrants to set out their owne commandments as right and reason, bee they never so wicked.

28⁹ Saying, Did not we straightly command you, that ye should not teach in this Name? and behold, you have filled Jerusalem with your doctrine, and ye would^k bring this mans blood upon us.

k Makes guilty of murdering that man whom yet they will not vouchsafe to name.

29¹⁰ Then Peter and the Apostles answered, and said, We ought rather to obey God then men.

10 We ought to obey no man, but so farre forth as obeying him we may obey God.

30¹¹ The^a God of our fathers hath raised up Jesus, whom ye slew, & hanged on a tree

11 Christ is appointed, & in deed declared, Prince & Preserver of his Church in despite of his enemies.

31 Him hath God lift up with his right hand, to be a Prince and a Saviour, to give repentance to Israel, and forgiveness of sins.

a Chap. 3. 13.

32¹² And we are his witnesses concerning these things which we say: yea, and the holy Ghost, whom God hath given to them that obey him.

12 It is not sufficient for us, that there is a right end, but we must also according to our vocation go on forward till wee come unto it.

33 Now when they heard it, they¹ brast for anger, and consulted to slay them.

1 This betokeneth that they were in a most vehement rage, and marvellously disquieted in minds, for it is a horrible kind of speech taken from them which are harshly cut in fender with a saw.

34¹³ Then stood there up in the Councill a certain Pharisee named Gamaliel, a Doctour of the Law, honoured of all the people, and commanded to put the Apostles forth a little space, 13 Christ findeth defenders of his cause, even in the very rout of his enemies, so oft as he thinketh it needfull.

35 And said unto them, Men of Israel, take heed to your selves, what yee intend to do touching these men.

36 For before these times, rose up Theudas^a boasting himselfe, to whom resorted a number of men, about a four hundred; who was slain: and they all which obeyed him were scattered, and brought to nought.

37 After this man, rose up Judas of Galilee, in the dayes of the tribute, and drew away much people after him: he also perished, and all that obeyed him, were scattered abroad.

38 And now I say unto you, Refrain your selves from these men, and let them alone: for if this counsell, or this work be of men, it will come to nought.

39 But if it be of God, ye cannot destroy it, lest yee be found even fighters against God.

40 And to him they agreed, and called the Apostles: and when they had beaten them, they commanded that they should nor speake in the Name of Jesus, and let them goe.

41 So they departed from the Council, rejoycing, that they were counted worthy to suffer rebuke for his Name.

42 And dayly in the Temple, and from house to house they ceased not to teach, and preach Jesus Christ,

CHAP. VI.

2 The Apostles 3 appoint the office of Deacons 5 to seven chosen men: 8 Of whom Stephen, full of faith, is one: 12 He is taken, 13 and accused as a transgressor of Moses Law.

And in those dayes, as the number of the disciples grew, there arose a murmuring of the Grecians toward the Hebrewes, because their widowes were neglected in the dayly ministring.

2 Then the twelve called the multitude of the disciples together, and said, It is not meet that wee should leave the word of God to serve the tables.

3 Wherefore brethren, looke ye out among you seven men of honest report, and full of the holy Ghost, and of wisdom, which we may appoint to this business.

4 And we will give our selves continually to prayer, and to the ministring of the word.

5 And the saying pleased the whole multitude: and they chose Steven a man full of faith and of the holy Ghost, and Philip, and Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Parmenas, and Nicolas a Proselite of Antiochia,

6 Which they set before the Apostles: and they prayed, and laid their hands on them.

7 And the word of God increased, and the number of the disciples was multiplied in Jerusalem greatly, and a great company of the Priests were obedient to the faith.

8 Now Steven full of faith and power, did great wonders and miracles among the people.

9 Then there arose certaine of the Synagogue, which are called Libertines, and Cyrenians, and of Alexandria, and of them of Cilicia, and of Asia, and disputed with Steven.

10 But they were not able to resist the wisdom, and the Spirit by the which he spake.

11 Then they suborned men, which said, We have heard him speake blasphemous words against Moses, and God.

12 Thus they moved the people, and the Elders, and the Scribes: and running upon him, caught him, and brought him to the Council,

13 And set forth false witnesses, which said, This man ceaseth not to speak blasphemous words against this holy place, and the Law.

14 For we have heard him say, that this Jesus of Nazareth shall destroy this place, and shall change the ordinances, which Moses gave us.

15 And all that sat in the Council, looking stedfastly on him, they saw his face as it had beene the face of an Angel.

ring and false accusations. 9 The first bloody persecution of the Church of Christ, begun and sprang from a Council of Priests, by the suggestion of the University of doctors. 10 An example of cavillers, or false accusers, which gather false conclusions of things that are well uttered and spoken. 11 Hereby it appeareth that Steven had an excellent and godly countenance, having a quiet and settled mind, a good conscience and sure persuasion that his cause was just: For seeing he came to speak before the people, God beautified his countenance so the end that with the very beholding of him the Levites minds might be pierced and amazed.

CHAP. VII.

1 Steven pleading his cause sheweth that God chose the Esther, 20 before Moses was born, 47 and before the Temple was built, 44 And that all outward ceremonies were ordained according to the heavenly pattern. 54 The Levites gnashing their Teeth, 29 stone him.

Then said the chiefe Priest, Are these things so?

2 And he said, Ye men, brethren, and Fathers, hearken. That God of glory appeared unto our Father Abraham, while he was in Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Charran,

3 And said unto him, Come out of thy countrey, and from thy kindred, and come into the land which I shall shew thee.

4 Then came hee out of the land of the Chaldeans, and dwelt in Charran. And after that his father was dead, God brought him from thence into this land, wherein yee now dwell, 14 In matters of religion wee must take good heed, that wee attempt nothing under a colour of zeale, beside our vocation.

in He distressed his fellowes from murdering the Apostles, neither durst he think it good to referre the matter to the Roman Magistrate: for the Levites could abide nothing worse, then to have the tyranny of the Romans confirmed. 15 It is better to be contemned and despised.

15 The Apostles accustomed to suffer and beare words, are at length injured to beare stripes, but yet so that by that means they become stronger. 16 Both publicly and privately.

1 When Satan hath assailed the Church without, and that to small purpose, and in vaine, he assaileth it within, with civil dissension and strife betwixt themselves: But the Apostles take occasion thereby to set order in the Church.

8 This ceremony of laying on of hands, came from the Levites, who used this order both in publick sacrifices, and offering of sacrifices, and also in private prayers and blessings, as appeareth Gen. 28. and the Church observed this ceremony. 1 Tim. 5. 22. 6 God exercised his Church first with evil words and slanders, then with imprisonments, afterward with scourging, and by these means prepareth it in such sort, that at length he can fetch it to encounter with Satan and the world, even to bloodshed and death, and that with good success.

12 Steven is admitted to plead his cause, but to this end and purpose, that under a cloke and colour of Law, he might be condemned.

2 Steven witnesseth unto the Jewes, that he acknowledged the true Fathers, and the only true God: and sheweth moreover that they are more ancient then the Temple: with all that service appointed by the Law, and therefore they ought to lay another foundation of true religion: that is to say, the free covenant that God made with the Fathers. * Gen. 12. 7. a That mighty God full of glory and majesty, b When he said afterward, vers. 4. That Abraham came out of Caldea, it is evident that Moses a-mia contained Caldea which was near unto it, and bordering upon it, and so verily in Gen. 37.

5 And he gave him no inheritance in it, no, not the breadth of a foot: yet hee promised that he would give it to him for a possession, and to his seed after him, when as yet he had no child.

6 But God spake thus, that his seed should be a sojourner in a strange land: and that they should keep it in bondage, and entreat it evill * foure hundreth yeares.

7 But the nation to whom they shall be in bondage, will I Judge, saith God: and after that, they shall come forth and serve me in this place.

8 * He gave him also the Covenant of Circumcision: and so Abraham begat * Isaac, and circumcised him the eighth day: and Isaac begat * Jacob, and Jacob begat the twelve * Patriarks.

9 And the Patriarks moved with envy, sold * Joseph into Egypt: but God was with him,

10 And delivered him out of all his afflictions, and * gave him * favour and wisdom in the sight of Pharaoh king of Egypt, who made him governour over Egypt, and over his whole house.

11 ¶ Then came there a famine over all the land of Egypt and Chanaan, and great affliction, that our fathers found no sustenance.

12 But when * Jacob heard that there was corn in Egypt, he sent our fathers first:

13 * And at the second time, Joseph was known of his brethren, and Josephs kindred was made known unto Pharaoh.

14 Then sent Joseph, and caused his father to be brought, and all his kindred, even threescore and fifteen soules.

15 So * Jacob went down into Egypt, and he * died, and our fathers,

16 And were removed into Sychem, and were put in the sepulchre, that Abraham had bought * for money of the sons of Emor, father of Sychem.

17 But when the time of the promise drew neere, which God had sworn to Abraham, the people * grew and multiplied in Egypt, 18 Till another king arose, which knew not Joseph.

19 The same * dealt subtilly with our kindred, and evill intreated our fathers, and made them to cast out their young children, that they should not remain alive.

20 * The same time was Moses born, & was acceptable unto God, which was nourished up in his fathers house three months.

21 And when he was cast out, Pharaohs daughter took him up, and nourished him for her owne sonne.

22 And Moses was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and was mighty in words and in deeds.

23 Now when he was full forty year old, it came into his heart to visit his brethren, the children of Israel.

24 * And when he saw one of them suffer wrong, he defended him, and avenged his quarrell that had the harme done to him, and smote the Egyptian.

25 For he supposed his brethren would have understood, that God by his hand should give them deliverance: but they understood it not.

26 * And the next day, he shewed himselfe unto them as they strove, and would have set them at one againe, saying, Sirs, ye are brethren: why doe yee wrong one to another?

27 But he that did his neighbour wrong, thrust him away, saying, Who made thee a Prince, and a Judge over us?

28 Wilt thou kill mee, as thou didst the Egyptian yesterday?

29 Then fled Moses at that saying, and was a stranger in the land of Midian, where he begat two sons.

30 And when forty yeares were expired, there appeared to him in the * wilderness of mount Sina, an Angel of the Lord in a flame of fire, in a bush.

31 And when Moses saw it, he wondered at the sight: and as he drew neere to consider it, the voice of the Lord came unto him, saying,

32 I am the God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Then Moses trembled, and durst not behold it.

33 Then the Lord said unto him, Put off thy shooes from thy feet: for the place where thou standest is holy ground.

34 I have seen, I have seen the affliction of my people, which is in Egypt, and I have heard their groaning, and am come downe to deliver them: and now come, and I will send thee into Egypt.

35 This Moses whom they forsooke, saying, Who made thee a Prince and a Judge? the same God sent for a Prince and a deliverer by the hand of the Angel, which appeared to him in the bush.

36 He * brought them out, doing wonders, and miracles in the land of Egypt, and in the red sea, and in the wilderness * forty yeares.

37 * This is that Moses, which said unto the children of Israel, * A Prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you, even of your brethren, like unto mee: him shall yee heare.

41 And they made a^a calf in those days, and offered sacrifice unto the idole, and rejoyced in the works of their owne hands.

42 Then God turned himself away, and gave them up to serve the^b hoste of heaven, as it is written in the book of the Prophets, * O house of Israel, have ye offered to mee slain beasts and sacrifices by the

And^p Saul consented to his death, and at that time, there was a great persecution against the Church which was at Jerusalem, and they were all scattered abroad thorow the regions of Judea and Samaria, except the Apostles.

2^q Then certain men fearing God, carried Steven amongst them to be buried, and made great lamentation for him.

3^r But Saul made havock of the Church, and entred into every house, and drew out both men and women, and put them into prison.

4 Therefore they that were scattered abroad, went to and fro preaching the word.

5 ¶ Then came Philip into the city of Samaria, and preached Christ unto them.

6 And the people gave heed unto those things which Philip spake with one accord, hearing and seeing the miracles which he did.

7 For unclean spirits crying with a loud voice, came out of many that were possessed of them: and many taken with palsies, and that halted, were healed.

4 Philip who was before a Deacon in Jerusalem, is made of God extraordinarily an Evangelist.

5 Christ overcometh Satan so oft as hee lieth, and carrieth him about as it were in a triumph, in the sight of them whom he deceived and bewitched.

b The word which is used in this place was at the first taken in good part, and is borrowed out of the Persian language, who call their wise men by that name, but afterwards it was taken in evil part.

c Hee had so allured the Samaritans with his witchcrafts, that at blind and mad-hardheartedness they were wholly addicted to him.

which preached the things that concerned the kingdome of God, and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized both men and women.

13 Then Simon himself beleevd also, and was baptized, and continued with Philip, and wondered when he saw the signes and great miracles which were done.

14 ¶ Now when the Apostles, which were at Jerusalem, heard say, that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John.

15 Which when they were come downe, prayed for them, that they might receive the holy Ghost.

16 (For as yet he was fallen down on none of them, but they were baptized onely in the name of the Lord Iesus.)

17 Then laid they their hands on them, and they received the holy Ghost.

18 And when Simon saw, that through laying on of the Apostles hands, the holy Ghost was given, he offered them money, 19 Saying, Give me also this power, that on whomsoever I lay the hands, he may receive the holy Ghost.

20 Then said Peter unto him, thy money perish with thee, because thou thinkest that the gift of God may be obtained with money.

21 Thou hast neither part nor fellowship in this ^a businesse: for thine heart is not ^e right in the sight of God.

22 Repent therefore of this thy wickednesse, and pray God, that if it be possible, the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee.

23 For I see that thou art in the ^b gal of bitternesse, and in the ^b bond of iniquitie.

24 Then answered Simon, and said, Pray ye to the Lord for me, that none of these things which ye have spoken come upon me.

25 ¶ So they, when they had testified & preached the word of the Lord, returned to Jerusalem, and preached the Gospel in many townes of the Samaritanes.

26 Then the Angel of the Lord spake unto Philip, saying, arise, and go toward the South unto the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza, which is waste.

27 And he arose and went on: and behold, a certain Eunuch of Ethiopia, Candace the Queen of the Ethiopians' chief Governour, who had the rule of all her treasure, and came to Jerusalem to worship.

28 And as he returned sitting in his chariot, he read Esaias the Prophet.

29 Then the Spirit said unto Philip, Go neare and joyn thy self to yonder chariot.

30 And Philip ran thither, and heard him reade the Prophet Esaias, and said, But understandest thou what thou readest?

31 And he said, how can I, except I had ^a a guide? and he desired Philip, that he would come up and sit with him.

32 Now the place of the Scripture which he read, was this, ^a he was led as a sheep to the slaughter, and like a lambe dumbe before his shearer, so opened he not his mouth.

33 In his ^a humility his judgement hath been exalted: but who shall declare his ^a generati^on? for his life is taken from the earth.

34 Then the Eunuch answered Philip, & said, I pray thee, of whom speaketh the Prophet this? of himself, or of some other man?

35 Then Philip opened his mouth, and began at the same Scripture, and preached unto him Jesus.

36 And as they went on their way, they came unto a certain water, and the Eunuch said, See, here is water: what doth let me to be baptized?

37 And Philip said unto him, If thou beleevest with all thine heart, thou mayest. Then he answered, and said, I beleve that Jesus Christ is that Son of God.

38 Then he commanded the chariot to stand still: and they went down both into the water, both Philip and the Eunuch, and he baptized him.

39 And as soon as they were come up out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord caught away Philip, that the Eunuch saw him no more: so he went on his way rejoycing.

40 But Philip was found at Azotus, and he walked to and fro preaching in all the cities till he came to Cesarea.

^a In this doctrine which I preach, I am not upright in heart and without doubting. ^a We must hope well even of the vilest sinners, so long and so farre forth as we may.

^a He collecteth the inward malice of the heart, and that venemous and deadly wickednesse where-with the Magician was fully replenished, the gall of bitternesse: and he is said to be in the gall, as though he were wholly overwhelmed with gall, and hurried in it.

^a Intangled in the snare of iniquitie.

^a Christ who calleth freely whom he listeth, doth now use Philip who thought on no such matter, to instruct and baptize the Eunuch at unawares, and by this meanes extendeth the limits of his kingdome even into Ethiopia.

^a A man of great wealth and authority with Candace. Now this name Candace is a common name to all the Queens of Ethiopia.

Lord said unto him, Arise, & go into the city, & it shall be told thee what thou shalt do.

7 The men also which journeyed with him, stood amazed, hearing his voice, but seeing no man.

8 And Saul arose from the ground, and opened his eyes, but saw no man. Then led they him by the hand, and brought him into Damascus.

9 Where he was three dayes without sight, and neither ate nor drank.

10 And there was a certain disciple at Damascus named Ananias, and to him said the Lord in a vision, Ananias. And he said, Behold, I am here Lord.

11 Then the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the street which is called Stair, & seek in the house of Judas after one called Saul of Tarsus: for behold, he prayeth.

12 (And he saw in a vision a man named Ananias coming in to him, and putting his hands on him, that he might receive his sight.)

13 Then Ananias answered, Lord, I have heard by many of this man, how much evil he hath done to thy Saints at Jerusalem.

14 Moreover heere he hath authoritie of the high Priests, to binde all that call on thy name.

15 Then the Lord said unto him, Go thy way: for he is a chosen vessel unto me, to beare my name before the Gentiles, and Kings, and the children of Israel.

16 For I will shew him, how many things he must suffer for my names sake.

17 Then Ananias went his way, and entered into that house, and put his hands on him, and said, Brother Saul, the Lord hath sent me (even Jesus that appeared unto thee in the way as thou camest) that thou mightest receive thy sight, and be filled with the holy Ghost.

18 And immediatly there fell from his eyes as it had been scales, and suddenly he received sight, and arose, and was baptized,

19 And received meat, & was strengthened. So was Saul certain dayes with the disciples which were at Damascus.

20 And straightway he preached Christ in the Synagogues, that he was the Sonne of God.

21 So that all that heard him, were amazed, and said, Is not this he, that made havock of them which called on this Name in Jerusalem, and came hither for that intent, that he should bring them bound unto the high Priests?

22 But Saul increased the more in strength, and confounded the Jewes which dwelt at Damascus, confirming that this was that Christ.

23 And after that many dayes were fulfilled, the Jewes took counsell together, to kill him.

24 But their laying a wait was known of Saul: now they watched the gates day and night, that they might kill him.

25 Then the disciples took him by night, and put him through the wall, and let him down by a rope in a basket.

26 And when Saul was come to Jerusalem, he assayed to joyne himself with the disciples: but they were all afraid of him, and beleaved not that he was a disciple.

27 But Barnabas took him, and brought him to the Apostles, and declared to them, how he had seen the Lord in the way, and that he had spoken unto him, and how he had spoken boldly at Damascus in the name of Jesus.

28 And he was conversant with them at Jerusalem.

29 And spake boldly in the Name of the Lord Jesus, and spake and disputed against the Grecians, but they went about to slay him.

30 But when the brethren knew it, they brought him to Cesarea, and sent him forth to Tarsus.

31 Then had the Churches rest through all Judea, and Galile, and Samaria, and were edified, and walked in the feare of the Lord, and were multiplied by the comfort of the holy Ghost.

32 And it came to passe, as Peter walked throughout all quarters, he came also to the Saints which dwelt at Lydda.

33 And there he found a certaine man named Aeneas, which had kept his couch eight yeares, and was sick of the palsey.

34 Then said Peter unto him, Aeneas, Jesus Christ maketh thee whole: arise, and trusse thy couch together. And he arose immediately.

35 And all that dwelt at Lydda and Saron, saw him, and turned to the Lord.

36 There was also at Joppa a certain woman, a disciple named Tabitha (which by interpretation is called Dorcas) she was full of good works and almes which she did.

37 And it came to passe in those dayes, that she was sick and died: and when they had washed her, they laid her in an upper chamber.

38 Now forasmuch as Lydda was neere to Joppa, and the disciples had heard that Peter was there, they sent unto him two men, desiring that he would not delay to come unto them.

39 Then Peter arose and came with them: and when he was come, they brought him into the upper chamber, where all the widows stood by him weeping, and shewing the coates and garments which Dorcas made, while she was with them.

40 But Peter put them all forth, and kneeled down, and prayed, and turned him a Paul beginneth straightway to execute the office which was enjoyed him: never consulting with flesh and blood. b Paul striveth not with his own authority alone, but with the testimonies of the Prophets. c By conferring places of the Scriptures together, as coming to the same thing, they put together all parts together, to make them agree fitly one with another. d Paul who was before a persecutor, hath now persecution laid before himself, but yet a spare off.

We are not forbidden to avoid & elchew the dangers and conspiracies that the enemies of God lay for us, so that we swerve not from our vocation. 6 In ancient time no man was rashly or lightly received into the number of, and amongst the deep of Christ, much lesse to be a Pastor.

7 The constant servants of God must look for danger after danger: yet God watcheth for them.

8 With Peter and James, for he saith that he saw none of the Apostles but them, Gal. 1. 18. 19.

9 The ministers of the word may change their place by the advice and counsell of congregation and Church.

10 The end of persecution is the building of the Church, so that we will patiently wait for the Lord.

11 This is a borrowed kind of speech, which signifies establishment and increase.

12 Peters Apostleship is confirmed by healing of the man that was sick of the palsey.

o Lydda, was a city of Palestine, and Saron a champion country, and a place of good pasture, between Cesarea of Palestine, and the mountain Tabor, and the lake of Genesareth, which extendeth itself in great length beyond Joppa.

11 Peter declareth evidently by raising up a dead body through the Name of Christ, that he preached the glad tidings of life.

to the body, and said, Tabitha, Arise. And she opened her eyes, and when she saw Peter, she sat up.

41 Then he gave her the hand, and lifted her up, and called the Saints and widows, and restored her alive.

42 And it was known throughout all Joppa, and many believed in the Lord.

43 And it came to passe, that he taried many dayes in Ioppa with one Simon a Tanner.

CHAP. X.

1 Cornelius, 4 at the Angels commandement, 5 sendeth for Peter: 11 Who also by a vision, 15. 20 is taught, not to despise the Gentiles: 34 He preacheth the Gospel to Cornelius and his household, 45 Who having received the holy Ghost, 47 are baptized.

Furthermore there was a certaine man in Cesarea, called Cornelius, a captaine of the band called the Italian band,

2 A devout man, and one that feared God with all his household, which gave much almes to the people, and prayed to God continually.

3 He saw in a vision evidently (about the ninth houre of the day) an Angel of God comming in to him, and saying unto him, Cornelius.

4 But when he looked on him, he was afraid, and said, What is it, Lord? and he said unto him, Thy prayers and thine almes are come up into remembrance before God.

5 Now therefore send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter.

6 He lodgeth with one Simon a Tanner, whose house is by the sea side: he shall tell thee what thou oughtest to doe.

7 And when the Angel which spake unto Cornelius, was departed, he called two of his servants, and a souldier that feared God, one of them that waited on him,

8 And told them all things, and sent them to Ioppa.

9 On the morrow as they went on their journey, and drew neere unto the citie, Peter went up upon the house to pray, about the fixt houre.

10 Then waxed he an hungred, and would have eaten: but while they made some thing readie, he fell into a trance.

11 And he saw heaven opened, and a certaine vessell come downe unto him, as it had bene a great sheet, knit at the foure corners, and was let downe to the earth.

12 Wherein were all manner of foure footed beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and creeping things, and fowles of the heaven.

13 And there came a voyce to him, Arise, Peter: kill, and eate.

14 But Peter said, Not so, Lord: for I have never eaten any thing that is polluted, or uncleane.

15 And the voyce spake unto him againe the second time, The things that God hath purified, pollute thou not.

16 This was so done thrise: and the vessell was drawn up againe into heaven.

17 ¶ Now while Peter doubted in himselfe what this vision which he had seen, meant, behold, the men which were sent from Cornelius, had inquired for Simons house, and stood at the gate, 18 And called, and asked, whether Simon, which was surnamed Peter, were lodged there.

19 And while Peter thought on the vision, the Spirit said unto him, Behold, three men seek thee.

20 Arise therefore, and get thee downe, and goe with them, and doubt nothing: for I have sent them.

21 ¶ Then Peter went down to the men, which were sent unto him from Cornelius, and said, Behold, I am he whom ye seek: what is the cause wherefore ye are come?

22 And they said, Cornelius the captain, a just man, and one that feareth God, and of good report among all the nation of the Jewes, was warned from heaven by an holy Angel, to send for thee into his house, and to heare thy words.

23 Then called he them in, and lodged them, and the next day, Peter went forth with them, and certain brethren from Ioppa accompanied him.

24 ¶ And the day after, they entred into Cesarea. Now Cornelius waited for them, and had called together his kinsmen, and speciall friends.

25 And it came to passe as Peter came in, that Cornelius met him, and fell down at his feet, and worshipped him.

26 But Peter took him up, saying, Stand up: for even I my selfe am a man.

27 And as he talked with him, he came in, and found many that were come together.

28 And he said unto them, Ye know that it is an unlawfull thing for a man that is a Jew, to company, or come unto one of another nation: but God hath shewed me, that I should not call any man polluted, or uncleane.

29 Therefore came I unto you without saying nay, when I was sent for. I aske therefore, for what intent have ye sent for me?

30 Then Cornelius said, Foure dayes ago, about this houre, I fasted, and at the ninth houre I praied in mine house, and behold, a man stood before me in bright clothing, 31 And said, Cornelius, thy prayer is heard, and thine almes are had in remembrance in the sight of God.

32 Send therefore to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter (he is lodged in the house of Simon a Tanner by the sea side) who when he cometh, shall speak unto thee.

33 Then I sent for thee immediatly, and thou hast well done to come. Now therefore are we all here present before God, to heare all things that are commanded thee of God.

34 Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, Of a truth I perceive, that ^a God is no acceptor of persons.

35 But in every nation he that ^a feareth him, and worketh righteoufnesse, is accepted with him.

36 Ye know the word which God hath sent to the children of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ, which is Lord of all:

37 Even the word which came through all Judea, ^a beginning in Galile, after the baptisme which John preached,

38 To wit, how God ^a anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the holy Ghost, and with power: who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil: for God was with him.

39 And we are witnesses of all things which he did both in the land of the Jewes, and in Hierusalem, whom they slew, hanging him on a tree:

40 Him God raised up the third day, and caused that he was shewed openly:

41 Not to all the people, but unto the witnesses ^a chosen before of God, even to us which did eat and drink with him, after he arose from the dead.

42 And he commanded us to preach unto the people, and to testifie, that it is he that is ordained of God a judge of quick and dead.

43 To him also give all the ^a Prophets witnesse, that through his Name all that beleeve in him, shall receive remission of sins.

44 While Peter yet spake these words, the holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word.

45 So they of the circumcision which beleeved, were astonied, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentiles also was powred out the gift of the holy Ghost.

46 For they heard them speak with tongus, and magnifie God. Then answered Peter, 47 Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the holy Ghost, as well as we?

48 So he commanded them to be baptized in the Name of the Lord. Then prayed they him to tarie certain dayes.

CHAP. XI.

2 Peter being accused for going to the Gentiles, 3 defendeth himselfe. 22 Barnabas is sent to Antiochia, 26 Where the disciples are first called Christians: 28 And there Agabus foretelleth a famine to come.

Now the Apostles & the brethren that were in Judea, heard that the Gentiles had also received the word of God.

2 And when Peter was come up to Hierusalem, they of the circumcision contented against him,

3 Saying, Thou wentest in to men uncircumcised, and hast eaten with them.

4 Then Peter began, and expounded the thing in order to them, saying,

5 I was in the citie of Joppa, praying, and in a trance I saw this vision, A certaine vessell coming down as it had bene a great sheet, let down from heaven by the foure corners, and it came to me:

6 Toward the which when I had fastened mine eyes, I considered, & saw four footed beasts of the earth, and wilde beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the heaven.

7 Also I heard a voyce, saying unto me, Arise, Peter: slay and cate.

8 And I said, God forbid, Lord: for nothing polluted or uncleane hath at any time entred into my mouth.

9 But the voyce answered me the second time from heaven, The things that God hath purified, pollute thou not.

10 And this was done three times, and all were taken up againe into heaven.

11 Then behold, immediatly there were three men already come unto the house where I was, sent from Cesarea unto me.

12 And the Spirit said unto me, that I should go with them, without doubting: moreover, these six brethren came with me: and we entred into the mans house.

13 And he shewed us how he had seene an Angel in his house, which stood and said to him, Send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter.

14 He shall speak words unto thee, whereby both thou and all thine house shall be saved.

15 And as I beganne to speak, the holy Ghost fell on them, ^a even as upon us at the beginning.

16 Then I remembered the word of the Lord, how he said, ^a John baptized with water, but ye shall be baptized with the holy Ghost.

17 Forasmuch then as God gave them a like gift, as he did unto us, when we beleeved in the Lord Jesus Christ, who was I, that I could let God?

18 When they heard these things, they held their peace, and glorified God, saying, Then hath God also to the Gentiles granted repentance unto life.

19 And they which were ^a scattered abroad, because of the affliction that arose about Stevẽ, went throughout til they came unto Phenice, and Cyprus, and Antiochia, preaching the word to no man, but unto the Jewes onely.

20 Now

10 By the feare of God the Hebrewes understand the whole service of God, whereby we perceive that Cornelius was not void of faith, no more then they were which lived before Christs time: and therefore they deale foolishly which build preparatious works and free will, upon this place.

8 God gave the Israelites to understand, that whosoever liveth godly is acceptable to God, of what nation soever he be: for he preached peace to men through Jesus Christ, who is Lord not of one nation only, but of all. 7 The summe of the Gospel, which shall be made manifest at the latter day, when Christ himselfe shall sit as Judge both of the quicke and dead: is this, that Christ promised to the Fathers, and exhibited in his time with the mighty power of God, (which was by al means shewed, and at length crucified to reconcile us to God, did rise againe the third day, that whosoever beleeve in him should be saved through the remission of sins.

7 This choosing of the Apostles is partly given to God: for though God be present in the laying on of hands, yet there is in this place a secret opposition, and setting of Gods choosing and mens voyces the one against the other, for the Apostles are immediately appointed of God, and the Church ministers by means.

⁴ The Church of Antioch, the new Jerusalem of the Gentiles was extraordinarily called.

20 * Now some of them were men of Cyprus and of Cyrene, which when they were come into Antiochia, spake unto the Grecians, and preached the Lord Jesus.

21 And the hand of the Lord was with them, so that a great number beleevd and turned unto the Lord.

22 * Then tidings of those things came unto the eares of the Church which was in Jerusalem, and they sent forth Barnabas, that he should go unto Antiochia.

23 Who when he was come and had seen the grace of God, was glad, and exhorted all, that with purpose of heart they would continue in the Lord.

24 For he was a good man, and full of the holy Ghost, and faith, and much people joynd themselves unto the Lord.

25 ¶ Then departed Barnabas to Tarsus to seek Saul:

26 And when he had found him, he brought him unto Antiochia: and it came to passe that a whole yeare they were conversant with the Church, and taught much people, insomuch that the disciples were first called Christians in Antiochia.

27 ¶ In those dayes also came Prophets from Jerusalem unto Antiochia.

28 And there stood up one of them named Agabus, and signified by the Spirit, that there should be great famine thorowout all the world, which also came to passe under Claudius Cesar.

29 * Then the disciples every man according to his abilitie, purposed to send succour unto the brethren which dwelt in Judea.

30 Which thing they also did, and sent it to the Elders, by the hand of Barnabas and Saul.

CHAP. XII.

1 Herod killeth James with the sword. 4 And imprisoneth Peter. 8 Whom the Angel delivereth. 20 Herod being offended with them of Tyrus, 21 is pacified, 22 And taking the honour due to God, to himself, 23 He is eaten with wormes, and so dyeth.

Now¹ about that time, * Herod the king stretched forth his hands to vex certain of the Church;

2 And he killed James the brother of John with the sword.

3 And when he saw that it pleased the Jewes, he proceeded further, to take Peter also (then were the dayes of unleavened bread.)

4 * And when he had caught him, he put him in prison, and delivered him to foure quaternions of souldiers to be kept, intending after the Passcover to bring him forth to the people.

5 * So Peter was kept in prison, but earnest prayer was made of the Church unto God for him.

6 And when Herod would have brought him out unto the people, the same night slept Peter between two souldiers, bound with two chains, and the keepers before the doore, kept the prison.

7 * And behold, the Angel of the Lord came upon them, and a light shined in the house, and he smote Peter on the side, and raised him up, saying, Arise quickly. And his chains fell off from his hands.

8 And the Angel said unto him, Gird thy self, and binde on thy sandales. And so he did. Then he said unto him, Cast thy garment about thee, and follow me.

9 So Peter came out, and followed him, and knew not that it was true, which was done by the Angel, but thought he had seen a vision.

10 Now when they were past the first and the second watch, they came unto the yron gate that leadeth unto the citie, which opened to them by it owne accord, & they went out, and passed thorow one street, and by & by the Angel departed from him.

11 ¶ And when Peter was come to himself, he said, Now I know for a truth, that the Lord hath sent his Angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the waiting for of the people of the Jewes.

12 * And as he considered the thing, he came to the house of Mary, the mother of John, whose surname was Mark; where many were gathered together, and prayed.

13 * And when Peter knocked at the entry doore, a maid came forth to hearken, named Rhode.

14 But when she knew Peters voice, she opened not the entry doore for gladnesse, but ran in, and told how Peter stood before the entry.

15 But they said unto her, Thou art mad. Yet she affirmed it constantly, that it was so. Then said they, It is his Angel.

16 But Peter continued knocking, and when they had opened it, and saw him, they were astonished.

17 * And he beckened unto them with the hand, to hold their peace, and told them how the Lord had brought him out of the prison. And he said, Go shew these things unto James, and to the brethren: and he departed and went into another place.

18 ¶ Now as soon as it was day, there was no small trouble among the souldiers, what was become of Peter.

19 And when Herod had sought for him, and found him not, he examined the keepers, and commanded them to be led to be punished. And he went down from Judea to Cesarea, and there abode.

20 * Then Herod was angry with them of Tyrus and Sidon, but they came all with 43 Now when the congregation was dissolved, many of the Jewes and ¹⁸ Profelites that feared God, followed Paul & Barnabas, which spake unto them, and exhorted them to continue in the grace of God.

44 And the next Sabbath day came almost the whole citie together to heare the word of God.

45 ¹⁹ But when the Jewes saw the people, they were full of envie, & spake against those things which were spoken of Paul, contrariying them, and railing on them.

47 For so hath the Lord commanded us, saying, * I have made thee a light of the Gentiles, that thou shouldest be the salvation unto the end of the world.

48 And when the Gentiles heard it, they were glad, and glorified the word of the Lord: and as many as were ²¹ ordained unto eternall life, beleeved.

49 Thus the word of the Lord was published throughout the whole country.

50 ²² But the Jewes stirred certaine ²³ devout and honorable women, and the chiefe men of the citie, and raised persecution against Paul and Barnabas, and expelled them out of their coasts.

51 ²⁴ But they * shooke off the dust of their feet against them and came unto Iconium.

52 And the disciples were filled with joy, and with the holy Ghost.

CHAP. XIV.

¹ Paul and Barnabas ² are persecuted from Iconium, ³ At Lystra Paul ⁴ healeth a cripple: ⁵ They are about to doe sacrifice unto them, ⁶ but they forbid it. ⁷ Paul by the persuasions of certaine Jewes, is stoned: ⁸ From thence passing through divers Churches, ⁹ they returne to Antiochia.

And ¹ it came to passe in ² Iconium, that they went both together into the Synagogue of the Jewes, and so spake, that a great multitude both of the Jewes and of the Grecians beleeved.

2 And the ³ unbelieving Jewes stirred up, and corrupted the mindes of the Gentiles against the brethren.

3 ⁴ So therefore they abode there a long time, and spake boldly in the Lord, which gave testimony unto the word of his grace, and caused signes and wonders to be done by their hands.

4 But the multitude of the citie was divided, and some were with the Jewes, and some with the Apostles.

5 And when there was an assault made both of the Gentiles, and of the Jewes with their ¹¹ All things came to passe to Christ, which the Prophets foretold of Messias, so that hereby also it appeareth that he is the true and onely Saviour: and yet notwithstanding they are not to be excused, which did not onely not receive him, but also persecute him most cruelly although he was innocent.

their rulers, to do them violence, and to stone them,

6 They were ware of it, and fled unto Lystra, and Darbe, cities of Lycaonia, and unto the region round about,

7 And there preached the Gospel.

8 ¶ Now there sat a certain man at Lystra, impotent in his feet, which was a creeple from his mothers wombe, who had never walked.

9 He heard Paul speake: who beholding him, and perceiving that he had faith to be healed,

10 Said with a loud voice, Stand upright on thy feet. And he leaped up, and walked.

11 Then when the people saw what Paul had done, they lift up their voices, saying in the speech of Lycaonia, Gods are come down to us in the likenesse of men.

12 And they called Barnabas, Jupiter; and Paul, Mercurius, because he was the chief speaker.

13 Then Jupiters Priest, which was before their citie, brought bulles with garlands unto the gates, and would have sacrificed with the people.

14 But when the Apostles, Barnabas and Paul heard it, they rent their clothes, and ran in among the people, crying,

15 And saying, O men, why do ye these things? We are even men subject to the like passions that ye be, and preach unto you, that ye should turn from these vain things unto the living God, which made heaven and earth, and the sea, and all things that in them are:

16 Who in times past suffered all the Gentiles to walk in their own wayes.

17 Nevertheless, he left not himself without witnesse, in that he did good, and gave us rain from heaven, and fruitfull seasons, filling our hearts with food, and gladnesse.

18 And speaking these things, scarce appeased they the multitude, that they had not sacrificed unto them.

19 Then there came certain Jewes from Antiochia and Iconium, which when they had perswaded the people, stoned Paul, and drew him out of the city, supposing he had been dead.

20 Howbeit, as the disciples stood round about him, he arose up, and came into the citie, and the next day he departed with Barnabas to Derbe.

21 And after they had preached the glad tidings of the Gospel to that citie, and had taught many, they returned to Lystra, and to Iconium, and to Antiochia, 22 Confirming the disciples hearts, and exhorting them to continue in the faith, affirming that we must through many afflictions enter into the kingdome of God.

23 And when they had ordained them Elders by election in every Church, and prayed, and fasted, they commended them to the Lord in whom they beleaved.

24 Thus they went throughout Pisidia, and came to Pamphylia.

25 And when they had preached the word in Perga, they came down to Attalia,

26 And thence sailed to Antiochia, from whence they had been commended unto the grace of God, to the work, which they had fulfilled.

27 And when they were come and had gathered the Church together, they rehearsed all the things that God had done by them, and how he had opened the doore of faith unto the Gentiles.

28 So there they abode a long time with the disciples.

CHAP. XV.

1 Certain go about to bring in circumcision at Antiochia, 6 About which matter the Apostles consult. 19 And what must be done. 23 they declare by letters. 36 Paul and Barnabas are at great variance.

Then came down a certain from Judea, and taught the brethren saying, Except ye be circumcised after the manner of Moses, ye cannot be saved.

2 And when there was a great dissention, and disputation by Paul and Barnabas against them, they ordained that Paul and Barnabas, and certain other of them, should go up to Jerusalem unto the Apostles and Elders about this question.

3 Thus being brought forth by the Church, they passed through Phenice and Samaria, declaring the conversion of the Gentiles, and they brought great joy unto all the brethren.

4 And when they were come to Jerusalem, they were received of the Church, and of the Apostles and Elders, and they declared what things God had done by them.

5 But said they, certain of the sect of the Pharisees, which did beleve, rose up, saying, that it was needfull to circumcise them, and to command them to keep the law of Moses.

6 Then the Apostles and Elders came together to looke to this matter.

7 And when there had been great disputation, Peter rose up, and said unto them, Ye men and brethren, ye know that a good while agoe, among us God chose out me, that the gentils by my mouth should heare the word of the Gospel, and beleve.

8 And God which knoweth the hearts, bare them witnesse, in giving unto them the holy Ghost even as he did unto us.

9 And he put no difference between us and them: after that by faith he had purified their hearts.

9 The Apostles admired the Churches which they had planted, to proper and peculiar labours, which they made, not rashly, but with prayers and fastings going before: neither did they thrust them upon Churches through bribery, or lordly superiourie, but chose and placed them by the voice of the congregation. 10 Paul and Barnabas having made an end of their peregrination, and being returned to Antiochia, do render an account of their journey to the Congregation, or Church. 11 Attalia was a sea citie of Pamphylia, neere to Lycia. 12 Antiochia of Syria. * Chap. 13. 3.

1 The Church is at length troubled with dissention within it selfe, and the trouble riseth of the proud and stubborn wits of certain evil men: The first strife was concerning the office of Christ, whether he be saved by his only righteousness apprehended by faith, or we have neede also to observe the Law. 2 Meetings of Congregations were instituted to suppress heresies, whereunto certain were sent by common consent the name of all. 3 The matter is first handled, both parties being heard in the assembly of the Apostles and ancients, and after is communicated with the people. 4 God himself in calling to the Gentiles which were circumcised, did teach that our salvation doth consist in faith without the worship appointed by the Law. 5 Word for word, of old time, that now, even from the first time that we were commanded to preach the Gospel, and first wayes after that the holy Ghost came down upon us. 6 Hee put no difference between us and them, as touching the benefit of his grace. 7 We must goe forward in our vocation through a thousand deaths. 8 It is the office of the ministers, not only to teach, but also to confirm them that are taught, &c. prepare them to the strife.

* Chap. 10. 43. 1 Cor. 1. 2. A Christ pronounceth them to be blessed, which are pure of heart: and here we are plainly taught that men are made such by faith.

10 Now

¶ Peter passing from the ceremonies to the Law it self in generall, sheweth that none could be saved, if salvation were to be sought for by the Law, and not by grace onely in Jesus Christ: because that no man could ever fulfill the Law, neither Patriarch nor Apostle.

¶ Why tempt ye God, as though he would not save by faith.

¶ A true pattern of a lawfull Council, where Gods truth onely reigneth.

¶ The son of Alphaeus is also called the Lords brother.

¶ James confirmeth the calling of the Gentiles out of the word of God, therein agreeing to Peter.

¶ Acts 9. 11.

¶ And therefore nothing cometh to passe by force, but by Gods appointment. In matters indifferent, we may to sure beare with the weakness of our brethren, as they may have time to be instructed.

¶ From sacrifices, or from fasts which were kept in Idols temples.

¶ In a lawfull Synode, neither they which are appointed and chosen Judges, appoint & determine any thing unaniously, or upon a lordliness, neither doth the common multitude set themselves tumultuously against them which sit as Judges by the word of God: as the like order also is holden in publishing & ratifying those things which have been so determined and agreed upon.

¶ To the Council of Jerusalem concluded, that they trouble mens consciences, which teach us to seek salvation in any other meanes, then in Christ onely, apprehended by faith, from whence soever they come, and whomsoever they pretend to be without of their vocation.

¶ From our congregation.

¶ A borrowed kinde of speech taken of them which pull down that that was built up: and it is a very usual metamorphose in the Scriptures, to say the Church is built, for the Church is planted and floures.

¶ Have greatly bewitched their lives.

10 Now therefore, why tempt ye God, to lay a yoke upon the disciples necks, which neither our fathers, nor we were able to beare?

11 But we belevee, through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ to be saved, even as they doe.

12 Then all the multitude kept silence, and heard Barnabas and Paul, which told what signes and wonders God had done among the Gentiles by them.

13 And when they held their peace, James answered, saying, Men and brethren, hearken unto me.

14 Simeon hath declared how God first did visit the Gentiles, to take of them a people unto his name.

15 And to this agree the words of the Prophets, as it is written;

16 After this I will returne, and will build againe the tabernacle of David, which is fallen down, and the ruines thereof will I build againe, and I will set it up;

17 That the residue of men might seeke after the Lord, and all the Gentiles upon whom my name is called, faith the Lord which doeth all these things.

18 From the beginning of the world, God knoweth all his works.

19 Wherefore my sentence is, that we trouble not them of the Gentiles that are turned to God;

20 But that we send unto them, that they abstain themselves from filthinesse of idols, and from fornication, and that that is strangled, and from blood.

21 For Moses of old time hath in every city them that preach him, seeing he is read in the Synagogues every Sabbath day.

22 Then it seemed good to the Apostles and Elders, with the whole Church, to send chosen men of their own company to Antiochia, with Paul and Barnabas: to wit, Judas whose surname was Barsabas, and Silas, which were chiefe men among the brethren;

23 And wrote letters by them after this manner, THE APOSTLES, and the Elders, and the brethren, unto the brethren which are of the Gentiles in Antiochia, and in Syria, and in Cilicia, send greeting.

24 Forasmuch as we have heard, that certain which went out from us, have troubled you with words, and cumbered your minds, saying, Ye must be circumcised and keep the Law; to whom we gave no such commandment;

25 It seemed therefore good to us, when we were come together with one accord, to send chosen men unto you, with our beloved Barnabas and Paul.

26 Men that have given up their lives for the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

27 We have therefore sent Judas and Silas, which shall also tell you the same things by mouth.

28 For it seemed good to the holy Ghost, and to us, to lay no more burthen upon you, then these necessary things;

29 That is, that ye abstain from things offered to idols, and blood, and that that is strangled, and from fornication: from which if ye keep yourselves, ye shall doe well. Fare ye well.

30 Now when they were departed, they came to Antiochia, and after that they had assembled the multitude, they delivered the Epistle.

31 And when they had read it, they rejoiced for the consolation.

32 And Judas and Silas being Prophets, exhorted the brethren with many words, and strengthened them.

33 And after they had taried there a space, they were let goe in peace of the brethren unto the Apostles.

34 Notwithstanding Silas thought good to abide there still.

35 Paul also and Barnabas continued in Antiochia, teaching and preaching with many other the word of the Lord.

36 ¶ But after certain dayes, Paul said unto Barnabas, Let us return, and visit our brethren in every city, where we have preached the word of the Lord, and see how they do.

37 And Barnabas counselled to take with them John, called Mark.

38 But Paul thought it not meet to take him unto their company, which departed from them from Pamphylia, and went not with them to the work.

39 Then were they so stirred, that they departed asunder one from the other, so that Barnabas took Mark, and sailed unto Cyprus.

40 And Paul chose Silas and departed, being commended of the brethren unto the grace of God.

41 And he went through Syria and Cilicia, stablishing the Churches.

¶ We have to consider the force of Gods counsell: for by this meanes it came to passe, that the doctrine the of Gospel was exercised in many places.

¶ That is, a lawfull Council, which the holy Ghost ratifieth.

¶ First they make mention of the holy Ghost, that it may not seem to be any mans decree.

¶ Not that men have any authority of themselves, but to stablish faithfulness, that they used in their ministerie and labour.

¶ This was no precise necessity, but in respect of the state of that time, that the Gentiles & the Jews might more peaceably live together with little occasion of quarrell.

¶ Charitie is requisite even in things indifferent.

¶ It is requisite for all people to know certainly what to hold in matters of faith & religion, and not that the Church by ignorance and knowing nothing, should depend upon the pleasure of a few.

¶ This is an Hebrew kinde of speech, which is as much to say, as the brethren visited them all prosperously, and the Church dismissed them with good leave.

¶ Congregations or Churches do easily degenerate, unless they be diligently seen unto, and therefore went these Apostles to oversee such as they had planted, and for this cause also Synodes were instituted and appointed.

¶ A lamentable example of discord between excellent men & very great friends, yet not for profane or their private affairs, neither yet for doctrine.

¶ God useth the faults of his servants to the profit & building of the Church: yet we have to take heed, even in the best matters, that we passe not measure in our hearts.

¶ They were in great leave: But herein

Then came he to Derbe and to Lystra: and behold, a certain disciple was there named Timotheus, a womans son, which was a Jewesse and beleevd, but his father was a Grecian.

¶ Paul in his latter epistle to Timotheus, commendeth the godliness of Timotheus mother and grandmother.

1 Paul at Thessalonica 3 preaching Christ, 6. 7 is entertained of Jason: 10 He is sent to Berea: 15 from thence comming to Athens, 19 in Mars street, 23 he preacheth the living God to them unknown, 34 and so many are converted unto Christ.

1 The casting out of Silas and Paul was the saving of many other.

NOW as they passed through Amphipolis, and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where was a Synagogue of the Jewes.

2 And Paul, as his maner was, went in unto them, and three Sabbath daies disputed with them by the Scriptures,

3 ² Opening and alledging, that Christ must have suffered, and risen again from the dead: and this is Jesus Christ, whom, said he, I preach to you.

4 And some of them beleaved, and joyned in company with Paul and Silas: also of the Grecians that feared God a great multitude, and of the chiefe women not a few.

5 ³ But the Jewes which bleaved not, moved with envie, took unto them certain vagabonds and wicked fellowes, and when they had assembled the multitude, they made a tumult in the citie, and made assault against the house of Jason, and sought to bring them out to the people.

6 But when they found them not, they drew Jason and certain brethren unto the heads of the citie, crying, These are they which have subverted the state of the world, and here they are,

7 Whom Jason hath received, and these all doe against the decrees of Cesar, saying, that there is another King, one Jesus.

8 Then they troubled the people, and the heads of the citie, when they heard these things.

9 Notwithstanding when they had received sufficient assurance of Jason and of the other, they let them go.

10 ⁴ And the brethren immediatly sent away Paul and Silas by night unto Berea, which when they were come thither, entered into the Synagogue of the Jewes.

11 ⁵ These were also more noble men

then they which were at Thessalonica, which received the word with all readines, and searched the Scriptures daily, whether those things were so.

12 Therefore many of them beleaved, and of honest women, which were Gre-cians, and men not a few.

13 ⁶ But when the Jewes of Thessalonica knew, that the word of God was also preached of Paul at Berea, they came thither also, and moved the people.

14 ⁷ But by and by the brethren sent away Paul to go as it were to the sea: but Silas and Timotheus abode there still.

15 ⁸ And they that did conduct Paul, brought him unto Athens: and when they had received a commandement unto Silas and Timotheus, that they should come to him at once, they departed.

16 ⁹ Now while Paul waited for them at Athens, his spirit was stirred in him, when he saw the citie subject to idolatrie.

17 Therefore he disputed in the Synagogue with the Jewes, and with them that were religious, and in the market daily with whomsoever he met.

18 ¹⁰ Then certain Philosophers of the Epictures, and of the Stoickes disputed with him, and some said, What will this babbler say? Other said, He seemeth to be a setter forth of strange gods (because he preached unto them Jesus, and the resurrection)

19 And they took him, and brought him into Mars street, saying, May we not know, what this new doctrine, whereof thou speakest, is?

20 For thou bringest certain strange things unto our eares: we would know therefore what these things meane.

21 ¹¹ For all the Athenians and strangers which dwelt there, gave themselves to nothing else, but either to tell, or to heare some newes.

22 ¹² Then Paul stood in the mids of Mars street, and said, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious.

23 For as I passed by, and beheld your devotions. I found an altar where in was written, VNTO THE UNKNOWN GOD.
Whom ye then ignorantly worship, him
shew I unto you.

24 ¹³ God that made the world, and all things that are therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands, affaires, which in old time assigned Socrates and after condemned him of impiety. 11 The wisdom of man is vaine. 12 The idolaters themselves minister most strong and forcible arguments against their own superstition. 13 To stand in too precious and servile a feare of your gods. 14 Whatsoever men worship for religious sake, that we call devotion. 15 Pausanias in his Attica maketh mention of the altar which the Athenians had dedicated to unknown gods: and Laertius in his Epimenides maketh mention of an altar that had no name intitled. 16 It is a most foolish and yaine thing to compare the Creator with the creature, to limit him within a place which can be com-prehended in no place, and to thinke to allure him with gifts of whom all men have received all things whatsoever they have. And these are the fountains of all idolatry. Chap. 7. 48.

* Psal. 50.8.

25 * Neither is worshipped with mens hands, as though he needed any thing, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things,

26 ¹⁴ And hath made of ^o one blood all mankinde, to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath assigned the seasons which were ordained before, and the bounds of their habitation,

27 That they should seek the Lord, if so be they might have ^p groped after him, and found him, though doubtlesse he be not farre from every one of us.

28 For in him we live, and moove, and have our being, as also certaine of your owne Poets have said, For we are also his generation.

29 * Forasmuch then, as we are the generation of God, we ought not to thinke that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone ^q graven by arte and the invention of man.

30 ¹⁵ And the time of this ignorance God regarded not: but now he admonisheth all men every where to repent:

31 Because he hath appointed a day in the which he wil judge the world in righteousness, by that man whom he hath appointed, ^r whereof he hath given an ^a assurance to all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead.

32 ¹⁶ Now when they heard of the resurrection from the dead, some mocked, and other sayd, We will heare thee againe of this thing.

33 And so Paul departed from among them.

34 Howbeit, certain men clave unto Paul, and beleaved: among whom was also Denys Areopagita, and a woman named Damaris, and other with them.

C H A P. XVIII.

¹ As Paul at Corinth, ⁶ taught the Gentiles, ⁹ the Lord comforteth him. ¹² He is accused before Gallio, ¹⁶ but in vaine:

¹⁸ From thence he saileth to Syria, ¹⁹ and so to Ephesus.

²³ At Galatia and Phargia he strengtheneth the disciples.

²⁴ Apollos being more perfectly instructed by Aquila, ²⁸ preacheth Christ with great efficacie.

AFTER these things, Paul departed from Athens, and came to Corinthus,

2 And found a certain Jew named * Aquila, borne in Pontus, lately come from Italie, and his wife Priscilla, (because that * Claudius had commanded all Jewes to depart from Rome) and he came unto them.

3 And because he was of the same craft, he abode with them and wrought (for their craft was to make tents.)

4 * And he disputed in the Synagogue every Sabbath day, and exhorted the Jewes, and the Grecians.

5 Now when Silas and Timotheus were come from Macedonia, Paul ^e forced in spirit, testified to the Jewes that Jesus was the Christ.

6 ³ And when they resisted and blasphemed, he ^{*} shook his rayment, and said unto them, Your ^d blood be upon your own head: I am cleane: from henceforth will I go unto the Gentiles.

7 So he departed thence, and entred into a certain mans house, named Justus, a worshipper of God, whose house joyned heard to the Synagogue.

8 And * Crispus the chiefe ruler of the Synagogue beleaved in the Lord, with all his household: and many of the Corinthians hearing it, beleaved and were baptized.

9 * Then said the Lord to Paul in the night by a vision, Feare not, but speak, and hold not thy peace:

23 Now when he had taried there a while, he departed, and went through the country of Galatia and Phrygia by order, strengthening all the disciples.

24 * And a certaine Jew, named * Apollos, born at Alexandria, came to Ephesus, an eloquent man, and ⁿ mighty in the Scriptures.

25 The same was instructed in the way of the Lord, and he spake fervently in the Spirit, and taught diligently the things of the Lord, and knew but the baptisme of John onely.

26 And he began to speake boldly in the Synagogue: Whom when * Aquila, and Priscilla had heard, they tooke him unto them, and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly.

27 And when he was minded to goe into Achaia, the brethren exhorting him, wrote to the disciples to receive him: and after he was come thither, he holpe them much which had beleevved through ^p grace.

28 For mightily he confuted publicly the Jewes, with great vehemency, shewing by the Scriptures, that Iesus was that Christ.

C H A P. XIX.

1 Certaine disciples at Ephesus, having onely received Johns baptisme, 2 and knew not the visible gifts of the holy Ghost wherewith God had beautified his sons kingdome, 3 are baptized in the Name of Iesus. 13 The Iewish exorcists, 16 are beaten of the devill. 19 Conjurung bookes are burnt. 24 Demetrius, 29 raiseth sedition against Paul.

And it came to passe, while Apollos was at Corinthus, that Paul when he passed thorow the upper coasts, came to Ephesus, and found certaine disciples,

2 And said unto them, Have ye received the holy Ghost since yee beleevved? And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard whether there be an holy Ghost.

3 * And he said unto them, Unto what were yee then baptized? And they said, Unto Johns baptisme.

4 Then said Paul, John verily baptized with the baptisme of repentance, saying unto the people, that they should beleevve in him which should come after him, that is in Christ Iesus.

5 And when they heard it, they were baptized in the Name of the Lord Iesus.

6 So Paul laid his hands upon them, and the holy Ghost came on them, and they spake the tongues, and prophesied.

7 And all the men were about twelve.

8 ¶ Moreover hee went into the Synagogue, and spake boldly for the space of three moneths, disputing and exhorting to the things that appertain to the kingdom of God.

9 But when certain were hardened, & disobeyed, speaking evill of the way of God before the multitude, hee departed from them, and separated the disciples, & disputed daily in the school of one Tyrannus.

10 And this was done by the space of two yeares, so that all they which dwelt in Asia, heard the word of the Lord Iesus, both Jewes and Grecians.

11 And God wrought no small miracles by the hands of Paul,

12 So that from his body were brought unto the sick, kerchiefs, or handkerchiefs, and the diseases departed from them, and the evill spirits went out of them.

13 * Then certaine of the vagabond Jewes, exorcists, tooke in hand to name over them which had evill spirits, the Name of the Lord Iesus, saying, We adjure you by Iesus, whom Paul preacheth.

14 (And there were certaine sons of Sceva a Jew the Priest, about seven which did this)

15 And the evill spirit answered, and said, Iesus I acknowledge, and Paul I know: but who are yee?

16 And the man in whom the evill spirit was, ran on them, and overcame them, and prevailed against them, so that they fled out of that house naked and wounded.

17 And this was knowen to all the Jewes and Grecians also, which dwelt at Ephesus, and feare came on them all, and the Name of the Lord Iesus was magnified.

18 * And many that beleevved, came and confessed, and shewed their workes.

19 Many also of them which used curious arts, brought their books, and burned them before all men: and they counted the price of them, and found it fifty thousand pieces of silver.

20 So the word of God grew mightily, and prevailed.

21 ¶ Now when these things were accomplished, Paul purposed by the Spirit to passe through Macedonia and Achaia, and to goe to Hierusalem, saying, After I have bene there, I must also see Rome.

22 So sent he unto Macedonia two of them that ministred unto him, Timotheus and Erastus, but he remaineth in Asia for a season.

Asia, this Paul hath perswaded, and turned away much people, saying, That they bee no gods which are made with hands.

27 So that not onely this thing is dangerous unto us, that this our^m portion shall be reprov'd, but also that the temple of the great goddess Diana should be nothing esteemed, and that it would come to passe that her magnificence, which all Asia & the world worshipping, should be destroyed.

28 Now when they heard it, they were full of wrath, and cried out, saying, Great is Diana of the Ephesians.

29 And the whole city was full of confusion, and they rushed into the common place with one assent, and caught * Gajus, and * Aristarchus, men of Macedonia, and Pauls companions of his journey.

30 And when Paul would have entred in unto the people, the disciples suffered him not.

31⁸ Certaine also of the chiefe of Asia, which were his friends, sent unto him, desiring him that he would not present himselfe in the Common place.

32 Some therefore cried one thing, and some another: for the assembly was out of order, and the more part knew not wherefore they were come together.

33 And some of the company drew forth Alexander, the Jewes thrusting him forwards. Alexander then beckened with the hand, and would have excused the matter to the people.

34⁹ But when they knew that he was a Jew, there arose a shout almost for the space of two houres, of all men, crying, Great is Diana of the Ephesians.

35¹⁰ Then the Towne-clerk when he had stay'd the people, said, Yee men of Ephesus, what man is it that knoweth not how that the city of the Ephesians is a worshipper of the great goddess Diana, and of the image, w^{ch} came down from Iupiter?

36 Seeing then that no man can speake against these things, yee ought to be appeased, and to doe nothing rashly.

37 For yee have brought hither these men, w^{ch} have neither committed sacrilege, neither do blaspheme your goddess.

38 Wherefore, if Demetrius & the craftsmen w^{ch} are with him, have a^o matter against any man, the^p law is open, and there are^q Deputies: let the accuse one another.

39 But if yee enquire any thing concerning other matters, it may be determined in a^r lawfull assembly.

40 For wee are even in jeopardy to bee accused of this dayes sedition, for as much as there is no cause, whereby we may give a reason of this concourse of people.

41 And when he had thus spoken, he let the assembly depart.

1 Paul appointed to goe to Macedonia. 7 In Troas preaching untill midnight, 9 Eutychus fell downe dead out of a window. 10 he raiseth him to life: 15 At Miletum, 17 having called the Elders of Ephesus together, 23 hee declareth what things shall come upon himselfe, 29 and others.

Now after the tumult was appeased, Paul called the disciples unto him, and embraced them, and departed to goe into Macedonia.

2 And when he had gone through those parts, and had exhorted them with^a many words, he came into Grecia.

3² And having taried there three moneths, because the Jewes laid wait for him, as he was about to faile into Syria, he purposed to returne through Macedonia.

4 And there accompanied him into Asia, Sopater of Berea, and of them of Thessalonica, Aristarchus, and Secundus, and Gajus of Derbe, and Timotheus, and of them of Asia, Tychicus, and Trophimus.

5 These went before, & taried us at Troas.

6 And we sailed forth from Philippi, after the dayes of unleavened bread, and came unto them to Troas in five dayes, where we abode seven dayes.

7³ And the^b first day of the week, the disciples being come together to breake bread, Paul preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow, and continued the preaching unto midnight.

8⁴ And there were many lights in an upper chamber, where they were gathered together.

9 And there sat in a window a certaine young man named Eutychus, fallen into a dead sleep: and as Paul was long preaching, he overcome with sleep, fell downe from the third loft, and was taken up dead.

10 But Paul went down, and laid himself upon him, & embraced him, saying, Trouble not your selves: for his life is in him.

11 Then when Paul was come up again, and had broken bread, and eaten, having spoken a long while till the dawning of the day, he so departed.

12 And they brought the boy alive, and they were not a little comforted.

13 ¶ Then we went before to ship, and sailed unto the city Assos, that wee might receive Paul there: for so had he appointed, and would himselfe goe a foot.

14 Now when he was come unto us to Assos, and wee had received him, wee came to Mitylenes.

15 And we sailed thence, and came the next day over against Chios, and the next day we arrived at Samos, & taried at Trogillum: the next day we came to Miletum.

16⁵ For Paul had determined to faile by Ephesus, because he would not spend the time in Asia: for he hasted to be, if he could possible, at Jerusalem, at the day of Pentecost.

⁸ There ought to bee in all Christians, and especially in the ministers, an invincible constancy, which may not by any stormes or assaults bee overcome, which notwithstanding must suffer it selfe modestly to bee governed by wisdom.

⁴ The devill finding to trouble the Church with a great offence, giveth Paul a singular occasion to confute the Gospel.

¹ According as the situation of these places is set forth, that distance between Ephesus and Miletum, is about 400. miles, which maketh almost fifty dayes miles.

17 ¶ Wherefore from ^c Miletum, he sent to Ephesus, and called the Elders of the Church.

18 ^e Who when they were come to him, he said unto them, Ye know from the first day that I came into Asia, after what manner I have beene with you at all seasons,

19 Serving the Lord with all modesty, and with many teares, and temptations, which came unto mee by the layings a-wait of the Jewes :

20 And how I kept^d back nothing that was profitable, but have shewed you, & taught you openly and throughout every house,

21 Witnessing both to the Jewes, and to the Grecians the repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ.

22 ⁷ And now behold, I goe^e bound in the Spirit unto Jerusalem, and know not what things shall come unto mee there :

23 Save that the holy Ghost witnesseth in every city, saying, that bonds and afflictions abide mee.

24 But I passe not at all, neither is my life dear unto my self, so that I may fulfill my course with joy, and the ministration which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testifie the Gospell of the grace of God.

25 And now behold, I know that henceforth yee all, through whom I have gone preaching the kingdome of God, shall see my face no more.

26 Wherefore I take you to record this day, that I am^f pure frō the blod of al men.

27 ⁸ For I have kept nothing back, but have shewed you all the counsell of God.

28 Take heed therefore unto your selves, and to^g all the flock, whereof the holy Ghost hath made you overseers; to^h feed the Church of God; whichⁱ he hath purchased with^j that his owne blood.

29 ⁹ For I know this, that after my departing shall grievous wolves enter in among you, not sparing the flock.

30 Moreover of your owne selves shall men arise speaking perverse things, to^k draw disciples after them.

31 Therefore watch, & remember that by the space of three years I ceased not to warn every one, both night and day with tears.

32 ¹⁰ And now brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build further, and to give you an^l inheritance among all them which are sanctified.

33 ¹¹ I have coveted no mans silver, nor gold, nor apparell.

34 Yea, ye know, that these hands have ministered unto my^m necessities, and to them that were with mee.

35 I have shewed you all things, how that so labouring, yee oughtⁿ to support the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how that he said, It is a blessed thing to give rather the^o to receive.

36 And when hee had thus spoken, hee kneeled down, and prayed with them all.

37 ¹² Then they wept all abundantly, and fell on Pauls neck, and kissed him, 38 Being chiefly sory for the words which he spake, That they should see his face no more. And they accompanied him unto the ship.

3 And when we had discovered Cyprus, we left it on the left hand, and sailed toward Syria, and arrived at Tyrus: for there the ship unladed the burden.

4 And when wee had found Disciples, we tarried there seven dayes. And they told Paul through the^a Spirit, that he should not goe up to Jerusalem.

5 But when the dayes were ended, wee departed and went our way, and they all accompanied us with^b their wives and children, even out of the city: and we kneeling downe on the shore, prayed.

7 And when we had ended the course from Tyrus, we arrived at Ptolemais, and saluted the brethren, and abode with them one day.

but also to die at Jerusalem for the Name of the Lord Jesus.

² The will of God bridled all affections in them which earnestly seeke the glory of God.

14 ² So when he would not be perswaded, we ceased, saying, The will of the Lord be done.

15 And after those dayes we trussed up our fardels, and went up to Jerusalem.

16 There went with us also certaine of the disciples of Cesarea, and brought with them one Mnason of Cyprus, an old disciple, with whom we should lodge.

17 And when we were come to Jerusalem, the brethren received us gladly.

18 And the next day Paul went in with us unto James: and all the Elders were there assembled.

³ God is to beee praised, who is the author of all good sayings and deeds.

19 ³ And when he had embraced them, he told by order all things, that God had wrought among the Gentiles by his ministration.

⁴ In things indifferent (of which sort were not the traditions of the Pharisees, but the Ceremonies of the Law, untill such time as Christian liberty was more fully revealed to the Jewes) charity willett us to conform or apply our selves willingly, so farre as wee may, to our brethren which doe not stubbournly and maliciously resist the truth, but are not thoroughly instructed, especially if the question bee of a whole multitude.

20 ⁴ So when they heard it, they glorified God, & said unto him, Thou seest brother, how many thousand Jewes there are wth beleeve, & they are all zealous of the Law.

21 Now they are informed of thee, that thou teachest all the Jewes, w^{ch} are among the Gentiles, to forsake Moses, and sayest, that they ought not to circumcise their sons, neither to live after the customes.

22 What is then to be done? the multitude must needs come together: for they shall heare that thou art come.

23 Doe therefore this that wee say to thee. Wee have foure men, which have made a vow:

^d That is, consecrate thy selfe, for he speakeh not here of the uncleanse, but of such as bee subiect to the vow of the Nazarites. ^e That it may bee knowne, that thou wast not onely present at the vow, but also a chiefe man in it: and therefore it is said afterwards, that Paul declared the dayes of purification: for although the charges for the Nazarites offering were appointed, yet they might adde somewhat unto them. Num. 6. 21. * Chap. 18. 18. Num. 6. 18.

24 Them take, and ^d purifie thy self with them, & ^e contribute with them, that they may ^f have their heads: & al shal know, that those things, whereof they have bin informed concerning thee, are nothing, but that thou thy self also walkest & keepst the law.

25 For as touching the Gentiles, w^{ch} beleeve, wee have written, and determined that they observe no such thing, but that they keep themselves from things offered to idols, and from bloud, and from that that is strangled, and from fornication.

^f The Priests were to be advertised of the accomplishment of the dayes of the purification, because there were sacrifices to be offered the same day, that their vow was ended.

26 Then Paul took the men, and the next day was purified with them, and entred into the temple, ^f declaring the accomplishment of the dayes of the purification, untill that an offering should be offered for every one of them.

⁵ A preposterous zeale is the cause of great confusion, and great mischiefs.

27 ⁵ And when the seven dayes were almost ended, the Jewes which were of Asia (when they saw him in the Temple) mooved all the people, and laid hands on him,

28 Crying, Men of Israel, help: this is the man that teacheth all men every where against the people, & the law, & this place: moreover, he hath brought Grecians into the temple, & hath polluted this holy place.

29 For they had seen before Trophimus an Ephesian with him in the city, whom they supposed that Paul had brought into the Temple.

30 Then all the city was mooved, and the people ran together: and they tooke Paul, and drew him out of the Temple, and forth with the doores were shut.

31 ⁶ But as they went about to kill him, tidings came unto the chief captain of the band, that all Jerusalem was on an uprore:

⁶ God findeth some even amongst the wicked and prophane themselves, to hinder the endeavours of the rest.

32 Who immediately took Souldiers, and Centurions, and ran downe unto them: and when they saw the chief captaine and the souldiers, they left beating of Paul.

33 Then the chiefe captaine came neere and tooke him, and commanded him to be bound with two chaines, and demanded who he was, and what he had done.

34 And one cried this, another that, among the people. So when he could not know the certainty for the tumult, hee commanded him to be led into the castle.

35 And when he came unto the grieces, it was so that he was born of the souldiers, for the violence of the people.

36 For the multitude of the people followed after, crying, Away with him.

37 And as Paul should have beene led into the castle, he said unto the chiefe captaine, May I speake unto thee? Who said, Canst thou speake Greeke?

38 Art thou not the ⁷ Egyptian who before these dayes raised a sedition, and led out into the wildernesse foure thousand men that were murderers?

⁷ Touching this Egyptian which resembled therry thousand men, read Iosephus booke, 2 Chap. 12.

39 Then Paul said, Doubtlesse, I am a man which am a Jew, and citizen of Tarsus, a famous city of Cilicia, and I beseech thee, suffer mee to speake unto the people.

40 And when he had given him licence, Paul stood on the grieces, and beckned with the hand unto the people: and when there was made great silence, he spake unto them in the Hebrew tongue, saying.

CHAP. XXII.

¹ Paul yieldeth a reason of his faith, 22 and the Jewes beare him a while. 23 But so soone as they cried out, 24 he is commanded to be scourged and examined, 27 and so declareth that hee is a citizen of Rome.

YEE men, brethren and fathers, heare my defence now towards you.

2 (And when they heard that he spake in the Hebrew tongue to them, they kept the more silence, and he said)

3 I am verily a man, which am a Jew born in Tarsus in Cilicia, but brought up in this city at the ⁸ feet of Gamaliel, and instructed according to the perfect manner of the Law of the Fathers, and was zealous toward God, as ye all are this day.

¹ Paul making a short declaration of his former life, proveth both his vocation and doctrine to bee of God.

4 And I persecuted this way unto the death, binding and delivering into prison both men and women.

⁸ That is, he daily beareth the reason of this speech in this, for that they, which teach, sit commonly in the higher place, speaking to their scholars which sit upon formes beneath: and therefore hee saith, as the feet of Gamaliel.

5 As also the chiefe Priest doth beare mee me witnesse, & all the company of the Elders, of whom also I received letters unto the brethren, and went to Damascus to bring them which were there, bound unto Jerusalem, that they might be punished.

6 ¶ And so it was, as I journeyed and was come neere unto Damascus about noon, that suddenly there shone from heaven a great light round about me.

7 So I fell unto the earth, and heard a voice saying unto me, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?

8 Then I answered, Who art thou, Lord? And he said to me, I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutest.

9 Moreover, they that were with me, saw indeed a light and were afraid: but they heard not the voice of him that spake unto me.

10 Then said I, What shall I do, Lord? And the Lord said unto me, Arise, and go into Damascus: and there it shall be told thee of all things, which are appointed for thee to do.

11 So when I could not see for the glory of that light, I was led by the hand of them that were with me, & came into Damascus.

12 And one Ananias a godly man, as pertaining to the Law, having good report of all the Jewes which dwelt there, 13 Came unto me, and stood, and said unto me, Brother Saul, receive thy sight: and that same houre I looked upon him.

14 And he said, The God of our fathers hath appointed thee, that thou shouldest know his will, and shouldest see that just One, and shouldest heare the voyce of his mouth.

15 For thou shalt be his witnesse unto all men, of the things which thou hast seen and heard.

16 Now therefore why tarriest thou? Arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, in calling on the Name of the Lord.

17 ¶ And it came to passe, that when I was come againe to Jerusalem, and prayed in the Temple, I was in a trance.

18 And saw him saying unto me, Make hast, and get thee quickly out of Jerusalem: for they will not receive thy witnesse concerning me.

19 Then I said, Lord, they know that I prisoned, and beat in every Synagogue them that beleaved in thee.

20 And when the blood of thy Martyr Steven was shed, I also stood by, and consented unto his death, and kept the clothes of them that slew him.

21 Then he said unto me, Depart: for I will send thee farre hence unto the Gentiles.

22 ¶ And they heard him unto this word, but then they lift up their voyces, and said, Away with such a fellow from the earth: for it is not meet that he should live.

23 And as they cryed and cast off their clothes, and threw dust into the ayre,

24 The chief captain commanded him to be led into the castle, & bad that he should be scourged and examined, that he might know wherefore they cryed so on him.

25 And as they bound him with thongs, Paul said unto the centurion that stood by, Is it lawfull for you to scourge one that is a Romane, and not condemned?

26 Now when the Centurion heard it, he went and told the chief Captain, saying, Take heed what thou doest: for this man is a Romane.

27 Then the chief Captain came, and said to him, Tell me, art thou a Romane? And he said, Yea.

28 And the chief Captain answered, with a great summe obtained I this freedom: Then Paul said, But I was so born.

29 Then straightway they departed from him, which should have examined him, and the chief Captain also was afraid, after he knew that he was a Romane, and that he had bound him.

30 On the next day, because he would have known the certaintie whereof he was accused of the Jewes, he loosed him from his bonds, and commanded the high Priests & all their Councill to come together: and he brought Paul, and set him before them.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 As Paul pleadeth his cause. 2 Ananias commandeth them to smite him. 7 Diffension among his accusers. 11 God incourageth him. 14 The Jewes laying wait for Paul 20 is declared to the chief Captain. 27 He sendeth him to Felix the Governour.

And Paul beheld earnestly the Councill, and said, Men and brethren, I have in all good conscience served God untill this day.

2 Then the high Priest Ananias commanded them that stood by, to smite him on the mouth.

3 Then said Paul to him, God will smite thee, thou whited wall: for thou sittest to judge me according to the Law, and transgressing the Law, commandest thou me to be smitten?

4 And they that stood by, said, Revilest thou Gods high Priest?

5 Then said Paul, I knew not, brethren, that he was the high Priest: for it is written, * Thou shalt not speake evill of the ruler of thy people.

6 But when Paul perceived that the one part were of the Sadduces, and the other

³ The wisdom of the flesh doth not consider what is just, but what is profitable, & therewithall measure of profite, according as it appeareth presently.

⁴ There is no cause why we may not use those lawfull meanes which God giveth us, to repell, or put away an injurie.

^d Not by nation, but by the law of the civill.

³ It is lawfull for us to complain of injuries, and to summon the wicked to the judgement seat of God, so that we do it without hatred, & with a quiet and peaceable minde.

^a It appeareth plainly by the Greek phrase, that Paul did not curse the high Priest, but only pronounced the punishment of God against him.

^b This is a vehement and sharpe speech, but yet not reproachfull: For the godly may speake roundly and yet be void of the bitter affection of a sharpe and angry minde. ^c For the Law commandeth the iudge to heare the person that is accused, patiently, and to pronounce the sentence advisedly. ⁴ We must willingly, and from the heart, give honour to Magistrates, although they be tyrants. ^e Exod. 22. 27. ⁵ We may lawfully sometimes set the wicked together by the eares, that they may leave off to assault us, so that it be done with no hindrance of the truth.

¹ This is properly spoken: for Steven was murdered of a sort of unthrifts, not by open force: for at that time the Lawes could not put any man to death by Law. ² Stout and stubborn pride will neither let itself imbrace the truth, neither suffer one to receive it.

of the Pharisees, he cried in the Councill, Men and brethren, I am a Pharisee, the son of a Pharisee: I am accused of the hope and resurrection of the dead.

7 And when he had said this, there was a dissension between the Pharisees and the Saduces, so that the multitude was divided.

8 For the Sadduces say that there is no resurrection, neither Angel, nor spirit;
but the Pharisees confesse both.

9 Then there was a great crie: and the Scribes of the Pharisees part rose up, and strove, saying, We finde none evill in this man: but if a Spirit or an Angel hath spoken to him, let us not fight against God.

10 And when there was a great dissention, the chief Captain, fearing lest Paul should have been pulled in pieces of them, commanded the souldiers to go down, and to take him from among them, and to bring him into the castle.

11 Now the night following, the Lord stood by him, & said, Be of good courage, Paul: for as thou hast testified of me in Jerusalem, so must thou beare witness also at Rome.

12 And when the day was come, certain of the Jewes made an assembly, and bound themselves with a curse, saying, that they would neither eate nor drink, till they had killed Paul.

13 And they were more then fortie, which had made this conspiracie.

14 And they came to the chief Priests and Elders, and said, We have bound our selves with a solemn curse, that we will eat nothing, untill we have slain Paul.

15 Now therefore, ye and the Councill, signifie to the chief Captain, that he bring him forth unto you to morrow, as though you would know some thing more perfectly of him, and we, or ever he come neere, will be ready to kill him.

16 But when Pauls sisters some heard of their laying await, he went, and entred into the castle, and told Paul.

17 And Paul called one of the Centurions unto him, and said, Take this young man hence unto the chief Captain: for he hath a certain thing to shew him.

18 So he took him, and brought him to the chief Captain, and said, Paul the prisoner called me unto him, and prayed me to bring this young man unto thee, which hath some thing to say unto thee.

19 Then the chief Captain took him by the hand, & went apart with him alone, &
asked him, What hast thou to shew me?

20 And he said, The Jewes have conspi-red to desire thee, that thou wouldest bring forth Paul to morrow into the Councill, as though they would inquire somewhat of him more perfectly:

21 But let them not perswade thee: for there ly in wait for him of them, more then fortie men, which have bound themselves with a curse, that they will neither eat nor drink, till they have killed him: and now are they ready, and wait for thy promise.

22 The chief Captain then let the young man depart, after he had charged him to utter it to no man, that he had shewed him these things.

23 And he called unto him two certain Centurions, saying, Make ready two hundred souldiers, that they may go to Cesa-rea, and horsemen threescore and ten, and two hundred with darts, at the third houre of the night;

24 And let them make ready an horse, that Paul being set on, may be brought safe unto Felix the Governour.

25 And he wrote an Epistle in this manner:

26 Claudius Lysias unto the most noble Governour Felix sendeth greeting.

27 As this man was taken of the Jewes, & should have been killed of them, I came upon them with the garison, and rescued him, perceiving that he was a Romane.

28 And when I would have known the cause wherefore they accused him, I brought him forth into their Council.

29 There I perceived that he was accused of questions of their Law, but had no crime worthy of death, or of bonds.

30 And when it was shewed me, how that the Jewes laid wait for the man, I sent him straightway to thee, and commanded his accusers to speak before thee the things that they had against him. Farewell.

31 Then the souldiers as it was commanded them, took Paul, and brought him
by night to Antipatris.

32 And the next day, they left the hor-men to go with him, and returned to the castle.

33 Now when they came to Cesarea, they delivered the Epistle to the Governour, and presented Paul also unto him.

34 So when the Governour had read it, he asked of what province he was: and when he understood that he was of Cilicia:

35 I will heare thee, said he, when thine accusers also are come, & commanded him to be kept in Herods judgement hall.

CHAP. XXIV.

2 Tertullus accuseth Paul: 10 He answereth for himself. 25 He proudest Christ to the Governour and his wife. 27 Felix ho-peth, but in vain, to receive a bribe. 28 who going from his office, leaveth Paul in prison.

Now after five dayes, Ananias the high Priest came down with the Elders, and with Tertullus a certain oratour, which appeared before the Governour against Paul.

12 There is no counsell against the Lord and his servants.

* Greeke, that thou hast shewed these things to me.

denly made by the tron.

1 Hypocrites, who they cannot doe
what they would do by force & deceit, at length they go about to compasse it by a shew of Law.

2 And

2 And when he was called forth, Tertullus began to accuse him, saying, Seeing that we have obtained great quietnesse, through thee, and that many ^b worthy things are done unto this nation through thy providence,

3 Wee acknowledge it wholly, and in all places, most noble Felix, with all thanks.

4 But that I be not tedious unto thee: I pray thee, that thou wouldest heare us of thy curtesie a few words.

5 Certainly we have found this man a pestilent fellow, and a moover of sedition among all the Jewes throughout the world, and a ^a chiefe maintainer of the sect of the Nazarites:

6 And hath gone about to pollute the Temple: therefore we tooke him, & would have judged him according to our Law.

7 But the chiefe captaine Lyfias came upon us, and with great violence tooke him out of our hands,

8 Commanding his accusers to come to thee: of whom thou mayest (if thou wilt enquire) know all these things whereof we accuse him.

9 And the Jewes likewise ^f affirmed, saying, that it was so.

10 ² Then Paul, after that the Governor had beckened unto him that he should speake, answered, Idoe the more gladly answer for my selfe, for as much as I know that thou hast bene of ^g many yeares a judge unto this nation,

11 Seeing that thou mayest know, that there are but twelve dayes since I came up to worship in Hierusalem.

12 And they neither found me in the Temple disputing with any man, neither making uproare among the people, neither in the Synagogues, nor in the citie.

13 Neither can they ^h proove the things, whereof they now accuse me.

14 ³ But this I confesse unto thee, that after the way (which they call ⁱ heresie) so worship I the God of my Fathers, beleev- ing all things which are written in the Law and the Prophets.

15 And have hope towards God, that the resurrection of the dead, which they themselves looke for also, shall be both of just and unjust.

16 And herein I endeavour my selfe to have alway a cleare conscience toward God, and toward men.

17 ⁴ Now after many yeares, I came and brought almes to my nation, and offerings.

18 At ^k what time, certaine Jewes of ^l Asia found me purified in the Temple, neither with multitude, nor with tumult.

19 Who ought to have bene present before thee, and accuse me, if they had ought against me.

20 Or let these themselves say, if they have found any unjust thing in me, while I stood in the ^m Council, 21 Except ⁿ it be for this one voyce, that I cryed standing among them, Of the resurrection of the dead am I accused of you this day.

22 ⁵ Now when Felix heard these things, he deferred them, and said, When I shall more perfectly know the things which ^o concerne this way, by the comming of Lyfias the chiefe captaine, I will decide your matter.

23 ⁶ Then he commanded a Centurion to keep Paul, and that he should have ease, and that he should forbid none of his acquaintance to minister unto him, or to come ^p unto him.

24 [¶] And after certaine dayes, came Felix with his wife ^q Drusilla, which was a Jewesse, and he called forth Paul, and heard him of the faith in Christ.

25 And as he disputed of righteousness and temperance, and of the judgement to come, Felix trembled, and answered, Go thy way for this time, and when I have convenient time, I will call for thee.

26 He hoped also that money should have bene given him of Paul, that he might loose him: wherefore he sent for him the oftner, and communed with him.

27 ⁷ When two yeares were expired, Porcius Festus came into Felix room: and Felix willing to ^r get favour of the Jewes, left Paul bound.

^p For whereas he had behaved himself very wickedly in the province, had it not bene for favour of his brother Pallas, he should have dyed for it: so that we may easily hereby, why he should have pleased the Jewes.

CHAP. XXV.

1 Festus succeeding Felix, 6 Commandeth Paul to be brought forth. 11 Paul appealeth unto Cesar. 14 Festus openeth Pauls matter to King Agrippa. 23 and bringeth him before him, 27 that he may understand his cause.

WHEN Festus was then come into the Province, after three dayes he went up from Cesarea, unto Hierusalem.

2 Then the high Priest, and the chiefe of the Jewes appeared before him against Paul, and they besought him,

3 And desired favour against him, that he would send for him to Hierusalem: and they laid wait to kill him by the way.

4 But Festus answered, that Paul should be kept at Cesarea, and that he himselfe would shortly depart ^s thither.

5 Let them therefore, said he, which among you are able, come down with us: and if there be any wickednesse in the man, let them accuse him.

6 [¶] Now when he had taried among them no more then ten dayes, he went down to Cesarea, and the next day sat in the judgement seat, and commanded Paul to be brought.

7 And when he was come, the Jewes

^m Whither the Tribune brought me. ⁿ The Judge suspendeth his sentence, because the matter is doubtful.

^o Felix could not judge whether he had done wickedly in the matters of his religion or no: until he had better understanding of that way which Paul professed: and as for other matters, touching the sedition, he thought good to deferre it till he heard Lyfias, and therefore he gave Paul somewhat more liberty.

^p God is a most faithfull keeper of his servants, and the force of the truth is wonderful, even amongst men which are otherwise prophane.

^q This Drusilla was Agrippas his sister, of whom Lucie speaketh afterward, a very barbit and licentious woman, and being the wife of a King of the Jews, who was circumcised, departed from him, and went to this Felix the brother of one Pallas, who was sometime Nero his bondman.

^r In a naughty minde, that is, guiltie to it selfe, although sometimes there be some shew of equitie, yet by and by it will be extinguished: but in the meane season we have need of patience, and that continually.

^s For whereas he had behaved himself very wickedly in the province, had it not bene for favour of his brother Pallas, he should have dyed for it: so that we may easily hereby, why he should have pleased the Jewes.

^t Satans ministers are subtil, & diligent in seeking all occasions: but God who watcheth for his, hindreth all their counsels easily.

^u We may repeat an injury justly: but not within a jury.

S which

^a Felix ruled that province with great civillize and civility, and yet Josephus recordeth that he did many worthy things, as that he took Eleazar the captain of certain ex-throats, and put that deceiving witch the Egyptian to flight, which caused great troubles in Judea. ^b He useth a word which the Stoics designed to be a perfidious and belivous word for word, a plague. ^c As you would say, a ringleader, or ex-firm bearer. ^d They called the Christians, scilicet of the stones name where they thought that Christ was born, whereupon it came, that Julian the Apostate called him Galilean.

^f Confirmed Tertullus his saying. ^g Tertullus by the devils rhetoric beginning with flattery, maketh an end with lyes. ^h But Paul using heavenly eloquence, and but a simple beginning, catcheth off from himselfe the crime of sedition, wherewith he was burdened, with a simple deniall. ⁱ Paul pleaded his cause two yeares before Felix departed out of the province, Chap. 27, but he had governed Trachonitis, and Batavia, and Galilee, before that Claudius made him governor of Judea: Josephus in his historie of the Jewes warre, lib. 2, Chap. 11.

^j They cannot lay forth before thee, and prove by good reason. ^k Paul goeth in the case of religion, from a state of conjecture to a state of qualitie, not only not denying the religion which was objected against him, but also proving it to be true, to be heavenly, and from God, and to be the oldest of all religions.

^l Here this word Heresie, or sect, is taken in good part. ^m Paul in conclusion telleth the thing which was done truly, which Tertullus had before divers wayes corrupted.

ⁿ And while I was in Asia about these things. ^o Heresie is apparent that these of Asia were Pauls his enemies, and those that stirred up the people against him.

which were come from Hierusalem, stood about him, and layd many and grievous complaints against Paul, whereof^a they could make no plaine prooffe:

8 Forasmuch as he answered, that he had neither offended any thing against the Law of the Jewes, neither against the Temple, nor against Cesar.

9³ Yet Festus willing to get favour of the Jewes, answered Paul; and said, Wilt thou goe up to Hierusalem, and there be judged of these things before me?

10 Then said Paul, I stand at Cefars judgement seat, where I ought to be judged: to the Jewes I have done no wrong, as thou very wel knowest.

11 For if I have done wrong, or committed any thing worthy of death, I refuse not to die: but if there be none of these things whereof they accuse me, no man to pleasure them, can deliver me to them: I appeale unto Cesar.

12 Then when Festus had spoken with the councill, he answered, Hast thou appealed unto Cesar? unto Cesar shalt thou goe.

13 ¶ And after certaine dayes, King Agrippa and Bernice came downe to Cesarea to salute Festus.

14 And when they had remained there many dayes, Festus declared Pauls cause unto the King, saying, there is a certaine man left in prison by Felix, 15 Of whom when I came to Hierusalem, the high Priests and Elders of the Jewes informed me, and desired to have judgement against him.

16 To whom I answered, that it is not the manner of the Romanes for favour to deliver any man to the death, before that he which is accused, have the accusers before him, and have place to defend himself, concerning the crime.

17 Therefore when they were come hither, without delay the day following I sate on the judgement seat, and commanded the man to be brought forth.

18 Against whom when the accusers stood up, they brought no crime of such things as I supposed.

19⁵ But had certaine questions against him of their own^d superstitions, and of one Jesus which was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be alive.

20 And because I doubted of such manner of questions, I asked him whether he would goe to Hierusalem, and there be judged of these things.

21 But because he appealed to be referred to the examination of Augustus, I commanded him to be kept, till I might send him to Cesar.

22⁶ Then Agrippa said unto Festus, I would also heare the man my selfe. To morrow, said he, thou shalt heare him.

23 And on the morrow when Agrippa was come, and Bernice, with great pompe, and were entred into the Common hall with the chiefe Captaines, and chiefe men of the citie, at Festus commandement Paul was brought forth.

24 And Festus said, King Agrippa, and all men which are present with us, ye see this man, about whom all the multitude of the Jewes have called upon me, both at Hierusalem, and here, crying, that he ought not to live any longer.

25 Yet have I found nothing worthy of death, that he hath committed: nevertheless, seeing that he hath appealed to Augustus, I have determined to send him.

26 Of whom I have no certaine thing to write unto my lord: wherefore I have brought him forth unto you, and specially unto thee, King Agrippa, that after examination had, I might have somewhat to write.

27 For me thinketh it unreasonable to send a prisoner, and not to shew the causes which are laid against him.

C H A P. XXVI.

2 Paul in the presence of Agrippa 4 declareth his life from his childhood, 16 and his calling, 21 with such efficacy of words, 28 that almost he perswadeth him to Christianitie: 30 But he and his companie depart, doing nothing in Pauls matter.

Then Agrippa said unto Paul, Thou art permitted to speake for thy selfe. So Paul stretched forth the hand, & answered for himselfe.

2¹ I thinke my selfe happie, King Agrippa, because I shall answer this day before thee of all the things whereof I am accused of the Jewes:

3 Chiefly, because thou hast knowledge of all customes, and questions which are among the Jewes: wherefore I beseech thee to heare me patiently.

4² As touching my life from my childhood, and what it was from the beginning among mine own nation at Hierusalem, know all the Jewes,

5 Which^a knew me heretofore, even from my^b Elders (if they would testifie) that after the^c most strait sect of our religion, I lived a Pharisee.

6³ And now I stand, and am accused for the hope of the promise made of God unto our Fathers.

7 Whereunto our twelve tribes instantly serving God day and night, hope to come: for the which hopes sake, O King Agrippa, I am accused of the Jewes.

8⁴ Why should it be thought a thing incredible unto you, that God should raise againe the dead?

9 I also verily thought in my selfe, that I ought

^a They could not prove them certainly, and with undoubted reasons.

³ God doth not onely turn away the counsell of the wicked, but also turneth it upon their own heads.

⁴ Festus thinking no such thing, even before kings, bringing to light the wickednesse of the Jewes, and Pauls innocencie, doth marvelously confirme the Church of God. ^b This Agrippa was Agrippa his some, whose death Luke spake of before, and Bernice was his sister.

^c The Romanes use not to deliver any man to be punished before, &c.

⁵ The profane and wicked take an occasion to condemn the true doctrine, by reason of private controversies, and contentious of men betwixt themselves: but the truth nevertheless abideth in the meane season, safe and sure.

^d This profane man calleth the Jewes religion, superstition, & that before King Agrippa, but no marvel: for the rulers of provinces by reason of the maiestie of the empire of Rome, used to preferre themselves before Kings.

⁶ That is fulfilled in Paul, which the Lord before had told to Ananias of him, Chap. 9. 15.

^e Gorgeously like a Prince.

^f To Augustus. Good princes refused this name at the first, to wit, to be called Lords, but afterward they admitted it, as we read of Traianus.

¹ To have a skillfull judge, is a great and singular gift of God.

² Paul divideth the historie of his life into two times: for the first he calleth his adversaries witnesses: for the latter, the Fathers and Prophets.

^a What I was, and where, and how I lived.

^b That my parents were Pharisees.

^c The sect of the Pharisees was the most exquisite amongst all the sects of the Jewes, for it was better than all the rest.

³ There are three chiefe and principall witnesses of true doctrine, God, the true Fathers, and the consent of the Church.

⁴ He proveth the resurrection of the dead, first by the power of God, then by the resurrection of Christ, whereof he is a sufficient witness.

ought to doe many contrary things against the Name of Iesus of Nazareth.

10 * Which thing I also did in Hierusalem: for many of the Saints I shut up in prison, having received authoritie of the high Priests, and when they were put to death, I gave my^d sentence.

11 And I punished them throughout all the Synagogues, and * compelled them to blaspheme, and being more mad against them, I persecuted them, even unto strange cities.

12 At which time, even as I went to * Damascus with authoritie, and commission from the high Priests, 13 At midday, O King, I saw in the way a light from heaven, passing the brightnesse of the Sunne, shine round about me, and them which went with me.

14 So when we were all fallen to the earth, I heard a voyce speaking unto me, and saying in the Hebrew tongue, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? It is hard for thee to kick against pricks.

15 Then I said, Who art thou, Lord? And he said, I am Iesus whom thou persecutest.

16 But rise and stand upon thy feet: for I have appeared unto thee for this purpose, to appoint thee a Minister and a witnesse, both of the things which thou hast seene, & of the things in the which I will appeare unto thee;

17 Delivering thee from this people, and from the Gentiles, unto whom now I send thee,

18 * To open their eyes, that they may turn from darknesse to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, that they may receive forgiveness of finnes, and inheritance among them, which are sanctified by faith in me.

19 * Wherefore, King Agrippa, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision, 20 * But shewed first unto them of Damascus, and at Hierusalem, and throughout all the coasts of Judea, and then to the Gentiles, that they should repent and turn to God, and doe works worthy amendment of life.

21 For this cause the Jewes caught me in the * Temple, and went about to kill me.

22 * Nevertheless, I obtained helpe of God, and continue unto this day, witnessing both to * small and to great, saying none other things, then those which the Prophets and Moses did say should come,

23 To wit, that Christ should * suffer, and that he should be the * first that should rise from the dead, and should shew * light unto this people, and to the Gentiles.

24 * And as he thus answered for himselfe, Festus said with a loud voyce, Paul thou art besides thy selfe, much learning doth make thee mad.

25 But he said, I am not mad, O noble Festus, but I speake the words of trueth and sobernesse.

26 For the king knoweth of these things, before whom also I speake boldly: for I am perswaded that none of these things are hidden from him: for this thing was not done in a * corner.

27 * O King Agrippa, beleevest thou the Prophets? I know that thou beleevest.

28 Then Agrippa sayd unto Paul, Almost thou perswadest me to become a Christian.

29 Then Paul said, * I would to God that not only thou, but also all that heare me to day, were both almost, and altogether such as I am, except these bonds.

30 * And when he had thus spoken, the King rose up, and the Governour, and Bernice, and they that sate with them.

31 And when they were gone apart, they talked betweene themselves, saying, This man doth nothing worthy of death, nor of bonds.

32 Then said Agrippa unto Festus, This man might have bene loosed, if he had not appealed unto Cesar.

C H A P. XXVII.

1 Paul 7. 9 foretelleth the perill of the voyage. 11 but he is not believed. 14 They are tossed to and fro with the tempest 27. 41 and suffer shipwracke: 34 Yet all safe and sound 44 escape to land.

NOW when it was concluded, that we should saile into Italy, they delivered both Paul, and certaine other prisoners unto a Centurion named Julius, of the band of Augustus.

2 And we * entred into a ship of Adramyttium, purposing to saile by the coasts of Asia, and lanchd forth, and had Aristarchus of Macedonia, a Thessalonian, with us.

3 And the next day we arrived at Sidon: and Julius courteously intreated Paul, and gave him libertie to goe unto his friends, that they might refresh him.

4 And from thence we lanchd, and sailed hard by Cyprus, because the winds were contrary.

5 Then sailed we over the sea by Cilicia, and Pamphilia, and came to Myra, a ci- tie in Lycia.

6 And there the Centurion found a ship of Alexandria, sailing into Italy, and put us therein.

7 And when we had sailed slowly many dayes, and scarce were come against Gnidum, because the wind suffered us not; we sailed hard by Candie, neere to * Salomone,

8 And with much adoe sailed beyond it, and came unto a certaine place called the h The first of them, which are raised from the dead.

i Life, yea and that almost blessed life, which shall be endless: and this is set against darknesse, which almost in all tongues signifieth sometimes death, and sometimes miserie and calamitie.

j The wisdom of God is made knowne to foolles, yet notwithstanding we must boldly avouch the trueth.

k Secretly and privately. 9 Paul as it were forgetting himselfe that he stood a prisoner to defend his cause, forgetteth not the office of his Apostleship.

l I would to God that not only almost, but thoroughly and altogether, both thou and all that heare me this day, might be made as I am, my bonds only except. 10 Paul is solemnly quit, and yet not dismissed.

Faire havens, neer unto the which was the citie Lafea.

9 ² So when much time was spent, and failing was now jeopardous, because also the ^b fast was now passed, Paul exhorted them,

10 And said unto them, Sirs, I see that this voyage will be with hurt and much damage, not of the lading and ship onely, but also of our lives.

11 ³ Nevertheless the Centurion beleevd rather the governour and the master of the ship, then those things which were spoken of Paul.

12 And because the haven was not commodious to winter in, many tooke counsell to depart thence, if by any meanes they might attaine to Phenice, there to winter, which is an haven of Candie, and lieth toward the Southwest and by West, and Northwest and by West.

13 And when the Southerne winde blew softly, they supposing to attaine their purpose, loosed neerer, & sailed by Candie.

14 But anon after, there arose by ^c it a stormie wind called ^d Euroclydon.

15 And when the ship was caught, and could not resist the wind, we let her goe, and were caried away.

16 And we ran under a litle Ile named Clauda, and had much adoe to get the boat.

17 Which they tooke up and used all helpe, undergirding the ship, fearing lest they should have fallen into Syrtes, and they strake saile, and so were caried.

18 ⁴ The next day when we were tossed with an exceeding tempest, they lightned the ship.

19 And the third day we cast out with our own hands the tackling of the ship.

20 And when neither funne nor stars in many dayes appeared, and no small tempest lay upon us, all hope that we should be saved, was then taken away.

21 ⁵ But after long abstinence, Paul stood forth in the mids of them, and said, Sirs, ye should have hearkned to me, and not have loosed from Candie: so should ye have gained this hurt and losse.

22 But now I exhort you to be of good courage: for there shall be no losse of any mans life among you, save of the ship onely

23 For there stood by me this night the Angel of God, whose I am, and whom I serve,

24 Saying, Feare not, Paul: for thou must be brought before Cesar: and so, God hath given unto thee freely all that saile with thee.

25 ⁶ Wherefore, sirs be of good courage: for I beleve God, that it shall be so as it hath been told me.

26 Howbeit, we must be cast into a certaine Iland.

27 ⁷ And when the fourteenth night was come, as we were caried to and fro in the ^e Adriaticall Sea about mid-night, the shipmen deemed that some Countrey ^f approached unto them,

28 And sounded, and found it twentie fathoms: and when they had gone a little further, they sounded againe, and found it fiftene fathoms.

29 Then fearing lest they should have fallen into some rough places, they cast foure ankers out of the sterne, and wished that the day were come.

30 ⁸ Now as the mariners were about to flee out of the ship, and had let down the boat into the Sea, under a colour as though they would have cast ankers out of the foreship, 31 ⁹ Paul said unto the Centurion, and to the souldiers, Except these abide in the ship, ye cannot be safe.

32 Then the souldiers cut off the ropes of the boat, and let it fall away.

33 ¹⁰ And when it began to be day, Paul exhorted them all to take meat, saying, This is the fourteenth day that ye have taried, & continued fasting, receiving nothing:

34 Wherefore I exhort you to take meat: for this is for your safegard: for there shall not an ⁸ haire fall from the head of any of you.

35 And when he had thus spoken, he tooke bread, and gave thanks to God in presence of them all, and brake it, and began to eate.

36 Then were they all of good courage, and they also tooke meat.

37 Now we were in the ship in all two hundredth threescore and sixtene soules.

38 And when they had eaten enough, they lightened the ship, and cast out the wheat into the Sea.

39 ¹¹ And when it was day, they knew not the countrey, but they spied a certaine ^a creeke with a banke, into the which they were minded (if it were possible) to thrust in the ship.

40 So when they had taken up the ankers, they committed the ship unto the sea, and loosed the rudder bonds, and hoised up the maine saile to the winde, and drew to the shoare.

41 And when they fell into a place, where two Seas met, they thrust in the ship: and the forepart stucke fast, and could not be mooved, but the hinder part was broken with the violence of the waves.

42 ¹² Then the souldiers counsell was to kill the prisoners, lest any of them, when he had swom out, should flee away.

43 ¹³ But the Centurion willing to save Paul, stayed them from this counsell, and ⁷ We attaine and come to the promised and sure salvation, through the midst of tempests, and death it selfe.

^e For Ptolome writeth, that the Adriaticall sea beareth upon the East shoare of Sicilia.

^f That they drew neere to some countrey.

⁸ There is none so foule an acte, whereunto distrust and an evil conscience, do not enforce men.

⁹ Although the performing of Gods promises doeth not simply depend upon second causes, yet they make themselves unworthy of Gods bounty, which do not embrace those meanes which God offereth them, either upon rashnesse or distrust.

¹⁰ When the world trembleth, the faithfull alone be not only quiet, but confirme others by their example.

¹¹ This is a proverb which the Hebrews use, whereby it means, that they shall be safe, and not one of them perishe.

¹² Then are tempests most of all to be feared and looked for, when the port or haven is nearest.

¹³ A creeke is a bay within land, as the Adriaticall sea, and the Persian sea.

¹⁴ So is Isthmus called, because the Sea toucheth it on both sides.

¹⁵ There is no where more unfaithfullnesse, and unthankfullnesse, then in unbelievers.

¹⁶ God findeth, even amongst his enemies, them, whose helpe he useth to preserve his.

² Gods providence taketh not away the causes which God used as meanes, but rather ordereth and disposeth their right use, even then when he openeth an extraordinary issue.

⁴ Men cast themselves willingly into an infinite sort of dangers, when they chuse to follow their own wisdom, rather than God, speaking by the mouth of his servants.

^a By Candie, from whose shore our ship was driven by that meanes.

^d Northeast wind.

⁴ The end proveth that none provide worse for themselves then they that commit themselves to be governed onely by their own wisdom.

⁵ God spareth the wicked for a time, for his elect and chosen sake.

commanded that they that could swim, should cast themselves first into the Sea, and go out to land.

44 ¹⁴ And the other, some on boards, and some on certain pieces of the ship: and so it came to passe, that they came all safe to land.

CHAP. XXVIII.

2 The Barbarians courteste towards Paul and his company. 3 A viper on Pauls hand: 6 He shaketh it off without harme: 8 Publius 9 and others are by him healed. 11 They depart from Melita, 16 and come to Rome. 17 Paul openeth to the Jews 20 the cause of his coming: 22 He preacheth Iesus 30 two yeares.

And when they were come safe, then they knew that the Ile was called ^a Melita.

2 And the Barbarians shewed us no little kindnesse: for they kindled a fire, and received us every one, because of the present showre, and because of the cold.

3 ¹ And when Paul had gathered a number of sticks, and layed them on the fire, there came a viper out of the heat, and leapt on his hand.

4 ² Now when the Barbarians saw the worm hang on his hand, they said among themselves, This man surely is a murthrer, whom, though he hath escaped the sea, yet ^b Vengeance hath not suffered to live.

5 But he shook off the worm into the fire, and felt no harme.

6 Howbeit they waited when he should have ^c swolne, or fallen down dead suddenly: but after they had looked a great while, and saw no inconvenience come to him, they changed their mindes, and said, That he was a God.

7 ⁴ In the same quarters, the chief man of the Ile (whose name was Publius) had possessions: the same received us, and lodged us three dayes courteously.

8 And so it was, that the father of Publius lay sick of the fever, and of a bloodie flux: to whom Paul entred in, and when he prayed, he laid ^d his hands on him, and healed him.

9 ⁵ When this then was done, other also in the Isle, which had diseases, came to him, and were healed.

10 ⁶ Which also did us great honour: and when we departed, they laded us with things necessarie.

11 ⁷ Now after three moneths we departed in a ship of Alexandria, which had wintred in the Ile, whose ^d badge was Castor and Pollux.

12 And when we arived at Syracuse, we taried ^e there three dayes.

13 And from thence we fet a compasse, and came to Regium, and after one day, the South wind blew, and we came the second day to Puteoly:

14 ⁸ Where we found brethren, and were desired to tary with them seven dayes, and so we went toward Rome.

15 ⁹ And from thence, when the brethren heard of us, they came to meet us at the market of Appius, and at the three tavernes, whom when Paul saw, he thanked God, and waxed bold.

16 So when we came to Rome, the Centurion delivered the prisoners to the generall Captain: but Paul was suffered to dwell by ^f himself with a souldier that kept him.

17 ¹⁰ And the third day after, Paul called the chiefe of the Jewes together: and when they were come, he said unto them, Men and brethren, though I have committed nothing against the people, or Laws of the fathers, yet was I delivered prisoner from Hierusalem into the hands of the Romanes:

18 Who when they had examined me, would have let me go, because there was no cause of death in me.

19 ¹¹ But when the Jews spake contrary, I was constrained to appeale unto Cesar, not because I had ought to accuse my nation of.

20 For this cause therefore have I called for you, to see ^g you, and to speak with you: for that hope of Israels sake, I am bound with this chaine.

21 Then they said unto him, We neither received letters out of Judea concerning thee, neither came any of the brethren that shewed or spake any evill of thee.

22 But we will heare of thee what thou thinkest: for as concerning this sect, we know that every where it is spoken against.

23 ¹² And when they had appointed him a day, there came many unto him into his lodging, to whom he expounded, testifying the kingdom of God, and perswading them those things that concerne Iesus, both out of the Law of Moses, and out of the Prophets, from morning to night.

24 ¹³ And some were perswaded with the things which were spoken, and some beleaved not.

25 Therefore when they agreed not among themselves, they departed, after that Paul had spoken one word, ^h to wit, Well spake the holy Ghost by Esaias the Prophet, unto our fathers,

26 ¹⁴ Saying, * Go unto this people, and say, By hearing ye shall heare, and shall not understand, and seeing ye shall see, and not perceive:

27 For the heart of this people is waxed fat, and their eares are dul of hearing, and with their eyes have they ⁱ winked, lest they should see with ^j their eyes, and heare with ^k their eares, and understand with ^l their hearts, and should return that I might heale them.

28 ¹⁵ Be it knowne therefore unto you,

^e Appius way, was a pavement made by Appian the King, with the help of his souldiers, long and broad, and runneth out toward the sea, and there were three tavernes in it.

^f Not in a common prison, but in a house which he hired for himself.

¹⁰ Paul in every place remembereth himself to be an Apostle.

¹¹ We may see the meanes which god giveth us, but so, that we seek the glory of God, and not our selves.

¹² The Law and the Gospel agree well together. ^g By good reasons, & proved, that the kingdom of God foretold them by the Prophets, was come. ¹³ The Gospel is a favour of life to them that beleieve, and a favour of death to them that be disobedient.

¹⁴ The unbelievers do willingly resist the truth, &c. yet not by chance. * Esai 6.9. Matt. 13. 14. Marke 4. 12. Luke 8. 10. Iohn. 12. 40. Rom. 11. 8.

^h They made as though they saw not that which they saw against their will: yea they did see, but they would not see.

¹⁵ The unbelievers of the reprobate and castaways, cannot see the truth of God to be of none effect.

¹⁴ The goodnesse of God overcome mans malice

^a That is it, which at this day we call Melita.

¹ The godly are sure to have danger upon danger, but they have alwayes a glorious issue.

² Although adversity be the punishment of sin, yet seeing that God in punishing of men doth not alwayes respect sin, they judge rashly, which either doe not wait for the end, or doe judge and esteeme of men according to prosperitie or adversity.

^b Right & reason. ^c The Greek word signifies, to be inflamed, or to swell: moreover, Disfortuna in his 6 booke, chap. 38. writeth that the biting of a viper, causeth a swelling of the body, and so saith Nicander, in his remedies against poisons.

³ There is nothing more constant every way, then they which are ignorant of true religion.

⁴ It never yet repented any man, that received the servant of God, were he never so miserable and poore.

⁵ Although Paul were a captive, yet the verue of God was not captive.

⁶ God doeth well to strangers for his childrens sake,

⁷ Idoles do not defile the saints, which do in no wise consent unto them.

⁸ So they used to sink the forepart of their ships, whereupon their ships were called by such names.

⁹ God boweth & bendeth the hearts even of prophane men, as it pleaseth him to favour his.

16 Not ^{the} Gospel, but the contempt of the Gospel is the cause of strife and debate.
17 The word of God cannot be bound.

that this salvation of God is sent to the Gentiles, and they shall heare it.

29 ¹⁶ And when he had said these things, the Jews departed, and had great reasoning among themselves.

30 ¹⁷ And Paul remained two years

full in an house hired for himselfe, and received all that came in unto him, 31 Preaching the kingdome of God, and teaching those things which concerne the Lord Iesus Christ, with all boldnesse of speech, without let.

THE EPISTLE OF THE APOSTLE PAUL TO THE ROMANES.

CHAP. I.

1 He first sheweth on what authoritie his Apostleship standeth.

15 Then he commendeth the Gospel, 16 by which God set-tleth out his power to those that are saved 17 by faith.

21 but were guiltie of wicked unthankfulness to God: 26 For which his wrath was worthily poured on them. 29 so that they ran headlong to all kind of sins.

1 The first part of the Epistle containing a most profitable Preface unto verse 16.

2 He moving the Romanes to give diligent care unto him, in that he sheweth that he cometh not in his owne name, but as Gods messenger unto the Gentiles, entreateth with them of the weightiest matter that is, promised long since of God, by many fit witnesses, and now at the length performed indeed.

3 A Minister, for this word Servant is not taken in this place as set against this word Brethren, but declareth his ministry and office.

4 Whereas he said before in a general term, that he was a Minister, now he cometh to a more speciall name, and faith he is an Apostle, and that he took not upon him this office of his own head, but being called of God, and therefore in this he sheweth to the Romanes, that nothing but his due.

5 Acts 13. 1.

6 Appointed of God to preach the Gospel.

7 By declaring the sum of the doctrine of the Gospel, he stirreth up the Romanes to good consideration of the matter whereof he entreateth: So then he sheweth that Christ (who is the very substance and sum of the Gospel) is the only Son of God the father, who as touching his humantie, is made of the seed of David, but touching his divine and spirituall nature, whereby he sanctified himself, is begotten of the Father from everlasting, as by his mightie resurrection manifestly appeareth.

8 This is a plain testimony of the person of Christ, that he is both one, and of his two natures, and their properties.

9 At he is man: for this word, Flesh, by the figure Synecdochically 21 is taken for man.

10 Sheweth and made manifest.

11 The divine and mightie power is set against the weakness of the flesh, for that overcame death.

12 Of whom, that men through faith might obey God.

13 For his name, which through Gods goodness are Christ.

14 He procureth their favourable parience, in that he reckoneth up their true commendation, and his true Apostolicall good will toward them, confirmed by taking God himselfe to witness.

PAUL: a servant of IESUS CHRIST called to be an Apostle,

put apart to preach the Gospel of God,

(Which he had promised afore by his Prophets in the holy Scriptures)

3 Concerning his Son Iesus Christ our Lord (which was made of the seed of David, according to the flesh,

4 And declared mightily to be the Son of God, touching the Spirit of sanctification by the resurrection from the dead)

5 By whom we have received grace and Apostleship (that obedience might be given unto the faith) for his Name among all the Gentiles,

6 Among whom ye be also the called of Iesus Christ:

7 To all you that be at Rome beloved of God, called to be Saints: Grace be with you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Iesus Christ.

8 First I thank my God through Iesus

Christ for you all, because your faith is published throughout the whole world.

9 For God is my witness (whom I serve in my spirit in the Gospel of his Son) that without ceasing I make mention of you

10 Alwayes in my prayers, beseeching that by some means, one time or other I might have a prosperous journey by the will of God, to come unto you.

11 For I long to see you, that I might bestow among you some spirituall gift, that you might be strengthened:

12 That is, that I might be comforted together with you, through our mutuall faith, both yours and mine.

13 Now my brethren, I would that ye should not be ignorant, how that I have oftentimes purposed to come unto you (but have been let hitherto) that I might have some fruit also among you, as I have among the other Gentiles.

14 I am debter both to the Grecians, and to the Barbarians, both to the wise men and to the unwise.

15 Therefore as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the Gospel to you also that are at Rome.

16 For I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that beleeve, to the Jew first, and also to the Grecian.

17 For by it the righteousness of God is revealed from faith to faith: as it is written, The just shall live by faith.

18 For the wrath of God is revealed against this world, I say, then due to it signify a Gentile.

6 The confirmation of the former proposition: we are taught in the Gospel, that we are justified before God by faith, which increaseth daily: and therefore also saved.

7 From faith, which increaseth daily. The prooffe as well of the first as of the second proposition, out of Abakuk, who attributeth and giveth unto faith, both justice and life before God.

8 Another confirmation of that principall question: All men being considered within themselves, or without Christ, are guiltie both of ungodlinesse and also unrighteousnesse, and therefore are subject to condemnation: Therefore must they needs seeke righteousness in some other, p Because your faith is such, that it is commended in all Churches.

q In all Churches. r Very willingly, with all my heart. s In preaching his Son.

t Though Paul were never so content, yet by teaching the Church, he might be instructed by it.

u He recometh all them that dwell at Rome, though some of them were not Romanes, as Lucius and others of the Epistle.

v The second part of the Epistle unto the beginning of the 9. chapter. Now the whole end and purpose of the disputation is, this: that is to say, to shew that there is but one way to attaine unto salvation (which is set forth unto us of God in the Gospel, without any difference of nations) and that is Iesus Christ apprehended by faith.

When this word Gentile is used against this word Jew, then due to it signify a Gentile.

7 The prooffe as well of the first as of the second proposition, out of Abakuk, who attributeth and giveth unto faith, both justice and life before God.

8 Another confirmation of that principall question: All men being considered within themselves, or without Christ, are guiltie both of ungodlinesse and also unrighteousnesse, and therefore are subject to condemnation: Therefore must they needs seeke righteousness in some other,

C H A P. I I.

¹ He bringeth all before the judgement seat of God. ¹² The excuse that the Gentiles might pretend. ¹⁴ Of ignorance, he taketh quite away. ¹⁷ He urgeth the Law with the written Law. ²³ In which they boasted: ²⁷ And so maketh both Jew and Gentile alike.

Therefore¹ Thou art inexcusable, O mā, whosoever thou art that condemnest: for in that that thou condemnest another, thou condemnest thy selfe: for thou that condemnest, doest the same things.

² But we^a know that the judgement of God is according to^b trueth, against them which commit such things.

⁴ ² Or despisest thou the riches of his bountifullnesse, and patience, and long sufferance, not knowing that the bountifullnesse of God leadeth thee to repentance?

⁵ But thou, after thine hardnesse, and heart that cannot repent, ^c heapest up as a treasure unto thy self wrath against the day of wrath, and of the declaration of the just judgement of God,

⁶ ³ * Who will reward every man according to his works:

⁷ That is, to them which through patience in well doing, seek^d glory, and honour, and immortalitie, everlasting life:

⁸ But unto them that are contentious, and disobey the^e trueth, and obey unrighteousnesse, shall be^f indignation and wrath.

⁹ Tribulation and anguish shall be upon the soul of every man that doeth evill: of the Jew first, and also of the Grecian.

¹⁰ But to every man that doeth good, shall be glory, and honour, and peace: to the Jew first, and also to the Grecian.

¹¹ For there is no^g respect of persons with God.

¹² ⁴ For as many as have sinned without the Law, shall perish also without the Law: and as many as have sinned in the Law, shall be judged by the Law.

¹⁴ ⁶ For when the Gentiles which haveⁱ not the Law, doe by^k nature, the things contained in the Law, they having not the Law, are a Law unto themselves,

¹⁵ Which shew the effect of the Law^l written in their hearts, their conscience also bearing witnesse, and their thoughts accusing one another, or excusing.)

⁴ He applieth that generall accusation of mankind, particularly both to the Gentiles, and to the Jewes. ⁵ He preventeth an objection which might be made by the Jewes, whom the Law doth not excuse, but condemne, because that not the hearing of the Law, but the keeping of the Law doth justify. ^h Shall be pronounced just before Gods judgement seat: which is true indeed if any such could be found that had fulfilled the Law: but seeing Abraham was not justified by the Law, but by faith, it followeth that no man can be justified by works. ⁶ He preventeth an objection which might be made by the Gentiles, who although they have not the Law of Moses, yet they have reason whereby they may excuse their wickednesse, in that they have somewhat written in their hearts in stead of a Law, as men that forbid and punish some things as wicked, and command and commend other for good. ⁱ Not simply, but in comparison of the Law. ^k Command honest things and forbid dishonest.

¹ He convinceth them which would seem to be exempt out of the number of other men, because they reprehend other mens faults, and faith, that they are least of all to be excused, for if they were well and narrowly searched (is God surely doeth) they themselves would be found guilty in those things which they reprehend, and punish in other: for in condemning other, they pronounce sentence against themselves. ^a Paul allegeth no places of Scripture, for he reasoneth generally against all men: but he bringeth such reasons as every man is persuaded of in his mind, so that the devil himself is not able to pluck them clean out. ^b Considering and judging things aright, and not by any outward show. ² A vehement & grievous crying out against them, because they see more then other do, and yet are no whit better then others are. ^c James 5. 3. ^e Whilest thou givest thy self to pleasures, thinking to mercede thy goods, thou shalt find Gods wrath. ³ The ground of former dispensation. That both Jewes and Gentiles have altogether need of righteousness.

That both Jewes and Gentiles have altogether need of righteousness. ⁶ Psa. 62. 12. Mat. 16. 27. ⁷ Reuel. 22. 12. ⁸ Glory which followeth good works, which he layeth out before us, as though there were any that could attain to salvation by his own strength, but by laying this condition of salvation before us, which no man can perform to bring men to Christ, who alone justifieth the believers, as he himself concludeth chap. 2. 21. 22. following.

⁹ By trueth, he meaneth that knowledge which we have of nature. ¹⁰ Gods indignation against sinners, which shall quickly be kindled. ¹¹ God doeth not measure men either by their blood or by their country, either to receive them, or to cast them away. ¹² He preventeth an objection which might be made by the Jewes, whom the Law doth not excuse, but condemne, because that not the hearing of the Law, but the keeping of the Law doth justify. ¹³ Shall be pronounced just before Gods judgement seat: which is true indeed if any such could be found that had fulfilled the Law: but seeing Abraham was not justified by the Law, but by faith, it followeth that no man can be justified by works. ¹⁴ He preventeth an objection which might be made by the Gentiles, who although they have not the Law of Moses, yet they have reason whereby they may excuse their wickednesse, in that they have somewhat written in their hearts in stead of a Law, as men that forbid and punish some things as wicked, and command and commend other for good. ¹⁵ Not simply, but in comparison of the Law. ¹⁶ At from heaven against^a all ungodlinesse, and unrighteousnesse of men, which withhold the^b trueth in unrighteousnesse.

¹⁹ ² Forasmuch as that, which may be known of God, is manifest in^c them: for God hath shewed it unto them.

²⁰ For the invisible things of him, that is, his eternall power & God head are seen by the creation of the world, being^d considered in his works, to the intent that they should be without excuse:

²² When they^g professed themselves to be wise, they became fooles.

²⁴ ¹⁰ Whereforeⁱ also God^k gave them up to their hearts lusts, unto uncleannes, to defile their own bodies between themselves:

²⁵ Which turned the trueth of God unto a lie, and worshipped and served the creature, forsaking the Creator, which is blessed for ever, Amen.

²⁶ For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections; for even their women did change the naturall use into that which is against nature.

²⁷ And likewise also the men left the naturall use of the woman, and burned in their lust one toward another, and man with man wrought filthinesse, and received in themselves such^l recompense of their error, as was meet.

²⁸ ¹¹ For as they regarded not to acknowledge God, even so God delivered them up unto a^m reprobate minde, to doe those things which are not convenient,

²⁹ Being full of all unrighteousnesse, fornication, wickednesse, covetousnesse, maliciousnesse, full of envy, of murther, of debate, of deceit, taking all things in the evill part, whisperers,

³¹ Which men, though they knew the^o Law of God, how that they which commit such things, are worthy of death, yet not onely doe the same, but also^p favour them that doe them.

^a Against all kinds of ungodlinesse.

^b By trueth, Paul meaneth all the light that is left in man since his fall, not as though they being led thereby were able to come into favour with God, but that their own reason might condemne them of wickednesse both against God and man.

^c Their ungodlinesse he proveth hereby, that although all men have a most clear and evident glimpse wherein to behold the everlasting & almighty nature of God, even in his creatures, yet have they fallen away from those principles, to most foolish and fond devices of their own brains, in constituting and appointing the service of God.

^d In their hearts. ^e They see not God, and yet they acknowledge him as God by his works.

^f They did not honour him with that honour and service which was meet for his everlasting power and Godhead.

^g As if he said, became so mad of themselves.

^h Or, Thought themselves.

ⁱ For the true God they took another.

^j The unrighteousnesse of men he setteth forth first in this, that even against nature, following their lusts, they defiled themselves one with another, by the just judgement of God.

^k The concept of religion is the fountain of all mischief. ^l As a just judge. ^m A meet reward for their desert.

ⁿ He proveth the unrighteousnesse of man by a larger rehearsal of many kinds of wickednesse, from which (if not from all, yet at the least from many of them) no man is altogether free.

^o Into a mad and forward mind, whereby it cometh to passe, that the conscience being once put out, and having almost no more remembrance of sin, men run headling into all kind of mischief. ^p Vicious full of their covenants and bargains.

^q By the Law of God he meaneth that which the Philosophers called the Law of nature, and the Lawyers themselves termed the Law of nations.

^r Are fellows and partakers with them in their wickednesse, and beside that commend them which do evill.

7 God deferreth many iudgements, which notwithstanding he will execute at their convenient time by Iesus Christ, with a most strait examination, not onely of words & deedes, but of thoughts also, be they never so hidden or secret.

m As this my doctrine witnesseth which I am appointed to preach.

8 He proveth by the testimonie of David, & the other Prophets, that God bestoweth greatest benefits upon the Jewes, in giving them also the Law, but that they are the most unthankfull and unkindest of all men.

n Canst thou discern what things I ascribe from Gods will.

9 Or allowest the things that are excellent.

o The way to teach and frame other in the knowledge of the truth.

p As though he said, that the Jewes under a colour of an outward serving of God, challenged all to themselves, when as indeed, they did nothing lesse then observe the Law.

* Esai. 52. 5. Ezek. 36. 20.

9 He precisely preventeth their objection, which set an holiness in circumcision, and the outward observation of the Law: So that he sheweth that the outward circumcision, if it be separated from the inward, doeth not onely not iustifie, but also condemne them that are indeed circumcised, of whom it requirerh that, which it signifies, that is to say, cleanness of heart, & the whole life, according to commandement of the Law, so that if there be a man uncircumcised according to the flesh, who is circumcised in heart, he is far better & more to be counted of, then any Jew that is circumcised according to the flesh onely.

q This is the figure Metonymie, for if the uncircumcised.

r The state and condition of the uncircumcised.

s He which is uncircumcised by nature and blood.

t Paul useth oftentimes to set the letter against the spirit: but in this place, the circumcision which is according to the letter, is the cutting off of the foreskin, but the circumcision of the spirit, is the circumcision of the heart, that is to say, the spirituall end of the ceremonie is true holiness and righteousness, whereby the people of God is knowne from prophane and heathenish men.

u By the outward ceremonie onely.

x Whose force is inward, and in the heart.

16 ⁷ At that day, when God shall judge the secrets of men by Iesus Christ, according to ^m my Gospel.

17 ¶ Behold, thou art called a Jew, and retest in the Law, and gloriest in God,

18 And knowest ^{his} will, and ⁿ tryest the things that differ from it, in that thou art instructed by the Law:

19 And perswadest thy self that thou art a guide of the blind, a light of them which are in darkenesse, 20 An instructor of them which lack discretion, a teacher of the unlearned, which hast the ^o form of knowledge, and of the truth in the ^p Law.

21 Thou therefore, which teachest another, teachest thou not thy selfe? thou that preachest, A man should not steale, doest thou steal?

22 Thou that sayest, A man should not commit adultery, doest thou commit adultery? thou that abhorrest idoles, committest thou sacriledge?

23 Thou that gloriest in the Law, through breaking the Law, dishonourest thou God?

24 For the name of God is blasphemed among the Gentiles through you, ^{*} as it is written.

25 ⁹ For circumcision verily is profitable, if thou doe the Law: but if thou be a transgressour of the Law, thy circumcision is made uncircumcision.

26 Therefore, if the ⁹ uncircumcision keep the ordinances of the Law, shall not his ^{uncircumcision} be counted for circumcision?

27 And shall not ^f uncircumcision which is by nature, (if it keep the Law) condemne thee which by the ^l letter and circumcision art a transgressour of the Law?

28 For he is not a Jew, which is one ^v outward: neither is that circumcision, which is outward in the flesh:

29 But he is a Jew which is one within, and the circumcision ^{is} of the heart, in the ^s spirit, not in the letter, whose prayse is not of men, but of God.

30 This is the figure Metonymie, for if the uncircumcised.

1 He giveth the Jewes some preferment, for the covenants sake, but yet such, as wholly dependeth on Gods mercie. 9 That both Jewes and Gentiles are sinners. 11 he proveth by Scripture: 19 and shewing the use of the Law. 28 he concludeth that we are justified by faith.

CHAP. III.

What is then the preferment of the Jew? or what is the profit of circumcision?

1 The first meeting with, or preventing an objection of the Jewes: what then have the Jewes no more preferment then the Gentiles yes, that have they, saith the Apostle, on Gods behalf, for he committed the tables of the covenant to them, so that the unbelief of a few, cannot cause the whole nation without exception to be cast away of God, who is true, and who also useth their unworthinesse to commend and set forth his goodness.

2 Much every manner of way: for ^a chiefly, because unto them were of credit committed the ^b oracles of God.

3 For what, though some did not ^c believe? shall their unbelief make the ^d faith of God without effect?

4 God forbid: yea, let God be true, and every man a liar, as it is written, That thou mightest be ^e justified in thy words, and overcome, ^f when thou art judged.

5 ² Now if our ⁹ unrighteousnesse commend the righteousness of God, what shall we say? Is God unrighteous which punisheth? (I speak as ^a a man.)

6 God forbid: else how shall God judge the world?

7 ³ For if the ⁱ veritie of God hath more abounded through my lie unto his glory, why am I yet condemned as a sinner?

8 And (as we are blamed, and as some affirm, that we say) why doe we not evill, that Good may come ^{thereof}? whose damnation is just.

9 ⁴ What then? are we more excellent? No, in no wise: for we have already proved, that all, both Jewes and Gentiles are ^k under sin,

10 As it is written, ^{*} There is none righteous, no not one.

11 There is none that understandeth: there is none that seeketh God.

12 They have all gone out of the way: they have been made altogether unprofitable: there is none that doeth good, no not one.

13 ^{} Their throat is an open sepulchre: they have used their tongues to deccit: ^{} the poison of aspes ^{is} under their lips.

14 ^{*} Whose mouth is full of cursing and bitterness.

15 ^{*} Their feet are swift to shed blood.

16 Destruction and calamitie ^{are} in their ways:

17 And the ^l way of peace they have not known.

18 ^{*} The fear of God is not before their eyes.

19 ⁵ Now we know that whatsoever the ^m Law sayeth, it saith it ⁶ to them which are under the Law, that, every mouth may be stopped, and all the world be ⁿ subject to the judgement of God.

20 Therefore by the ^o works of the Law shall no ^p flesh be ⁹ justified in his ⁱ sight: for by the Law ^{commeth} the knowledge of sin.

21 ⁷ But now is the righteousness of God

any Law, whether it be that generall Law, or the particular Law of Moses, and therefore to be saved, seeing it appeareth (as we have already proved) by comparing the Law and mans life together, that all men are sinners, and therefore worthy of condemnation in the sight of God. ^o By that, that the Law can by us be performed. ^p Flesh is here taken for man, as in many other places: & furthermore hath here greater force: for it is put to show the contrarietie betweene God and man: as if you would say, Man who is nothing else but a piece of flesh defiled with sin, and God who is most pure and most perfect in himself. ^q Ascribed before the judgement seat of God. ^r A secret setting of the righteousness which is before men, as they never so just, against the iustice which can stand before God: now there is no righteousness can stand before God, but the righteousness of Christ onely. ^s Therefore saith the Apostle, Let that men should perish, God doeth now exhibit that which he promised of old, that is to say, a way whereby we may be iustified and saved before him without the Law.

2 Another prevention, insinuating out of the former answer: that the iustice of God is in such sort commended & set forth by our unrighteousnesse, y therefore God forgetteth not y he is the Judge of y world, & therefore a most severe revenger of unrighteousnesse.

3 Treacherie, and all the sinners thereof.

b Therefore I speak not these words in mine own person, as though I thought so, but this is the tale of mans wisdom, which is not subject to the will of God.

3 A third objection, which addeth somewhat to the former. If sins doe turn to y glory of God, they are not onely to be punished, but we ought rather to give our selves to them: which blasphemie Paul contending himself to curle and detest, pronounceth iust punishment against such blasphemers.

4 Another answer to y first objection: that the Jewes, if they be considered in themselves, are no better then other men are: as it hath been long since pronounced by the mouth of the Prophets.

were, of this righteousness, is Christ Jesus, apprehended by faith, and for this and offered to all people, as without him all people are shut out from the kingdom of God.
² Which we give to Jesus Christ, or which reflect upon him.
³ By the glory of God, is meant that merit which we all share at, that is,
everlasting life,
which standeth in that we are made partakers of the glory of God.
⁴ Therefore this righteousness touching us, is altogether freely given, for it standeth upon those things which we have not done ourselves, but such as Christ hath suffered for our sakes, to deliver us from sin.
⁵ Of his free gift, and meer liberality.
⁶ To God then is the author of that free justification, because it pleased him: and Christ is he, which suffered punishment for our sinnes, and in whom we have remission of them:
and the means whereby we apprehend Christ, is faith. To be short,
the end is the setting forth of the goodness of God, that by this means it may appear, that he is merciful in deed, and constant in his promises, as he hath freely, and of meer mercy, justified the believers.

⁷ This name of him, calleth us back to the figure of the old sacrifice, the truth and substance of which sacrifice is in Christ. ⁸ Of these sinnes which we committed, when we were his enemies. ⁹ Through his patience, and suffering nature. ¹⁰ To wit, when Paul wrote this. ¹¹ That he might be found exceeding true and faithful. ¹² Making him just, and without blame, by imputing Christ's righteousness unto him. ¹³ Of the number of them which by faith lay hold upon Christ: contrary to whom are they, which look to be saved by circumcision, that is, by the Law. ¹⁴ An argument to prove this conclusion, that we are justified by faith, without works, taken from the end of justification. The end of justification is the glory of God alone: therefore we are justified by faith without works: for if we were alone justified, either by our own works only, or partly by faith, & partly by works, the glory of this justification should not be wholly given to God. ¹⁵ By what doctrine? now the doctrine of works hath this condition joyned with it, if thou doest, and the doctrine of faith, hath this condition of them believers. ¹⁶ Another argument of an absurdity: if justification depended upon the law of Moses, then should God be a Saviour to the Jewes only: Again, if he should save the Jewes after one sort, and the Gentiles after another, he should not be one, and like himself. Therefore he will justify both of them, after one self same manner, that is to say, by faith. Moreover, this argument must be joyned to that which followeth next, that his conclusion may be firme and evident. ¹⁷ God is said to be their God, after the manner of the Scripture, whom he loveth and tendereth. ¹⁸ The uncircumcised. ¹⁹ The taking away of an objection: yet is not the Law taken away therefore, but is rather established, as it shall be declared in his proper place. ²⁰ Vain, void, to no purpose, and of no force. ²¹ Wee make it significant and strong.

CHAP. IV.

¹ He proveth that which he said before of faith, by the example of Abraham. ² 3. 6. and the testimony of the Scripture: and ten times in this chapter he beatech upon this word Imputation.

WHAT shal we say then, that Abraham our father hath found concerning the flesh?

² For if Abraham were justified by works, he hath wherein to rejoyce, but not with God.

³ For what faith the Scripture? Abraham beleevd God, and it was counted to him for righteousness.

of great weight, taken from the example of Abraham, the father of all believers: And this is the proposition, If Abraham be considered in himself, by his works, he hath deserved nothing wherein to rejoyce with God.
² By work, as ap-peareth in the next verse.

³ A preventing of an objection. Abraham may well rejoyce, and extoll himselfe amongst men, but not with God. ⁴ A confirmation of the proposition: Abraham was justified by imputation of faith: therefore freely without any respect of his works.

⁴ Now to him that worketh, the wages is not counted by favour, but by debt:

⁵ But to him that worketh not, but beleveth in him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness.

⁶ Even as David declareth the blessednes of the man, unto whom God imputeth righteousnes without works, saying,

⁷ Blessed are they whose iniquities are forgiven, and whose sinnes are covered.

⁸ Blessed is the man, to whom the Lord
imputeth not sin.

⁹ Came this blessednesse then upon the circumcision onely, or upon the uncircumcision also? For we say, that faith was imputed unto Abraham for righteousness.

¹⁰ How was it then imputed? when he was circumcised, or uncircumcised? not when he was circumcised, but when he was uncircumcised.

¹¹ After he received the signe of circumcision, as the seale of the righte-ousnesse of the faith which he had, when he was uncircumcised, that he should be the father of all them that beleve, not being circumcised, that righteousness might be imputed to them also,

¹² And the father of circumcision, not unto them onely which are of the circumcision, but unto them also that walk in the steps of the faith of our father Abraham, which he had when he was uncircumcised.

¹³ For the promise that he should be the heir of the world, was not given to Abraham, or to his seed, through the Law, but through the righteousness of faith.

¹⁴ For if they which are of the Law, be heires, faith is made void, and the promise is made of none effect.

¹⁵ For the law causeth wrath: for where no Law is, there is no transgression.

¹⁶ Therefore it is by faith, that it might come by grace, and the promise might be sure to all the seed, not to that onely which is of the Law: but also to that which is of the faith of Abraham, who is the father of us all ¹⁷ (As it is written, I have made thee a father of many nations) even before God who he beleevd, who quickneth the dead

⁴ The first proof the confirm-on, taken of ear-traries: to him on-deserveth any that-thing by his labour, the wages is not counted by favour, but by debt:
but to him that hath done nothing but beleeveth in him which promiseth freely, faith is imputed.
⁵ To him that hath deserved any thing
by his work.
⁶ Is not reckoned nor given him.
⁷ That maketh him, which is wicked in himselfe, just in Christ.

⁸ Another proo-of the same confirmation. David pre-tendeth blessednesse in free pardon of sinnes: therefore justification also.
⁹ A new proposition: that this manner of iusti-fication belongeth both to the uncircumcised, and also to the circumcised
as is declared in the person of Abraham.
¹⁰ This saying of David, wherein he pronounceth them blessed.

¹¹ Hee proveth that it belongeth to the uncircumcised (for there was no doubt of the circumcised) in this sort: Abraham was justified in circumcision, therefore this justification belongeth also to the uncircumcised. Nay it doth not appertaine to the circumcised, in respect of their
circumcision, much lesse are the uncircumcised shut out for their uncircumcision.
¹² A preventing of an objection. Why then was Abraham circumcised, if he were already iusti-fied? That the gift of righteousness (faith he) might be confirmed in him.

¹³ Circumcision, which is a signe: as we say, the Sacrament of baptism for baptisme which is a Sacrament.
¹⁴ Circumcision was called before, a signe in respect of the outward ceremony: now
Paul sheweth the force and substance of that signe, that is,
to wit, not only to signifie, but also to seale up the righteousness of faith, whereby we come to possesse Christ himselfe: for the holy Ghost worketh that inwardly in deed, which the Sacraments joyned with the word, doe represent.

⁹ An applying of the example of Abraham to the uncircumcised believers, whose father also he maketh Abraham. ¹⁰ An applying of the same example to the circumcised believers, whose father Abraham is, but yet by faith. ¹¹ A reason why the seed of Abraham is to be esteemed by faith, because that Abraham himselfe through faith was made partaker of that promise, whereby he was made the father of all nations. ¹² That all the nations of the world should be his children: or by the world, may be understood the land of Canaan.
¹³ For works that he had done, or upon this condition that he should fulfill the law. ¹⁴ A double confirmation of that reason: the one is that the promise cannot be apprehended by the law, and therefore it should be frustrate: the other, that the condition of faith should be joyned in vaine to that promise which should be apprehended by works. ¹⁵ If they be heires which have fulfilled the Law. ¹⁶ A reason of the first confirmation, why the promise cannot be apprehended by the law: because that the Law doth not reconcile God and us, but rather denounceth his anger against us, for so much as no man can observe it. ¹⁷ The conclusion of this argument: The salvation and iustification of all the posterity of Abraham (that is of the Church which is gathered together of all people) proceedeth of faith, which lieth hold on the promise made unto Abraham, and which promise Abraham himselfe first of all laid hold on. ¹ To all the believers. ² That is to say, not onely of them which beleve and are also circumcised according to the Law, but of them also which without circumcision, and in respect of faith onely are counted amongst the Children of Abraham. ³ This fatherhood is spirituall, depending onely upon the vertue of God, who made the promise. ⁴ Before God, that is, by a spirituall kindred which hath place before God, and maketh us acceptable to God in whom we live.

¹ Hee amplifieth ² Christs righteousness, which is laid hold on by faith, ⁵ who was given for the weak, ⁸ and sinfull. ¹⁴ Hee compareth Christ with Adam, ¹⁷ Death with life, ²⁰ and the Law with Grace.

Then being ⁱ justified by faith, we have peace toward God through our Lord Jesus Christ.

² ² By whom also through faith we have ^a had this accessse into this grace ^b wherein we ^c stand, ³ and ^d rejoyce under the hope of the glory of God.

³ ⁴ Neither ^{that} onely, but also we ^e rejoyce in tribulations, ⁵ knowing that tribulation bringeth forth patience,

⁴ And patience experience, and experience hope,

⁵ ⁶ And hope maketh not ashamed, because the ^e love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the holy Ghost, which is given unto us.

⁶ ⁷ For Christ, when we were yet of no strength, at ^{his} ^f time died for the ^g ungodly.

² Ephe. 2. 18.

² Whereas quietnesse of conscience is attributed to faith, it is to be referred to Christ, who is the giver of faith it selfe, and in whom faith it selfe is effectuall.

^a Wee must here know, that we have yet still the legge effect of faith.

^b By which grace, that is by which gracious love and good will, or that state whereinto we are graciously taken.

^c We stand stedfast.

³ A preventing of an objection against them, which beholding the daily miseries and calamities of the Church, thinke that the Christians dreame, when they brag of their felicity: to whom the Apostle answereth, that their felicity is laid up under hope in another place: which hope is so certain and sure, that they doe no lesse reioyce for that happinesse then if they did presently enjoy it.

^d Our mindes are not onely quiet and settled, but also we are marvellously glad, and conceive great joy for that heavenly inheritance, which waiteth for us.

⁴ Tribulation it selfe giveth us divers, and sundry wayes, occasion to rejoyce, much lesse doth it make us miserable.

⁶ Afflictions accustom us to patience, and patience assureth us of the goodness of God, and this experience confirmeth and fostereth our hope, which never deceiveth us.

⁷ The ground of hope is an assured testimony of the conscience, by the gift of the holy Ghost, that we are beloved of God, and this is nothing else but that which we call faith, whereof it followeth, that through faith our consciences are quieted.

⁸ Wherewith he loveth us.

⁸ Wherewith he loveth us.

⁷ Doubtlesse one will scarce die ⁸ for a righteous man: but yet for a good man it may be that one dare die.

⁸ But God ^b setteth out his love towards us, seeing that while we were yet ⁱ sinners, Christ died for us.

⁹ Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from ^k wrath through him.

¹⁰ For if when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Sonne, much more being reconciled, we shall be saved by his life, ¹¹ ⁵ And not onely ^{so}, but we also rejoyce in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the atonement.

¹³ ¹¹ For unto the time ^o of the Law was sinne in the world, but sinne is not ^p imputed, while there is no law.

¹⁴ ¹² But death reigned from Adam to Moses, even over them also that sinned not after the like ^r manner of the transgression of Adam, ¹³ which was the figure of him that was to come.

¹⁵ ¹⁴ But yet the gift is not so, as is the offence: for if through the offence of ^t that one, many be dead, much more the grace of God, and the gift by grace, which is by one man Jesus Christ, hath abounded unto many

¹⁷ ¹⁶ For if by the offence of one, death reigned through one, much more shal they which receive that abundance of grace, and of that gift of that righteousness, ^v reigne in life through one, ^{that is}, Jesus Christ.

¹⁸ ¹⁷ Likewise then as by the offence of one, ^{the fault} came on all men to condemnation, so by the justifying of one, ^{the benefite} abounded toward all men to the ^x justification of life.

¹⁹ ¹⁸ That is, Adam.

²⁰ That is, Adam.

²¹ That is, Adam.

²² That is, Adam.

²³ That is, Adam.

²⁴ That is, Adam.

²⁵ That is, Adam.

²⁶ That is, Adam.

²⁷ That is, Adam.

⁸ An amplifying of the love of God toward us, so that we cannot doubt of it, who delivered Christ to death for the unjust, & for them of whom he could receive no commodity, and (that more is) for his very enemies. How can it be then that Christ being now alive, should not save them from destruction, whom by his death he justified and reconciled?

⁹ In the stead of some just man.

¹⁰ He setteth out his love unto us, that in the midst of our afflictions we may know assuredly, he will be present with us.

¹¹ While sinne reigned in us.

¹² From affliction and destruction.

¹³ He now passeth over to the other part to justification, which consisteth in the free imputation of obedience of Christ, so that to the remission of sins, there is added moreover and besides, the gift of Christs righteousness imputed, or put upon us by faith, which swalloweth up that unrighteousness which flowed from Adam in to us, and all fruits thereof: so that in Christ we doe not only cease to be unfaith, but we begin also to be iust.

¹⁵ By Adam, who is compared with Christ, like to him in this, that both of them make those which are theirs, partakers of that they have: but they are unlike in this, that Adam deriveth sinne into them that are his, even of nature, and that to death: but Christ maketh them that are his, partakers of his righteousness by grace, and that unto life.

¹⁶ By sinne, is meant that disease which is ours by inheritance, and men commonly call it original sinne: for so he useth to call that sinne in the singular number, whereas if he spake of the fruits of it, he useth the plural number, calling them sinnes.

¹⁷ That is, in Adam.

¹⁸ That this is so, that both guiltinesse and death began not after the giving and transgressing of Moyses Law, it appeareth manifestly by that, that men died before that Law was given: for in that they died, sinne which is the cause of death, was then: and in such sort, that it was also imputed: whereupon it followeth that there was then some Law, the breach whereof was the cause of death.

¹⁹ Even from Adam to Moses.

²⁰ Where there is no Law made, no man is punished as faulty and guilty.

²¹ But that this Law was not that universall law, and that that death did not proceed from any actual sinne of every one particularly, it appeareth hereby, that the very infants which neither could ever know or transgress that naturall Law, are notwithstanding dead as well as Adam.

²² Our infants.

²³ Nor after that sort as they sinne that are of some yeares, following their lust: but yet the whole posterity was corrupted in Adam, when as he wittingly and willingly sinned.

²⁴ Now that first Adam answereth the latter, who is Christ, as it is afterward declared.

²⁵ Adam and Christ are compared together in this respect, that both of them doe give and yield to theirs, that which is their owne: but herein, first they differ, that Adam by nature hath spread his fault to destruction of many, but Christs obedience hath by grace overflowed many.

²⁶ That is, Adam.

²⁸ To the sentence of condemnation, whereby we are quit and pronounced righteous.

²⁹ The third difference is, that the righteousness of Christ being imputed unto us by grace, is of greater power to bring life, then the offence of Adam is to add his posterity to death.

³⁰ Be partakers of true and everlasting life.

³¹ Therefore to be short, as by one mans offence, the guiltinesse came on all men, to make them subject to death: so on the contrary side, the righteousness of Christ, which by Gods mercy is imputed to all beleevers, justified them, that they may become partakers of everlasting life.

³² Not only because our sinne are forgiven us, but also because the righteousness of Christ is imputed unto us.

³³ For

11 The ground of this whole composition is this, that there are two men in us, two souls, or two natures, so that out of the one, sinne by nature, out of the other, righteousness by grace, doth spring forth upon others. So then, sin entered into us, not only by following the steps of our first father, but by taking corruption of him by inheritance. 12 This word: Many, is set against this word, a few. 13 A preventing of an objection: why then did the Law of Moses enter thereupon? that men might be so much the more guilty, and the benefit of God in Christ Jesus be much the more glorious. 14 Besides that defence, which all men were infected withall by being defiled with our first father, the Law entered. 15 Grace was poured so plentifully from heaven, that it did not only counterwaile sinne, but also measure passed it.

19 For as by one mans disobedience many were made sinners, so by that obedience of that one, shall many also be made righteous.

20 Moreover the Law entered thereupon, that the offence should abound: nevertheless, where sinne abounded, there grace abounded much more:

21 That as sinne had reigned unto death, so might grace also reigne by righteousness unto eternall life through Iesus Christ our Lord.

CHAP. VI.

1 He commeth to sanctification, without which, that no man putteth on Christs righteousness, he proveth, 4 by argument taken of Baptisme, 12 and thereupon exhorteth to holines of life, 16 briefly making mention of the Law transgressed.

What shall we say then? Shall we continue still in sinne that grace may abound? God forbid.

2 How shall we, that are dead to sinne, live yet therein?

3 Know ye not, that all we which have been baptized into Iesus Christ, have bin baptized into his death?

4 We are buried then with him by baptisme into his death, that like as Christ was raised up from the dead to the glory of the father, so we also should walke in newnesse of life.

5 For if we be planted with him to the similitude of his death, even so shall we be to the similitude of his resurrection.

6 Knowing this, that our old man is crucified with him, that the body of sinne might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sinne,

7 For he that is dead, is freed from sin.

8 Wherefore, if we bee dead with Christ, we believe that we shall live also with him.

9 Knowing that Christ being raised from the dead, dieth no more: death hath no more dominion over him.

10 For in that he died, he died once to sin: but in that he liveth, he liveth to God.

11 Likewise thinke ye also, that ye are dead to sinne, but are alive to God in Iesus Christ our Lord.

12 Let not sinne reigne therefore in your mortall body, that ye should obey it in the lusts thereof: 13 Neither give ye your members as weapons of unrighteousnes unto sin: but give your selves unto God, as they that are alive from the dead, and give your members as weapons of righteousness unto God. 14 For sinne shall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under the Law, but under grace. 15 What then? shall we sinne, because we are not under the Law, but under grace? God forbid. 16 Know ye not, that to whomsoever ye give your selves as servants to obey, his servants ye are, to whom ye obey, whether it be of sinne unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness? 17 But God be thanked, that ye have been the servants of sinne, but yee have obeyed from the heart unto the forme of the doctrine, whereunto ye were delivered. 18 Being then made free from sinne, ye are made the servants of righteousness. 19 I speak after the manner of man, because of the infirmity of your flesh: for as ye have given your members servants to uncleanness and to iniquity, to commit iniquity, so now give your members servants unto righteousness in holiness. 20 For when ye were the servants of sinne, ye were freed from righteousness. 21 What fruit had ye then in those things, whereof ye are now ashamed? For the end of those things is death. 22 But now being freed from sinne, and made servants unto God, yee have your fruit in holiness, and the end, everlasting life. 23 For the wages of sin is death: but the gift of God is eternall life, through Iesus Christ our Lord.

12 Let not sinne reigne therefore in your mortall body, that ye should obey it in the lusts thereof:

13 Neither give ye your members as weapons of unrighteousnes unto sin: but give your selves unto God, as they that are alive from the dead, and give your members as weapons of righteousness unto God.

14 For sinne shall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under the Law, but under grace.

15 What then? shall we sinne, because we are not under the Law, but under grace? God forbid.

16 Know ye not, that to whomsoever ye give your selves as servants to obey, his servants ye are, to whom ye obey, whether it be of sinne unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness?

17 But God be thanked, that ye have been the servants of sinne, but yee have obeyed from the heart unto the forme of the doctrine, whereunto ye were delivered.

18 Being then made free from sinne, ye are made the servants of righteousness.

19 I speak after the manner of man, because of the infirmity of your flesh: for as ye have given your members servants to uncleanness and to iniquity, to commit iniquity, so now give your members servants unto righteousness in holiness.

20 For when ye were the servants of sinne, ye were freed from righteousness.

21 What fruit had ye then in those things, whereof ye are now ashamed? For the end of those things is death.

22 But now being freed from sinne, and made servants unto God, yee have your fruit in holiness, and the end, everlasting life.

23 For the wages of sin is death: but the gift of God is eternall life, through Iesus Christ our Lord.

hated of sinne, the contrary ends of both being set down before us. 11 Death is the punishment due to sinne, but we are sanctified freely, unto life everlasting.

CHAP. VII.

1 He declareth what is, to be no more under the Law, 2 by an example taken of the Law of marriage: 7, 12 And left the Law should seem faulty. 14 he proveth, that our sinne is the cause, 13 that the same is an occasion of death, 17 which was given us unto life: 21 He setteth out the battell between the flesh and the spirit.

Now ye not, brethren (for I speak to them that know the Law) that the Law hath dominion over a man as long as he liveth?

2 For the woman which is in subjection to a man, is bound by the law to the man, while he liveth: but if the man be dead, she is delivered from the law of the man.

3 So then, if while the man liveth, shee taketh another man, she shall be called an adulteresse: but if the man be dead, she is free from the law, so that she is not an adulteresse, though she take another man.

T 2 4 2 So

6 An exhortation to contend and strive with corruption and all the effects thereof.

7 By rearing, S. Paul meaneth that chastyty and high rule, which no man striveth against, and if any doe yet it is in vain. 8 To sinne, as to a Lord or tyrant. 9 Your mind and all the powers of it. 10 Instruments to commit wickednes withall.

11 He granteth, that sinne is not yet so dead in us that it is utterly extinct: but he promised victory to them that contended manfully, because we have the grace of God given us, which worketh so, that the Law is not now in us the power and instrument of sinne.

12 To be under the Law and under sinne, signifie all one, in respect of them which are not sanctified, as on the contrary side, to be under grace and righteousness, agree to them that are regenerate. Now these are contraries, so that one cannot agree with the other: Therefore let righteousness expell sin. 13 Iohn 8.34. 14 Pet. 2.19.

15 By name we are slaves to sinne and free from righteousness, but by the grace of God we are made servants to righteousness, and therefore free from sin.

16 This kind of speech hath a force in it, for he meaneth thereby that the doctrine of the Gospel is like unto a certain mould which we use to cast into, to be framed & fashioned like unto it. 17 Righteousnesse had no rule over you.

Sin is known by the law. To the Romans. The law of the members.

² An application of the similitude thus. So, saith he, doth it fare with us: for now we are joynted to the Spirit, as it were to the second husband, by whom we must bring forth new children: we are dead in respect of the first husband, but in respect of the latter, we are as it were raised from the dead.

^b That is, in the body of Christ, to give us to understand, how strait and near that fellowship is betwixt Christ and his members.

^c He calleth the children, which the wife hath by her husband, fruit.

^d Which are acceptable to God.

³ A declaration of the former saying: for the concupiscences (saith he) which the Law stirred up in us, were in us, as it were an husband, of whom we brought forth very deadly and cursed children: But now since that husband is dead, and so consequently being delivered from the force of that killing Law, we have passed into the governance of the Spirit, so that wee bring forth now, not those rotten and dead, but lively children.

^e When we were in the state of the first marriage, which he calleth in the next verse following, the oldness of the letter.

^f The motions that egeed us to sinne, which shew their force even in our minds.

^g He saith not, of the Law, but by the Law, because they spring of sinne, which dwell in us, and taketh occasion to work thus in us, by reason of their strait that the Law maketh, not that the fault is in the Law, but in our selves.

^h Wrought their strength. ⁱ As if he said, The bond which bound us is dead, and vanisht away, inasmuch that sinne which held us hath not now wherewith to hold us. ^k For this husband is within us.

^l Satan is an unjust possessor, for he brought us in bondage of sinne and himselfe, deceitfully: and yet notwithstanding so long as we are sinners, we sinne willingly.

^m As becometh it in us, which after the death of their old husband, are joynted to the Spirit: as whom the Spirit of God hath made new men.

ⁿ By the letter, he meaneth the Law in respect of the old condition: for before that our will be framed by the holy Ghost, the Law speaketh but to deafe men. ^o An objection, What then? are the Law and sinne all one, and doe they agree together? nay, saith he: Sinne is reproved and condemned by the Law. But because sinne cannot abide to be reproved, and was not in a manner felt, untill it was provoked and stirred up by the Law, it taketh occasion thereby to be more outrageous, and yet by no fault of the Law.

^p By the word, Lust in this place he meaneth not evil lusts themselves, but the fountain from whence they spring, for the very heathen Philosophers themselves condemned wicked lusts, though somewhat darkely. But as for this fountain of them, they could not so much as suspect it, and yet it is the very seat of that naturall and unclean spot and filth.

^q Exod. 20. 17. Deut. 5. 21. ^r Though sinne be in us, yet it is not known for sinne, neither doth it so rage, as it rageth after that the Law is known.

^s Hee setteth himself before us for an example, in whom all men may behold, first, what they are by nature before they earnestly thinke upon the Law of God: to wit, blockish, and heady to sinne and wickednes, without all true sense and feeling of sinne, then what manner of persons they become, when their conscience is reproved by the testimony of the Law, to wit, stubborn and more inflamed with the desire of sinne, then ever they were before.

^t When I knew not the Law, than me thought I lived in deed: for my conscience never troubled me, because I knew not my disease. ^u When I began to understand the commandment.

^v In sinne, or by sinne.

4 ^a So ye, my brethren, are dead also to the Law by the body of Christ, that ye should be to another, even unto him that is raised up from the dead, that we should bring forth fruit unto God.

5 ^b For when we were in the flesh, the affections of sinnes, which were by the Law, had force in our members, to bring forth fruit unto death.

6 But now we are delivered from the Law, he being dead in whom we were holden, that we should serve in newnes of Spirit, and not in the oldnesse of the letter.

7 ^c What shall we say then? is the Law sinne? God forbid. Nay, I knew not sin, but by the Law: for I had not known lust, except the Law had said, Thou shalt not lust.

8 But sinne tooke an occasion by the commandement, and wrought in me all manner of concupiscence: for without the Law sinne is dead.

9 For I once was alive, without the Law: but when the commandment came, sinne revived,

10 But I died: and the same commandment which was ordained unto life, was found to be unto me unto death.

11 For sinne took occasion by the commandment, and deceived me, and thereby slew me.

12 Wherefore the Law is holy, and that commandment is holy, and just, and good.

13 Was that then which is good, made death unto me? God forbid: but sinne, that it might appeare sinne, wrought death in me by that which is good, that sinne might be out of measure sinfull by the commandment.

14 For we know that the Law is spirituall, but I am carnall, sold under sinne.

¹ Wrought their strength. ² As if he said, The bond which bound us is dead, and vanisht away, inasmuch that sinne which held us hath not now wherewith to hold us. ³ For this husband is within us. ⁴ Satan is an unjust possessor, for he brought us in bondage of sinne and himselfe, deceitfully: and yet notwithstanding so long as we are sinners, we sinne willingly. ⁵ As becometh it in us, which after the death of their old husband, are joynted to the Spirit: as whom the Spirit of God hath made new men. ⁶ By the letter, he meaneth the Law in respect of the old condition: for before that our will be framed by the holy Ghost, the Law speaketh but to deafe men. ⁷ An objection, What then? are the Law and sinne all one, and doe they agree together? nay, saith he: Sinne is reproved and condemned by the Law. But because sinne cannot abide to be reproved, and was not in a manner felt, untill it was provoked and stirred up by the Law, it taketh occasion thereby to be more outrageous, and yet by no fault of the Law. ⁸ By the word, Lust in this place he meaneth not evil lusts themselves, but the fountain from whence they spring, for the very heathen Philosophers themselves condemned wicked lusts, though somewhat darkely. But as for this fountain of them, they could not so much as suspect it, and yet it is the very seat of that naturall and unclean spot and filth. ⁹ Exod. 20. 17. Deut. 5. 21. ¹⁰ Though sinne be in us, yet it is not known for sinne, neither doth it so rage, as it rageth after that the Law is known. ¹¹ Hee setteth himself before us for an example, in whom all men may behold, first, what they are by nature before they earnestly thinke upon the Law of God: to wit, blockish, and heady to sinne and wickednes, without all true sense and feeling of sinne, then what manner of persons they become, when their conscience is reproved by the testimony of the Law, to wit, stubborn and more inflamed with the desire of sinne, then ever they were before. ¹² When I knew not the Law, than me thought I lived in deed: for my conscience never troubled me, because I knew not my disease. ¹³ When I began to understand the commandment. ¹⁴ In sinne, or by sinne.

¹⁵ Tim. 1. 8. ¹⁶ Touching not coveting. ¹⁷ The proposition: that the Law is not the cause of death, but our corrupt nature being therewith not only discovered, but also stirred up, and took occasion thereby to rebell, as which the more that things are forbidden it the more it desireth them, and from hence cometh the guiltes and occasion of death.

¹⁸ Beareth it the blame of my death? ¹⁹ That sinne might shew it selfe to be sinne, and bewray it selfe to be that, which it is in deed. ²⁰ As evil as it could, shewing all the venom it could. ²¹ The cause of this matter, is this: because that the Law requirith a heavenly purenes, but men such as they be borne, are bondslaves of corruption, which they willingly serve.

²² For I know, that in me, that is, in my flesh, dwelleth no good thing: for to will is present with me: but I finde no means to perform that which is good.

²³ For I doe not the good thing, which I would; but the evil, which I would not, that doe I.

²⁴ Now if I doe that I would not, it is no more I that doe it, but the sinne that dwelleth in me.

²⁵ I find then, that when I would do good, I am thus yoked, that evil is present with me.

²⁶ For I delight in the Law of God, concerning the inner man.

²⁷ But I see another Law in my members, rebelling against the Law of my mind, and leading me captive unto the Law of sinne, which is in my members.

²⁸ O wretched man that I am, who shall deliver me from the body of this death!

15 For I allow not that which I doe: for what I would, that doe I not: but what I hate, that doe I.

16 If I doe then that which I would not, I consent to the Law that it is good.

17 Now then, it is no more I that doe it, but sinne that dwelleth in me.

22 For I delight in the Law of God, concerning the inner man.

23 But I see another Law in my members, rebelling against the Law of my mind, and leading me captive unto the Law of sinne, which is in my members.

24 O wretched man that I am, who shall deliver me from the body of this death!

25 I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord. Then I say my self in my minde serve the Law of God, but in my flesh the law of sinne.

her seate also in the regenerate, another thing. ¹¹ It is to be noted, that one self same man is said to will and not to will, in divers respects: to wit, he is said to will, in that, that he is regenerate by grace: and not to will, in that, that he is not regenerate, or in that, that he is such an one as he was born. But because the part which is regenerate, at length becometh conquerour, therefore Paul sustaining the part of the regenerate, speaketh in such sort as if the corruption which sinneth willingly, were something without a man: although afterward he granteth that this evil is in his flesh, or in his members.

¹² This vice, or sinne, or Law of sinne, doth wholly possesse those men which are not regenerate, and hindereth them or holdeth them back that are regenerate. ¹³ The conclusion: As the Law of God hath made a new man: for where the spirit is not, how can there be any strife there?

9 He setteth himselfe being regenerate, before us, for an example, in whom may easily appeare the strife of the Spirit and the flesh, and therefore of the Law of God, and our wickednes. For since that the Law in a man not regenerate bringeth forth death only, therefore in him, it may easily be accused: but seeing that in a man which is regenerate, it bringeth forth good fruit, it doth better appeare that evil actions proceed not from the Law, but from sinne, that is, from our corrupt nature: And therefore the Apostle teacheth also, that the true use of the Law is, in reprovving sinne in the regenerate, unto the end of the chapter: as a little before (to wit, from the seventh verse unto this fifteenth) he declareth the use of it in them which are not regenerate.

¹⁰ The deeds of my life, saith he, answer not, nay, they are contrary to my will: Therefore by consent of my will with the Law, and repugnance with the deeds of my life, it appeareth evidently, that the law is a right ruled will, doe persuade one thing, but corruption which hath ¹¹ It is to be noted, that one self same man is said to will and not to will, in divers respects: to wit, he is said to will, in that, that he is regenerate by grace: and not to will, in that, that he is not regenerate, or in that, that he is such an one as he was born. But because the part which is regenerate, at length becometh conquerour, therefore Paul sustaining the part of the regenerate, speaketh in such sort as if the corruption which sinneth willingly, were something without a man: although afterward he granteth that this evil is in his flesh, or in his members.

¹² This vice, or sinne, or Law of sinne, doth wholly possesse those men which are not regenerate, and hindereth them or holdeth them back that are regenerate. ¹³ The conclusion: As the Law of God hath made a new man: for where the spirit is not, how can there be any strife there?

3 A preventing of an objection: seeing that the virtue of the Spirit which is in us is so weak, how may wee gather thereby, that there is no condemnation to them that have that virtue? Because faith he, that virtue of the quickening spirit which is so weak in us, is most perfect and most mighty in Christ, and being imputed unto us which beleeve, causeth us to be so accepted of, as though there were no reliques of corruption and death in us. Therefore hitherto, Paul dispersed of remission of finnes, and imputation of fulfilling the law, and also of sanctification which is begun in us: but now he speaketh of the perfit imputation of Christs manhood, which part was necessarily required to the full appeasing of our consciences. For our finnes are defaced by the blood of Christ, and the guiltinesse of our corruption is covered with the imputation of Christs obedience, and the corruption it selfe (which the Apostle calleth sinfull finne) is healed in us by little and little by the gift of sanctification: but yet lacketh beside that, another remedy, to wit, the perfit sanctification of Christs own flesh, which also is to us imputed.

2. 3 For the ^b Law of the Spirit of life, which is in ^d Christ Jesus, hath freed me from the Law of sinne and of death.

3. 4 For, (that that was impossible to the Law, in as much as it was weak, because of the ^g flesh) God sending his own Sonne, in the similitude of ^h sinfull flesh, and for ⁱ sin, condemned sin in the flesh,

4. That that ^l righteousness of the Law might be fulfilled in us, which walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

5. 6 For they that are after the ^m flesh, savour the things of the flesh: but they that are after the Spirit, the things of the Spirit.

6. 7 For the wisdom of the flesh is death: but the wisdom of the Spirit is life and peace.

7. 8 Because the wisdom of the flesh is enmity against God: ⁹ for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be.

8. 10 So then they that are in the flesh, cannot please God.

9. 11 Now ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, because the Spirit of God dwelleth in you: but if any man hath not the Spirit of Christ, the same is not his.

10. 12 And if Christ be in you, the ⁿ body is dead, because of sin: but the Spirit is life for righteousness sake.

11. 13 But if the Spirit of him that raised up Jesus from the dead, dwell in you, he that raised up Christ from the dead, shall

^b The power and authority of the Spirit, against which is set the tyranny of sinne. ^c Which mortifieth the old man, and quickeneth the new man. ^d To wit, absolutely and perfectly. ^e For Christs sanctification being imputed unto us, perfiteth our sanctification which is begun in us.

4 Hee useth no argument here, but expoundeth the mystery of sanctification, which is imputed unto us: for because, faith he, that the virtue of the Law was not such (and that by reason of the corruption of our nature) that it could make man pure and perfit; and for that it rather kindled the disease of sinne, then did put it out or extinguish it, therefore God clothed his Sonne in flesh like unto our sinfull flesh, wherein he utterly abolished our corruption, that being accomplished thoroughly pure and without fault in him, apprehended and laid hold on by faith, we might be found to have fully that singular perfection which the Law requireth, and therefore that there might be no condemnation in us.

^f Which is not proper to the Law, but cometh by our faith. ^g In man not born anew, whose disease the Law could point out, but it could not heal it. ^h Of mans nature which is corrupt through sinne, untill he be sanctified by it. ⁱ To abolish sin in our flesh.

^k Shewed that sin hath no right in us. ^l The very substance of the Law of God might be fulfilled, or that same which the Law requireth, that we may be found just before God: for if with our justification there be joyed that sanctification which is imputed to us, we are just, according to that perfit forme which the Law requireth.

^m Hee returneth to that which he said: that the sanctification which is begun in us, is a sure testimony of our ingrafting into Christ: which is a most plentiful fruit of a godly and honest life. ⁿ A reason why to walk after the flesh, agreeth not to them which are grafted in Christ, but to walke after the Spirit, agreeth and is meet for them: because faith he, that they which are after the flesh savour the things of the flesh, but they that are after the Spirit, the things of the Spirit.

^o They that live as the flesh leadeth them. ^p Hee proveth the consequence, because that whatsoever the flesh savoureth, that engendreth death: and whatsoever the Spirit savoureth, that tendereth to joy and life everlasting. ^q A reason and proove why the wisdom of the flesh is death, because faith he, it is the enemy of God. ^r A reason why the flesh is enemy to God, because it neither will, neither can, be subject to him, and by flesh he meaneth a man not regenerate.

^s The conclusion. Therefore they that walke after the flesh, cannot please God: whereby it followeth, that they are not ingrafted into Christ.

^t He commeth to the others, to wit, to them which walke after the Spirit, of whom we have to understand contrary things to the former: and first of all, he denieth what it is to be in the Spirit, or to be sanctified: to wit, to have the Spirit of God dwelling in us. Then he declareth that sanctification is so joyed and knit to our grafting in Christ, that it can by no means be separated. ^u He confirmeth the faithfull against the reliques of flesh and sin, granting that they are yet (as it appeareth by the corruption which is in them) touching one of their parts (which he calleth the body, that is to say, a lump) which is not yet purged from this earthly filthines, in death: but therewithall willing them to doubt nothing of the happy successe of this combat, because that even this little sparke of the Spirit, (that is, of the grace of regeneration) which appeareth to be in them by the fruits of righteousness, is the seed of life.

^v The flesh, or all that which as yet sticketh fast in the clef of sinne and death. ^w A confirmation of the former sentence. You have the selfe same Spirit which Christ hath: Therefore at length it shall doe the same in you, that it did in Christ, to wit, when all infirmities being utterly laid aside, and death overcome, it shall clothe you with heavenly glory.

also quicken your mortall bodies, by his Spirit that dwelleth in you.

12. 14 Therefore brethren, we are debtors not to the flesh, to live after the flesh;

13. 15 For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye mortifie the deeds of the body by the Spirit, ye shall live.

14. 16 For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sonnes of God.

15. 17 For ye have not received the Spirit of bondage, to ^q feare again: but ye have received the Spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father.

16. The same Spirit beareth witnesse with our spirit, that we are the children of God.

17. 18 If we be children, we are also ^r helres, even the heires of God, and heirs annexed with Christ: ^s if so be that we suffer with him, that we may also be glorified with him.

18. 20 For I count that the afflictions of this present time are not worthy of the glory, which shall be shewed unto us.

19. 21 For the fervent desire of the creature waiteth when the sonnes of God shall be revealed.

20. Because the creature is subject to ^t vanity, not of its ^u own will, but by reason of him, which hath subdued it under ^v hope.

21. Because the creature also shall be delivered from the ^w bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the sonnes of God,

22. For wee know that every creature groneth with us also, and travaileth in pain together unto this present.

23. 22 And not only the creature, but we also which have the first fruits of the Spirit, even we doe fight in our ^x selves, waiting for the adoption, ^y even ^z the redemption of our body.

24. 23 For wee are saved by hope: but hope that is seen, is not hope: for how can a man hope for that which he seeth?

25. But if we hope for that we see not, we do with patience abide for it.

the sonnes of God do come to that felicity, to wit, by the crosse, as Christ himselfe did: and therewithall openeth unto them fountains of comfort: as first, that we have Christs companion and fellow of our afflictions: secondly, that we shall be also his fellows in that everlasting glory.

20 Thirdly, that this glory which we look for, doth a thousand parts surmount the misery of our afflictions. ^t All being well considered, I gather. ^u Fourthly, he plainly teacheth us, that we shall certainly be renewed from that confusion and horrible deformation of the whole world, which cannot be continuall, as it was not at the beginning. But as it had a beginning by the sin of man for whom it was made by the ordinance of God, so shall it at length be restored with the elect. ^v All this world. ^w It is subject to a vanishing and fitting state. ^x Not by their naturall inclination. ^y That they should obey the creatures commandement, whom it pleased to shew by their sickle state, how greatly he was displeased with man. ^z A God would not make the world subject to everlasting curse, for the sin of man, but gave it hope that it should be restored.

^a From the corruption which they are now subject to, they shall be delivered and changed into that blessed state of incorruption, which shall be revealed, when the sonnes of God shall be advanced to glory. ^b By this word is meant not only exceeding sorrow, but also the fruit that followeth of it. ^c Fifthly, if the rest of the world look for a restoring, groaning as it were for it, and that not in vain, let it not grieve us also to sigh, yet let us be more certainly persuaded of our redemption to come, forasmuch as we have the first fruits of the Spirit. ^d Even from the bottom of our hearts. ^e Luke 21. 28. ^f That last referring, which shall be the accomplishment of our adoption. ^g Sixty, hope is necessarily joyed with faith: seeing then that wee beleeve those things which we are not yet in possession of, and hope respecteth not the thing that is present, we must therefore hope and patiently wait for that which we beleeve shall come to passe. ^h This is spoken by the figure Metonymie: Hope, for that which is hoped for.

^o By the vertue and power of it, which sheweth the same might, first in our head, and daily working in his members.

14 An exhortation to appresse the flesh daily more and more by the vertue of the Spirit of regeneration, because (saith he) you are debtors, unto God, forasmuch as you have received so many benefits of him.

15 Another reason of the profit that ensueth: for such as strive and fight valiantly, shall have everlasting life.

16 A confirmation of this reason: for they be the children of God, which are governed by his Spirit, therefore shall they have life everlasting.

17 He declareth & expoundeth by the way, in these two verses, by what right this name, to be called the children of God, is given to the beleevers, because (saith he) they have received the grace of the Gospel, wherein God sheweth himselfe, not (as before in the publishing of the Law) terrible and fearful, but a most benigne and loving Father in Christ, so that with great boldnes we call him Father, the holy Ghost sealing this adoption in our hearts by faith.

^p By the Spirit, is meant the holy Ghost whom we are said to receive, when he worketh in our minds.

^q Which fear is stirred up in our minds by the preaching of the Law.

^r Which saileth our adoption in our minds, and therefore openeth our minds.

18 A proof of the consequence of the confirmation: because ^s he which is the son of God, doth enjoy God with Christ.

^t Partakers of our fathers goods, and that freely, because we are children by adoption.

19 Now Paul ceaseth by what way

24 Seventhly, there is no cause why we should faint under the burthen of afflictions, seeing that prayers minister unto us a most sure helpe: which cannot be frustrate, seeing they proceed from the Spirit of God which dwelleth in us.

25 Eightly, we are not afflicted either by chance, or to our harme, but by Gods providence, for our great profit: who as he chose us from beginning, so hath he predestinate us to be made like to the image of his Son: and therefore will bring us in his time, being called and justified, to glory, by the cross, in our afflictions, but not as to shame, for he calleth that, Turbation, which God hath from everlasting appointed with himself according to his good will and pleasure.

26 Ninthly, we have no cause to fear that the Lord will not give us whatsoever is profitable for us, seeing that he hath not spared his own Son to save us.

27 A most glorious and comfortable conclusion of the whole second part of this Epistle, is of the treatise of justification. There are no accusers that we have need to be afraid of before God, seeing that God himself absolveth us as just: and therefore much less need we to feare damnation, seeing that we rest upon the death and resurrection of the Almighty power and defence of Jesus Christ. Therefore what can there be so weighly in this life, or of so great force and power, that might feare us, as though we might fall from the love of God, wherewith he loveth us in Christ? Surely nothing, seeing that it is in itself most constant & sure, and also in us being confirmed by steadfast faith.

28 Wherein Christ loveth us. Psalm 44.22. We are not only not overcome with so great and many miseries and calamities, but also more then conquerours in all of them.

26 ²⁴ Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities: for we know not what to pray as we ought: but the Spirit it self maketh request for us with sighs, which cannot be expressed.

27 But he that searcheth the hearts, knoweth what is the meaning of the Spirit: for he maketh request for the Saints, according to the will of God.

28 ²⁵ Also we know that all things work together for the best unto them that love God, even to them that are called of his purpose.

29 For those which he knew before, he also predestinate to be made like to the image of his Son, that he might be the first-born among many brethren.

30 Moreover, whom he predestinate, them also he called, and whom he called, them also he justified, and whom he justified, them he also glorified.

31 ²⁶ What shall we then say to these things? If God be on our side, who can be against us?

32 Who spared not his own Son, but gave him for us all to death, how shall he not with him give us all things also?

33 ²⁷ Who shall lay any thing to the charge of Gods chosen? it is God that justifieth, 34 Who shall condemn? it is Christ which is dead, yea, or rather, which is risen again, who is also at the right hand of God, and maketh request also for us.

35 Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? shall tribulation, or anguish, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or perill, or sword?

36 As it is written, For thy sake are we killed all day long; we are counted as sheep for the slaughter.

37 Nevertheless, in all these things we are more then conquerours through him that loved us.

38 For I am perswaded that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come,

39 Nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

CHAP. IX.

1 He answereth an objection, that might be brought on the Jews behalf. 7 and telleth of two sorts of Abrahams children, 15 and that God worketh all things in this matter according to his will, 20 even as the potter doth. 24. 30. He proveth aswell the calling of the Gentiles, 31 as also the rejecting of the Iewes. 25. 27 by the testimonies of the Prophets.

I Say: the truth in Christ, I lie not, my conscience bearing me witness in the holy Ghost.

2 That I have great heaviness, and continuall sorrow in mine heart.

3 For I would wish my self to be separate from Christ, for my brethren that are my kinsmen according to the flesh,

4 Which are the Israelites, to whom pertaineth the adoption, and the glory, and the covenants, and the giving of the Law, and the service of God, and the promises.

5 Of whom are the fathers, and of whom concerning the flesh, Christ came, who is God over all, blessed for ever, Amen.

6 ³ Notwithstanding it cannot be that the Word of God should take none effect: for all they are not Israel, which are of Israel:

7 Neither are they all children, because they are the seed of Abraham: ⁴ but, In Isaac shall thy seed be called:

8 That is, they which are the children of the flesh, are not the children of God: but the children of the promise, are counted for the seed.

9 ⁶ For this is a word of promise, In this same time will I come, and Sara shall have a sonne.

10 ⁷ Neither he onely felt this, but also Rebecca, when she had conceived by one, even by our father Isaac.

11 For ere the children were born, and when they had neither done good, nor evil (that the purpose of God might remain according to election, not by works, but by him that calleth)

12 ⁹ It was said unto her, The elder shall serve the younger,

13 As it is written, I have loved Jacob, and have hated Esau.

14 ¹⁰ What shall we say then? Is there be cast off, for the election of the people of Israel is so general and common, that notwithstanding the same God chuseth by his secret counsell, such as it pleaseth him. So then, this is the proposition and state of this treatise: The grace of salvation is offered generally in such sort, that notwithstanding it, the efficacy thereof pertaineth onely to the elect. h Israel in the first place, spoken for Jacob, and in the second, for the Israelites. g Gen. 21. 12. h Heb. 11. 18. 4 The first proof is taken from the example of Abrahams own house, wherein Isaac onely was accounted the sonne, and that by Gods ordinance: although that Isaac also was born of Abraham, and circumcised before Isaac. i Isaac shall be thy true and naturall sonne, and therefore heire of the blessing. 5 A general application of the former proof or example. k Which are born of Abraham by the curse of nature. l Gal. 4. 28. l Which are born by virtue of the promise. 6 A reason of that application: Because that Isaac was born by the virtue of the promise, and therefore he was not chosen, nay, he was not at all, but by the free will of God: whereby it followeth, that the promise is the fountain of predestination, and not the flesh, from which promise the particular election proceedeth, that is, that the elect be born elect, and not that they be first born, and then after elected in respect of God who doth predestinate. m Gen. 18. 10. 7 Another forcible proof taken from the example of Esau and Jacob, which were both born of the same Isaac, which was the son of the promise, of one mother, and at one birth, and not at divers, as Isaac and Esau were: and yet notwithstanding, Esau being cast off onely, Jacob was chosen: and that before their birth, that neither any goodness of Jacobs, might be thought to be the cause of his election, neither any wickedness of Esau, of his casting away. n Gen. 25. 21. m Gods decree which proceedeth of his mere good will, whereby it pleaseth him to chuse one, and refuse the other. 8 Paul saith not, might be made, but, being made, might remain. Therefore they are deceived which make foreseen faith, the cause of election, and foreknown infidelity the cause of reprobation. 9 He proveth the casting away of Esau by that, that he was made servant to his brother: and proveth the chusing of Jacob, by that, that he was made lord of his brother, although his brother was the first begotten. And lest any man might take this saying of God, and referre it to external things, the Apostle sheweth our of Malachi, who is a good interpreter of Moses, that the servitude of Esau was joynt with the hatred of God, and the Lordship of Jacob, with the love of God: o Gen. 25. 23. o Mal. 1. 2. 10 The first objection, if God doth love or hate upon no consideration of worthinesse, or unworthinesse, then is he unjust, because he may love them which are unworthy, and hate them that are worthy. The Apostle detesteth this blasphemy, and afterward answereth it severally, point by point.

unrighteousnesse with God: God forbid.

15 ¹¹ For he faith to Moses, * I will have mercy on him, on whom I will shew mercy: and will have compassion on him, on whom I will have compassion.

16 ¹² So then it is not in him that willeth, nor in him that runneth, but in God that sheweth mercy.

17 ¹³ For the Scripture faith unto Pharaoh, * for this same purpose have I stirred thee up, that I might shew my power in thee, and that my Name might be declared throughout all the earth.

18 ¹⁵ Therefore hee hath mercy on whom he will, and whom he will he har-deneth.

19 ¹⁶ Thou wilt say then unto me, Why doth he yet complain? for who hath resisted his will?

20 ¹⁷ But, O man, who art thou which pleadest against God? ¹⁸ shall the thing formed say to him that formed it, why hast thou made me thus?

21 ¹⁹ Hath not the potter power of the sell to honour, and another unto disho-nour?

22 ²² What and if God would, to shew his wrath, and to make his power known, suffer with long patience the vessels of wrath, prepared to destruction?

23 And that he might declare the riches of his glory upon the vessels of mercie, which he hath prepared unto glory?

24 ²⁴ Even us whom he hath called, not of the Jewes onely, but also of the Gentiles,

25 ²⁵ As he faith also in Osee, * I will call them, My people, which were not my people: and her, Beloved, which was not beloved.

26 And it shall be in the place where it was said unto them, * Ye are not my people, that there they shall be called, The children of the living God.

27 ²⁶ Also Esaus cryeth concerning Israel, * Though the number of the children of Israel, were as the sand of the sea, yet shall but a remnant be saved.

28 For he will make his account, and gather it into a short summe with righte-ousnesse: for the Lord will make a short account in the earth.

29 * And as Esaus said before, Except the Lord of hosts had left us a seed, we

CHAP. X.

1 Hee handleth the effects of election, 3 that some refuse, and some embrace 4 Christ, who is the end of the Law, 15 He sheweth that Moses foretold the calling of the Gentiles, 20 and Esaias the hardning of the Iewes.

1 Purposing to set forth in the Iewes an example of marvellous obstinacie, he useth an insinuation.

2 The first entrance into the vocation unto salvation, is to renounce our own righteousness: the next is to embrace that righteousness by faith, which God freely offereth us in the Gospel.

a The ignorance of the Law which we ought to know, excuseth none before God, especially it excuseth not them that are of his law/bold.

b Ignorance hath alway pride joined with it.

* Gal. 3.24.

3 The proof: The Law it self hath respect unto Christ, & such as beleve in him should be saved. Therefore the calling to salvation by works of the Law, is vain and foolish: but Christ is offered for salvation to every beleever.

c The end of the law is, to iustifie them that keep the law: but seeing we do not observe the law, through the fault of our flesh, we attaine not unto this end: but Christ saith that he will save us, for he fulfilled the law for us.

d Not only to the Iewes, but also to the Gentiles.

4 That the law regardeth and tendeth to Christ, this is a manifest proof for that it propoundeth such a condition as can be and is fulfilled of none but of Christ only: which being imputed unto us by faith, our conscience is quieted, so that now none can ask, Who can ascend up into heaven, or bring us from hel, seeing the Gospel teacheth that both of these is done by Christ, and that for their sakes, which with true faith embrace him which calleth them.

* Levit. 18.5.

Ezek. 20.11.

Gal. 3.12.

* Deut. 30.12.

s Think not with thy self, as men that are staggering use to doe.

5 Vocation cometh by the word preached.

* Deut. 30.14.

f By the Word, Moses understood the Law which the Lord published with his own voice: and Paul applyeth it to the preaching of the Gospel, which was the perfection of the Law.

6 That is, indeed true faith which is sealed not only in the head, but also in the heart of man: whereof also we give testimony by our outward life, and which tendeth to Christ as to our alone and onely Saviour, even as he setteth forth himselfe in his word.

g If thou professe plainly, sincerely, and openly, that thou takest Iesus only to be thy Lord and Saviour.

h The Father, who is said to have raised the Sonne from the dead: and this is not spoken to shut out the divinity of the Sonne: but to set forth the Fathers counsell touching our redemption in the resurrection of the Sonne.

i Faith is said to iustifie, and furthermore seeing the confession of the mouth is an effect of faith, and confession is the way to come to salvation, it followeth that faith is also said to save.

7 Now he proveth the other part which he propounded afore in the fourth verse, to wit, that Christ calleth whomsoever hee listeth without any difference, and this hee confirmeth by a double testimony.

* Iesai. 28. 16.

k To beleve in God, is to yeeld and consent to God his promise of our salvation by Christ, and that not only in generall, but when wee know that the promises pertaine to us, whereupon riseth a sure trust.

* Iesai. 1.38.

8 True calling upon the name of God is the testimony of true faith, and true faith, of true vocation or calling, and true calling, of true election.

9 That is, true faith, which seeketh God in his word, and that preached: according as God hath appointed in the Church.

Brethren, my hearts desire and prayer to God for Israel is, that they might be saved.

2 For I beare them record, that they have the zeale of God, but not according to knowledge.

3 For they, being ignorant of the righteousness of God, and going about to establish their owne righteousness, have not submitted themselves to the righteousness of God.

4 For Christ is the end of the Law for righteousness unto every one that beleeveth.

5 For Moses thus describeth the righteousness which is of the Law, That the man which doth these things, shall live thereby.

6 But the righteousness which is of faith, speaketh on this wise, Say not in thine heart, Who shall ascend into heaven? (that is to bring Christ from above:)

7 Or, Who shall descend into the deep? (that is to bring Christ again from the dead)

8 But what faith it? The word is neer thee, even in thy mouth, and in thine heart. This is the word of faith which we preach.

9 For if thou shalt confesse with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt beleve in thine heart, that God raised him up from the dead, thou shalt be saved:

10 For with the heart man beleeveth unto righteousness, and with the mouth man confesseth to salvation.

11 For the Scripture saith, Whosoever beleeveth in him, shall not be ashamed.

12 For there is no difference between the Jew and the Grecian: for he that is Lord over all, is rich unto all, that call on him.

13 For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord, shall be saved.

14 But how shall they call on him, in whom they have not beleaved? and how shall they beleve in him, of whom they have not heard? and how shall they heare without a preacher?

15 And how shall they preach, except they be sent? as it is written, how beautiful are the feet of them which bring glad tidings of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!

16 But they have not all obeyed the Gospel: for Esaias saith, Lord, who hath beleaved our report?

17 Then faith is by hearing, and hearing by the word of God.

18 But I demand, Have they not heard? No doubt their sound went out through all the earth, and their words into the ends of the world.

19 But I demand, did not Israel know God? First Moses saith, I will provoke you to envy by a nation that is not my nation, and by a foolish nation I will anger you.

20 And Esaias is bold, and saith, I was found of them that sought me not, and have been made manifest to them that asked not after me.

21 And unto Israel he saith, All the day long have I stretched forth mine hand unto a disobedient and gain saying people.

witnesseth that the Gospel was translated from them to the Gentiles, because the Jews neglected it. And therewithall the Apostle teacheth, that that outward and universal calling, which is set forth by the creation of the world, sufficeth not to the knowledge of God: yea, and that the particular also which is by the word of God, is of it selfe of small or no efficacy, unless it be apprehended or laid hold on by faith, by the gift of God: otherwise by unbelief it is made unprofitable, and that by the onely fault of man, who can pretend no ignorance. * Deut. 32.21. n He calleth all prophane people, a nation that is no nation, as they are not said to live but to die, which are appointed for everlasting condemnation. * Iesai. 65. 1. o Speaketh without feare. * Iesai. 65.2

CHAP. XI.

1 Lett the casting off of the Iewes should be limited according to the outward appearance. 4 he sheweth that Elias was in times past deceived, 16 and that, seeing they have an holy root, 23 many of them likewise shall be holy. 18. 24 He exhorteth the Gentiles to be humble, 33 and cryeth out, that Gods judgements are unsearchable.

I Demand then, Hath God cast away his people? God forbid: for I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the tribe of Benjamin.

2 God hath not cast away his people, which he knew before. Know yee not what the Scripture saith of Elias, how he communeth with God against Israel, saying

3 Lord, they have killed thy Prophets, and digged down thine altars: and I am left alone, and they seek my life.

4 But what faith the answer of God to him? I have reserved unto my selfe

1 Now the Apostle sheweth how this doctrine is to be applied to others, abiding still in his propounded cause. Therefore he reacheth us, & all the Jews in particular, are not cast away, and therefore we ought not to pronounce rashly of private persons, whether they be of the number of the elect, or no. 2 The first proof: I am a Jew, and yet elected, therefore we may, & ought fully to resolve upon our election. 3 The second proof: Because that God is faithful in his league or covenant, although men be unfaithfull: so then, seeing that God hath said, that he will be the God of his unto a thousand generations, we must take heed, that we think not that the whole race and off-spring is cast off, by reason of the unbelief of a few, but rather that we hope well of every member of the Church, because of Gods league and covenant, which he loved and chose from everlasting. 4 The third proof taken from the answer that was made to Elias: even then also, when there appeared openly to the face of the world no elect, yet God knew his elect and chosen, and of them also great store and number. Whereupon this also is concluded that we ought not rashly to pronounce of any man as of a reprobate, seeing that the Church is oftentimes brought to that state, that even the most watchfull and sharp sighted Pastours, think it to be clean extinct and put out. * I King. 19.10. * I King. 19.18. b He speaketh of remnants and reserved people which were chosen from everlasting, and not of remnants that should be chosen afterward, for they are not chosen, because they were not sinners: but therefore they were not sinners, because they were chosen and elect.

seven thousand men, which have not bowed the knee to ^c Baal.

5 Even so then at this present time is there a remnant according to the ^d election of grace.

6 ^e And if it be of grace, it is ^e no more of workes: or else were grace no more grace: but if it be of works, it is no more grace: or else were work no more work.

7 What then? Israel hath not obtained that he sought, but the election hath obtained it, and the rest have been ^f hardened,

8 ^g According as it is written, * God hath given them the spirit of ^h slumber: eyes that they ⁱ should not see, and ears that they should not hear unto this day.

9 And David faith, * ^j Let their table be made a snare, and a net, and a stumbling block, even for a recompence unto them.

10 Let their eyes be darkened that they see not, & bow downe their back alwayes.

11 ^k I demand then, Have they stumbled, that they should fall? God forbid: but through their fall, salvation ^l commeth unto the Gentiles, to provoke them to follow them.

12 Wherefore if the fall of them be the riches of the world, and the diminishing of them the riches of the Gentiles, how much more shall their ^m abundance be?

13 ⁿ For in that I speake to you Gentiles, in as much as I am the Apostle of the Gentiles, ^o I magnifie mine office, 14 To ^p trie if by any meanes I might provoke them of my flesh to follow them, and might save some of them.

15 For if the casting away of them be the reconciling of the world, what ^q shall the receiving be, ^r but life from the dead?

16 ^s For if the ^t first fruits be holy, so is the whole lump: and if the root ^u be holy, so are the branches.

17 ^v * ^w And though some of the branches be broken off, and thou being a wild Olive tree, wast grafted in ^x for them, and made ^y partaker of the root and fatnesse, of the Olive tree:

18 ^z Boast not thy selfe against the branches: and if thou boast thy selfe, thou bearst not the root, but the root thee.

19 Thou wilt say then, The branches are broken off, that I might be grafted in.

20 Well: through unbelieve they are broken off, and thou standest by faith: be not high minded, but ^a feare, 21 For if God spared not the ^b naturall branches, take heede lest he also spare not thee.

22 ^c Behold therefore the ^d bountifullnesse and severitie of God: toward them which have fallē, severitie: but toward thee, bountifullnesse, if thou continue in ^e his bountifullnesse: or else thou shalt also be cut off.

23 ^f And they also, if they abide not still in unbelieve, shall be grafted in: For God is able to graffe them in againe.

24 For if thou wast cut out of the Olive tree, which was wild by ^g nature, and wast grafted contrary to nature in a ^h right Olive tree, how much more shall they that are by nature, be grafted in their owne Olive tree?

25 ⁱ For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this secret (lest ye should be arrogant in your ^j selves) that partly obstinacie is come to Israel, untill the fulnesse of the Gentiles be ^k come in.

26 And so all Israel shall be saved, as it is written, * The deliverer shall come out of Sion, and shall turne away the ungodlines from Jakob.

27 And this is my covenant to them, ^l * When I shall take away their finnes.

28 ^m As concerning the ⁿ Gospel, they are enemies for your sakes: but as touching the ^o election, they are beloved for the fathers sake.

29 ^p For the gifts and calling of God are without repentance.

30 ^q For even as ye in times past have not beleevd God, yet have now obtained mercie through their unbelieve:

31 Even so now have they not beleevd by the mercie ^r shewed unto you, that they also may obtaine mercie.

and cleane cast away: Which thing is especially to be considered in nations and peoples, as in the Gentiles and Jewes.

Understand nature, not as it was first made, but as it was corrupted in Adam, and so derived from him to his posteritie.

13 The blindness of the Jewes is neither to universal that the Lord hath no elect in that nation, neither shall it be continual: for there shall be a time wherein they also (as the Prophets have forewarned) shall effectually imbrace that which they doe now so stubbornly, for the most part, reject and refuse.

14 Again, that he may joyne the Jewes and Gentiles together as it were in one body, and especially may teach what durie the Gentiles owe to the Jewes, he beareth this into their heads, that the nation of the Jewes is not utterly cast off without hope of recoverie.

15 The reason or proofe, because the covenant made with that nation of life everlasting, cannot be frustrate, and vaine.

16 Another reason: Because that although they which are hardened, are worthily punished, yet hath not this stubbornnesse of the Jewes come to passe properly, for an hatred to that nation, but that an entire might be, as it were, opened to bring in the Gentiles, and afterward to Jewes, being inflamed with emulation of that mercie which is shewed to the Gentiles, might themselves also be partakers of that same benefit, and so it might appeare that both Jewes and Gentiles are saved only by the free mercy and grace of God, which could not have been so manifest, if at the beginning God had bought altogether into the Church, or if he had saved the nation of the Jewes without this interruption.

We may rejoyce in the Lord, but so that we desire not the Jewes, whom we ought rather to provoke to that good striving with us.

See that thou stand in awe of God modestly and carefully, v. He calleth them naturall, not because they had any holinesse of nature, but because they were borne of them whom the Lord set apart for himselfe from other nations, by his league and covenant, which he freely made with them.

11. Seeing the matter is selfe declared that election cometh not by inheritance (although the fault be in men, and not in God, why the blessing of God is not perpetually we must take good heed that that be not found in our selves, which we thinke blame-worthy in others, for the election is sure, but they that are truly elect and ingrafted, are not proud in themselves with contempt of others, but with due reverence to God, and love towards their neighbour, runne to the mark which is set before them.

12. The tender and loving heart.

13. In that state when God his bountifullnesse hath advanced doe unto: and we must marke here, that he speaketh not of the election of every private man, which remaineth steadfast for ever, but of the election of the whole nation.

14. Many are now for a season cut off, that is, are without the root, which in their time shall be grafted in: and againe there are a great sort, which after a sort, and touching outward shew seeme to be ingrafted, which notwithstanding through their owne fault afterward are cut off.

15. In that that God reffereth not what they deserve, but what he promised to Abraham.

16. The reason or proofe, because the covenant made with that nation of life everlasting, cannot be frustrate, and vaine.

17. Another reason: Because that although they which are hardened, are worthily punished, yet hath not this stubbornnesse of the Jewes come to passe properly, for an hatred to that nation, but that an entire might be, as it were, opened to bring in the Gentiles, and afterward to Jewes, being inflamed with emulation of that mercie which is shewed to the Gentiles, might themselves also be partakers of that same benefit, and so it might appeare that both Jewes and Gentiles are saved only by the free mercy and grace of God, which could not have been so manifest, if at the beginning God had bought altogether into the Church, or if he had saved the nation of the Jewes without this interruption.

18. In place of those boughes which are broken off.

19. It is against the common course of husbandrie, that the barrennesse of the imbe is charged with the sinne of the good tree.

20. I demand then, Have they stumbled, that they should fall? God forbid: but through their fall, salvation commeth unto the Gentiles, to provoke them to follow them.

21. Look Marke 3. 1.

22. And yet this hardnesse of heart cometh not but by Gods just decree and judgement, and yet without fault, while as he so punisheth the unthankfull by taking from them all sense and perseverance, and by doubling their darknesse, that the benefits of God which are offered unto them, doe redound to their just destruction.

23. Isa. 6. 9. and 29. 10. Matth. 13. 14. Iohn 12. 40. Actes 28. 26.

24. A very dead sleep, which taketh away all sense.

25. That is, eyes must see.

26. Psal. 69. 23.

27. As unchappie birds are inticed to death by that which is their sustenance, so did that only thing turne to the Jewes destruction, out of which they sought life, to wit, the law of God, for the preposterous use whereof, they refused the Gospel.

28. God appointed this casting off of the Jewes, that it might be an occasion to call the Gentiles: and again, might turne this calling of the Gentiles, to be an occasion to restore the Jewes, to wit, that they being inflamed and provoked to emulation of the Gentiles, might themselves at length imbrace the Gospel. And hereby wee may learne, that the severitie of God serveth as well to the setting forth of his glorie, as his mercy doth, and also that God prepareth himselfe away to mercie, by his severitie: so that we ought not rashly to despise of any man, nor proudly triumph over other men, but rather provoke them to an holy emulation, that God may be glorified in them also.

29. By riches, he meaneth the knowledge of the Gospel to everlasting life: and by the world, all nations dispersed throughout the whole world.

30. Of the Jewes, when the whole nation without exception, shall come to Christ.

31. He witnesseth by his owne example, that he goeth before all other in this behalfe.

32. I make noble and famous.

33. It shall come to passe that when the Jewes come in the Gospel, the world shall, as it were, quicken againe, and rise up from death to life.

34. The nation of the Jewes being considered in their stock, and root, that is, in Abraham, is holy, although that many of the branches be cut off. Therefore in judging of our brethren, we must not stick in their unworthinesse, to thinke that they are at once all cast off, but we ought to consider the root of the covenant, and rather goe back to their Ancestors which were faithful, that we may know that the blessing of the Father want resteth in some of their posteritie, as we also find proofe hereof in our selves.

35. He alludeth to the first fruits of these labours, by the offering whereof, all the whole crop of corn was sanctified, and they might use the rest of the yeare following with good conscience.

36. Abraham.

37. Ieremias 11. 6.

38. There is no cause why the Gentiles which have obtained mercie, should triumph over the Jewes which condemne the grace of God, seeing they are grafted into the Jewes ancestors. But let them rather take heede, that that also be not found in them which is worthily condemned in the Jewes. And hereof also this generall doctrine may be gathered and taken, that we ought to be studious of Gods glorie, even in respect of our neighbours: so far ought we to be from bragging and glorying, for that, that we are preferred before other by a singular grace.

39. In place of those boughes which are broken off.

40. It is against the common course of husbandrie, that the barrennesse of the imbe is charged with the sinne of the good tree.

 1 Cor. 13. 13. 18 He brideleth three manner of waies the wicked boldnesse of man: First, because that God is above all most wise, and therefore it is very absurd, and plainly godlesse to measure him by our follie. Moreover, because he is debitor to no man, and therefore no man can complaine of injurie done unto him. Thirdly, because all things are made for his glory, and therefore we must referre all things to his glorie, much lesse may we contend and debate the matter with him. i This saying overthroweth the doctrine of foreseene works and merits. k To wit, for God, to whose glorie all things are referred, not only things that were made, but especially his new works which he worketh in his elect.*

CHAP. XII.

1 He exhorteth 2 to that worship which is acceptable to God: 9 to love unfained, 14, 20 even towards our enemies.

1 The fourth part of this Epistle, which after the finishing of the chiefe points of Christian doctrine consisteth in declaring of precepts of Christian life. And first of all he giveth generall precepts and grounds: the chiefe of which whereof is this, that every man consecrate himself wholly to the spirituall service of God, & do as it were sacrifice himselfe, trusting to the grace of God.

a By this preface he sheweth that Gods glory is the utmost end of all our doing. b In times past the sacrifices were presented before the altar: but now the altar is every where. c Your selves: in times past, other bodies then our own, now our own must be offered. d In time past, dead sacrifices were offered, but now we must offer such as have the spirit of life in them.

e Spirituall. 2 The second precept is this, That we take not other mens opinions or manners for a rule of life, but that we wholly renouncing this world, set before us as a marke, the will of God, as it is manifested and opened unto us in his word.

*f Why then there is no place left for reason, which the heathen Philosophers place as a Queen in a Castle, nor for mans free will, which the Popish Schoolemen dreame on, if the minde must be renewed, Look eph. 1. 18. and 2. 3. and 4. 17. and Coloss. 1. 21. * Ephes. 5. 17. 1 Thess. 4. 3. 3 Thirdly, he admonisheth us very earnestly, that every man keepe himselfe within the bounds of his vocation, and that every man be wise according to the measure of grace that God hath given him. g I charge. h That he please not himselfe too much, as they doe, which persuade themselves they know more then indeede they doe. i We shall be sever, if we take not that upon us, which we have not, and if we bragge not of that we have. * 1 Cor. 12. 11. Ephes. 4. 7. k By faith he receiveth the knowledge of God in Christ, and the gifts which the holy Ghost penvreth upon the faithful.*

*4 There is a double reason of the precept going afore: the one is, because God hath not committed every thing to be done of every man: and therefore he doth backwardly, and not onely unprofitably, but also to the great disprofit of others, wearie himselfe and others, which passeth the bounds of his vocation: the other is, for that this diversitie and inequality of vocations and gifts, redoundeth to our commodity: seeing that the same is therefore justified and appointed, that we should be bound one to another. Whereupon it followeth, that no man ought to be grieved therat, seeing that the use of every private gift is common. * 1 Pet. 4. 10. 5 That which he spake before in generall, he applieth particularly to the holy functions, wherein men offend with great danger. And he divideth them into two sorts: to wit, into Prophets and Deacons: and againe, he divideth the Prophets into Doctors and Pastours. And of Deacons he maketh three sorts: to wit, the one to be such as are, (as it were) treasurers of the Church coffers, whom he calleth properly Deacons: the other to be the governors of the discipline, who are called Seniors, or Elders: the third, to be such as properly served in the helpe of the poore, of which sort the company of widowes were.*

32 For God hath shut up^f all in unbelief, that he might have mercie on all.

1 He willeth that we submit our selves to Magistrates: 8 To love our neighbours: 13 To live uprightly, 14 and to put on Christ.

 Titim 3. 1. 1 Pet. 2. 13. 1 Now he sheweth severally what subjects owe to their magistrates, to wit, obedience: from which he sheweth that no man is free: and in such sort, that it is not onely due to the highest Magistrate himselfe, but also even to the basest, which hath any office under him. a Ten though an Apostle, though an Evangelist, though a Prophet: Christ himselfe. Therefore the tyrannye of the Pope over all kingdoms, must come to the ground. 2 A reason taken of the nature of the thing it telle: For to what purpose are they placed in higher degree, but that the inferiours should be subject unto them? 3 Another argument of great force: Because God is author of this order: so that such as are rebels, ought to know, that they make warre with God himselfe: wherefore they cannot but purchase to themselves great miserie and calamity.*

but of God: and the powers that be, are^b ordained of God.

2 Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist, shall receive to themselves condemnation.

3 * For Magistrates are not to be feared for good works, but for evil. Wilt thou then be without feare of the power? doe well: so shalt thou have praise of the same.

4 For he is the minister of God for thy wealth: but if thou doe evil, feare: for he beareth not the sword for nought: for he is the minister of God to take vengeance on him that doeth evil.

5 Wherefore ye must be subject, not because of wrath onely, but also for conscience sake.

6 For, for this cause ye pay also tribute: for they are Gods ministers, applying themselves for the same thing.

7 Give to all men therefore their due: tribute, to whom ye owe tribute: custome, to whom custome: feare, to whom feare: honour, to whom ye owe honour.

8 Owe nothing to any man, but to love one another: for he that loveth another, hath fulfilled the Law.

9 For this, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Thou shalt not covet: and if there be any other commandment, it is briefly comprehended in this saying, even in this, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thy selfe.

10 Love doeth not evil to his neighbour: therefore is love the fulfilling of the Law.

11 And that, considering the season, that it is now time that we should arise from sleep: for now is our salvation neerer, then when we beleevved it.

12 The night is past, and the day is at hand, let us therefore cast away the works of darkness, and let us put on the armour of light,

13 So that we walk honestly, as in the day: not in gluttonie, and drunkenness, neither in chambering and wantonness, not in strife and envying:

14 * But put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and take no thought for the flesh, to fulfill the lusts of it.

15 He willeth that we so dole with the weak in faith, through our faults they be not offended. 10 And on the other side he commandeth them not rashly to judge of the stranger: 19 That within the bounds of edification, 20 and charitie, 22 Christian libertie may consist.

Im that is weak in the faith, receive unto you, but not for controversies of disputations.

2 One believeth that he may eat of all things: and another, which is weak, eateth herbs.

3 Let not him that eateth, despise him that eateth not: & let not him which eateth not, condemn him that eateth: for God hath received him.

4 Who art thou that condemnest another mans servant? he standeth or falleth to his owne master: yea, he shall be established: for God is able to make him stand.

5 This man esteemeth one day above another day, and another man counteth every day alike: let every man be fully perswaded in his mind.

6 He that observeth the day, observeth it to the Lord: and he that observeth not the day, observeth it not to the Lord. He that eateth, eateth to the Lord, for he giveth God thanks: and he that eateth not, eateth not to the Lord, and giveth God thanks.

7 For none of us liveth to himself, neither doeth any die to himself:

8 For whether we live, we live unto the Lord: or whether we die, we die unto the Lord: whether we live therefore, or die, we are the Lords.

9 For Christ therefore died and rose againe, and revived, that he might be Lord of the Law was abolished: Known by faith.

10 In such a matter sayth the Apostle, let neither them which know their libertie, proudly despise their weak brother, neither let the unlearned crabbedly or forwardly condemn them that they understand not. The first reason: Because that seeing both he that eateth and he that eateth not, is notwithstanding the member of Christ: neither he which eateth not, can justly be condemned, neither he which eateth, be justly condemned: Now the first proposition is declared in the first verse following.

Another reason which hangeth upon the former: why the ruler and free unlearned ought not to be condemned of the more skilfull, as men without hope of salvation: because faith the Apostle, he that is ignorant to day, may be induced to morrow with further knowledge, so that he may also stand sure: Therefore it belongeth to God and not unto man, to pronounce that sentence of condemnation. Another example of the difference of dayes according to the Law. He setteth against this contempt, and haughty or rash judgments, a continual desire to profit, that the strong may be certainly perswaded of their libertie of what manner and sort it is, and how they ought to use it: and against the weak may daily profite, least either they abuse the gift of God, or these please themselves in their infirmities.

That he may say in his conscience, that he knoweth and is perswaded by Jesus Christ, that nothing is unclean of it selfe, and that perswasion must be grounded upon the word of God. A reason taken from the nature of indifferent things, which a man may with a good conscience doe, and omit: for seeing that the difference of dayes and meates was appointed by God, how could they which as yet understood not the abrogating of the Law, and yet otherwise acknowledged Christ as their Saviour, with good conscience neglect that which they knew was commanded of God: And on the contrary side, they that know the benefit of Christ in this behalf, and with good conscience neither observe dayes nor meates: Therefore faith the Apostle, ver. 10. Let not the strong condemne the weak for these things seeing that the weak brethren are brethren notwithstanding. Now if any man would draw this doctrine to these our times and ages, let him know that the Apostle speaketh of such things indifferent, as they which thought them not to be indifferent, had aground in the Law, and were deceived by simple ignorance, and not of malice, (for to such the Apostle yielded not, no not for a moment) nor superstition, but of a religious feare of God.

Observeth precisely. God shall judge whether hee doe well or no: And therefore you should rather strive about this, how every one of you may be allowed of God, than to stand upon other mens doings.

He that maketh no difference of meates. So the Apostle sheweth that he speaketh of the faithfull, both strong and weak: But what if we have to doe with infidels? Then must we here take heede of two things, as also is declared in the Epistle to the Corinthians. The one is, that we count not their superstition among things indifferent, as they did which fate downe to meate in Idoles Temples: the other is, that then also when the matter is indifferent (as to buy a thing offered to Idoles, in the bachelers shambles, and to eat it at home, or in a private banquet) we wound not the conscience of our weak brother.

He that toucheth not meates which he taketh to be unclean by the Law. We must not flick, saith he, in the meate it selfe, but in the use of the meate, for that he is justly to be reprehended that liveth so, that he callet not his eyes upon God, for both our life, and our death is dedicated to him: and for this cause Christ hath properly died, and not simply, that we might eat, this meate or that.

Hath refused to himselfe onely, which the Hebrew writer after this sort, Doeth well to his conscience.

1 Now he sheweth how we ought to behave our selves toward our brethren in matters & things indifferent, offering in the use of them, not of malice, or damnable superstition, but for lack of knowledge of the benefit of Christ. And thus he teacheth that they are to be instructed gently, and patiently, and so that we apply our selves to their ignorance in such matters, according to the rule of charitie.

2 He proponeth for an example the difference of meates: which some thought was necessarily to be observed: as a thing prescribed by the Law (not knowing that it was taken away) whereas on the contrary side, such as had profited in the knowledge of the Gospel, knew well that this schoolemaster of the Law was abolished: Known by faith.

10 In such a matter sayth the Apostle, let neither them which know their libertie, proudly despise their weak brother, neither let the unlearned crabbedly or forwardly condemn them that they understand not.

The first reason: Because that seeing both he that eateth and he that eateth not, is notwithstanding the member of Christ: neither he which eateth not, can justly be condemned, neither he which eateth, be justly condemned: Now the first proposition is declared in the first verse following.

Another reason which hangeth upon the former: why the ruler and free unlearned ought not to be condemned of the more skilfull, as men without hope of salvation: because faith the Apostle, he that is ignorant to day, may be induced to morrow with further knowledge, so that he may also stand sure: Therefore it belongeth to God and not unto man, to pronounce that sentence of condemnation.

Another example of the difference of dayes according to the Law. He setteth against this contempt, and haughty or rash judgments, a continual desire to profit, that the strong may be certainly perswaded of their libertie of what manner and sort it is, and how they ought to use it: and against the weak may daily profite, least either they abuse the gift of God, or these please themselves in their infirmities.

That he may say in his conscience, that he knoweth and is perswaded by Jesus Christ, that nothing is unclean of it selfe, and that perswasion must be grounded upon the word of God.

4 The third argument, taken from the end wherefore they were made, which is most profitable: for that God by this meane preferred the good, and bridled the wicked: by which words, the Magistrates themselves are put in minde of that due which they owe to their subjects.

5 An excellent way to beare this yoke, not onely without griefe, but also with great profit.

6 God hath armed the Magistrate even with a revenging sword.

7 By whom God revengeth the wicked.

8 The conclusion: We must obey the Magistrate, not onely for feare of punishment, but much more because that (although the Magistrate hath no power over the conscience of man, yet seeing he is Gods minister) he cannot be resisted by any good conscience.

9 So farre as lawfully may: for if unlawful things be commanded us, we must not obey: Peter teacheth us, It is better to obey God then men.

10 He reckoneth up the chiefest things wherein consisteth the obedience of subjects.

11 Obeyence, and that from the heart.

12 Reverence, which (as reason) we must give to the Magistrate.

13 He sheweth how very few judgments need to be executed, to wit, if we so order our life as no man may justly require any thing of us, besides that only, that we owe one to another, by the perpetuall law of charitie.

14 He commendeth charitie, as an abridgement of the whole Law.

15 Hath not onely done one commandment, but performed generally that which the Law commandeth.

16 For the whole Law commandeth nothing else, but that we love God, and our neighbour. But seeing Paul speaketh here of the duties we owe one to another, we must restrain this word, Law, to the second Table.

17 An amplification taken of the circumstance of the time: which also it selfe putteth us in minde of our duties, seeing that this remaineth, after that the darkness of ignorance and wicked affections by the knowledge of Gods truth be driven out of us, that we order our life according to that certaine and iure rule of all righteousness and honestie, being fully grounded upon the verue of the Spirit of Christ.

18 In other places we are said to be in the light, but yet so, that it appeareth not as yet what we are, for as yet we see, but as it were in the twilight.

19 That kind of life which they lead, that see the light.

20 To put on Christ, is to possesse Christ, to have him in us, and us in him.

CHAP. XIV.

1 He willeth that we so dole with the weak in faith, through our faults they be not offended. 10 And on the other

CHAP. XV.

11 The conclusion: we most leave to God his right, and therefore in matters, which according as the conscience is affected, are either good or evil, the strong must not despise their weak brethren, much less condemn them. But this conclusion cannot be taken of equal force in the contrary, to wit, that the weak should not judge the strong because the weak do not know, that they which do not observe a day and eate, observe it not to the Lord, and eate to the Lord, as the strong men know that the weak which observe a day and eate not, observe the day to the Lord, and eate not to the Lord.

k This is a forme of an othe, proper to God only, for he and none but he liveth, and hath his being of himselfe. l Shall acknowledge me for God.
12 After that he hath concluded what is not to be done, he sheweth what is to be done: to wit, we must take heed that we doe not utterly cast downe with abusing our liberty, our brother which is not yet strong. m He rebuketh by the way these malicious judges of others, which occupy their heads about nothing, but to finde faults with their bretherens life, whereas they should rather bestow their wits upon this, that they do not with their disdainfullness either call their bretheren downe, or give them some offence.
13 The preventing of an objection: It is true that the Schoole-master ship of the Law is taken away by the benefit of Christ, to such as know it, but yet notwithstanding we have to consider in the use of this libertie, what is expedient, that we may have regard of our weak brother, seeing that our libertie is not lost thereby. n By the Spirit of the Lord Iesus, or by the Lord Iesus, who I am sure brake downe the wall at his coming. o By nature. * 1 Cor. 8. 11. 14 It is the part of a cruell minde to make more account of meat, then of our brothers salvation. both of the dead and the quick.

10 ¹¹ But why dost thou condemne thy brother? or why dost thou despise thy brother? * for we shall all appeare before the judgement seat of Christ.

11 For it is written, * I ^k live, faith the Lord, and every knee shall bow to me, and all tongues shall ^l confesse unto God.

12 So then every one of us shall give accounts of himselfe to God.

13 ¹² Let us not therefore judge one another any more: but use your judgements rather in ^m this, that no man put an occasion to fall, or a stumbling block before his brother.

14 ¹³ I know, and am perswaded through the ⁿ Lord Iesus, that there is nothing uncleane of it ^o selfe: but unto him that judgeth any thing to be uncleane, to him it is uncleane.

15 But if thy brother be grieved for the meat, now walkest thou not charitably: * ¹⁴ Destroy not him with thy meat, for whom ¹⁵ Christ died.

16 ¹⁶ Cause not your commoditie to be evill spoken of.

17 ¹⁷ For the kingdome of God is not meat nor drink, but righteousnesse, and peace, and joy in the holy Ghost.

18 For whosoever in ^p these things serveth Christ, is acceptable unto God, and is approved of men.

19 ¹⁸ Let us then follow those things which concerne peace, and wherewith one may edifie another.

20 Destroy not the work of God for meats sake: * all things indeed are pure: but it is evill for the man which eateth with offence.

21 * It is good neither to eate flesh, nor to drink wine, nor any thing whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or made weak:

22 ¹⁹ Hast thou ^q faith? have it with thy selfe before God: blessed is he that condemneth not himselfe in that thing which he ^r alloweth.

23 For he that ^s doubteth, is condemned if he eate, because he eateth not of faith: and whatsoever is not of faith, is sinne.

that we may have regard of our weak brother, seeing that our libertie is not lost thereby.

n By the Spirit of the Lord Iesus, or by the Lord Iesus, who I am sure brake downe the wall at his coming.

o By nature. * 1 Cor. 8. 11. 14 It is the part of a cruell minde to make more account of meat, then of our brothers salvation. Which thing they doe, that presume to eate with the offence of any brother, and so give him occasion to goe backe from the Gospel.

15 Another argument: We must follow Christs example: who was so farr from destroying the weak with meat, that he gave his life for them.

16 Another argument: For that by this meanes the libertie of the Gospel is evill spoken of, as though it openeth the way to attempt any thing whatsoever, and boldeneth us to all things.

17 A generall reason, and the ground of all the other arguments: The kingdome of heaven consisteth not in these outward things, but in the study of righteousness and peace, and comfort of the holy Ghost.

p He that loveth peaceably, and dieth righteously, through the holy Ghost.

18 A generall conclusion: The use of this libertie, yea, and our whole life, ought to be referred to the edifying one of another, in so much that we esteeme that thing unlawfull by reason of the offence of our brother, which is of it selfe pure and lawfull.

* Titus. 1. 15. * 2 Cor. 8. 13. 19 He giveth a double warning in these matters: one, which pertaineth to the strong, that he which hath obtained a sure knowledge of this libertie, keepe that treasure, to the end he may use it wisely and profitably, as hath beene said: the other which respecteth the weak, that they doe nothing rashly by other mens example with a wavering conscience, for that cannot be done without sin, whereof we are not perswaded by the word of God, that he liketh and approveth it.

q He sheweth before, verse 14, what he meaneth by faith, to wit, for a man to be certaine and out of doubt in matters and things indifferent.

r Remember that I reasoneth with himselfe.

The stronger must employ their strength to strengthen the weak, 3 By Christs example, 7 who receiveth 8 not onely the Jewes: 10 but also the Gentiles. 15 The cause why he wrote this Epistle.

Wee which are strong, ought to beare the infirmities of the weak, and not to ^a please our selves.

2 Therefore let every man please his neighbour in that that is ^b good to edification.

3 ² For Christ also would not please himselfe, but as it is written, * The rebukes of them which rebuke thee, fell on me.

4 ³ For whatsoever things are written ^c aforetime, are written for our learning, that we through patience, and comfort of the ^d Scriptures might have hope.

5 ⁴ Now the God of patience and consolation, give you that ye be ^e like minded one towards another, according to Christ Iesus,

6 That ye with one minde, and with one mouth may prayse God, even the Father of our Lord Iesus Christ.

7 Wherefore receive ye one another, as Christ also ^f received us to the glory of God.

8 ⁵ Now I say, that Iesus Christ was a minister of the ^g circumcision, for the ^h trueth of God, to confirme the promises made unto the Fathers.

9 ⁶ And let the Gentiles praise God for ⁱ his mercy, as it is written, * For this cause I will ^j confesse thee among the Gentiles, and sing unto thy Name.

10 And againe he saith, * Reioyce, ye Gentiles with his peoole.

11 And againe, * Praise the Lord, all ye Gentiles, and laud ye him, all people together.

12 And againe Elaias sayth, * There shall be a root of Iesse, and he that shall rise to reigne over the Gentiles, in him shall the Gentiles trust.

13 ⁷ Now the God of ^k hope fill you with ^l all ioy, and peace in beleiving, that ye may abound in hope, through the power of the holy Ghost.

14 ⁸ And I my selfe also am perswaded of you, my brethren, that ^m ye also are full of goodnesse, & filled with all knowledge, and are able to admonish one another.

15 Nevertheless, brethren, I have somewhat boldly after a sort written unto you, as one that putteth you in remembrance, through the grace that is given me of God,

16 That I should be the minister of Iesus Christ toward the Gentiles, ministring the c By Moses and the Prophets.

d The Scriptures are said to teach and comfort, because God useth them to teach and comfort his people withall.

4 We must take an example of patience, of God: that both the weak and the strong, serving God with a mutual consent, may bring one another to God, as Christ also received us unto himselfe, although we were never so unworthy.

* 1 Corinth. 1. 10. e He did not disdain us, but received us of his own accord, to make us partakers of Gods glory.

5 An applying of the example of Christ to the Jewes, to whom he vouchsafed this honour, for the promises which he made unto the Fathers, although they were never so unworthy, that he executed the office of a Minister among them with marvellous patience: therefore much less ought the Gentiles despise them for certaine faults, whom the Son of God to much esteemed.

By the offering up of the Gentiles, he meaneth the Gentiles themselves, whom he offered to God as a sacrifice.

He commendeth his Apostleship highly by the effects, but yet so, that moreover and besides that, he speaketh all things truly, he giveth all the glory to God as the only author: and doeth not properly respect himself, but this rather, that men might lesse doubt of the truth of the doctrine which he propounded unto them.

Christ was so with me in all things, and by all means, that if I would never so faint, yet I cannot say, what he hath done by me to bring the Gentiles to obey the Gospel.

17 I have therefore whereof I may rejoyce in Christ Iesus in those things which pertain to God:

18 For I dare not speak of any thing, which^a Christ hath not wrought by me, to make the Gentiles obedient in word and deed.

19 With the^o power of signes and wonders, by the power of the Spirit of God: so that from Hierusalem, and round about unto Illyricum, I have caused to abound the Gospel of Christ.

20 Yea, so I enforced my self to preach the Gospel, not where Christ was named, lest I should have built on another mans foundation, 21 But as it is written, * To whom he was not spoken of, they shall see him, and they that heard not, shall understand him.

22 * 10 Therefore also I have been oft let to come unto you:

23 But now seeing I have no more place in those quarters, and also have^b been desirous many yeares ago to come unto you,

24 When I shall take my journey into Spain, I will come to you: for I trust to see you in my journey, and to be brought on my way thitherward by you, after that I have been somewhat filled with your company.

25 But now go I to Hierusalem, to^c minister unto the Saints.

26 For it hath pleased them of Macedonia and Achaia, to make a certain distribution unto the poore Saints which are at Hierusalem.

27 11 For it hath pleased them, and their debtors are they: * for if the Gentiles be made partakers of their spirituall things, their duty is also to minister unto them in carnall things.

28 When I have therefore performed this, and have^d sealed them this^e fruit, I will passe by you into Spain.

29 12 And I know when I come, that I shall come to you with abundance of the blessing of the Gospel of Christ.

30 Also brethren, I beseech you for our Lord Iesus Christs sake, and for the^f love of the spirit, that ye would strive with me by prayers to God for me,

31 That I may be delivered from them which are disobedient in Judea, and that my service which I have to doe at Hierusalem, may be accepted of the Saints, 32 That I may come unto you with joy by the will of God, and may with you be refreshed.

33 Thus the God of peace be with you all: Amen:

 a The father sanctifieth us, that is to say, separateth us from the wicked, in giving us to his Son, that he may be in us, and we in him. * Rom. 1. 7. Ephes. 1. 1. 1. Cor. 1. 22. 1. Tim. 1. 9. Titus 2. 13.
 b Whom God of his gracious goodnesse and meeke love hath separated for himself: or whom God hath called to holinesse: the first of these two expositions, sheweth from whence our sanctification cometh: and the second sheweth to what end it tendeth. * 2. Timoth. 2. 22.
 c He is sayd properly to call on God, who cryeth unto the Lord when he is in danger, and craveth help at his hands, and by the figure Synecdochicall is taken for all the service of God: and therefore to call upon Christ's Name, is to acknowledge, and take him for very God. 6 The foundation and the life of the Church, is Christ Jesus, given of the Father. 7 Going about to condemne many vices, he beginneth with a true commendation of their virtues, lest he might seem after to descend to chiding: being moved with malice or envie: yet so, that he referreth all to God, as the author of them, & that in Christ, the Corinthians might be more ashamed to prophane & abuse the holy gifts of God. 8 He toucheth them by name, which they most abused. d Seeing that whilst we live here, we know but by part, and prophane in part, this word (All) must be restrained to the present state of the faithfull: but by (perfect) he meaneth not a vain kind of babling, but the gift of holy eloquence, which the Corinthians abused. 9 He sheweth that the true use of these gifts consisteth herein, that the mighty power of Christ might thereby be let forth in them, that hereafter it might evidently appear, how wickedly they abused them to glory and ambition. e By those excellent gifts of the holy Ghost. * Titus 2. 11. Phil. 3. 20. 10 He sayeth by the way, that there is no cause why they should please themselves so much in those gifts which they had received, seeing they were nothing in comparison of them which are to be looked for. f He speaketh of the last comming of Christ. * 1. Thess. 3. 13. & 5. 23. 11 He telleth them that he hopeth well of them hereafter, that they may more patiently abide his reprehension afterward. And yet together therewithall sheweth that as well the beginning as the accomplishing of our salvation, is onely the work of God.

AUL ¹ called to be an ² Apostle of Jesus Christ, through the wil of God, and our brother ³ Sosthenes.

2 Unto the Church of God, which is at Corinthus, to them that are ⁵ sanctified in a Christ Jesus, * Saints by ^b calling, * with all that ^c call on the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ in every place, both their lord, and ours:

3 Grace be with you, & peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

4 I thank my God alwayes on your behalf for the grace of God, which is given you in Jesus Christ,

5 That in all things ye are made rich in him, * in ^d all kind of speech, and in all knowledge:

6 As the testimonie of Jesus Christ hath been ^e confirmed in you:

7 So that ye are not destitute of any gift: ¹⁰ waiting for the ^f appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ,

8 * Who shall also confirm you unto the end, that ye may be ⁸ blamelesse in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ.

9 * God is ^h faithfull, by whom ye are called unto the fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord.

10 ¹² Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ¹³ ye all speak one thing, and that there be no dissensions among you: but be ye ⁱ knit together in one mind, and in one judgment.

11 ¹⁴ For it hath been declared unto me, my brethren, of you by them that are of the house of Cloe, that there are contentions among you,

12 Now ^k this I say, that every one of you faith, I am Pauls, and I am * Apollos, and I am Cephas, and I am Christs.

13 ¹⁵ Is Christ divided? was ¹⁶ Paul crucified for you? either were ye ¹⁷ baptized into the Name of Paul?

14 ¹⁸ I thank God, that I baptized none of you, but * Crispus and Gaius, 15 Lest any should say, that I had baptized into mine own name.

16 I baptized also the household of Stephanas: furthermore know I not, whether I baptized any other.

17 ¹⁹ For Christ sent me not to baptize,

14 He beginneth his reprehension and chiding by taking away of an objection: for that he understood by good witnesses, that there were many factions among them. And therewithall he openeth the cause of dissensions, because that some did hang on one doctour, some on another, and some were so addicted to themselves, that they neglected all doctours and teachers, calling themselves the disciples of Christ onely, shutting forth their teachers. k. The matter I would say to you, is this. * 1 Cor. 13. 14. 15 The first reason why schismes ought to be eschewed: because Christ seemeth by that means, to be divided and torn in pieces, who cannot be the head of two divers and disagreeing bodies, being himself one. 16 Another reason: because they cannot without great injurie to God, so hang of men as of Christ: which thing no doubt they do, which allow whatsoever some man speaketh, even for his persons sake: as these men allowed one self same Gospel being uttered of one man, and did lothe it being uttered of another man. So that the fictions were called by the names of their teachers. Now Paul setteth down his own name not onely to grieve no man, but also to shew that he pleadeth not his own cause. 17 The third reason taken of the forme and end of Baptisme, wherein we make a promise to Christ calling also on the Name of the Father, and the holy Ghost. Therefore although a man doe not fall from the doctrine of Christ, yet if he hang upon some certain teachers, and despise others, he forsaketh Christ: for if he hold Christ his onely matter, he would hear him teaching by whomsoever. 18 He protesteth that he speaketh, so much the more boldly these things, because that through Gods providence, he is void of all suspicion of chiding disciples unto himself, and taking them from others. Whereby we may understand that not the schollars onely, but the teachers also are heere reprehended, which gather the flockes apart. * 1 Cor. 13. 8. 19 The taking away of an objection: that he be not himself to baptize many amongst them: not for the contempt of baptisme, but because his doctour was chiefly occupied in delivering the doctrine, and committed them that received it to others to be baptized, whereof he had store. And so he declared sufficiently how far he was from all ambition: whereas on the other side, they whom he baptizeth, though they gathered disciples unto themselves and not unto Christ, bragge most ambitiously of numbers, which they had baptized.

g He calleth them blamelesse, not whom man never found fault with, but with whom no man can justly find fault, that is to say, them which are in Christ. 1 Cor. 13. 12. See Lu. 1. 6. * 1. Thess. 5. 24. h True & constant, who doth not onely call us, but giveth us the gift of perseverance also. 12 Having made an end of the preface, he cometh to the matter itself, beginning with a most grave obtestation, as though they should hear Christ himself speaking, and not Paul. 13 The first part of this Epistle, wherein his purpose is, to call back the Corinthians to brotherly concord, & to take away all occasion of discord. So then this first part concerneth taking away of schismes. Now a schisme is when men which otherwise agree and consent together in doctrine do yet separate themselves one from another. i Knit together, as a body that consisteth of all his parts fast knit together.

but

20 Now he turneth himselfe to the doctors themselves, which pleased themselves in brave and ambitious eloquence, to the end that they might draw more disciples after them. He confesseth plainly that he was unlike unto them, opposing gravely, as it became an Apostle, his example against their perverse judgments: So that this is another place of this Epistle, touching the observing of a godly simplicity both in words and sentences, in teaching of the Gospel.

^a Chap. 2. 13. 1 pet. 1. 16.

²¹ The reason why he used not so much of words & painted speech, became it was Gods will to bring the world to his obedience by that way, whereby the most idle amongst men might understand that this work was done of God himselfe, without the art of man. Therefore as salvation let forth unto us in the Gospel by the crosse of Christ, then which nothing is more contemptible, and more farre from life, so God would have the manner of the preaching of the crosse, most different from those meanes, which men doe use to draw and entice other, either to heare or believe: therefore it pleased him by a certain kind of most wise folly, to triumph over the most foolish wisdom of the world, as he had said before by Ely, that he would. And hereby we may gather, that both these doctors which were puffed up with ambitious eloquence, and also their hearers, strayed farre away from the end and mark of their vocation. ^m The preaching of Christ crucified, or the kind of speech which we use. ⁿ It is that wherein he declareth his marvellous power in saving his elect, which would not so evidently appeare, if it hangd upon any helpe of man, for so, man might attribute that to himselfe, which is proper only to the crosse of Christ. ²² The Apostle proveth, that this ought not only not to seem strange, seeing that it was foretold so long before, but declareth further, that God is wont to punish the pride of the world in such sort, which to please it selfe in its own wisdom: and therefore that this is vain, yea a thing of nothing, and such as God rejecteth as unprofitable, which they so carefully laboured for, and made to great accompt of. ^o Ely 29. 14. ^p Where are thou, O thou learned fellow, and thou that spendest thy dayes in turning thy booke? ^q Thou that dost all thy time in seeking out the secret things of this world, and in expounding all hard questions: and thou triumphest he against all the men of this world, for there was not one of them that could so much as dream upon thy secrets and hidden mysteries. ²³ He sheweth that the pride of men was worthily punished of God, because they would not behold God, as meet was they should, in the most cleare glasse of the wisdom of the world, which is the workmanship of the world.

^q By the world he meaneth all men which are not borne anew, but remaine as they were, when they were first borne. ^r In the workmanship of this world, which hath the marvellous wisdom of God engraven in it, so that every man may behold it. ²⁴ The goodness of God is wonderful, for while he goeth about to punish the pride of this world, he is very provident and carefull for the salvation of it, and teacheth men to become fooles, that they may be wise to God. ^s So he calleth the preaching of the Gospel, as the enemies supposed it; but in the mean season he teacheth them very sharply, who had rather charge God with folly, than acknowledge their crime, and crave pardon for it. ^t Math. 12. 38. ²⁵ A declaration of that which he said: that the preaching of the Gospel, is foolish. It is foolish, sayth he, to them whom God hath not endued with new light, that is to say, to all men being considered in themselves: for the Jewes require miracles, and the Grecians arguments, which they may comprehend by their wits and wisdom: and therefore they doe not only not believe the Gospel, but also they mock at it. Notwithstanding in this foolish preaching, there is the great vertue and wisdom of God, but such as those onely which are called doe perceive: God shewing most plainly, that even then when madde men thinke him most foolish, he is farre wiser then they are: and that he firmeth all their might and power, when he useth most vile and abject things, as it hath appeared in the fruit of the preaching of the Gospel.

²⁶ A confirmation taken of those things which came to passe at Corinth, where the Church especially consisted of the basest and common people, inasmuch that the Philosophers of Greece were driven to shame, when they saw that they could doe nothing with their wisdom and eloquence, in comparison of the Apostles, whom notwithstanding they called idioits and unlearned. And hereunto he beate downe their pride: for God did not preferre them before those noble and wise men because they should be proud, but that they might be constrained, ever whether they would or not, to rejoyce in the Lord, by whose mercy: although they were the most objects of all, they had obtained in Christ, both this wisdom, and things necessarie to salvation. ^u What sayth the Lord hath taken in calling you. ^v After that kind of wisdom which men make accompt of, as though there were none else, who because they are carnall, know not spirituall wisdom.

but to preach the Gospel, ²⁰ not with ¹ wisdom of words, lest the ²¹ crosse of Christ should be made of none effect.

¹⁸ For that ^m preaching of the crosse is to them that perish, foolishnesse: but unto us, which are saved, it is the ^a power of God.

¹⁹ ²² For it is written, ^{*} I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and will cast away the understanding of the prudent.

²⁰ Where is the wise? where is the ^o scribe? where is the ^p disputer of this world? hath not God made the wisdom of this world foolishnesse?

²¹ ²³ For seeing the ^q world by wisdom knew not God in the ^r wisdom of God, ²⁴ it pleased God by the ^s foolishnesse of preaching to save them that beleeve?

²² ²⁵ Seeing also that the Jewes require a signe, and the Grecians seeke after wisdom.

²³ But we preach Christ crucified: unto the Jewes, even a stumbling block, and unto the Grecians, foolishnesse:

²⁴ But unto them which are called, both of the Jewes and Grecians, we preach Christ, the power of God, and the wisdom of God:

²⁵ For the foolishnesse of God is wiser then men, and the weakenesse of God is stronger then men.

²⁶ ²⁶ For brethren, you see your calling, how that not many wise men ^v after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble are called.

²⁷ But God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise, and God hath chosen the weak things of the world, to confound the mightie things,

²⁸ And vile things of the world, and things which are despised, hath God chosen, and things which ^{*} are not, to bring to ^v nought things that are,

²⁹ That no ^{*} flesh should rejoyce in his presence.

³⁰ But ye are ^{*} of him in Christ Jesus, ²⁷ who of God is made unto us wisdom, and righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption, ³¹ That, according as it is written, ^b He that rejoyceth, let him rejoyce in the Lord.

²⁷ He teacheth that especially and above all things the Gospel ought not to be contemned, seeing it containeth the chiefest things that are to be desired, to wit, true wisdom, the true way to obtaine righteousness, the true way to live honestly and godly, the true deliverance from all miseries and calamities. ^{*} 1 Cor. 9. 24. ² Cor. 10. 17. ^b Let him yield all to God, and give him thanks: and so by this place many free will beaten downe, which the Papists doe dream of.

CHAP. II.

¹ He setteth downe a plat-form of his preaching, ⁴ which was base in respect of mans wisdom, ⁷ 13 but noble in respect of the spirituall power and efficacie: ¹⁴ and so concludeth that flesh and blood cannot rightly judge thereof.

AND I, brethren, when I came to you, came not with ^{*} excellencie of words, or of wisdom, shewing unto you the ^a testimonie of God.

² For I ^b esteemed not to know any thing among you, save Jesus Christ, and him crucified.

³ ^{*} And I was among you in ^c weaknes, and in feare, and in much trembling.

⁴ Neither ^d flood my word, and my preaching in the ^e enticing speech of mans wisdom, ² but in plaine ^f evidence of the Spirit, and of power,

⁵ ³ That your faith should not be in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God:

⁶ ^{} And we speak wisdom among them that are ^{} perfect: not the wisdom of this world, neither of the ^f princes of this world, which come to nought:

⁷ ⁵ But we speak the wisdom of God in a ^{*} mysterie, even the hid wisdom, ⁶ which God had determined before the world, unto our glory:

⁸ ⁷ Which none of the princes of this world hath known: for had they known it, they would not have crucified the ^h Lord of glory.
